Mr. Garnsey, from the select committee to which was referred the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to incorporate the Niagara water-works company," reported, that they have examined the said bill, and see no reason why the same should not be passed into a law.

Ordered, That the said bill be committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Myers, from the select committee to which was referred the petition of sundry inhabitants of the city of New-York, praying the incorporation of a company to be called the City coal association, reported:

It appears to the committee, that the petitioners, in the year 1825, purchased several large tracts of land in the state of Pennsylvania, near the line of this state, containing extensive beds of valuable coal, the cost of which was about twenty thousand dollars. The individuals concerned, now find, that in order to facilitate the getting of their coal to market, it will be necessary for them to make further disbursements to a large amount; and as their interests in the property are unequal, and various changes and transfers will be required to be made; and inasmuch as individual proprietors are not willing to risk the whole of their property in an experiment of this sort, their operations would be very much assisted, and their undertaking advanced, by an act of incorporation.

As the object of the company is an important one, that of furnishing the New-York market with fuel at a reduced price, and as the association is to be confined in its operations to that one object, the committee are disposed to encourage an enterprise, which, if it should prove successful, would be productive of public benefit; and if it should fail, could not result in injuring any except those immediately engaged in carrying it on. They therefore recommend that the prayer of the petitioners be granted, and ask leave to introduce a bill incorporating the said association.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Myers, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to incorporate the City coal association;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Austin, from the select committee to which was referred the petition of the commissioners under the act to incorporate the Catskill and Ithaca rail road company, reported:

That it appears from the said petition, and is also within the personal knowledge of some of the members of the committee, that the survey of the said rail road has been commenced by an engineer of the United States; but in consequence of the extent of the work, has not been completed.

By the act incorporating the said company, the books are required to be opened on or before the 21st day of April next, for subscriptions of the stock of the company; and as the survey has not been completed, it cannot be expected that capitalists will now be willing to subscribe for the stock, and the petitioners apprehend that it may have an injurious effect upon the prospects of the company, to open the books at a time when subscriptions cannot be expected.

They therefore request, that the time for opening the said books may be extended for one year, to enable them to complete their survey, and obtain the report of the engineer, which the committee think reasonable; and have prepared a bill for the purpose, and directed their chairman to ask leave to introduce the same.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Austin, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to amend the act to incorporate the Catskill and Ithaca rail road company;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. McNiel, from the select committee to which was referred the petition of sundry inhabitants of the towns of Cambridge, Jackson and White Creek in the county of Washington, praying that a law may be passed to prohibit the setting of nets or traps, to obstruct the fish from running in the outlet of what is called McLean's ponds, reported:

That they have had the same under consideration, and believe the following to be the facts connected with the petition:—Numbers of the petitioners united in the expense of procuring from Lake Champlain a particular kind of fish; for the purpose of having them increase, a law was passed to prevent fishing in the ponds for the term of four years.

Subsequent to the expiration of that law, the setting of nets or traps at the outlets, has been practised by those in the immediate vicinity, by which the fish are entirely prevented from passing into the sreams issuing from the ponds. Of this, the petitioners complain as a violation of implied good faith, and as being evidently detrimental to the rights of those equally interested.

Under this state of facts, the committee believe that the prayer of the petitioners is reasonable, and have prepared a bill, which their chairman is instructed to ask leave to introduce.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. McNiel, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to prevent fishing by nets or traps in the town of Jackson, in the county of Washington;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. M'Neil, from the select committee, consisting of the members attending this house from the county of Washington, to which was referred the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act requiring certain persons to perform their highway work on the Whitehall and Granville turnpike," reported, that they have examined the said bill, and see no reason why the same should not be passed into a law.

Ordered, That the said bill be committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Holdridge, from the select committee to which was referred the memorial of Robert L. Livingston, reported:

That the assessors of the town of Clermont, for several years, under a probable misconception and construction of the act for the assessment and collection of taxes, assessed him for real property situate in the town of Redhook in the county of Dutchess, lying contiguous to his residence and part of his farm. The committee, on reference to that act, are of the opinion that such assessments and collections were illegal; and that the amount so paid by him, together with the lawful interest on the same, ought to be refunded to him. And as the amount thus paid has been applied to the benefit of the town of Clermont, they are of the opinion that the amount should be re-assessed on the taxable inhabitants thereof. They are therefore of opinion that the prayer of the memorialist ought to be granted; and they have prepared a bill for that purpose, which they have directed their chairman to ask leave to introduce.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Holdridge, according to leave, brought in the said bill. entitled "An act for the relief of Robert L. Livingston;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Judd, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act to authorise a special meeting of the board of supervisors of the county of Dutchess," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, made an amendment thereto, and agreed to the same; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

The house then proceeded to the consideration of the resolution of the Senate of Wednesday last; the same was again read, in the words following, to wit:

Resolved, (if the Assembly concur,) That all proceedings to compel payment of the amount due for lands, from the settlers on the southwest part of the New-Stockbridge tract, and of the Cowassalon tract, be suspended until the first day of December next; and on condition that the amount of two years' interest shall then be paid, such proceedings shall be further stayed for one year from that time.

Thereupon,

Resolved, That this house do concur with the Senate in their said resolution.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver a copy of the preceding resolution to the Senate.

The house then proceeded to the consideration of the resolution offered by Mr. Edgerton on Tuesday last; the same was again read, in the words following, to wit:

Resolved, That this house do reconsider its vote of yesterday, on the bill entitled "An act to erect a new town from parts of the towns of Walkill, Goshen, Blooming-Grove, New-Windsor and Montgomery, in the county of Orange."

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree thereto, and it was determined in the negative.

The house then proceeded to the consideration of the report of the committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act authorising a re-appraisement of certain lands in Oneida Castleton, and for other purposes;" the said report being that the committee had gone through the said bill, made an amendment thereto, and agreed to the same.

Thereupon,

The report of the committee of the whole being amended by the house,

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree thereto, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. W. Hall, from the committee on engrossed bills, reported, that they have examined the engrossed bill entitled "An act to incorporate the village of Brockport," and that the same is correctly engrossed.

The said engrossed bill, entitled "An act to incorporate the village of Brockport," was read the third time.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the final passage of the said bill, and it was determined in the affirmative, two-thirds of all the members elected to this house voting in favor thereof, as follows, to wit :

Ordered That the clerk deliver the said bill to the Senate, and request their concurrence in the same.

Mr. W. Hall, from the committee on engrossed bills, reported, that they have examined the engrossed bill entitled "An act to authorise a special meeting of the board of supervisors of the county of Dutchess," and that the same is correctly engrossed.

The said engrossed bill, entitled "An act to authorise a special meeting of the board of supervisors of the county of Dutchess," was read the third time.

Resolved, That the bill do pass.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bill to the Senate, and request their concurrence in the same.

A message from the acting Governor, delivered by his private secretary, was read, in the words following, to wit :

TO THE ASSEMBLY.

GENTLEMEN,

I have this day approved and signed the following bills :

"An act to confirm the appointment of superintendents of the poor-house in the county of Livingston."

"An act relative to inspectors of lumber in the county of Oneida."

E. T. THROOP.

Albany, March 13, 1829.

A copy of a resolution of the Senate, delivered by their clerk, was read, in in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, (if the Assembly concur,) That the Legislature will adjourn on the first Monday of April next.

Ordered, That the said resolution be laid upon the table.

The house then again resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act to create a fund for the benefit of the creditors of certain monied corporations, and for other purposes;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Seeley, from the said committee, reported progress, and asked for and obtained leave to sit again.

And then the House adjourned until ten o'clock to-morrow morning.

SATURDAY, MARCH 14, 1829.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

The remonstrance of sundry inhabitants of the town of New-Hartford, in the county of Oneida, against a division of that town, was read, and referred to the committee on the erection and division of towns and counties.

The memorial of sundry inhabitants of the county of Tompkins, praying for the renewal of the charter of the Bank of Newburgh, and for a continuance of its branch at Ithaca, was read, and referred to the committee on the incorporation and alteration of the charters of banking and insurance companies.

Four several petitions of sundry inhabitants of the county of Tompkins, praying for the incorporation of a new bank, to be located in the village of Ithaca, were read, and referred to the committee on the incorporation and alteration of the charters of banking and insurance companies.

The memorial of the American Institute of the city of New-York, relative to the banking capital of this state, was read, and committed to a committee of the whole when on the bill upon that subject.

Ordered, That the usual number of copies of the said memorial be printed for the use of the legislature.

The remonstrance of sundry inhabitants of the town of Pomfret, in the county of Chautauque, against a division of that town, was read, and committed to a committee of the whole when on the bill upon that subject.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the town of Manlius, in the county of Onondaga, praying for a division of that town, was read, and referred to the committee on the erection and division of towns and counties.

The petition of sundry citizens of the city of Troy, praying for the passage of a law to provide for the election of justices of the peace in and for that city, by the people thereof, at their annual elections for charter officers, was read, and referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. White, Mr. Heermans and Mr. Starr.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the town of Junius, in the county of Seneca, praying for a division of that town, was read, and committed to a committee of the whole when on the bill upon that subject.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the village of Amsterdam, in the county of Montgomery, praying for the incorporation of a bank, to be located in that village, was read, and referred to the committee on the incorporation and alteration of the charters of banking and insurance companies.

The petition of John Shields, of the town of Homer, in the county of Cortland, praying for the passage of a law to change his name, was read, and referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Curtiss, Mr. Carley and Mr. Williams.

The petition of the board of supervisors, and other inhabitants of the county of Allegany, praying for a loan from the state for the purpose of erecting a poor-house in that county, was read, and referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Fitch, Mr. Phoenix and Mr. Graves.

The remonstrance of sundry inhabitants of the town of Manheim, in the county of Herkimer, against the appointment of commissioners to lay out a certain road in that town, was read, and referred to a committee of the whole when on the bill upon that subject.

The petitions of sundry inhabitants of the counties of Washington, Essex and Clinton, praying aid from the legislature to construct a road from Whitehall, northward, along the west side of Lake Champlain, were read, and referred to the committee on the establishment and improvement of roads and bridges, and the incorporation of turnpike companies.

Mr. Savage, from the committee on grievances, to whom was referred the petition of the inhabitants of the town of Chatham, in the county of Columbia, for an act relative to a public burying ground in said town, reported:

That the facts set forth in the petition, are, that for a period of forty years, there has been a piece of ground appropriated for the use of a public burying ground, and at this day it is full, or nearly so, of the dead; that adjoining said burying ground, the inhabitants are desirous of annexing about half an acre of land, owned by one John J. Rowe, which the inhabitants think will sufficiently enlarge their present ground for the reception of the dead of that town; therefore they ask the legislature to pass an act authorising three commissioners to value this said half acre of land, owned by John J. Rowe, and annex the same to their burying ground, on their paying Rowe the appraised value. The committee are of the opinion that it is not for the legislature to interfere in private and local affairs, as the constitution secures to the individual his property, unless it be for public use or improvement. And this application being for a private use, the committee have directed their chairman to offer the following resolution:

Resolved, That the prayer of the petitioners ought not to be granted.

Ordered, That the said report and resolution be laid upon the table.

Mr. Soper, from the committee on the judiciary, to which was referred the petition of the supervisors of the county of Kings, relative to the time of holding the courts of common pleas and general sessions, and the erection of a court-house in said county, asked for leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Soper, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to provide for the establishment of a court-house in the village of Brooklyn in the county of Kings;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Johnson, from the committee on canals and internal improvements, to whom was referred the petition of Andrew P. Tillman, and the report of the canal commissioners thereon, with the accompanying documents, reported:

That an examination of the facts set forth in the petition, and the papers which accompany it, has satisfied the committee that the petitioner is entitled to the relief prayed for.

As the facts upon which the relief prayed for is grounded, are set forth in the petition and the affidavits accompanying it, the committee deem it unnecessary to detail them particularly in their report. They entertain the opinion that the subject is properly referable to the decision of the canal board; and inasmuch as the board entertain doubts as to their power to act in the premises, without the sanction of an act of the legislature, the committee have prepared a bill accordingly. They conceive that the petitioner might sustain great injury and loss, if the legislature should withhold its aid, in a case in which the request of the petitioner is not only reasonable, but is in accordance with principles of justice and equity. They therefore ask leave to bring in a bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Johnson, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act for the relief of Andrew P. Tillman;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Johnson, from the committee on canals and internal improvements, to which was referred the petition of sundry persons residing at and near the head of Seneca lake, praying for the passage of a law to authorise the canal commissioners to reduce the waters of that lake, and the remonstrance against the same, together with the report of the canal commissioners on that subject, asked for leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Johnson, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act authorising the canal commissioners to reduce the waters of the Seneca lake;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Ordered, That the usual number of copies of the said bill be printed for the use of the legislature.

Mr. Armstrong, from the committee on the erection and division of towns and counties, to which was referred the petition of sundry inhabitants of the town of Haverstraw in the county of Rockland, praying for an alteration of the time of holding the annual town-meetings in that town, asked for leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Armstrong, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act concerning the revised statutes;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Fleming, from the committee on the judiciary, to which was referred the petition of sundry inhabitants of the county of Orleans, praying for the passage of a law to authorise an extension of the jail limits of that county, asked for leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Fleming, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to enlarge the liberties of the jail in the county of Orleans;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Mann, from the committee on claims, to which was referred the report of the canal board on the petition of Darius Eggleston, praying for the passage of a law authorising the canal board to settle his claims for extra allowances on a canal contract made in 1827, together with the report of the canal board on said petition, have directed their chairman to report for the consideration of the house the following resolution:

Resolved, That the prayer of the petitioner ought not to be granted, and that he have leave to withdraw his petition.

Ordered, That the said resolution be laid upon the table; and that the report of the canal board on the said petition, be printed for the use of the legislature.

Mr. Mann, from the committee on claims, to whom was referred the petition of John H. Lamson, Manley Vickery and Amos Mace, together with certain documents communicated by the comptroller in relation to the subject matter of the petition, reported:

The petitioners represent that they were sub-contractors under Messrs. Cady, Case & Co., for the construction of section No. 6, on the Oswego canal; that the work to be done on the said section by the terms of the original contract, was the construction of a tow-path on the natural bank of the Oswego river, and that the plan of the work was afterwards changed by direction of the engineer, (pursuant to the provisions of such contract,) who is of opinion that the value of the labor done by the petitioners, according to such directions, is worth but just one half as much as the petitioners believe they are entitled to receive from the state: that in February, 1828, Cady, Case & Co. presented their petition to the canal board, praying an extra allowance for work done on sections No. 6, 7 and 12, on the Oswego canal, for which they were original contractors; and they claimed to be allowed as follows on said section No. 6:

For removing a large quantity of flood wood in the dead water of the Oswego river, not named in the contract, $500.

For making tow-path on the bank of the river, which was abandoned by the engineer, and directions afterwards given to dock out into the river, $250.

And the petitioners state, that on the petition of Cady, Case & Co., the canal board heard evidence: that the engineer who had charge of the said canal, testified that the contractors had received a full and fair compensation for the work done on said section No. 6: that on sections 7 and 12, the contractors had sustained losses, and were entitled to extra compensation: that previous to the determination of said board, (but after the engineer had delivered his evidence,) the claim of $500 above specified, was withdrawn by Cady, Case & Co., and that the canal board determined "that the contractors were not entitled to any extra allowance for work done on section No. 6, and that they were entitled to an extra allowance for work done on sections Nos. 7 and 12"; and they accordingly allowed to the original contractors the sum of $8.866.06.

The petitioners allege that they are entitled to any extra allowance, to be made on section No. 6, and complain that the canal board now refuse to hear them or to again consider the subject of allowance on said section, because they have once adjudicated upon it; while the petitioners aver that their claim was withdrawn by Cady, Case & Co. from the consideration of said board; and they now pray for the passage of a resolution, or a special law in the nature of a writ of mandamus, to direct the canal board to do their duty more in accordance with the interests of the petitioners.

The petitioners do not pretend that Cady, Case & Co., in claiming an extra allowance on section No. 6, acted without authority from them; and the state of the matter probably is, that finding the engineer testified that the contractors for section No. 6, had received a full and fair compensation, they had little hope of reaching the threshold of the treasury, on that section, concluded that fortune might be more propitious to the petitioners, on their direct application for admission to its favors.

If the canal board neglect or improperly refuse to perform the duties of their office, the supreme court, possessing the prerogative control, by common law, of all inferior tribunals charged with special or general duties in the administration of the laws, can afford to the petitioners all the relief to which they claim to be entitled.

The legislature, by statute, have defined the duties of the canal board, and required their performance; and it could do little good to repeat that requisition, as if they should prove contumacious, a resort to the judicial tribunals would still be requisite to enforce obedience. In every point of view which the committee have been able to take of this subject, they are unanimously of opinion that the prayer of the petitioners ought not to be granted; and they have directed their chairman to submit for the consideration of the house, the following resolution:

Resolved. That the prayer of the petitioners ought not to be granted, and that they have leave to withdraw their petition.

Thereupon,

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

A communication from the commissioners of the land-office, was read in the words following, to wit:

The commissioners of the land-office, to whom has been referred the petition and documents of Joseph Mather, "praying for remuneration of his expenses in defending the title to a certain lot of land;" and also a resolution of the honorable the Assembly, requesting the said commissioners to report to that house "their opinion on the equity of the petitioner's claim," respectfully report:

That the petitioner sets forth, that in the year 1797, he purchased of one Ebenezer Butler, junior, about 133 acres of land, on lot No. 63, in the town of Pompey, in the county of Onondaga, for which he paid to the said Butler the price of $4 per acre; that at about the same time he moved on to the said lot, and began and continued to clear and improve the same, until some time in the year 1811, when the petitioner was served with an ejectment for the said lands, at the suit of William Burt and Mercey Shaw, who pretended to be the heirs of John Shaw, the revolutionary soldier, to whom this lot, No. 63, in Pompey, was awarded for his services in the army of the revolution; that the petitioner employed Wood and Birdseye as his attornies to defend this ejectment, and that the necessary steps were taken to permit the cause to be noticed for trial at the Onondaga circuit, in the summer of 1812; that previous to the time when the said cause was noticed for trial, the petitioner had examined the facts in relation to the title to the said lot, and had satisfied himself that John Shaw, the revolutionary soldier, to whom this lot really belonged, had died in service and without heirs, and that this lot, No. 63, in Pompey, had therefore escheated to the state, and that the title was really in the state and not in either of the parties to the ejectment suit; that thereupon the petitioner, and the other persons interested in other parts of the said lot, by the advice of their counsel, determined to inform the attorney-general of the state of these facts, and to have the escheat upon the said lot regularly perfected, and that in pursuance of this design, they appointed Nathan Williams, one of the tenants upon the said lot, to give the necessary information to the attorney-general; that this duty was discharged by the said Williams, and that therefore the petitioner did not prepare to defend the said ejectment suit at the circuit court for the said county of Onondaga, in 1812, as he supposed the same would be defended by the attorney-general of the state; that finding nothing had been done by the attorney-general to defend the said suit, the petitioner got the trial put off until the next circuit court, which would be in 1813, under the belief that before that time the escheat of the said lot would be perfected; that he did not learn that this had not been done until a short time before the holding of the circuit in 1813, and therefore he was illy prepared to try the cause at that circuit, and that, for the want of due preparation, the verdict upon the said trial was rendered in favor of the lessors of the plaintiffs in the said action of ejectment; that by advice of his counsel, and from a conviction that the title of the plaintiffs was bad, the petitioner made application for a new trial, which was granted to him, and that the said cause came on to be tried the second time at the circuit court for the said county, in 1814; that at this time the petitioner was fully prepared for the said trial, and to show that the title to the said lot was not in the plaintiffs in the said action, but in the state; that the said plaintiffs, being aware of this fact, did not proceed to the trial of the said cause, but abandoned the same; and that a judgment, as in case of non-suit, was entered against them.

The petitioner further states, that some time in the years 1813 or 1814, another action of ejectment was commenced against one Norris Case, a tenant upon, and claimant of, another part of the said lot No. 63, in Pompey; that all the tenants upon the said lot agreed to join in defending the said action, and that in pursuance of that agreement, the petitioner did pay his share of the costs of defending the ejectment suit brought against Case; that the same testimony was prepared to be given upon the trial of this cause which was procured and prepared to be given upon the trial of the suit before brought against the petitioner, and that this cause also went off in the same manner with the former one; that the whole of the costs incurred in defending both these suits were entirely lost to the petitioner and his co-tenants upon the said lot, as the plaintiffs in those suits were entirely insolvent, and no part of the costs were recovered from them; that nothing further was done to the knowledge of the petitioner, until some time in the years 1819 or 1820, when he was apprised that the state claimed title to the said lot by the service upon him of an ejectment in favor of the state; that he then made an arrangement with the agent of the state, to suffer judgment in the said suit to pass by default, which was done, and the petitioner surrendered possession of so much of the said lot as was occupied by him to the state.

The petitioner further states, that at about the time of the prosecution of the first ejectment suit against him, upon the demise of Shaw, as before related, Butler, from whom the petitioner purchased, became insolvent and absconded, and that therefore he lost all remedy against him for the recovery back of the $4 per acre, purchase money paid to Butler; that he has expended, as nearly as he can estimate it, not less than $459, in the defence of the ejectment suits above mentioned, over and above the trouble and damage occasioned to him by the interruption of his business for about four years, while these suits were depending; that he is now advanced in life, and poor, and needs the allowance for the support of himself and family.

Connected with this petition. is a supplemental one, signed by three of the neighbors of the petitioner, stating that they believe the statements, generally, in the petition are true; that the know the petitioner expended considerable sums of money, but the amount they do not know; and that they think he ought to be relieved by the legislature.

Among the papers is an affidavit of Nathan Williams, of Manlius, in the county of Onondaga, who swears, that he was in 1812 and 1813, interested in, and an occupant of a part of this lot 63, in Pompey; that he contributed towards the defence of the ejectment suit brought against the petitioner, Mather; that, after they had investigated the title to the lot, he did, in behalf of himself and of the other occupants of the lot, either in the year 1812 or 1813, and he believes in 1812, make a formal application to Mr. Hildreth, the then attorney-general of this state, to have the said lot escheated, but that the said attorney-general, from what cause he does not know, but he supposes from his ill health, as he sickened and died soon after, took no steps to escheat the said lot, to his knowledge. This witness further states, that the claimants of the said lot were. himself, Norris Case, Samuel Emmons, Obadiah Williams, Timothy Capit, junior, Enoch Wilcox, and the petitioner, Joseph Mather.

There is also with the petition a statement of the monies expended by the petitioner in defending these two suits, and of the expenses incurred by him in attending the courts, amounting in the whole to the sum of $459, and an affidavit of the petitioner, in which he swears that the charges are correct "according to the best of his knowledge, recollection and belief," and that he verily believe he has expended this sum of money in the defence of these suits.

This account, however, it should be remarked, does not purport to be taken from any memoranda or account, kept of these expenses by the petitioner at the time, but to be made from the now best recollection of the petitioner, as to what was paid by him in 1812, 1813 and 1814. No affidavit, certificate or other evidence, from the counsel employed by him, as to the amount or the payment of their bills, is found among the papers, nor any bills of costs, taxed or not taxed, presented.

On examining the records of escheated lands in the office of the secretary of state, it is found that this lot No. 63, in Pompey, was escheated, and that the escheat was perfected by judgments in ejectment and executions thereon, in 1820. The persons against whom these ejectments were brought, as tenants in possession, were this petitioner, Enoch Wilcox, Obadiah Williams, Jacob Hoar, Lawrence Cramer, Norris Case and Obed Handy. After the escheat of this lot was perfected, and before the title of the state was granted, a surveyor was sent pursuant to law, to survey the lot, and to report the same, as well as the names of the persons in possession, and claiming the right of purchase, to the surveyor-general. From this report, it appears that the persons in possession, when the survey was made, were Enoch Wilcox, Obadiah Williams, Nathan Williams, Jacob Hoar, Lawrence Cramer and Norris Case, each occupying certain portions of the said lot.

On the coming in of this survey, and soon after that time, applications were made to the commissioners of the land-office, for grants of this lot, by the possessors thereof, under color of title, to whom the commissioners were to grant it at an appraisal, exclusive of any improvements.

It appears from an examination of their files, and of the entries in relation to this lot No. 63, in Pompey, in the books of the secretary's office, that this lot was granted, in various portions, to Enoch Wilcox, Obadiah Williams, Nathan

Williams, Jacob Hoar, Jabez Butts, and Martha Case, which latter grant was to the widow of the said Norris Case, before named as one of the occupants of the said lot, and was made to her by virtue of a special direction of the legislature, contained in the 11th section of the act, entitled "An act in addition to the several acts relative to escheated lands, and for other purposes," passed April 4, 1820.

It will be perceived that the petitioner, Joseph Mather, is not among the list of perrons to whom the several parts of this lot were granted, and a very satisfactory reason for this seems to be found, by examining the papers presented to the commissioners of the land-office, in the case of Enoch Wilcox, to whom three several pieces of this lot No. 63 appear to have been granted, including the two pieces of the lot formerly claimed and possessed by the petitioner, Mather, and from which he was ejected by the state. It will also have been observed, that although Mather was in possession at the time the ejectments were brought by the state, he was not returned as being in possession by the surveyor, at the time he surveyed this lot, after possession was taken by the state. Wilcox, however, was returned as being in possession of those parts of the lot which Mather had formerly occupied and claimed to own.

To account for this change of possession, and for the grant of Mather's possessions to Wilcox, an assignment from Mather to Wilcox of all his right, title and interest to these two pieces or parts of lot No. 63, in Pompey, executed by Mather, and dated 27th April, 1820, for the consideration paid by Wilcox to Mather, of $550, is found among Wilcox's papers on file with the commissioners of the land-office. A copy of this assignment is annexed to this report.

These are all the facts which have presented themselves as applicable to the claim now made by the petitioner. From them the following deductions may be drawn, assuming that all the statements made in the petition are true:

1st. That the petitioner purchased about 182 acres of lot No. 63, in Pompey, in the year 1797, at the price of $4 per acre, and that he paid the purchase money to that amount, to wit, to the amount of $528.

2d. That he occupied, possessed and enjoyed the lands so purchased, from 1797 until 1820, a period of 23 years, without the payment of any rent to the state, to which the land, of right, belonged.

3d. That the costs, the re-payment of which he claims from the state, were incurred by him in defending himself in the possession of lands, the title to which, he became satisfied, before he incurred any considerable part of those costs, was not in him, but in the state.

4th. That the laws of the state gave him the right, when the title to these lands was established to be in the state, to purchase them from the state at their appraised value, in the year 1800, exclusive of all improvements he had made upon them.

5th. That he actually sold this right of purchase to Enoch Wilcox, for the sum of $550, being $22 more than he paid for what he supposed to be a good title when he purchased.

There is no evidence before the commissioners of the land-office, to show that this petitioner was the discoverer that this lot was an escheated lot, or that he at all aided the attorney-general of the state, who finally instituted the proceedings to perfect the escheat thereof; nor can they see what injury would have accrued to the interests of the state by a recovery against the petitioner in the ejectment suits, to defend which he incurred these expenses. He was not the tenant of the state, but a wrongful holder of its lands, and therefore a recovery against him would have been no estoppel to an action of ejectment by the state for the same lands. If this be so, it is not perceived of what consequence it could be to the state, whether this petitioner, or those who strove to force him from his possession of these lands, should prevail, so long as neither had any title, and so long as, whichever might occupy, the state were to receive no benefit for the use of their property.

As it may assist in judging of the equity of the petitioner's claim, and of the manner in which its allowance will affect the interests of the state, so far as its title to this lot of land was concerned, the commissioners of the land-office deem it not improper to state, that this land was appraised at from $2 as the lowest, to $2 75 as the highest price per acre, in the year 1800, this being exclusive of all improvements upon it, and that the two pieces which had been possessed by the petitioner, and which he had sold to Wilcox, were both appraised at $2 50 per acre, and at that price were conveyed to Wilcox as the assignee of the petitioner. The petitioner states that the quantity thus possessed by him was about 132 acres; but by the survey and appraisal, it would seem to be a little less. Yet assuming this quantity to be correct, the amount received by the state for all the land claimed by the petitioner, will have been but $330, while he sold his right to the improvements upon the same land, for $550, to Wilcox, the person to whom the state granted it. It would seem, therefore, if the state had an interest in defending the title to this land, the petitioner had a greater interest in defending his possession, while it is not discovered how the defences made by him and his associates, benefitted, or affected at all, the title of the state.

It would also seem, that if the claim of the petitioner for the costs and expenses incurred by him in defending these suits, be allowed and paid by the state, that the same rule of justice or equity would require that the costs and expenses incurred by the other tenants in the defences of the same suits, should be also paid, as it appears from the petitioner's statement, that the second suit was defended jointly by all the tenants; and it is shown by the affidavit of Nathan Williams, that he, at least, contributed his share towards the defence of the suit brought against the petitioner.

The commissioners of the land-office have been unable to discover any reason which satisfies them that the petitioner, or any of his co-tenants upon lot No. 63, in Pompey, have any just claim upon the state for the re-payment of expenses incurred by them in litigations between themselves and others, in relation to the possession of lands, the title to which was in none of the parties litigant, but in the state; nor are they prepared to say that equity demands of the state the payment, for costs so incurred, of a sum, greater, by some hundreds of dollars, than the whole amount of money received by the state from the same parties, for the title to the lands themselves.

Yet with these observations, they most respectfully and most cheerfully submit the petitioner's case to the wisdom and justice of the legislature, who are more competent to determine its equity than this board can be, and to whom the petitioner has himself appealed.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Albany, March 13, 1829.

Whereas the subscriber, heretofore, under color of a bona fide purchase by him made, has actually settled on and made valuable improvements on about one hundred and thirty-two acres of land, situate and lying in the town of Pompey, in the county of Onondaga, and state of New-York, being a part of lot number sixty-three (No. 63) in said town of Pompey, being two several pieces on said lot, the one piece containing ninety-two and $\frac{66}{100}$ acres of land, the other piece forty acres of land; of which said land, the commissioners of the land-office, by a late law of the legislature of the state of New-York, are authorised to cause letters patent to be issued to him as one of the occupants on certain conditions therein mentioned; therefore, in consideration of the sum of five hundred and fifty dollars, heretofore received by me from Enoch Willcox, of the town of Pompey aforesaid, I hereby grant, bargain, sell, assign and set over, to the said Enoch Willcox, his heirs and assigns, for ever, all my right, title, interest, claim and demand, both in law and equity, of, in and to the said premises above described and referred to; and I do also hereby authorise and empower said commissioners to issue letters patent to the said Enoch Willcox.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and seal, this 27th day of April, 1820.

JOSEPH MATHER, [L. S.]

In presence of
SANDERS VAN RENSSELAER.

STATE OF NEW-YORK, }
Onondaga County, } ss.

Before me, on the 8th day of November, 1820, came Joseph Mather, to me personally known to be the person described in, and who executed the within deed, and acknowledged he executed the same. Let it be recorded.

SAM'L. BALDWIN,
Commissioner, &c.

Recorded in the clerk's office of Onondaga county, in liber Z. of deeds, folio 275, the 2d day of April 1821, at 5 o'clock, P. M.

DANIEL MOSELEY, Clerk.

Ordered, That the said communication be referred to the committee on claims, and that the usual number of copies thereof be printed for the use of the legislature.

Two several messages from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bills therein mentioned, were read, informing that they have passed the bill entitled "An act for the relief of John Sargeant," and the bill entitled "An act authorising the construction of the Crooked lake canal;" in which bills they request the concurrence of this house.

The said bills were severally read the first time, and by unanimous consent were also read a second time, and the bill entitled "An act for the relief of John Sargeant," was referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Mann, Mr. Eldridge and Mr. Spier; and the bill entitled "An act authorising the construction of the Crooked lake canal," was referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Johnson, Mr. Sheppard and Mr. Armstrong, severally to consider and report thereon.

A message from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bill therein mentioned, was read, informing that they have passed the bill entitled "An act providing for the appointment of inspectors of unslaked lime in the county of Greene," without amendment.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bill to the acting Governor.

The house then proceeded to the consideration of the resolution heretofore offered by Mr. Eldridge; the same being amended, was again read, in the words following, to wit:

Resolved, That a committee of nine members be appointed, whose duty it shall be to examine all bills from time to time committed to a committee of the whole house, and report all such bills as in their opinion may with safety and propriety be referred to select committees to be reported complete; but no bill shall be recommended to be referred, except with the unanimous consent of the said committee; nor shall any bill against the passage of which there is a remonstrance, nor any bill concerning a monied corporation or appropriating public monies, be so recommended; nor shall the number of bills so reported at any one time, exceed nine.

Thereupon,

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution as amended, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That Mr. Eldridge, Mr. Austin, Mr. Cargill, Mr. Tower, Mr. W. M'Donald, Mr. Allison, Mr. Gosman, Mr. Brinkerhoff and Mr. Burt, be the said committee.

A message from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bill therein mentioned, was read, informing that they have rejected the bill entitled "An act authorising the commissioners of loans of the county of Oneida to sell certain lands."

Ordered, That the committee of the whole be discharged from the further consideration of the bill entitled "An act to amend the act entitled 'An act to provide for the erection of a new court-house and jail in the county of Broome,'" and that the same be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Fitch, Mr. Franklin and Mr. Chandler, to consider and report thereon.

Ordered, That the committee of the whole be discharged from the further consideration of the bill entitled "An act to amend the act entitled 'An act to incorporate the Catskill and Ithaca rail-road company,' passed April 21, 1828;" and that the same be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Dana, Mr. Seeley and Mr. Redfield, to consider and report thereon.

Ordered, That Mr. Hubbell have leave of absence for three days, Mr. J. Van Beuren for eight days, Mr. Sloughter for five days, Mr. Partridge for ten days, and Mr. Taber for eight days.

The engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act concerning jurors residing on the New-Stockbridge tract," with the engrossed amendment, was read the third time.

Resolved, That the bill and amendment do pass.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bill and amendment to the Senate, and inform them that this house have passed the same, with the amendment therewith delivered.

Mr. W. Hall, from the committee on engrossed bills, reported, that they have examined the engrossed bill entitled "An act authorising a re-appraisement of certain lands in Oneida Castleton," and find the same correctly engrossed.

Mr. Fitch, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act to amend the act entitled 'An act to provide for the erection of a new court-house and jail in the county of Broome,'" reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

The house then resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act concerning the state prisons of this state;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Mallory, from the said committee, reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read and agreed to by the house, and the bill ordered to a third reading.

The house then resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act for the relief of the devisees of Edward Chinn;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Jenkins, from the said committee, reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read.

Thereupon,

Ordered, That the report of the committee of the whole be laid upon the table.

The house then resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to incorporate the Sodus canal company;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Jenkins, from the said committee, reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, made amendments thereto, and agreed to the same; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read and agreed to by the house, and the amendments ordered to be engrossed, and the bill ordered to a third reading.

The house then resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act for the relief of Nathan Underwood;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. J. M'Donald, from the said committee, reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read.

Thereupon,

Ordered, That the report of the committee of the whole be laid upon the table.

The house then resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act to erect a new town from parts of the towns of Portland and Ripley in the county of Chautauque;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. J. M'Donald, from the said committee, reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, made amendments thereto, altered the title to "An act to divide the towns of Portland and Ripley in the county of Chautauque," and agreed to the same; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

The house then resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Troy and Bennington turnpike road and bridge company;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Norton, from the said committee, reported progress, and asked for and obtained leave to sit again.

The house then resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act to amend the act incorporating a turnpike road from Coxsackie to Freehold in the county of Greene, passed March 2d, 1805, and the several acts amending the same;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Norton, from the said committee, reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

The house then resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act to amend the act entitled 'An act to regulate a ferry across the Hudson's river between Coxsackie landing and Nuttenhook in the county of Columbia, and for other purposes,' passed April 12th, 1820, and the act explanatory of the same, passed March 22d, 1822;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Norton, from the said committee, reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, altered the title to "An act relative to the ferry between Nuttenhook and Coxsackie landing," and agreed to the same; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

The house then resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the engrossed bill from the Senate, entttled "An act concerning the collector of taxes in the town of Pendleton;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Austin, from the said committee, reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read and agreed to by the house, and the bill ordered to a third reading.

The house then resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act for the relief of Matthew Brown junior;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. M'Neil, from the said committee, reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed

And then the House adjourned until ten o'clock on Monday morning next.

MONDAY, MARCH 16, 1829.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the town of Constable in the county of Franklin, praying for the division of said town, was read, and referred to the committee on the erection and division of towns and counties.

The petition of Andrew Phares, praying remuneration for property alleged to have been improperly sold by the state, was read, and referred to the committee on claims.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the counties of Tioga and Tompkins, praying for the incorporation of a bank, to be located at the village of Ithaca, was read, and referred to the committee on the incorporation and alteration of the charters of banking and insurance companies.

The petition of the Gravesend and Coney Island bridge and road company, praying for the passage of a law to reduce the number of directors of said company, was read, and referred to the committee on the establishment and improvement of roads and bridges, and the incorporation of turnpike companies.

The petition of David E. Harris, of the county of Cortland, praying for the passage of a law to change his name to Lycurgus J. Wallis, was read, and referred to the committee on the petitions of aliens.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the county of Onondaga, praying for the appointment of commissioners to lay out a road across the Onondaga Indian reservation, was read, and referred to the committee on the establishment and improvement of roads and bridges, and the incorporation of turnpike companies.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the town of Fort-Edward in the county of Washington, praying for the passage of a law to authorise the appropriation of certain surplus poor monies to the support of common schools and bridges in said town, was read, and referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. J. M'Donald, Mr. M'Neil and Mr. Sill.

The petition of Melancton Wheeler and others, praying that the amount of tolls received on the Junction canal, passing northward on the Champlain canal, may be ascertained, and that such tolls may be directed to be passed to the credit of the Champlain canal, was read, and referred to the canal board.

The remonstrance of sundry inhabitants of Musquito Cove in the county of Queens, against the petition of William Harold, for permission to erect a dock in the town of Oysterbay in said county, was read, and referred to the select committee to which was referred the engrossed bill from the Senate on that subject, of which Mr. Jones is chairman.

The petition of the president of the Newtown turnpike company, praying for the passage of an act to extend the time for completing the said road, was read, and referred to the committee on the establishment and improvement of roads and bridges, and the incorporation of turnpike companies.

Mr. Baragar, from the select committee to which was referred the petition of sundry inhabitants of the county of Tioga, praying for an act to improve the Cattetunk creek, reported:

That in the year 1827, according to the representation of the petitioners, the said creek, by an act of the legislature, was declared a public highway; and that the inhabitants of said towns situated on said creek, have expended labor and money to a considerable amount, in order to improve its navigation, so as to render it navigable for the transportation of lumber and other property to the Susquehannah river.

It further appears, that the navigation of said creek is now complete, with the exception of one or two dams, which were erected previous to said act of 1827.

The prayer of the petitioners, therefore, is, that they may have the privilege of improving said dams, so as to render them passable, without injury to the owners of them. And from a knowledge of the quantity of lumber and arks which are annually transported to the Susquehannah river by means of that conveyance, the committee are of opinion that the prayer of the petitioners ought to be granted. Under these impressions, they have prepared a bill, and directed their chairman to ask leave to introduce the same.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Baragar, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to improve the navigation of the Cattetunk creek;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Fleming, from the select committee to which was referred the petition to amend the act incorporating the village of Albion, reported:

That an act was passed on the 21st of April 1828, incorporating the village of Albion; but from some delay in its transmission, was not received in time to enable the inhabitants of the village to organize according to its provisions.

It is therefore the opinion of the committee, that an amendment for that purpose is necessary; and have accordingly prepared a bill, which they ask leave to introduce.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Fleming, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to incorporate the village of Albion;'" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Curtiss, from the select committee to which was referred the petition of John Shields, for permission to change his name, reported:

That the petitioner sets forth as a reason for his application, that at the time of his birth, his mother was not married, and that her maiden name was Kilmore; that at a subsequent period, she married a man by the name of James Shields; and that there was no other reason why the petitioner's name was called Shields. He expresses a strong desire that an act may be passed, changing his name from John Shields to John A. Kilmore, which he states is his real name. The committee being satisfied of the facts, and considering the petition reasonable, ask leave to introduce a bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Curtiss, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to authorise John Shields to change his name;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Dana, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act to amend the act entitled 'An act to incorporate the Catskill and Ithaca rail-road company,' passed April 21st, 1828," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Johnson, from the select committee to which was referred the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act authorising the construction of the Crooked lake canal," reported, that they have examined the said bill, and prepared an amendment thereto, with which they see no reason why the same should not be passed into a law.

Ordered, That the said bill and amendment be committed to a committee of the whole house.

Ordered, That the committee of the whole be discharged from the further consideration of the bill entitled "An act authorising the supervisors of the county of Onondaga to raise ten thousand dollars, for completing the court-house;" and that the said bill be committed to a select committee, consisting of the members attending this house from the county of Onondaga, to consider and report thereon.

Ordered, That Mr. Brown have leave of absence for eight days.

Mr. Willey gave notice that he would, on some future day, ask leave to introduce a bill to amend the 51st section of article 3 of title 1 of chapter 16 of the Revised Statutes.

The Senate returned, by their clerk, the bill entitled "An act relative to public notaries and commissioners of deeds in the several cities of this state."

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bill to the acting Governor.

A message from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bill and amendment therein mentioned, was read, informing that they have concurred with this house in its amendment to the bill entitled "An act concerning jurors residing on the New-Stockbridge tract."

The amended bill having been examined,

Ordered, That the clerk return the same to the Senate.

The engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act concerning the state prisons of this state," was read the third time.

Ordered, That the said bill be re-committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Seeley, from the committee on engrossed bills, reported, that they have examined the engrossed bill entitled "An act to amend the act entitled 'An act to provide for the erection of a new court-house and jail in the county of Broome,' passed April 18th, 1828;" the engrossed bill entitled "An act relative to the ferry between Nuttenhook and Coxsackie landing;" the engrossed bill entitled "An act for the relief of Matthew Brown junior," and the engrossed bill entitled "An act to divide the towns of Portland and Ripley in the county of Chautauque;" and find the said bills severally correctly engrossed.

The said engrossed bill, entitled "An act to amend the act entitled 'An act to provide for the erection of a new court-house and jail in the county of Broome,' passed April 18th, 1828," was read the third time.

Resolved, That the bill do pass.

The said engrossed bill, entitled "An act relative to the ferry between Nuttenhook and Coxsackie landing," was read the third time.

Resolved, That the bill do pass.

The said engrossed bill, entitled "An act for the relief of Matthew Brown junior," was read the third time.

Resolved, That the bill do pass.

The said engrossed bill, entitled "An act to divide the towns of Portland and Ripley in the county of Chautauque," was read the third time.

Resolved, That the bill do pass.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bills to the Senate, and request their concurrence in the same.

Mr. Seeley, from the committee on engrossed bills, reported, that they have examined the engrossed bill entitled "An act to amend the act incorporating a turnpike road from Coxsackie to Freehold in the county of Greene, passed March 2d, 1805, and the several acts amending the same," and find the same correctly engrossed.

The said engrossed bill, entitled "An act to amend the act incorporating a turnpike road from Coxsackie to Freehold in the county of Greene, passed March 2d, 1805, and the several acts amending the same," was read the third time.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the final passage of the said bill, and it was determined in the affirmative, two-thirds of all the members elected to this house voting in favor thereof, as follows, to wit:

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bill to the Senate, and inform them that this house have passed the same, with the amendments therewith delivered.

A communication from the Hon. M. Van Buren, was read, in the words following, to wit:

To the Hon. PETER ROBINSON,
Speaker of the Assembly.

SIR,

Have the goodness to convey to the Assembly, my thanks for their kindness, and the assurance that I deservedly esteem the flattering expressions of confidence and congratulation contained in their resolution of the 12th instant; and to accept for yourself my best acknowledgments for the polite and friendly manner in which you have been pleased to communicate it to me. With the best wishes for the health, happiness, and prosperity of yourself, and the worthy members and officers of the house over which you have the honor to preside.

I am, very respectfully,
Your obedient servant,
MARTIN VAN BUREN.

Albany, March 16, 1829.

The house then again resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act to create a fund for the benefit of the creditors of certain monied corporations, and for other purposes;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Seeley, from the said committee, reported progress, and asked for and obtained leave to sit again.

And then the House adjourned until ten o'clock to-morrow morning.

TUESDAY, MARCH 17, 1829.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

The petition of the trustees of the village of Ogdensburgh, praying for an amendment of the act incorporating said village, was read, and referred to the committee on the incorporation of cities and villages.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the town of Deerfield, in the county of Oneida, praying for a division of the said town, and the erection of a new town to be called Eron, was read, and referred to the committee on the erection and division of towns and counties.

Four several remonstrances of sundry inhabitants of the town of Westmoreland, in the county of Oneida, against the division of said town, were read, and referred to the committee on the erection and division of towns and counties.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the county of Essex, praying for the passage of a law to provide for the completion of the road from Westport, in said county, to Hopkinton, in the county of St. Lawrence, was read, and referred to the committee on the establishment and improvement of roads and bridges, and the incorporation of turnpike companies.

The petition of William D. Ross, of the county of Essex, relative to the payment of money for certain lands purchased by him from the state, was read, and referred to the commissioners of the land-office.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the counties of Cattaraugus and Allegany, praying for the construction of a canal from Olean, in the county of Cattaraugus, along the valley of the Genesee river, to Rochester, in the county of Monroe, was read, and referred to the committee on canals and internal improvements.

The petition of the supervisor, town clerk and justices of the peace of Charlton, in the county of Saratoga, praying for the passage of a law to alter the time of the annual town-meetings in that town, was read. and referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Wheeler, Mr. Armstrong and Mr. Mandeville.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the counties of Westchester and Putnam, relative to fishing in Peach pond, was read, and referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Tailor, Mr. Judd and Mr. Van Wyck.

The petition of Paul Knight, of the village of Rochester, praying remuneration for damages alleged to have been sustained by the construction of the aqueduct across the Genesee river, was read, and referred to the canal board.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the county of Orleans, praying for the passage of a law to authorise the supervisors of said county to raise $1500, to build a bridge across the Oak Orchard creek, was read, and referred to the committee on the establishment and improvement of roads and bridges, and the incorporation of turnpike companies.

The petition of George Kemp, an alien, praying that he may be authorised to purchase, take, hold, and convey real estate within this state, was read, and referred to the committee on the petitions of aliens.

The petition of James Lynch, of the county of Orange, setting forth that he was the purchaser from Archibald McIntyre, former comptroller of this state, of a lot of land in Clinton county, that a suit in ejectment has been brought against him, and praying indemnity from the state, was read, and referred to the committee on public lands.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the eighth and ninth wards of the city of New-York, praying for an amendment of the charter of the Sun fire insurance company, so far as to allow them to alter their name and change its location, was read, and committed to a committee of the whole when on the bill upon that subject.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the town of Schuyler, in the county of Herkimer, praying that the Mohawk turnpike company may be authorised to abandon a part of their road, was read, and referred to the committee on the establishment and improvement of roads and bridges, and the incorporation of turnpike companies.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the town of Manheim, in the county of Herkimer, praying for the appointment of commissioners to lay out a certain road in said town, was read, and committed to a committee of the whole when on the bill upon that subject.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the county of Herkimer, praying for the incorporation of a bank, to be located in said county, was read, and referred to the committee on the incorporation and alteration of the charters of banking and insurance companies.

Mr. Savage, from the committee on grievances, to which was referred the petition of James Daggett, of the county of Schenectady, praying that a law may be passed divorcing him from his wife, and a similar petition from Daniel Dunbar, of the county of Otsego, reported:

That they have had these petitions under consideration, and find the facts in both cases nearly the same. The only grounds on which the petitioners ask to be relieved, is the alleged insanity of their wives—insanity which has arisen since their respective marriages; although in the case of Daggett, it is intimated that his wife was partially insane previous to her marriage. From the testimony attached to the petitions, the committee have no doubt of the truth of the allegations set forth in them. The only question then is, whether, under such a state of facts, the relief asked for ought to be granted by the legislature? On this subject, it is believed that no man who regards the institution of matrimony, and the salutary regulations which govern civilized society, in their proper light, can have any hesitation in saying that they should not. Indeed, the committee cannot avoid expressing their surprise and regret, that any person should apply for a legal dissolution of the sacred obligation of marriage on such grounds. Without going into a further examination of the subject, the committee unanimously recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That the prayers of the petitioners ought not to be granted.

Thereupon,

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Johnson, from the committee on canals and internal improvements, to which was referred the petitions of sundry inhabitants of the counties of Erie, Chautauque, Cattaraugus, Genesee, Allegany, Livingston and Monroe, for the continuation of the Erie canal, through the valley of the Conewango river, to the Allegany river; also for a canal along the valley of the Genesee river, to Olean Point; and from the Erie canal, by way of the Tonnewanda creek, to Olean Point, reported:

That the petitioners for these several routes, have been heard before the committee, as to the merits of their several applications; but as the information as to their cost and probable advantages are not as yet sufficiently ascertained, the committee have made no decision as to the relative merits of these routes. All of them were embraced in the surveys authorised to be made in 1825; and the surveys may be found in the Journals of the Assembly of 1826, Appendix F., pages 16, 19, 24. In the report made to the Senate in 1827, by the committee on canals, will be found a description of these routes, and their supposed advantages.

By the construction of either of these routes, the objects which the petitioners all have in view, would be gained—an union of the Erie canal with the navigable waters of the Ohio. It would secure to New-York, it is supposed, the trade of Pittsburgh, and a large extent of country watered by the Ohio and its branches. Pittsburgh is the most commanding situation on that river. It has already become a place of great wealth and extensive commercial operations. Situated at the confluence of two considerable rivers, which united, form the Ohio; in the midst of a well-settled and fertile country, having superior advantages for extensive manufacturing establishments, many of which are already improved to a considerable extent, it certainly must soon become a place of great importance. It will be readily seen, that it is no small object to draw the trade of this city to our commercial emporium, through our own canals. That it can be secured, without the construction, on our part, of navigable communication between the Erie canal and the Allegany, is hardly to be expected. It will not be likely to reach us through the Ohio canal; and should the state of Pennsylvania complete her canal, which is by no means certain, we are not sure of obtaining it. Besides, it is an object to have such an increased domestic trade pass through our own country and along our waters, adding consequence to our villages, and affording a market for the products of our industry.

It should also be borne in mind, that the trade that would be created, is entitled to much consideration. Our domestic trade is every year becoming more and more important; and although it excites less interest than our foreign trade, its advantages are much more extensive.

The committee, believing that at no very distant day, the communication between the Erie canal and the Allegany river will be effected by means of a canal, and that it is desirable the necessary surveys and estimates should be presented to the legislature, in order to enable them to judge which of the proposed routes will best subserve the interests of the state; they therefore recommend the adoption of the following resolutions:

Resolved, (if the hon. Senate concur,) That the acting canal commissioners cause some experienced engineer to make a full and minute survey of the three proposed routes of a canal from the Erie canal to Allengany river, by the valley of the Conewango, and by the Casadauga; by the Tonnewanda, and by the valley of the Genesee river; and that they cause detailed estimates of the expense of each of the said routes to be made, and submit the same to the consideration of the next legislature.

Resolved, That the expenses of this survey be paid by the Treasurer, on the warrant of the Comptroller, out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated, on the certificate of the canal commissioners under whose direction it shall be performed.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree with the committee in the preceding resolutions, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Thereupon,

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said report and resolutions to the Senate, and that the usual number of copies of the same be printed for the use of the legislature.

Mr. Burt, from the committee on the establishment and improvement of roads and bridges and the incorporation of turnpike companies, to which was referred the several petitions of inhabitants residing in the counties of Washington, Essex and Clinton, praying legislative aid for the construction of a road from Whitehall northward along the west side of Lake Champlain, reported:

That from representations made to the committee, a very serious obstruction is experienced by citizens resident upon the west shore of Lake Champlain, in consequence of there not being better roads in that section of the state. The means of overcoming this difficulty, are not within the reach of the petitioners; they are therefore under the necessity of making known their situation to the legislature, as it relates to the difficulties which at present they are obliged to submit to, for want of means to accomplish this much desirable object.

It must be generally known, that the northern part of this state is rather thinly populated, and of course cannot possess a very great share of wealth, although possessing an uncommon share of enterprise. In endeavoring to bring into active usefulness the known treasures which are every year showing how very important encouragement should be granted to relieve that section of the state, in order, from its secluded situation, to afford facilities in the means of safe and easy transportation of their raw materials, as well as manufactured articles, to a market.

The northeastern section of the state, from Whitehall, in the county of Washington, to the forty-fifth degree of north latitude, being bounded upon the east by Lake Champlain, a distance of about one hundred and twenty miles, and the counties of Warren, Essex and a part of Clinton, in their general aspect being rugged and broken, do not admit of a road either comfortable or safe, as a great thoroughfare or line of communication between the north and south, excepting near the shores of the lake, where the mountains recede or may be avoided, and where a road might be formed which at all times would be safe, direct, and convenient for constant intercourse.

From Ticonderoga, northward, to the foot or base of Mount Defiance, a distance of about six miles, there is already a tolerable road. To pass the foot of this mountain, directly on the margin of the lake, which is the only practicable route, would require a considerable expenditure. From thence north, to Ticonderoga, a distance of about three miles, there is now a passable road, and but little if any assistance would be required. From Ticonderoga, north, through Crown Point and Moriah, to Westport, the committee are informed that the road is in tolerable condition, and could probably be rendered safe and comfortable at a small expense, with the exception of what is called "Bullwagger bay mountain;" and to overcome this, and make a good road around the head of the bay, would probably cost fifteen hundred dollars. From Westport to the Canada line, the present road, it is thought, may be improved at a small expense, and that too, very probably, within the reach of the inhabitants in its vicinity. This done, a public highway would be opened from Whitehall, along the margin of Lake Champlain, to the Montreal road in Champlain, near Odeltown in the province of Lower Canada. From this place to Montreal, the road is in good condition; and a connection of this kind would undoubtedly be of public interest, embracing as it would, the shortest and most eligible route from Albany to Montreal.

The statements made to the committee, are such as to leave no doubt that a road located agreeably to the wish of the applicants, would be fraught with absolute public utility; and yet it is utterly impossible for the inhabitants of the northern counties to construct it in a permanent manner, by any means within their controul. The policy of rendering aid to all portions of our citizens, is too well founded to need any argument from us in its favor.

It is believed by the committee, that governments, by prudent disbursements from their treasuries, in granting aid to its citizens, which will stimulate them to put forth their energies in assisting to construct roads, will, indirectly, in a few years, return the same with interest, besides enriching its inhabitants; which adds much to their happiness and enjoyments of life, and renders them much more attached to their government.

The committee have witnessed with great satisfaction, sentiments of approbation where the facilities of internal improvements have been perfected; and they anticipate the same feelings would be realized, if this portion of our citizens should share in the public bounty. Internal improvements have already, in their effects, greatly added to the public prosperity; and the committee hope that this enlightened policy has virtually been adopted as a part of the settled policy of this state.

It must be apparent to every member of this legislature, that a communication between the cities of New-York and Montreal, should not be interrupted. During the navigable part of the season, this difficulty is greatly avoided by means of Lake Champlain; but it must be remembered, this mode only extends to but about one half of the year, and then you are under the necessity of resorting to your conveyances by land.

The petitioners, in their application, do not state the amount which the expense of the construction of the road would require, but which explanation will probably be made by those gentlemen representing that part of the state. It is to be presumed, all the information in relation to this enterprise, will be given by those more interested; and upon its merits, receive that attention it is entitled to. The committee are not particularly acquainted in this part of the state, but believe no injustice would be done to other parts of the state, if they should receive some assistance. They have therefore prepared a bill, and directed their chairman to ask leave to introduce the same.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Burt, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to provide for the construction of a road on the west shore of Lake Champlain;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Ordered, That the usual number of copies of the said bill and report be printed for the use of the legislature.

Mr. Burt, from the committee on the establishment and improvement of roads and bridges, and the incorporation of turnpike companies, to which was referred the petition of Stephen Tuttle, president of the Newtown turnpike road company, for an extension of the time to complete said road, asked for leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Burt, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to extend the time for completing the Newtown turnpike road;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Burt, from the committee on the establishment and improvement of roads and bridges, and the incorporation of turnpike companies, to which was referred the petition of the president, directors and company of the Gravesend and Coney Island bridge and road company, asked for leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Burt, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to incorporate the Gravesend and Coney Island bridge and road company;'" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Al Burtis, from the committee on the incorporation of charitable and religious societies, on the petition of the First Congregational society in the town of Worcester in the county of Otsego, praying for the passage of an act to change the name of said society, asked leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Al Burtis, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to alter the name of the First Congregational church and society of the town of Worcester in the county of Otsego;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. E. Baker, from the committee on the establishment and improvement of roads and bridges, and the incorporation of turnpike companies, on the petition of sundry inhabitants of the county of Dutchess, praying for the incorporation of the Chippewalla turnpike company, and a remonstrance against the same, asked leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. E. Baker, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to incorporate the Chippewalla turnpike company in the county of Dutchess;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. J. M'Donald, from the select committee to which was referred the memorial of sundry inhabitants of Fort-Edward in the county of Washington, reported:

That the law abolishing the distinction between town and county poor, took effect in that county in 1827; previous to which, the poor fund of the town of Fort-Edward amounted to about three hundred dollars, and which remains in the hands of the overseers of the poor. The petitioners ask that a law may be passed, directing the overseers of the poor to pay over one moiety of the fund to the commissioners of highways, for the support of roads and bridges; and the other to the commissioners of common schools, for the use of schools. The committee believe that the request is reasonable, and ought to be granted; and have therefore instructed their chairman to ask leave to introduce a bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. J. M'Donald, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act authorising the town of Fort-Edward to dispose of certain public monies;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Jones, from the select committee to which was referred the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act authorising William Harrold to erect a dock on the south side of Musquito Cove creek in the town of Oysterbay," reported:

That the facts in relation to this subject, presented for the consideration of the committee, are these:—That the freeholders and inhabitants of the town of Oysterbay, called on the commissioners of highways for the said town, to lay out a public road and landing place through a part of William Harrold's land; and that the commissioners so called on, did, on the 18th day of June 1827, lay out and establish a highway and landing place, from the Musquito Cove creek, (where the proposed dock or wharf in this bill is intended to be located by the said William Harrold,) to the highway that leads from Musquito Cove to the great plains; and that the above acts of the commissioners of the town of Oysterbay, were duly entered upon record, the 6th day of November, 1827. And it doth further appear, that on the 9th day of November 1827, William

Harrold appealed from the decision of the said commissioners, to the judges of the county of Queens, in relation to said road and landing place; and in consequence of such appeal, the judges of the county met in December following, in the town of Oyster Bay, to hear the proofs and allegations of the parties concerned; and that on such investigation, the following facts were offered on the part of the commissioners, in justification of their acts: That a deed dated October, 1773, made by William Walton and others, to Isaac Underhill, relative to the premises in controversy, in which deed was contained as follows:

Excepting and reserving to the inhabitants of the land within the patent of Musquito cove, the privilege of passing and re-passing over the upper dam of the mills hereby granted, as long as the said inhabitants should keep the said dam in repair.

And also excepting to all his majesty's subjects, the free use of the water way through the hereby granted premises, which lead from the road from Musquito cove, in the town of Hempstead, as the same now runs.

The commissioners also produced Isaac Underhill, Peter Lyster, Lewis Valentine and Richard Udall, as witnesses that the said Isaac Underhill testified that the appellant derived his title to the land adjoining said road and landing-place in controversy, through said Isaac Underhill and others.

And that the said Isaac Underhill, Peter Lyster and Lewis Valentine further testified, that the road and landing-place now in dispute, has been used as a public highway and landing-place previous to the revoluionary war, and ever since; and further, that no gate or other obstruction, for twenty years or upwards, has been erected on the said road.

It appears that the commissioners stated, that they considered that the above mentioned road and landing-place was public, and ever had been so; but in order to prevent litigation on the part of the town of Oyster Bay, with said Harrold, they did leave it to a jury to determine the damages to said Harrold, in relation to this road. This jury awarded him $450, which had been tendered and refused by the appellant.

After this investigation on the part of the judges, they came to the following decision: That they confirm the acts of the commissioners of the town of Oyster Bay, agreeably to their record, from the Musquito cove road, to the margin of the creek, and annul the same as extended to the centre of said creek; they also directed the commissioners to regulate the same according to their decision.

And it further appears to the committee, that William Harrold has appealed from the decision of the county judges to the supreme court, and that this matter of controversy is now pending in that court, from which circumstance, and the other facts connected with this case, the committee are of unanimous opinion that this bill should not be passed into a law.

Ordered, That the said bill and report be laid upon the table.

Mr. L. Smith, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act to authorise the board of supervisors of the county of Onondaga to borrow the sum of ten thousand dollars, for the purpose of completing the court-house and jail in said county," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, made an amendment thereto, and agreed to the same; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Eldridge, from the committee appointed to examine all bills committed to a committee of the whole house, and to report all such bills as in their opinion may with safety and propriety be referred to select committees to report complete, reported the following bills as proper for such reference, to wit:

The bill entitled "An act authorising Martin B. Young to construct a dam across the Canisteo river;" the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Ithaca and Havana turnpike road company;" the bill entitled "An act relative to the clerk's office of the county of Broome;" the bill entitled "An act to confirm the conveyance of a certain piece of land therein mentioned, to Joseph Howard;"

the bill entitled "An act to amend an act authorising the trustees of school district number eight in the town of York, to sell the old school lot belonging to the said district;" the bill entitled "An act authorising Ann Eliza Babcock to take the maiden name of Seeley;" the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act for the relief of John Griffiths and Eleanor Griffiths;" the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act for the relief of the representatives or devisees of Robert Adams deceased;" and the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to change the name and style of the First Presbyterian church and society in Roxbury."

Thereupon,

Ordered, That the committee of the whole be discharged from the further consideration of the said several bills, and that the bill entitled "An act authorising Martin B. Young to construct a dam across the Canisteo river," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Phœnix, Mr. Graves and Mr. Fitch; that the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Ithaca and Havana turnpike road company," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Dana, Mr. Dean and Mr. Hubbard; that the bill entitled "An act relative to the clerk's office of the county of Broome," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Franklin, Mr. Fitch and Mr. Chandler; that the bill entitled "An act to confirm the conveyance of a certain piece of land therein mentioned, to Joseph Howard," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Fillmore, Mr. Hazeltine and Mr. Mixer; that the bill entitled "An act to amend an act authorising the trustees of school district number eight in the town of York, to sell the old school lot belonging to the said district," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Skinner, Mr. Goodman and Mr. P. C. Fuller; that the bill entitled "An act authorising Ann Eliza Babcock to take the maiden name of Seeley," be referred to a select committee, consisting of the members attending this house from the city and county of Albany; that the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act for the relief of John Griffiths and Eleanor Griffiths," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Dayton, Mr. Arnold and Mr. Myers; that the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act for the relief of the representatives or devisees of Robert Adams deceased," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Armstrong, Mr. Bostwick and Mr. Boynton; and that the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to change the name and style of the First Presbyterian church and society in Roxbury," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. M'Crea, Mr. Redfield and Mr. Al Burtis; to be by the said select committees severally reported complete.

SILVANUS RUSSELL, Inspector.

Buffalo, March 2, 1829.

Ordered, That the said report be laid upon the table.

Ordered, That the committee of the whole house, to which was re-committed the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled " An act concerning the state prisons of this state," be discharged from the further consideration of the said bill, and that the same be read the third time.

Ordered, That Mr. Waring have leave of absence for four days, Mr. H. W. Livingston for seven days, and Mr. Goodman for six days.

On motion of Mr. P. C. Fuller,

Resolved, That the comptroller be requested to lay before this house, a statement of the appropriations which have been made by the state, for the benefit of Columbia, Union and Hamilton colleges, respectively; specifying the time when each appropriation was made.

Mr. Edgerton offered for the consideration of the house, a resolution, in the words following, to wit:

Resolved, That the committee on banks and insurance companies be instructed to report bills to incorporate a bank in each of the senate districts of this state, subjected to the provisions of the revised statutes, except sections sixteen, seventeen and eighteen of title second of article first of chapter eighteenth of the first part of the Revised Statutes.

Ordered, That the said resolution be laid upon the table.

Ordered, That the committee of the whole be discharged from the further consideration of the bill entitled "An act to enable the trustees of the Dutch reformed church in the town of Bushwick in the county of Kings, to sell a lot of land lying in the village of Williamsburgh;" and that the said bill be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Al Burtis, Mr. Wyckoff and Mr. Jones, to consider and report thereon.

The house then proceeded to the consideration of the resolution heretofore offered by Mr. Judd: the same having been amended, was again read, in the words following, to wit:

Resolved, (if the Senate concur herein,) That the secretary of state is hereby required to cause to be published in a pamphlet form, chapter 20, titles 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7, of the first part of the Revised Statutes of this State; and copies thereof to be distributed to each of the town clerks of the several towns in this state, to be by him distributed to the supervisor, overseers of the poor, and one copy to each of the superintendents of the county poor-houses, and to their successors in office, in such town: And that the expense of such publication and distribution, be paid by the treasurer of this state, upon the warrant of the comptroller, out of any monies in the treasury of this state not otherwise appropriated.

Thereupon,

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution as amended, and it was determined in the negative.

Mr. Seeley, from the committee on engrossed bills, reported, that they have examined the engrossed bill entitled "An act to amend the act entitled 'An act to incorporate the Catskill and Ithaca rail-road company,' passed April 21st, 1828;" and find the same correctly engrossed.

The said engrossed bill, entitled "An act to amend the act entitled 'An act to incorporate the Catskill and Ithaca rail-road company,' passed April 21st, 1828," was read the third time.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the final passage of the said bill, and it was determined in the affirmative, two-thirds of all the members elected to this house voting in favor thereof, as follows, to wit:

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bill to the Senate, and inform them that this house have passed the same without amendment.

The engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act concerning the state prisons of this state," was read the third time.

Resolved, That the bill do pass.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bill to the Senate, and inform them that this house have passed the same without amendment.

The house then again resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act to create a fund for the benefit of the creditors of certain monied corporations, and for other purposes;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Seeley, from the said committee, reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, made sundry amendments thereto, and agreed to the same; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read.

Thereupon,

Ordered, That the said report do lie upon the table; and that the usual number of copies of the said bill as amended in committee of the whole, be printed for the use of the legislature.

And then the House adjourned until ten o'clock to-morrow morning.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 18, 1829.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the town of Orange in the county of Rockland, praying for the passage of an act directing that the property at Orangetown Point in said town, may be taxed for the construction of a road from that place to Bell's Point, was read, and referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Soper, Mr. Fowler and Mr. Waugh.

Two several petitions of sundry inhabitants of the county of Tompkins, praying for the incorporation of a bank to be located at the village of Ithaca, were read, and referred to the committee on the incorporation and alteration of the charters of banking and insurance companies.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the county of Rockland, praying for a grant of land under water at Orangetown Point, in said county, was read, and referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Allison, Mr. Soper and Mr. Fowler.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the towns of Bovina, Middletown and Roxbury, in the county of Delaware, praying for the passage of a law to annex parts of Middletown and Roxbury to Bovina, and the proceedings of a town-meeting held in Middletown, against annexing any part of that town to Bovina, certified by the moderator and town clerk, were severally read, and referred to the committee on the erection and division of towns and counties.

The remonstrance of sundry inhabitants of the town of Lawrence in the county of St. Lawrence, against the passage of a law to authorise an alteration of the boundary lines of that town, was read, and referred to the committee on the erection and division of towns and counties.

The petition of sundry infantry officers of the city and county of New-York, praying for the passage of a law to exempt them from jury duty during the time they are in office, was read, and referred to the committee on the militia.

The petition of John Enders, Hannah Greenman, and others, inhabitants of the county of Montgomery, praying legislative relief in relation to a ferry kept by the said John and Hannah across the Schoharie creek, was read, and referred to the committee on grievances.

The remonstrance of sundry inhabitants of the town of Bovina in the county of Delaware, against the passage of a law to annex parts of the towns of Roxbury and Middletown to that town, was read, and referred to the committee on the erection and division of towns and counties.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the village of Canajoharie in the county of Montgomery, praying for the passage of a law to incorporate that village, was read, and referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Randall, Mr. Morell and Mr. Falley.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the village of Fredonia in the county of Chautauque, praying for the passage of a law to incorporate that village, was read, and referred to the committee on the incorporation of cities and villages.

Mr. Burt, from the committee on the establishment and improvement of roads and bridges, and the incorporation of turnpike companies, to which were referred the memorial of sundry inhabitants of the town of Schuyler in the county of Herkimer, and the petition of the Mohawk turnpike company, severally praying for the passage of a law to authorise said company to abandon a part of their road, asked for leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Burt, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act authorising the Mohawk turnpike company to relinquish part of their road;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Burt, from the committee on the establishment and improvement of roads and bridges, and the incorporation of turnpike companies, to which was referred the petition of sundry inhabitants of the county of Rensselaer, praying for an amendment to the act incorporating the Sand-Lake and Nassau turnpike road, to authorise continuing said turnpike so as to intersect the Rensselaer and Columbia turnpike, asked for leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Burt, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to incorporate the Sand-Lake and Nassau turnpike company,' passed April 23d, 1823;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Burt, from the committee on the establishment and improvement of roads and bridges, and the incorporation of turnpike companies, on the petition of sundry inhabitants of the county of Orleans, praying for the passage of a law authorising the board of supervisors of said county to raise fifteen hundred dollars, to build a bridge across the Oak-Orchard creek, asked leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Burt, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to authorise the supervisors of the county of Orleans to raise money to build a bridge across the Oak-Orchard creek and Marsh creeks in the town of Carlton;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Dana, from the committee on the judiciary, to which was referred the message of his excellency the governor, respecting the appointment of a vice-chancellor, to reside in the city of New-York, reported:

That the object of the present application is to procure the substitution of a vice-chancellor, in the place of the circuit judge, to perform the duties of a court of equity in the first circuit. In order to decide upon the expediency of this measure, it may be proper to advert briefly to some of the causes which have contributed to the vast increase of equity business in this state, during a few years past.

Prior to the adoption of the new constitution, the whole equity jurisdiction was vested in a single officer, denominated the chancellor. The terms of his court were held in the cities of New-York and Albany; testimony was secretly taken by officers appointed for that purpose; and as juries do not attend the court, its powers and course of practice were entirely unknown to the people. Rumor, however, had assigned to this court a character by no means to be envied: Its great delays of justice, its oppressive costs and arbitrary power, were themes of frequent declamation, and deterred men from asserting their indisputable rights. Under such circumstances, it was not difficult for a single individual to perform the whole equity business of the state.

After Mr. Kent had been promoted to the chancellorship, he labored successfully to develop the hidden mysteries of the court. He simplified its practice, illustrated its principles, and extended the privilege of admission to many members of the bar who had been before excluded. A rapid increase of equity business necessarily followed; and, notwithstanding the splendid talents and indefatigable industry of the chancellor, the business was found to be accumulating upon his hands. To remedy this inconvenience, it was provided by the 5th section of the 5th article of the new constitution, that equity powers might be vested in the circuit judges, or in such other subordinate courts as the legislature might by law direct, subject to the appellate jurisdiction of the chancellor; and at the re-organization of the judiciary system in 1823, under the new constitution, equity powers were conferred upon the circuit judges within their respective jurisdictions, and they were required to hold at least four equity terms annually.

These proceedings have diffused through the community a knowledge of our system of equity: The mist which so long enveloped the court of chancery, has dispelled; the people have become familiarized with its proceedings; its practice is found to be less complicated than that of a court of law, and the costs of litigation not materially different. From being a subject of dread, it has become a favorite tribunal, spreading the shield of its protection over the unfortunate and the oppressed. The cardinal maxims of justice, are the rules which govern its decisions, and its means of attaining truth and enforcing equity, are greatly superior to those enjoyed by a court of law.

By the revised statutes, which take effect on the first of January next, its jurisdiction is considerably extended, and the courts of equity of the circuit judges, as separate from, and independent of the court of chancery, are abolished; but every circuit judge is constituted, within the limits of his circuit, an officer of the court of chancery, called a vice-chancellor, with powers not essentially different from those which he now enjoys.

The extensive commerce and progressive wealth of the city of New-York, have occasioned a much greater increase of litigation in that city, than in other parts of the state. Although at the time of organizing the present judiciary system, one circuit judge was deemed capable of discharging the duties of both the common law and equity jurisdictions in the first circuit, it has already been found necessary to establish another court of law. This new court limited to the city of New-York, divested of all jurisdiction over criminal cases, is required to be in session the greater part of the time, in order to discharge the duties devolving upon it. The remaining law business of the circuit judge, including his duties in the oyer and terminer, furnish him with ample employment. He has no time to officiate as vice-chancellor. The equity business of that circuit is consequently thrown upon the chancellor, increasing the labor of his office to an amount which no man is capable of performing. His calendar is constantly accumulating, and unless relief be soon granted, "the channels of justice must be blocked up."

The city of New-York is not alone interested in providing a remedy. If the business be suffered to accumulate upon the chancery calendar, as it must, unless a part be consigned to some other tribunal, the delay, amounting almost to a denial of justice, must fall alike upon the city and country causes, blighting the hopes of parties, and fearfully enhancing the expenses of litigation.

The committee believe that these difficulties may be obviated by substituting another vice-chancellor for the circuit judge in the first circuit. The equity business of that circuit will then be withdrawn from the chancellor; he will be relieved from the oppressive burden which now devolves upon him; the impediments which obstruct the avenues to the temple of justice will be removed, and the whole judiciary system adjusted and harmonized.

In order to interfere, as little as possible with the provisions of the revised statutes, the committee recommend that until the first of January next, when his regular business will commence, that the vice-chancellor act as an assistant to the chancellor, examining and deciding such causes pending in the court of chancery as may be referred to him for that purpose.

The committee are not aware of any constitutional objection to the appointment of a vice-chancellor, in the manner they have proposed. As he will be an officer of the court of chancery, constituting a branch and an integral part of that court, it appears to be unnecessary to derive the power for his appointment from the 5th section of the 5th article of the constitution. The legislature has always possessed the power to create and abolish offices appertaining to that court, and of conferring, at discretion, greater or less powers upon the incumbents of such offices. In pursuance of these principles, the committee have prepared a bill, and instructed their chairman to ask leave to introduce the same.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Dana, according to leave, brought in the said bill; entitled "An act for the appointment of a vice-chancellor for the first circuit;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Ordered, That the usual number of copies of the said bill and report be printed for the use of the legislature.

Mr. Skinner, from the committee on colleges, academies and common schools, to which was referred the petition of Joseph Lancaster, praying for pecuniary aid and relief, reported:

That they have attentively examined the petition and the accompanying letter; and although the facts set forth may not constitute a rightful claim, they address themselves with a force which it is difficult to resist, to the justice and liberality of the state.

Mr. Lancaster rests his appeal to the legislature, upon the ground that the state has derived important and permanent benefits from a system of education which he invented, and which he has matured and brought into general use, by the most intense application, and the most constant and unwearied exertion.

It is matter of history, that Mr. Lancaster commenced the business of instruction in London about the year 1798, upon a plan entirely new and original, and which was admirably calculated for the education of the poorer classes in that country; as the facilities of acquiring the elementary branches of learning were greatly increased, and the price of instruction was reduced to a rate altogether below what had ever before been known. It was demonstrated that a thousand scholars could be instructed by one master, with the aid of monitors; that the cost and use of books and stationary could be almost entirely dispensed with, by the introduction of the method of sand-writing; and the plan was not inaptly termed, "a system by which a school may teach itself."

Such was the success of this new mode of instruction, invented by a humble and unpretending quaker, that although he was persecuted as a dissenter, assailed by bigotry and fanaticism in every form, and proscribed by intolerant priests for teaching the bible without the creed, and assuming the office of a teacher without subscribing to the liturgy and the articles, he soon attracted the attention and gained the patronage of some of the most distinguished statesmen, and awakened a zeal and gave an impulse to public opinion in relation to the importance of educating (what were called) the lower orders in that country, that has rescued millions from the dominion of ignorance.

The first monitorial school established out of England, and the second out of London, was established in the city of New-York: the experiment proved completely successful. Similar schools have since been erected and sanctioned by legislative acts, in all the cities, and in many of the villages in this state. This plan of instruction has been adopted in most of the cities in the United States, and has extended to almost every civilized nation.

It has been the aim of Mr. Lancaster to extend the blessings of education to every condition, and to promote the universal diffusion of knowledge. To this end, he has directed the energies of a vigorous mind, with unwearied zeal and entire devotion, to the total neglect of his own pecuniary interests, and all the ordinary aims of human pursuit.

General La Fayette, in concluding a speech in the Chamber of Peers, which is referred to in the petition, remarks, that the Lancasterian system is, since the invention of printing, the greatest step which has been made for the extension of prompt, easy, and popular education.

It is not within the design of this report to examine minutely the merits of this system of education, or to set forth the many claims of its author to the character of a public benefactor. His life has been eminently useful; and it is scarcely possible that the extent of his labors and sacrifices in promoting the diffusion of knowledge, and the momentous interests of education, can be duly estimated. His fame is impressed upon the age in which he lives, and will be recorded in its history, and cherished by distant ages.

Mr. Lancaster came to the United States in the year 1818. After spending some time in this country, he was induced to visit South America, in the hope of advancing the cause of education, and with the promise of receiving an ample compensation for his services. But after spending three years in Colombia, where he met nothing but disappointment, and received nothing but hollow professions and empty promises, he returned to New-York. A draft upon London, which was presented to him by Bolivar, was subsequently dishonored. His limited means were exhausted by the sickness of himself and family; and he was compelled, by the pressure of poverty and affliction, to appeal to the public in New-York, to rescue his family from "want, and from accumulated oppression." The sum of four hundred dollars was contributed by individuals, and the sum of five hundred was given by the corporation, in a manner highly honorable to Mr. Lancaster, and which afforded a temporary relief from his embarrassments.

He states that he is at an advanced age; that his children are uneducated and unprovided for; that had he obtained a patent for his inventions, he might have placed himself beyond the reach of want; but that he has not the means of continuing his usefulness, or of providing for his family; and he proposes, if the legislature will grant him the means, to purchase a small farm in the county of Orange, and to establish a school for the education of village teachers.

The benefits which have resulted to the state from the Lancasterian system, are known and appreciated; and the committee are of opinion that relief ought to be granted to the petitioner. They are aware that it is not the province of the legislature to put their hands into the public treasury for the exercise of charity, or to legislate from the impulse of sympathy; but they are persuaded that the great and enduring blessings conferred by Mr. Lancaster, form a just consideration for the appropriation proposed, and that decided advantages may be expected from his future labors. They have therefore prepared a bill, which they now ask leave to introduce.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Skinner, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act for the relief of Joseph Lancaster;" which was read the first time. and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Ordered, That the usual number of copies of the said bill and report be printed for the use of the legislature.

Mr. Baragar, from the select committee to which was referred the petition of the supervisors of the county of Tioga, reported:

That they have examined said petition: from which it appears, that the county of Tioga is burthened with charges for the support of paupers, who have flocked into it from other counties in which poor-houses are erected. It also appears that said county is divided into two jury districts; that the courts are held alternately at the court-house in each district, which has been so established with a view to the future division of the county; that in consequence of this arrangement, and the prospect of a division of said county, the inhabitants cannot agree on a proper site for the erection of a county poor-house. They therefore ask the passage of an act, authorising the erection of a poor-house in each jury district of said county, whenever the supervisors of the several towns respectively shall deem it expedient, with the provision that one district shall not be taxed for a house erected in the other. The committee, believing unanimously that the prayer of the petitioners is reasonable, and ought to be granted, have prepared a bill, and directed their chairman to ask leave to introduce the same.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Baragar, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act authorising the erection of two poor-houses in the county of Tioga;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Dana, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Ithaca and Havana turnpike road company," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Al Burtis, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act to enable the trustees of the Reformed Dutch church in the town of Bushwick in the county of Kings, to sell a lot of land lying in the village of Williamsburgh," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Starr, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act authorising Ann Eliza Babcock to take the maiden name of Seeley," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Franklin, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act relative to the clerk's office of the county of Broome," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Fillmore, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act to confirm the conveyance of a certain piece of land therein mentioned, to Joseph Howard junior," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Dayton, from the select committee to which was committed the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act for the relief of John Griffiths and Eleanor Griffiths," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read and agreed to by the house, and the bill ordered to a third reading.

Mr. Boynton, from the select committee to which was committed the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act for the relief of the representatives or devisees of Robert Adams deceased," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read and agreed to by the house, and the bill ordered to a third reading.

Mr. Phœnix, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act authorising Martin B. Young to construct a dam across the Canisteo river," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed

The house then proceeded to the consideration of the report of the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act to amend an act authorising the trustees of school district number eight in the town of York, to sell the old school lot belonging to the said district;" the said report being that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree with the committee in their said report, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Ordered, That the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Salina and Susquehannah rail-road company," be the special order of the day for Friday the third day of April next.

On motion of Mr. Hubbell,

Resolved, That the regents of the university be requested to report to this house, what sums of money have been realized and paid over to the institutions interested in the lotteries granted by an act for the promotion of literature, passed April 13th, 1814; and what reports have been made to the regents by the said institutions, in pursuance of section sixth of the act entitled "An act to limit the continuance of lotteries," passed April 5th, 1822.

Mr. Bogert gave notice that he would, at some future day, ask leave to introduce a bill, prohibiting the circulation of bank notes of a less denomination than ten dollars, other than those issued by the incorporated banks of this state.

Mr. Paige gave notice that he would, on some future day, ask leave to introduce a bill to amend the act entitled "An act for the relief of Francis Wilkinson and others."

Three several messages from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bills therein mentioned, were read, informing that they have passed the bill entitled "An act to amend an act appointing commissioners to lay out and open a road from Cedar Point, westward, through the towns of Moriah and Newcomb in the county of Essex, passed April 21st, 1828;" the bill entitled "An act concerning the writ of certiorari in criminal cases," and the bill entitled "An act to repeal a part of a certain act therein mentioned;" in which bills they request the concurrence of this house.

The said bills were severally read the first time, and by unanimous consent were also read a second time, and the bill entitled "An act to amend an act appointing commissioners to lay out and open a road from Cedar Point, westward, through the towns of Moriah and Newcomb in the county of Essex, passed April 21st, 1828," was referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Burt, Mr. Gross and Mr. Bradish; the bill entitled "An act concerning the writ of certiorari in criminal cases," was referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Dana, Mr. Soper and Mr. Hubbell; and the bill entitled "An act to repeal a part of a certain act therein mentioned," was referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Johnson, Mr. Norton and Mr. Armstrong, severally to consider and report thereon.

A message from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bill therein mentioned, was read, informing that they have passed the bill entitled "An act authorising the investment of a part of the school fund in stock to be created for the construction of the Cayuga and Seneca canal;" in which bill they request the concurrence of this house.

The said bill was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Eldridge, Mr. Tower and Mr. W. M'Donald, to consider and report thereon.

Two several messages from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bills therein mentioned, were read, informing that they have passed the bill entitled "An act to divide the towns of Portland and Ripley in the county of Chautauque," and the bill entitled "An act to amend the act entitled 'An act to provide for the erection of a new court-house and jail in the county of Broome,' passed April 18th, 1828," severally without amendment.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bills to the acting Governor.

A message from the Governor, delivered by his private secretary, was read, in the words following, to wit:

TO THE ASSEMBLY.

GENTLEMEN,

I have the honor to transmit herewith, certain proceedings of the legislature of Virginia, forwarded to me by the Governor of that state, with a request that they should be laid before you.

E. T. THROOP.

Albany, March 18, 1829.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
RICHMOND, Feb. 28, 1829.

SIR—

In compliance with the request of the General Assembly of Virginia, I now do myself the honor of transmitting to your Excellency, copies of their proceedings, in relation to certain proceedings of the respective legislatures of South Carolina and Georgia, upon the subject of the tariff acts, the acts for internal improvements, &c. heretofore passed by congress; which were submitted to the consideration of the General Assembly during the present session, upon the request of those legislatures respectively; and most respectfully of asking you, sir, to cause the same to be laid before the legislature of New-York.

I am, Sir, very respectfully,
Your obedient servant,
WM. B. GILES.

To his Excellency the Governor of New-York.

Report of the select committee on the resolutions of Georgia and South Carolina.

The select committee to whom were referred the communication of the Governor, transmitting the proceedings of the legislature of Georgia, in relation to resolutions from the states of South Carolina and Ohio, and the proceedings of the state of South Carolina on the subjects of the tariff and internal improvements, have bestowed on those subjects their most profound consideration.

Having subjected the preambles and resolutions to strict examination and severe criticism, they find the annunciations and results to be mainly sustainable, so far as they pertain to the acts of congress, usually denominated the tariff laws, and thus designated in those several proceedings.

The proceedings of the legislature of the state of Georgia, as well as those on which they are founded, emanating from the legislature of South Carolina, announce and sustain the opinions of Virginia, heretofore proclaimed by successive legislatures; opinions, which rest on truth and reason; which your committee can discern no cause to relinquish: but which they are ready to defend and sustain, as involving the most essential interests of the commonwealth.

Respect for the dignity and character of Virginia, and an anxious regard for the tranquillity of the Union, admonish your committee to withhold such remarks as might be suggested by the consciousness of oppression: such remarks could have no other tendency than to excite hostile emotions, ill adapted to the grave consideration of the momentous question which they are deputed to examine. Your committee will, therefore, proceed with calmness and temperance, to examine the opinion heretofore expressed by preceding legislatures of this state, that the several acts of congress, passed avowedly for the protection of domestic manufactures, are manifest infractions of the federal constitution, and dangerous violations of the sovereignty of the states.

The government of the United States, has ever been regarded by the sovereignty of Virginia, as federative in character, and limited in power; as deriving its powers from concessions by the states, which concessions were clear and explicit, plainly declarative of all which was delegated, and actually containing a specific enumeration of every power designed to be transferred. The purposes for which these powers may be exerted, have been regarded as distinctly defined, and it was considered that the government was prohibited, alike, from the exercise of any power not contained in the specific enumeration, as from the perversion of those actually delegated, to any purpose not contemplated in the grant. The convention which, on the part of Virginia, ratified the constitution of the United States, gave this interpretation to the instrument.—Its advocates then urged its adoption, as constituting such a government, as is here described. It was insisted, on many occasions, that the powers of the government were expressly enumerated; and that none others could be claimed. It was insisted, with equal earnestness, that the purposes for which these powers might be exerted, were as distinctly ascertained, and that they could not be perverted to any other object. The ablest and most zealous advocates of the constitution insisted, that such was its just construction, even according to the terms of the original text, and it must be acknowledged, that this construction is strengthened, by the subsequent adoption of amendments to the constitution. Those who opposed the ratification of the constitution, founded their objection on a supposed absence of limitation, according to the plan originally submitted; and proposed, as an expedient to remedy this defect, the amendments which were subsequently adopted. A majority, however, of the convention, determined on the ratification of the original text, explained and defined by its advocates, as organizing a government with limited powers, specifically enumerated, and restrained in the exercise of those powers, to the attainment of specific ends. An anxious solicitude to establish indisputably this construction, induced the recommendation of those amendments which have since been engrafted on the constitution, establishing this construction even in the opinion of those who opposed the adoption of the constitution.

This being the sense in which the constitution of the United States was originally accepted, your committee have anxiously examined the record of succeeding time, to discover if any thing has since occurred, calculated to change the import of the instrument; and after the most patient examination, they confidently report, that nothing has transpired which could in any manner modify its just construction. If at any succeeding period, attempts have been made to pervert the import of the original compact, Virginia has ever been prompt to avow her unqualified disapprobation, and manifest her undisguised discontent. The imperishable history of '98, has perpetuated the memory of her laudable zeal, in sustaining the true principles of the constitution, in maintaining the sovereign rights of the states, in successfully resisting the lawless usurpations of a government bent on the acquisition of boundless power. The deliberations of the legislature of this commonwealth, during the period of '98 and '99, in relation to the construction of the constitution, by a felicitous combination of circumstances, resulted in a just and luminous exposition of the true principles of the federal compact. This expose clearly ascertained the just limitations of federal power, and happily pointed out to future generations the just rule of interpreting the instrument. The construction then placed on the constitution, was submitted to the decision of the most august of all tribunals, and sustained by the judgment of United America.

The history of Virginia discloses several occasions, on which the constitution was brought in review, and the committee have found that on every occasion where the question was involved, the former legislatures of this commonwealth have insisted on a limited construction of the instrument. Sustained by the concurrence of our predecessors, from the earliest history of the constitution, your committee find but little difficulty in determining the government of the United States to be federative in its character, and limited in its powers: that the powers vested in the government, are conveyed in an express enumeration: that no power can be constitutionally exercised, which is not contained in that enumeration: that the purposes for which the government was instituted, are explained in the instrument: and that the powers specified in the enumeration, cannot be legitimately exerted for any purpose not designated by the constitution.

Regarding these propositions as true, it seems to your committee, that to determine on the constitutionality of laws, passed for the protection of American manufactures, it can only be necessary to examine the enumeration of grants. If the power be there expressly delegated, then, indeed, the question ends. If on the contrary, no such power be there expressly conveyed, we must recur to further reflection.

In examining this enumeration of grants, your committee have not been able to discover any such express delegation, authorising the protection of American manufactures, by means of prohibitory, or protecting duties. They find, however, a clause in the constitution, empowering congress "to promote the progress of science and the useful arts, by securing for limited times, to authors and inventors the exclusive right to their respective writings and discoveries." On a critical examination of this clause, it will be found to bear with much force on the question, whether or not congress have the right to advance the manufacturing interest of America, by the imposition of prohibitory, or protecting duties? The ends which the government may attempt, are plainly ascertained by the terms of the compact. The means which may be legitimately exerted, for the accomplishment of these ends, are as plainly determined and described. The phrase useful art, it will be conceded, embraces and describes the manufacturing art; and it is deemed competent for congress to promote its progress, by securing for a time, to any fortunate or scientific artificer, the exclusive use of all his discoveries. The interest, then, of the manufacturing art may be promoted after the manner indicated in this clause; but the suggestion of this particular mode operates as an exclusion of all other modes, and it seems to follow as a natural consequence, that the manufacturing interest may not be promoted by the imposition of prohibitory or protecting duties.

The proceedings which were had in the federal convention, confirms this construction of this clause. The plan of government finally adopted, was submitted to the consideration of the convention on the 29th May, 1787, by an honorable member from the state of South Carolina. No such clause as the one now under consideration, was contained in the original draft, nor was any such engrafted on that draft by the select committee to whose examination the plan was subjected. On the 18th day of August, succeeding, it was proposed to consider the propriety of conferring on the government additional powers; and among others, the following were suggested for reflection:

To give to congress the power "to secure to literary authors, their copy rights for a limited time."

"To encourage, by proper premiums and provisions, the advancement of useful knowledge and discoveries."

"To grant patents for useful inventions."

"To establish public institutions, rewards and immunities, for the promotion of agriculture, commerce, trades and manufactures."

These propositions were referred to a select committee, who, after mature reflection, reported on the 5th of September following, the clause as it now stands in the body of the constitution; investing congress with the power "to promote the progress of science and the useful arts, by securing for limited times, to authors and inventors, the exclusive right to their respective writings and discoveries." It became the duty of that committee, in the examination of the subjects to them referred, to inquire into the expediency of investing congress with powers "for the promotion" of "manufactures." In the event that they should find it expedient, it became their duty further to ascertain, the "proper premiums and provisions" over which congress should be invested with power; what "public institutions, rewards and immunities" congress should be authorised to "establish" "for the promotion of agriculture, commerce, trades and manufactures": and after due deliberation, occupying the attention of the committee from the 18th of August to the 5th of September, it was determined that the only provision which should be made, was contained in the clause which at present occupies our attention. Thus, actually rejecting the propositions which were referred, and negatively declaring their intention, that congress should have no other power "to promote the progress" of "manufactures," than that of "securing for limited times" "to inventors, the exclusive right to their respective" "discoveries." This report was sustained by the convention, who thereby afforded unequivocal evidence of their will and design, in relation to the subject of domestic manufactures. Manufactures had become the subject of their thoughts: They gravely deliberated on the powers necessary to be vested in the government, for the promotion of the manufacturing art, and after a consultation of seventeen days, solemnly determined, that the only power over the subject, which it was wise to confer on the government, was, that of securing temporarily to inventors, any exclusive advantages which might result from their discoveries. Your committee cannot but regard these occurrences as a virtual, if not an actual rejection of the proposition to invest congress with any other powers, for the promotion of manufactures. And they are, therefore, the more confirmed in their conviction, that manufactures cannot be legitimately promoted, by the imposition of prohibitory or protecting duties.

Your committee would not rest assured, of a faithful discharge of the important duties which devolve upon them, were they to withhold all comment on such clauses of the constitution as have been claimed to convey to congress the right to protect domestic manufactures. The 8th section of the 1st article, has been relied on as conveying that right. This section provides, that "congress shall have power to lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts and excises, to pay the debts, and provide for the common defence and general welfare of the United State; but all duties, imposts and excises shall be uniform throughout the United States." It is insisted by the advocates of protecting duties, that congress is invested by this clause, with unqualified power over the subject of duties and imposts; which may be well exerted for the advancement or advantage of the American manufacturer. But this proposition appears to your committee to be entirely unsustainable. So far from conveying to the government of the United States unqualified power over the subject of duties and imposts, that government is restrained in the exercise of its power over the subject, to the accomplishment of objects enumerated in the very clause itself. The words, "to pay the debts, and provide for the common defence and general welfare of the United States," are ascertained by the plainest rules of gramatical construction, to be a limitation on the preceding member of the sentence, restraining congress in the exercise of the power "to lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts and excises," to the objects of paying the debts, and providing for the common defence and general welfare of the United States. If this be true, the section contains an express enumeration of all the purposes for which the power may be exerted: The care and attention of American manufactures, are not embraced within this enumeration; and it would seem to your committee necessarily to follow, that the power conveyed by the section, cannot be exerted for the protection or promotion of American manufactures.

It would be uncandid in your committee to elude or evade the examination of the question, whether or not the words "to pay the debts, and provide for the common defence and general welfare of the United States," convey to congress distinct or substantive grants of power? The affirmative of this proposition has been maintained by the advocates of protecting duties; but your committee confess, that after the most mature deliberation, they have not been able to arrive at a similar conclusion. The collocation of the words excludes the idea of such a construction. They are inserted after the terms "duties and imposts," and are immediately succeeded by the words "but all duties, imposts and excises, shall be uniform throughout the United States." This concluding member of the section proves, that the attention of its framers had not been diverted from their primary subject. They had not introduced another subject, but were engaged in modifying, restraining or regulating the power over the subject first introduced. Their provisions were to have reference to it; there was nothing else on which they could attach, and the words "to pay the debts, and provide for the common defence and general welfare of the United States," could no otherwise affect the power "to lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts and excises," than as creating a limitation, restraining congress in its exercise, to the raising of money for the purpose of paying the debts, and providing for the common defence and general welfare of the United States. Had the convention designed these words as conveying any substantive grant, they would have been separated by more distinct marks of punctuation. They would have been thrown into a separate sentence. This was done in every other instance. All other subjects of grants of power have been treated of in sentences. The grants and provisions on each subject, are perfected and concluded before the introduction of another subject; and it would seem to your committee to be unaccountable, if in this particular instance the convention had introduced a distinct grant between the clause which relates to the raising of money, and an acknowledged limitation on that clause. To construe the words as containing a substantive grant of power, is to convict the framers of the constitution of the gross impropriety of interpolating one substantive grant between another substantive grant and its acknowledged limitation. If these words, "to pay the debts, and provide for the common defence and general welfare of the United States," were designed as a limitation on the first member of the sentence, the collocation cannot be improved: They follow immediately the words which they were intended to qualify, and have a natural and obvious connection with them.

If, on the contrary, they be designed to impart additional energies to the government, the convention are convicted of this confused interpolation, when by a natural transposition of the members of the sentence, the design would have been clear. The difficulty would have been rendered less, had the section been construed thus: Congress shall have power,

To lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts and excises; but all duties, imposts and excises, shall be uniform throughout the United States.

Congress shall have power to pay the debts, and provide for the common defence and general welfare of the United States.

Had this subject been thus arranged, it would have strengthened the argument for protecting duties; but, as the members of the sentence are at present disposed, to construe the words "to pay the debts, and provide for the common defence and general welfare of the United States," as conveying substantive grants, is to convict the framers of the constitution of disjoining the limitation, "but all duties, imposts and excises, shall be uniform throughout the United States," from the power "to lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts and excises," which it was designed to limit, and of appending it to the power "to pay the debts, and provide for the common defence and general welfare of the United States," which it was not designed to affect at all. But, the convention is relieved from the imputation of these inaccuracies of composition, by giving to their proceedings their rational explication, that the latter members of the sentence were designed as limitations on the power to raise money: The one declarative of the purposes for which it might be raised, the other prescribing that it should not be raised in unequal proportions on the several sections of the Union.

If this conviction wanted confirmation, it would be found in the history of the section, as it was originally introduced to the consideration of the convention. It contained unlimited authority over the subject of taxes, duties, imposts and excises. It was submitted in these words: "The legislature of the United States shall have power to lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts and excises." In this form it was referred to a select committee, who reported it without amendment or appendage. On the 16th of August, it was proposed to insert at the end of the section: "Provided, That no tax, duty or imposition, shall be laid by the legislature of the United States, on articles exported from any state." The consideration was postponed, and the subject referred. Sixty days afterwards, the committee reported the section with amendments, so as to make it stand: "The legislature of the United States shall have power to lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts and excises, for payment of the debts and necessary expenses of the United States, provided that no law for raising any branch of revenue, except what may be specially appropriated for the payments of interest on debts or loans, shall continue in force for more than years."

Your committee here discover the origin of the clause which relates to the payment of the debts, and the provision for the common defence and general welfare of the United States. Under the terms in which it was introduced, no doubt can exist as to its object. It was a manifest limitation on the preceding member. The power to raise money had been granted without limitation, and the amendment restrained its exercise to the raising of money "for payment of the debts and necessary expenses of the United States," with the addition of a proviso containing even a further limitation. On the 23d of August, it was moved to amend this section so as to make it "the legislature shall fulfil the engagements, and discharge the debts of the United States, and shall have power to lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts and excises." This motion prevailed, but was re-considered on the ensuing day, and the subject re-committed. On the 31st of August, it was agreed that "duties, imposts and excises, laid by the legislature, shall be uniform throughout the United States." On the 4th of September, the committee fully and finally reported the section, in these words, thus punctuated: "The legislature shall have power to lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts and excises, to pay debts and provide for the common defence and general welfare of the United States." It does not appear from the journal of the convention, that this part of the section ever again came under consideration, after the confirmation of this report; except that perhaps, on the 14th of September, it received as an amendment the addition of these word: "but all duties, imposts and excises, shall be uniform throughout the United States." A committee of five members was appointed "to revise the style of, and arrange the articles agreed to by the house." This committee was invested with no power to adopt any amendment affecting in any manner the import of the sentence, and whatever modification is subsequently experienced, was adopted from a regard to propriety of arrangement, and accuracy of style.

It is obvious from this plain relation, that the original design in introducing this member of the sentence, was the creation of a limitation on the power to raise money, prohibiting the exertion of that power, except "for payment of the debts and necessary expenses of the United States." This limitation was had constantly in view, and whatever modifications the language experienced, were adopted from a regard to the propriety of style.

Various and numerous are the reflections which have suggested themselves to your committee, demonstrating the truth of the proposition, that congress cannot, legitimately "lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts and excises," to advance the interest of the American manufacturer. It will not be contended, that congress have power to impose and collect taxes or excises, to confer gratuities on any favored portion of the community; none would contend for such a power, and for the honor of the American people, it is hoped, that few would submit to its practical operation; but the power of congress over duties and imposts, is not more ample than that over taxes and excises. The power over all is precisely the same; conferred by the very same section of the constitution; by the use of the very same terms; under precisely the same limitations. Any object which may be accomplished or attempted, by the exertion of the power to lay and collect duties and imposts, may be as constitutionally accomplished or attempted, by the exertion of power to lay and collect taxes or excises. The selection from among these various means, is left to the wisdom and discretion of congress. The propriety of selecting the one or the other, must be resolved into a question of expediency, and on occasions where congress may not select at discretion, it has no power to select at all. If, then, taxes and excises may not be legitimately imposed, to confer gratuities on the favorites of government, it would seem to your committee to be difficult to demonstrate the competency of the government to lay and collect duties and imposts, to further the interest of the American manufacturer, who, far from rendering any equivalent for the advantage which he derives from the operation of the tariff, occasions a great and incalculable loss to the treasury.

Acting under the influence of these reflections, your committee are constrained to adopt the opinion, that there is nothing in this section, which confers on congress the right to foster domestic manufactures, by the imposition of prohibitory or protecting duties.

This right has been claimed for the government, under the clause which gives to congress the power "to regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several states, and with the Indian tribes." But it seems to your committee, that the authority to regulate commerce, involves no power over domestic manufactures. The phrases are entirely dissimilar, and cannot be construed as synonimous. Each is a distinct, determinate subject, and they cannot possibly be identified. Commerce being the interchange of commodities, implies the exchange of one thing for another, between different individuals or nations. Domestic manufactures are local establishments, founded for the production of commodities, and the phrase implies no exchange at all. The term commerce associates a general idea of trade. The term manufactures associates the idea of fixed, permanent, local foundations. Commerce supplies to the American citizen, in return for the product of his labor, the varied products of distant climes. Manufactures convert his raw material into fabrics for consumption. Sophistry itself cannot identify things thus substantive and distinct; nor render synonimous, the terms or phrases by which they are represented. Yet the argument which derives the power to protect domestic manufactures from the power to regulate commerce, does indeed identify the subjects, and render the terms substantially synonimous.

The power too to regulate commerce, was granted with a view to its perfection. Independent of the consideration of revenue, it was delegated to secure the most advantageous arrangements in foreign trade, and to ensure domestic tranquillity, by extinguishing all subjects of cavil among the states, originating in particular conflicting legislation. But the policy of the protecting duty's system, is by no means the advancement of commercial interest. Its object is to extinguish foreign trade; whilst it surely disturbs domestic tranquillity, by furnishing a subject of loud and heavy complaint, of severe and angry recrimination. To derive, then, the right to protect domestic manufactures, from the power to regulate commerce, would be to pervert the design of the framers of the constitution, defeat the ends of the instrument itself, and to establish the paradoxical proposition, that it is the same thing to perfect and to destroy.

Having concluded this minute examination of the several clauses of the constitution, which were supposed to refer to the subject of protecting duties, or which have been claimed to have such reference, your committee find themselves occupying a position whence they may proceed with greater advantage to the contemplation of this momentous subject. The great design of the federal compact, as conceived by the wisdom of its illustrious authors, was the establishment of a government, competent to combine the energies of the several states, for the purposes of mutual and reciprocal safety and protection, against foreign insult and aggression: A government, adequate to secure the harmony and tranquillity of America, by exterminating all subjects of feud, and interposing its friendly and impartial adjudication, on occasion of cavil or dispute among the states. Experience had shewn to our sagacious statesmen, that these were subjects of a general concern, in which the states held a common interest; the advantages of which were mainly sacrificed by the particular conflicting legislation of the states. The jurisdiction over these, it was obviously proper to vest in some common tribunal, having authority to legislate for the general weal; and in relation to these subjects, to secure the greatest possible advantages to the common family of American states. The difficulty and delicacy of erecting such a tribunal, with powers adequate to these ends, yet so constructed as to ensure the perpetual independence of the states, with unimpaired authority over all other subjects, forcibly suggested itself to the sagacity of those who then controuled the destinies of America. They despaired of this vast achievement, by the efforts and under the sanctions of individual man; and wisely determined to bring to its accomplishment, the energies and sanctions of independent sovereignties.

Your committee will not impose on themselves the labor of compiling an historical sketch of the transactions which induced the foundation of the federal government. This history, it is presumed, is familiar to all. In conformity with arrangements previously understood, the distinct and independent states of America assembled in general convention at Philadelphia, and in their sovereign, corporate characters, proceeded to consider the nature of the compact, which it might be deemed wise to establish among themselves. All the proceedings which were then had, were despatched in their characters of sovereign states, and a government was instituted, not sustained by the sanction of a majority of the people of America, but by the sanctions of the people of the several states. The plan of government, then established, was conformable to suggestions heretofore made. Each of the sovereignties then assembled, determined to cede to the federal government, certain portions of its sovereignty, reserving the residue unimpaired. In the cessions which were made, the government was enabled to concentrate the whole strength of the Union, for the assertion and vindication of our national rights. It was invested with sufficient power to tranquillize disturbances among the states, together with a general jurisdiction over such matters of general concern, as involved the common interests of the states, but which could not be wisely arranged, by the rival, partial and conflicting legislation of the particular states. The jurisdiction over all other subjects was expressly reserved to the states respectively. All subjects of a local nature, the internal police of the states, the jurisdiction over the soil, the definition and punishment of crime, the regulation of labor, and all subjects which could be advantageously disposed, by the authority of a particular state, were reserved to the jurisdiction of the state governments. The wisdom of this regulation will not be questioned; for, it surely must be sufficiently obvious, that to subject our local or domestic affairs, to any other authority than our own legislature, would be to expose to certain destruction, the happiness and prosperity of the people of Virginia. This principle was accordingly established; that all subjects of a general nature should be confided to the federal government, while those which were local in their character, were reserved for the jurisdiction of the states respectively.

This distribution of political power having been established by the constitution, the happiness and prosperity of the American people demand that it should be preserved. The theory of government as established in America, contemplates the federal and state governments as mutual checks on one another, constraining the various authorities to revolve within their proper and constitutional spheres. Each government is invested with supreme authority, in the exercise of its legitimate functions; whilst the authority of either is wholly void, when exerted over a subject withheld from its jurisdiction. Should either depository of political power, unhappily be disposed to disregard the constitution, and destroy the proportions of our beautiful theory, it devolves upon the other to interpose, as well from a regard to its own safety, as for the perpetual preservation of our political institutions. If there be a characteristic of the federative system, peculiarly entitled to our admiration, it is the security which is found for individual liberty in the separate energies of distinct governments, uniting and co-operating for the public good; but separating and conflicting, when the object is evil. This inherent characteristic of the federative system, was contemplated with the most anxious solicitude by the founders of the federal republic. It was in it, that they found the general interests of America preserved from the clash of particular legislation; it was by it, that they fortified our domestic concerns from the invasions and infractions of federal authority; it was by it, that their fears were calmed and subdued, on the great question of adoption or rejection, when the very being of the federal constitution depended on the determination of the several states. The history of that eventful period, discloses the apprehensions of illustrious sages, lest the sacred liberty of the American citizen should be invaded by the arbitrary acts of the general government; and that these apprehensions could only be allayed by the assurance and conviction, that the state governments were adequate to the resistance of federal encroachments. The legislatures, then, of the several states, are contemplated by the theory of American government, as the guardians of our political institutions; and whenever their proportions are destroyed or violated, it becomes the duty of the several legislatures calmly and temperately to attempt their restoration.

The reflections in which your committee have indulged, constrain them to express their unfeigned regret that the government of the United States, by extending its influence to domestic manufactures, has drawn within its authority a subject over which it has no control, according to the terms of the federal compact; and that this influence has been exerted after a manner, alike dangerous to the sovereignty of the states, and injurious to the rights of all other classes of American citizens.

Acting under the influence of these reflections, your committee have contemplated with deep interest the situation of the general assembly, and the duties which devolve upon that body. They cannot suppress their solemn conviction, that the principles of the constitution have been disregarded, and the just proportions of our political system disturbed and violated by the general government. The inviolable preservation of our political institutions, is entrusted to the general assembly of Virginia, in common with the legislatures of the several states: and the sacred duty devolves upon them, of preserving these institutions unimpaired. Yet, an anxious care for the harmony of the states, and an earnest solicitude for the tranquillity of the Union, have determined your committee to recommend to the general assembly, to make another solemn appeal to those with whom we unhappily differ: and that the feelings of Virginia may be again distinctly announced, they recommend the adoption of the following resolutions:

1. Resolved, as the opinion of this committee, That the constitution of the United States, being a federative compact between sovereign states, in construing which no common arbiter is known, each state has the right to construe the compact for itself.

2. Resolved, That in giving such construction, in the opinion of this committee, each state should be guided, as Virginia has ever been, by a sense of forbearance and respect for the opinion of the other states, and by community of attachment to the Union, so far as the same may be consistent with self-preservation, and a determined purpose to preserve the purity of our republican institutions.

3. Resolved, That this general assembly of Virginia, actuated by the desire of guarding the constitution from all violation, anxious to preserve and perpetuate the Union, and to execute with fidelity the trust reposed in it by the people, as one of the high contracting parties, feels itself bound to declare, and it hereby most solemnly declares, its deliberate conviction, that the acts of congress, usually denominated the tariff laws, passed avowedly for the protection of domestic manufactures, are not authorised by the plain construction, true intent and meaning of the constitution.

4. Resolved, also, That the said acts are partial in their operation, impolitic, and oppressive to a large portion of the people of the Union, and ought to be repealed.

5. Resolved, That the governor of this commonwealth be requested to communicate the foregoing preamble and resolutions to the executive of the several states of the United States, with the request that the same be laid before their respective legislatures.

6. Resolved, That the governor be further requested to transmit copies of the same report and resolutions to the senators and representatives of Virginia in the congress of the United States, with a request to the representatives, and instruction to the senators, that the same be laid by them before their respective houses.

Agreed to by the House of Delegates.

A message from the acting Governor, delivered by his private secretary, was read, in the words following, to wit:

TO THE ASSEMBLY.

GENTLEMEN,

I have this day approved and signed the following bills:

"An act relative to public notaries and commissioners of deeds in the several cities of this state."

"An act providing for the appointment of inspectors of unslaked lime in the county of Greene."

E. T. THROOP.

Albany, March 17, 1829.

A communication from the secretary of state, as superintendent of common schools, was read in the words following, to wit:

STATE OF NEW-YORK,
SECRETARY'S OFFICE. } Albany, March 17, 1829.

The secretary of state, to whom was referred, as superintendent of common schools, the petition of the inhabitants of the city of Albany, in relation to the distribution of the common school monies, respectfully reports:

That the petition, which is signed by a very numerous and highly respectable portion of the inhabitants of Albany, complains of that provision in the existing law, by which "the whole of that part of the annual dividends of the common school fund which is apportioned to the city of Albany, is paid to the trustees of the Lancaster school": That many of the citizens "are so situated that their children cannot conveniently have access to the school"; "and from being at the same time debarred from participating in the bounty of the state, many poor and industrious citizens are unable to procure for their children the means of a common English education"; and the prayer of the petition is, that the school money may be "distributed among the several wards of the city, upon the conditions, and in the manner, that it is among the towns in the other parts of the state."

The trustees of the Lancaster school, on the other hand, feel a very deep interest in this question; and as their annual report is made officially to the superintendent, he has considered that he could not do better justice to the subject and the parties, than to give the following extract from that report:

"The present Lancaster school was first established by the corporation of the city of Albany, by an ordinance of the 14th of October, 1811, which appropriated out of the city funds (until legislative aid should be obtained,) the sum of $400 annually, for the support of the school, and placed it 'under the government and direction of persons to be chosen annually by the common council.' Under this organization, the directors of the school reported to the corporation on the 6th of December, 1811, that they had entered on the discharge of their duties, and had, among other things, determined 'that the price of tuition for each scholar should be from twenty-five cents to one dollar per quarter, to be apportioned according to the circumstances;' at the same time declaring, that the chief object of the institution was to provide for the education of poor children, and suggesting to the corporation the propriety and necessity of their granting a suitable site for a school-house, and making other provisions for the accomplishment of the great object in view. On receiving this report, the corporation, by a resolution of the 3d of February, 1812, appointed a committee to determine on a proper site for the school, and at the same time resolved that they would, at a future day, appropriate a sum of money sufficient to purchase the site which should be selected, and also to erect a suitable building for the school, on condition that the legislature would 'appropriate the money arising from the common school fund, and which by law would be the proportion to which the city of Albany would be entitled, expressly to the support of a Lancaster school in said city.' The directors of the school, on receiving notice of these proceeding in the corporation, immediately resolved to apply to the legislature, then in session, for an act of incorporation, and also for a grant to them of so much of the money arising from the common school fund, then for the first time about to be distributed, as should from time to time be allotted to the city of Albany. Such an application was accordingly soon after made to the legislature, with the consent and approbation of the city corporation, and the result was the present act of incorporation, passed the 26th May, 1812, and the grant made on the 19th of June of the same year, by a provision incorporated in the act for the establishment of common schools, directing that the share of school money apportioned from time to time to the city of Albany, should be paid to the trustees of the Lancaster school in said city, 'to be applied to the education of such poor children belonging to said city, as should be, in the opinion of the trustees, entitled to gratuitous education.' This provision in the school act has been continued in every revision which the act has undergone since 1812, and in conformity to it, the trustees have hitherto received all the school money allotted to the city of Albany.

"The trustees having thus fulfilled, on their part, the condition on which the corporation of the city had, by their resolution of the 3d of February, 1812, agreed to procure a suitable site for the school, and erect a proper building on it, applied for a performance of that agreement on the part of the corporation, and after several applications made with great urgency during the years 1813 and 1814, the corporation, by a resolution of the 14th May, 1814, appropriated, or agreed to appropriate, for the use of the school, the ground now occupied by it; and soon afterwards erected, at an expense of more than $20,000, the present building, which furnishes the most ample accommodations for all the departments of the institution. To this building the trustees removed their school in May, 1817, where it has ever since remained, affording the means of gratuitous education to every poor child in the city of Albany, who has applied for admittance to it.

"The trustees of the Albany academy having, on the application of the trustees of the Lancaster school, generously consented to receive and educate, gratuitously, in the higher branches of study pursued in their institution, a certain number of pupils, whom the trustees of this institution should select and present to them as worthy of such an honorable gratuity, it affords the trustees great satisfaction to be able to inform the society, that they have, in pursuance of the arrangement thus made with the academy, from time to time made various selections from the highest and most meritorious scholars in the school, and presented the pupils selected by them, to the academy, as a reward for their distinguished merit. And they have the pleasure to add, that several of the pupils promoted by them to the academy, have, by their industry, talents and acquirements, shown themselves worthy of the honor conferred on them, and give promise of great future usefulness and respectability."

The trustees of the Lancaster school have appropriated $250 annually, for the education of poor children of color at a separate school.

The average number of scholars instructed gratuitously by the Lancaster school society, for the last three quarters, has been 392 each quarter, as appears by the report of the trustees.

A statement has been presented on the part of the petitioners, which assumes that there are 3,500 children in the city between the ages of 5 and 15: from this deduct 400, the average number attending the Lancaster school, which, says this statement, leave "three thousand one hundred entitled to public money who do not receive it."

This is an erroneous view of the subject. The Lancaster school is open to the children of all the other wards of the city, as much as it is to those of the ward in which the building is located; and none are turned away or neglected in consequence of their location, or inability to pay. The distance which some scholars have to walk to get to the school, may, in many cases, be inconvenient; but it is stated by one of the trustees, that great numbers of children do attend the school from the remote parts of the fifth ward. If, then, the privileges of the Lancaster school are enjoyed alike by the children residing in all the wards of the city, or at least by such in each ward as need the aid of the school money, the complaint that the 3,100 children, who have the ability and the inclination to attend pay schools, are deprived of that share of the school money to which they are entitled, loses all its force. In every village in the state, there are private schools, and the children attending those schools are enumerated among those who draw public money; but they are not entitled, by law or usage, to any share of the money, unless they attend the district school, which is open to all who desire to attend. The privileges of the Lancaster school are not by any means restricted to the territory of the first ward; the building, to be sure has its location in that ward; but the advantages which flow from instruction, are extended to all parts of the city.

The plan to which allusion has been made, contemplates that the city should be divided into fifteen school districts. This number of districts, and even a greater number, might be necessary, if it could be expected that the children would as generally attend the district schools here as they do in the country towns. But experience in other cities, and in villages, satisfactorily shows that this cannot be anticipated. In Troy, the four first wards, embracing a population of more than 7,000 at the last census, are, by a special act, formed into one district, and the commissioners of schools are prohibited from altering the district thus formed. In 1827, this district contained 1,685 children, between 5 and 15, and received $871 78, and instructed only 309 scholars during the year. It was ascertained however, in 1827, that there were in the city of Troy 17 private pay schools, in which 735 scholars were instructed. The village of Utica, by a special act of the legislature, (sec. 156, chap. 15,) forms one school district; within the bounds of this dictrict, it will be seen by the last school report, there are 1,500 children between 5 and 15; the amount of public money paid to the free school, is $623 56, and only 215 scholars are returned as having been taught during the year, The town of Brooklyn is divided into five districts by the school commissioners; the number of children returned between 5 and 15, is 2,604; the public money paid to the five districts, amounts to $1,335, and yet only 760 scholars are reported to have been taught in the common schools during the year 1828.

According to the principles advanced in the statement before alluded to, there are in Troy 1,376 children "entitled to public money who do not receive it;" in Utica, 1,825; in Brooklyn, 1,844; in Poughkeepsie, 847; in Catskill, 353; and a state of things somewhat similar exists in all the principal villages of the state.

It is reasonable to believe that in all these cases an increase of the number of district schools might be beneficial, and would tend to a more just equalization of the school money; but if the present apportionment is unjust in Albany, it is equally so in the other places referred to. The common school system, as it now exists in relation to the cities and villages, has been adopted by special acts of the legislature, on the application and by the advice of those who had the best means of forming correct opinions in the several towns interested; and a system thus matured, and producing satisfactory results, ought not to be cast aside for light causes, or in any manner changed without mature deliberation.

If it is proposed to furnish schools for all the children of the city, fifteen schools, as proposed, would be altogether insufficient; and if it is designed to embrace such only as do not choose to attend private pay schools, fifteen school houses, in addition to the Lancaster school, would not be required. In 1827 a census of the schools in Albany was taken, and there were at that time forty-three private pay schools in the city, in which 1,914 scholars were instructed; this number of schools has been undoubtedly increased, and most of them would continue even after the establishment of district schools.

After the consideration which the superintendent has been able to bestow upon this subject, he would respectfully suggest:

That the inhabitants of the wards at the annual meetings for electing supervisors, &c. be authorised to choose a commissioner of common schools in each ward; that these shall form a board of commissioners for the city, with power to form school districts not exceeding four, in the compact part of the city; nor more than two districts, in addition, beyond those bounds. That when the commissioners form a district, they shall appoint three trustees, whose duty it shall be to rent a school-house, and furnish it with necessary fuel and appendages, to employ a teacher, to fix the rate of tuition fees, and to collect the same from the patrons of the schools, except from those who, in the opinion of the trustees, ought to be exempted. The payment of the rent of the school-houses, might be provided for by the common council, and the amount be assessed upon the city. By section 133, chapter 15, the common council of Troy has power to raise 500 dollars annually, for a similar purpose.

The amount of school money apportioned to the city of Albany, is $988.02; the corporation pays to the Lancaster school, of the excise money, $500. In every other town and city in the state, a sum equal to the apportionment of school money from the state treasury, is raised by a tax upon the town, and distributed for the use of schools.

There is no valid reason for making Albany an exception to this general assessment. And in order to place this city upon a footing of equality with other parts of the state, there should be raised by tax, in addition to the $500 now paid to the Lancaster school, the sum of $488 for the use of schools. If, then, $500 were paid to the Lancaster school in addition to the $500 paid by the corporation, there would still remain $976 to be divided among the district schools, which might be distributed among them in proportion to the average number of children instructed, provided the schools were kept by competent teachers, for at least 10 months during the year. This would diminish the funds of the Lancaster school, but would at the same time lessen the number of scholars to be instructed gratuitously in that school. The amount of school money, however, would be about equal to that which was paid to the Lancaster school at the period when the act to make the apportionment exclusively to the trustees of that society was passed.

One advantage to be expected from having a number of district schools, would be the facilities which it would afford by means of the trustees, of ascertaining the means of each individual to pay for tuition. It is desirable that the parents or guardians should in all cases pay something for tuition. If this is exacted in every case, it produces an equality of feeling, which is always desirable, and a spirit of independence which ought to be cherished; and whether the amount paid is 25 cents or one dollar, it is the foundation of a claim which places every scholar upon an independent footing; and gratuitous instruction should be given only in extreme cases.

The petition states, that "many of our citizens diapprove of the Lancasterian mode of instruction." It is not improbable that such opinions are formed from a very imperfect knowledge of the monitorial system of instruction: a system which is in successful operation in many parts of the state, and which affords very great facilities for imparting useful instruction in the most economical manner. These prejudices against the system of instruction, ought not to be allowed to bear unfavorably upon the Lancaster school, in the decision of this question.

In closing this report, it is just and proper to say, that, in the opinion of the superintendent, the trustees of the Lancaster school have fulfilled all their obligations to the public; their exertions have been eminently beneficial in imparting instruction to such as had not the means or the inclination to acquire it themselves; and their labors of usefulness entitle them not only to the approbation, but the gratitude of every member of this community.

All which is respectfully submitted,

A. C. FLAGG,
Superintendent of Common Schools.

Ordered, That the said communication and petition be referred to the committee on colleges, academies and common schools.

Mr. W. Hall, from the committee on engrossed bills, reported, that they have examined the engrossed bill entitled "An act to authorise the board of supervisors of the county of Onondaga to borrow the sum of ten thousand dollars, for the purpose of completing the court-house and jail in said county," and that the same is correctly engrossed.

The said engrossed bill, entitled "An act to authorise the board of supervisors of the county of Onondaga to borrow the sum of ten thousand dollars, for the purpose of completing the court-house and jail in said county," was read the third time.

Resolved, That the bill do pass.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bill to the Senate, and request their concurrence in the same.

The house then proceeded to the consideration of the report of the committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act to create a fund for the benefit of the creditors of certain monied corporations, and for other purposes;" the said report being that the committee had gone through the said bill, made sundry amendments thereto, and agreed to the same.

Thereupon,

The report of the committee of the whole being divided, the 35th section thereof was read, in the words following, to wit:

§ 35. Every monied corporation subject to this act, shall be entitled to receive the legal interest established, or which may hereafter be established by the laws of this state, on all notes by them severally discounted or received in the ordinary course of business; but on all notes by them discounted or received in the ordinary course of business, which shall be mature in sixty-three days from the time of such discount, the said monied corporation shall not take or receive more than at and after the rate of six per centum per annum in advance.

Thereupon,

Mr. Judd made a motion that the house should agree to amend the said report, by striking out the said 35th section, and inserting instead thereof the words following, to wit:

Every monied corporation subject to this act, shall be entitled to demand and receive, on all notes discounted and loans by them severally made, interest upon the same in advance at the rate of six per cent.

Debates were had upon the said motion of Mr. Judd; and the question being put whether the house would agree thereto, it was determined in the negative.

Thereupon,

The report of the committee of the whole being amended by the house, the same was read, in the words following, to wit:

An act to create a fund for the benefit of the creditors of certain monied corporations, and for other purposes.

The People of the State of New-York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. Every monied corporation having banking powers, hereafter to be created in this state, or whose charter shall be renewed or extended, shall be subject to the provisions of this act.

§ 2. For the purpose of creating and continuing the fund herein established, every such corporation shall, on or before the first day of January in every year, pay to the treasurer of this state, a sum equal to one half of one per cent on the capital stock of such corporation paid in, after excepting therefrom such part of said capital stock as is held by the state, and at that rate for the time such corporation shall have been in operation, if less than one year.

§ 3. At the time of making any such payment, the corporation making the same, shall cause to be delivered to the treasurer of this state, a statement, signed by the president and cashier of the corporation, and verified by their oath, duly made before some officer authorised to administer oaths, specifying the actual amount of the capital stock of such corporation paid in, and designating in such statement the amount of said capital stock as shall be owned by the state.

§ 4. The said annual payments shall continue to be made, until every such monied incorporation shall have paid into the treasury three per cent upon its capital stock, which shall be and remain a perpetual fund, to be denominated the "bank fund," and to be inviolably appropriated and applied to the payment of such portion of the debts, exclusive of the capital stock, of any of the said corporations which shall become insolvent, as shall remain unpaid, after applying the property and effects of such insolvent corporation as hereafter provided.

§ 5. The comptroller and treasurer of this state, shall keep proper accounts of the said bank fund, separate and distinct from the other funds of this state; and the comptroller shall from time to time report to the legislature the condition thereof.

§ 6. The said fund shall be the property of the corporations by which the same shall be paid, in proportion to the amount which each of such corporations shall have contributed thereto; but the comptroller shall have power, and it shall be his duty, from time to time, to invest the same, and all monies belonging thereto, in the manner provided by law in respect to the common school fund. And whenever it shall become necessary, for the purpose of meeting any charges on the said fund, to sell any stocks in which such fund or any part thereof may be invested, the comptroller shall have power to make such sale.

§ 7. The income arising from said fund, after deducting thereout the salaries of the bank commissioners hereinafter mentioned, shall annually be paid by the comptroller to the several corporations by which the said fund shall be created, in proportion to the amount which each of the said corporations shall have contributed thereto: But no corporation shall be entitled to any part of the said income, after it shall become insolvent, or shall be dissolved, or its charter shall expire.

§ 8. Whenever the fund created by this act shall be reduced by the payment of the debts of an insolvent corporation, to be made as hereinafter provided, below the sum as provided in the fourth section of this act, every monied corporation then existing, which shall be subject to this act, and every such corporation thereafter to be created, shall, on or before the first day of January in every year thereafter, pay to the treasurer of this state, such sum to be designated by the comptroller, not exceeding a sum equal to one half of one per cent on its capital stock, as herein before provided; which last mentioned annual payments shall continue to be made by every corporation subject to the operation of this act, until the aforesaid fund shall be reimbursed, and made to amount to the sum as provided in the fourth section; after which, such annual payments shall be suspended, until it shall become necessary again to resort to the said fund, by reason of the insolvency of any such corporation, as hereinafter provided, when the said payments shall be resumed in manner aforesaid; and so on, from time to time, as occasion may require.

§ 9. Whenever any corporation subject to the operation of this act, shall become insolvent, and shall be proceeded against as hereinafter provided, it shall be the duty of the court of chancery, immediately after a final dividend of the property and effects of such insolvent corporation shall have been made among the creditors thereof, to cause an order to be entered on its minutes, setting forth,

1. The total amount of debts against the said corporation, ascertained and established by the said court, including lawful interest thereon:

2. The nett amount of monies derived from the property and effects of the said corporation, and applied, under the direction of the said court, towards the satisfaction of such debts: And,

3. The total amount of monies then requisite to pay off and discharge the said debts.

Such order shall also direct the receiver appointed to take charge of the property and effects of the corporation, to apply to, and receive from, the comptroller of this state, in the manner hereinafter provided, the sum which shall be required to pay off and discharge the said debts.

§ 10. Upon such receiver's filing with the comptroller of this state, a copy of such order, duly certified by the proper officer, and countersigned by the chancellor, it shall be the duty of the said comptroller to draw his warrant on the treasurer, in favor of such receiver, for such sum, not exceeding the amount of the bank fund, as may have been declared by the said court of chancery to be necessary to satisfy the debts of the said corporation; and the monies paid to such receiver by such warrant, shall be paid out by him, under the direction of the court of chancery, to the several creditors of the corporation.

§ 11. If at the time of filing with the comptroller the copy of such order, the bank fund shall be insufficient to satisfy all the debts of the insolvent corporation, a sum sufficient to satisfy the residue of such debts as shall remain unpaid, shall be paid to such receiver, in the manner provided in the last preceding section, out of the first monies that shall thereafter be paid to the treasurer pursuant to the eighth section of this act: and the monies so paid to such receiver, shall be paid out by him in the manner required in the last preceding section.

§ 12. The monies so paid out of the treasury, and all other monies required by this act to be paid out of the treasury, shall be a charge upon the bank fund hereby created.

§ 13. Whenever the charter of any monied corporation, subject to the provisions of this act, shall expire, every such corporation shall be entitled to receive its proportional share of said bank fund, which such corporation may have contributed thereto. after deducting thereout a proportional part of the charges upon said fund, and which share the comptroller is hereby authorised to pay to said corporation.

§ 14. No creditor of any insolvent corporation shall, by virtue of this act, receive interest upon his debt against such corporation, from and after the time such order is made, as is required by the ninth section of this act; nor shall such creditor be entitled to interest anterior to the presentation of his demand against such corporation, to the receiver that shall be appointed to take charge of the property and effects of such corporation.

§ 15. Three persons, to be styled "the Bank Commissioners of the State of New-York," shall be appointed in the manner hereinafter provided; whose duty, or the duty of one of whom, it shall be, once at least in every four months, to visit every monied corporation upon which the provisions of this act shall be binding, and thoroughly to inspect the affairs of the said monied corporations; to examine all the books, papers, notes, bonds and other evidences of debt of said corporations; to compare the funds and property of said corporations, with the statements to be made by them as hereinafter provided; to ascertain the quantity of specie the said corporations have on hand; and, generally, to make such other inquiries as may be necessary to ascertain the actual condition of the said corporations, and their ability to fulfil all the engagements made by them.

§ 16. It shall be the duty of the said commissioners, or some one of them, to visit and inspect the condition and affairs of any monied corporation, more frequently than once in every four months, if required so to do, by any three of the monied corporations subject to the provisions of this act.

§ 17. The said commissioners, or either of them, shall have power to examine upon oath, all the officers, servants or agents of said corporations, or any other person, in relation to the affairs and condition of said corporations; which oath the said commissioners, or either of them, are personally authorised to administer.

§ 18. If the said commissioners shall ascertain from such inspection and examination, or in any other manner, that any of said corporations are insolvent, or shall have violated any of the provisions of their act or acts of incorporation, or of any other act binding on such corporations, the said commissioners shall immediately apply to the court of chancery, upon bill or petition, for an injunction against such corporation and its officers; and the same proceedings shall in all respects be had, and the court shall possess the like powers upon such application, as are provided by law, in respect to such applications, when made by the attorney-general, or by any creditor.

§ 19. It shall be the duty of the said commissioners, in the month of January in each year, to report to the legislature, the manner in which they have discharged the duties imposed upon them; and to accompany such report by such abstracts from the reports made to them, and by such other statements as they may deem useful.

§ 20. The governor shall nominate, and with the consent of the senate, appoint one of the said bank commissioners; and the several monied corporations subject to the provisions of this act, shall appoint two of said commissioners, in the manner following: Each of said corporations existing in the first, second, and third senate districts shall choose one delegate, which delegates shall assemble in convention at the City Hall of the city of New-York, at such time as shall be designated by the governor; the said delegates, or a majority of them, when so assembled together, on the day so designated, at the hour of four o'clock in the afternoon, shall proceed to organize the convention, by appointing one of their number chairman, and another of their number secretary; when so organized, the said delegates shall proceed to vote for one commissioner, by ballot; each delegate shall be entitled to one vote for every five thousand dollars of the capital stock of the monied corporation he represents, paid in, which shall be ascertained by the affidavit, duly made, of the president and cashier of each corporation, to be presented by the respective delegates at the time of such meeting; and the person receiving a majority of all the votes given by said delegates, for the said office of commissioner, shall be deemed duly appointed. A certificate of every such appointment, signed by the chairman and secretary of the convention, shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state.

§ 21. The monied corporations subject to the provisions of this act, existing in the fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth senate districts, shall likewise, by delegates, at the village of Auburn, at such time as shall be designated by the governor, choose one commissioner, in the same manner as is provided in the last preceding section.

§ 22. Whenever a vacancy shall happen in the office of either of the commissioners, the same shall be filled in the manner prescribed in the two last preceding sections.

§ 23. The said commissioners shall hold their offices for two years, but shall be at any time removable by the governor for misconduct or neglect of duty.

§ 24. Before the said commissioners shall enter upon the execution of the duties of their office, they shall severally take the constitutional oath of office, before the secretary of state or some one of the circuit judges, or judges of the county courts of any county; and within ten days thereafter, shall cause such oath, certified by the officer before whom it was taken, to be filed in the office of the secretary of state.

§ 25. The said commissioners shall not disclose the names of the debtors of any monied corporation examined by them, or any information obtained in the course of such examination, unless required in a court of justice, or in the course of some proceeding authorised by this act.

§ 26. There shall be allowed to each of said commissioners the annual salary of fifteen hundred dollars, to be paid quarterly out of the bank fund.

§ 27. It shall not be lawful for any such monied corporation, to issue, or to have outstanding or in circulation, at any time, an amount of notes or bills loaned or put in circulation as money, exceeding twice its capital stock then paid in, and actually possessed; nor shall its loans and discounts at any time exceed twice and a half the amount of its capital stock so paid in and possessed.

§ 28. If any such monied corporation shall violate the last preceding section, or shall neglect to make any annual payment to the treasurer of this state, required by this act, for the space of three months, after the time when the same ought to have been made, and after being notified of such delinquency by the comptroller of this state; or shall have lost one half of its capital stock paid in; or shall have suspended the payment of its bills in specie, for ninety days; or shall refuse to allow the officers of such corporation to be examined upon oath by the said commissioners, in relation to the affairs and condition of such corporation, every such corporation may be proceeded against by the said commissioners, and dissolved by the chancellor, as an insolvent corporation, as herein before provided.

§ 29. Every officer, agent, or clerk of a monied corporation, who shall make false statements or false entries in the books of such corporation, or shall exhibit false papers, with intent to deceive said commissioners, as to the condition of such corporation, shall be deemed guilty of felony, and shall be subjected to imprisonment in the state prison for a term not less than three nor more than ten years.

§ 30. The fourteenth, fifteenth, sixteenth, seventeenth and eighteenth sections of the second title of the eighteenth chapter of the First Part of the Revised Statutes, so far as they provide for the personal liability of the stockholders of any insolvent corporation shall not apply to any corporation subject to the provisions of this act; but the directors of every corporation subject to this act, shall be liable to the stockholders thereof, as provided in the said sections.

§ 31. The nineteenth, twentieth, twenty-first, twenty-second, twenty-third and twenty-fourth sections of the second title of the eighteenth chapter of the First Part of the Revised Statutes, shall be and are hereby so far modified, in respect to the incorporations subject to this act, that the statements therein required shall be made to the bank commissioners, instead of the comptroller; and the powers therein conferred on the comptroller, shall not extend to any such corporation.

§ 32. No stockholder of any monied corporation, having banking powers, shall be appointed a commissioner under and by virtue of this act.

§ 33. Every monied corporation subject to this act, shall be entitled to receive the legal interest established, or which may hereafter be established by the laws of this state, on all loans by them made, or notes or bills by them severally discounted or received in the ordinary course of business; but on all notes or bills by them discounted or received in the ordinary course of business, which shall be mature in sixty-three days from the time of such discount, the said monied corporation shall not take or receive more than at and after the rate of six per centum per annum in advance.

§ 34. Every monied corporation subject to this act, hereafter to be created, shall, before it makes any loans or discounts, have all its capital actually paid in; which payment shall be proved, on oath, to the satisfaction of the bank commissioners, before any such loans or discounts shall be made; and every monied corporation whose charter shall be hereafter extended, shall, within one year after such extension takes effect, pay in all its capital to be proved, in like manner to said bank commissioners: But every such monied corporation whose charter shall be hereafter extended, shall be permitted to reduce its capital stock to any sum not below the amount actually paid in at the time of the renewal of its charter; provided such corporation, within one year from and after the time of such renewal, shall file with the comptroller, a certificate, under the seal of the corporation, setting forth the sum to which its capital stock is to be reduced as aforesaid; the filing of which certificate shall exempt such corporation from the operation of this section, as to so much of its capital stock as shall be reduced in the manner above stated.

§ 35. No monied corporation subject to the provisions of this act, shall issue any bill or note of the said corporation, unless the same shall be made payable on demand, and without interest.

Debates were had thereon; and the question being put whether the house would agree with the committee of the whole in their report as amended, it was determined in the affirmative.

And then the House adjourned until ten o'clock to-morrow morning.

THURSDAY, MARCH 19, 1829.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

Two several petitions of sundry inhabitants of the county of Oneida, praying for the incorporation of a company to construct a turnpike road from Rome to Vienna, were read, and referred to the committee on the establishment and improvement of roads and bridges, and the incorporation of turnpike companies.

The remonstrance of sundry inhabitants of the town of Westmoreland, against a division of that town, was read, and referred to the committee on the erection and division of towns and counties.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of New-Utrecht in the county of Kings, praying for the passage of a law to extend the fike fishery in the waters adjacent to that county, was read, and referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Wyckoff, Mr. Jones and Mr. Bogert.

The petition of John Hooker, of the town of Ira in the county of Cayuga, praying for the passage of a law to authorise the surveyor-general to sell to him a certain lot of land, the property of the state, at its value as appraised by John M'Fadden, esquire, was read, and referred to the committee on public lands.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the county of St. Lawrence, praying legislative aid to construct a road through a part of the St. Regis reservation, was read, and referred to the committee on the establishment and improvement of roads and bridges, and the incorporation of turnpike companies.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the county of Queens, praying for the passage of a law to authorise them to construct a turnpike road from the village of Hempstead to the village of Bethpage in the town of Oysterbay, was read, and referred to a select committee, consisting of the members attending this house from the counties of Queens, Kings and Suffolk.

The petition of Hiram Paige, of the town of Fayette in the county of Seneca, praying for the passage of a law to authorise him to practise the curing of cancers, was read, and referred to the committee on medical subjects.

Mr. Falley, from the committee on the incorporation of cities and villages, to which was referred the petition of the trustees of the village of Salina, praying for an alteration of their charter, asked leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Falley, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to incorporate the village of Salina;'" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Armstrong, from the committee on the erection and division of towns and counties, to which was referred the petition of sundry inhabitants of the town of Manlius in the county of Onondaga, praying for a division of that town, asked for leave to report by bill,

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Armstrong, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to divide the town of Manlius in the county of Onondaga;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Morell, from the committee on the incorporation of cities and villages, to which was referred the petition of the trustees of the village of Whitehall in the county of Washington, for an extension of the limits of that village, asked for leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Morell, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to incorporate the village of Whitehall,' passed March 30th, 1820;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Savage, from the committee on grievances, to which was referred the petition of Erastus Crafts, for an extension of the time for the payment of a loan made by the state to one Daniel Johnson, asked for leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Savage, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act further to extend the time of a payment of a loan made to Daniel Johnson;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Morell, from the committee on the incorporation of cities and villages, to which was referred the petition of the trustees of the village of Ogdensburgh in the county of St. Lawrence, praying for a certain amendment in the act incorporating that village, asked for leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Morell, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to incorporate the village of Ogdensburgh,' passed April 9th, 1824;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Mann, from the committee on claims, to which was referred the petition of Charles Baker, together with the report of the canal board, reported the following resolution:

Resolved, That the prayer of the petitioner ought not to be granted.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Mann, from the committee on claims, to whom was referred the petition of Joseph Mather, praying remuneration of his costs and expenses in defending certain suits at law, in relation to a lot of land escheated to the people of this state, together with the report of the commissioners of the land-office thereon, reported the following resolution :

Resolved, That the prayer of the petitioner ought not to be granted.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Mann, from the committee on claims, to whom was referred the petition of William Brayton and eighteen others, praying the re-appraisal of damages occasioned by the construction of the Champlain canal, together with the report of the canal commissioners thereon, reported the following resolution :

Resolved, That the prayer of the petitioners ought not to be granted.

Ordered, That the said report be laid upon the table.

Mr. Wheeler, from the select committee to which was referred the petition of the supervisor, town clerk, and justices of the peace of the town of Charlton in the county of Saratoga, praying the legislature to alter the time of holding town meetings in said town, reported :

That they have had the same under consideration; and are of opinion that the inclemency of the season, and bad state of the roads on the first Tuesday of March, in that district of country, are sufficient reasons to grant the prayer of the petitioners. They have directed their chairman to ask leave to introduce a bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Wheeler, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to alter the annual town meetings of the town of Charlton in the county of Saratoga;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Tailor, from the select committee to whom was referred the petition of sundry inhabitants of the counties of Westchester and Putnam, praying for an alteration in the act entitled "An act to prevent the destruction of fish in Peach pond, situate in the counties of Westchester and Putnam," reported :

That the petitioners represent that the said act, referred to above, restrains the taking any fish from said pond, in any other manner than by single hook and line. They further state, that some of them were petitioners for the passage of said act, and that it was not intended by them, or so understood at the time they signed such petition, to restrain any person or persons from taking fish from said pond by means of using as many hooks and lines for such purpose, as they should find convenient or necessary. They therefore pray that said law may be so amended as to allow any person or persons to use, in taking fish from said pond, as many hooks and lines as they shall choose. The committee are of the opinion that the prayer of the petitioners ought to be granted, and have prepared a bill for that purpose, which they now ask leave to introduce.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Tailor, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to prevent the destruction of fish in Peach pond, situate in the counties of Westchester and Putnam,' passed February 26th, 1828;" which was read first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. M'Crea, from the select committee to which was committed the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to change the name and style of the First Presbyterian church and society in Roxbury," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read and agreed to by the house, and the bill ordered to a third reading.

Mr. Eldridge, from the committee appointed to examine all bills committed to a committee of the whole house, and to report all such bills as in their opinion may with safety and propriety be referred to select committees to report complete, reported the following bills as proper for such reference, to wit :

The bill entitled "An act to appoint commissioners to lay out a highway from Canadaway in the county of Chautauque, to the town of Perry in the county of Genesee;" the bill entitled "An act for the relief of the heirs of Jonas C. Baldwin deceased;" the bill entitled "An act to enable the Dutch reformed church in the towns of Rochester and Wawarsing to divide their parsonage lot, and the consistory of Wawarsing to sell their portion of said lot of land;" the bill entitled "An act authorising the commandant of the thirteenth regiment of artillery to constitute and appoint a regimental court-martial for certain purposes;" the bill entitled "An act authorising the town of Mount-Pleasant in the county of Westchester, to sell its town poor-house and farm;" the bill entitled "An act to amend the act incorporating the Albany and Greene turnpike road company, passed April 7th, 1806, and the several acts amending the same;" the bill entitled "An act for raising a sum not exceeding two thousand dollars, on the town of Lyons in Wayne county, this year and the next, to rebuild two bridges in said town;" the bill entitled "An act to amend the act entitled 'An act for the incorporation of the village of Syracuse,' passed April 13th, 1825;" and the bill entitled "An act authorising the board of supervisors of the county of Ulster to raise by tax one thousand dollars, on the inhabitants of the town of Shawangunk in said county."

Thereupon,

Ordered, That the committee of the whole be discharged from the further consideration of the said several bills, and that the bill entitled "An act to appoint commissioners to lay out a highway from Canadaway in the county of Chautauque, to the town of Perry in the county of Genesee," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Hazeltine, Mr. Skinner and Mr. Mixer; that the bill entitled "An act for the relief of the heirs of Jonas C. Baldwin deceased," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Smith, Mr. Falley and Mr. White; that the bill entitled "An act to enable the Dutch reformed church in the towns of Rochester and Wawarsing to divide their parsonage lot, and the consistory of Wawarsing to sell their portion of said lot of land," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Soper, Mr. Fowler and Mr. Al Burtis; that the bill entitled "An act authorising the commandant of the thirteenth regiment of artillery to constitute and appoint a regimental court-martial for certain purposes," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Jones, Mr. Arnold and Mr. Burt; that the bill entitled "An act authorising the town of Mount-Pleasant in the county of Westchester, to sell its town poor-house and farm," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. A. Smith, Mr. Davenport and Mr. Tailor; that the bill entitled "An act to amend the act to incorporate the Albany and Greene turnpike road company, passed April 7th, 1806, and the several acts amending the same," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Starr, Mr. Austin and Mr. Seeley; that the bill entitled "An act for raising a sum not exceeding two thousand dollars, on the town of Lyons in Wayne county, this year and the next, to rebuild two bridges in said town," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Armstrong, Mr. Boynton and Mr. Hubbell; that the bill entitled "An act to amend the act entitled 'An act for the incorporation of the village of Syracuse,' passed April 13th, 1825," be referred to a select committee, consisting of the members attending this house from the county of Onondaga; and that the bill entitled "An act authorising the board of supervisors of the county of Ulster to raise by tax one thousand dollars, on the inhabitants of the town of Shawangunk in said county," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Soper, Mr. Fowler and Mr. Waugh; to be by the said select committees severally reported complete.

A message from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bill and amendments therein mentioned, was read, informing that they have passed the bill entitled "An act authorising the construction of the Chenango canal," with the amendments therewith delivered.

The said bill and amendments were read.

Ordered, That the same be laid upon the table.

A message from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bill and amendments therein mentioned, was read, informing that they have concurred with this house in its amendments to the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Sodus canal company," and have amended the said bill accordingly.

The amended bill having been examined,

Ordered, That the clerk return the same to the Senate.

Ordered, That Mr. Keith have leave of absence for eight days, and Mr. Garnsey for six days.

Mr. Sceley gave notice, that he would ask leave to introduce a bill to alter the time of holding town-meetings in the town of Athens in the county of Greene.

Mr. Baragar gave notice that he would, at some future day, ask leave to introduce a bill, to authorise John R. Drake to erect a dam on the Susquehannah river, from the head of Squaw Island to the south bank of said river.

Mr. Baragar gave notice that he would, at some future day, ask leave to introduce a bill, authorising the appointment of a commissioner to reside in the eastern jury district of the county of Tioga, to perform certain duties of a justice of the supreme court.

Mr. Randall gave notice that he would, at some future day, ask leave to introduce a bill, to alter the law in relation to the courts of general sessions of the peace in and for the county of Montgomery.

On motion of Mr. Dyckman,

Resolved, That the comptroller be directed to furnish this house with a statement of the several items for which the money received by the health commissioners in the city of New-York, (for the use of the Marine hospital in that city,) has been expended, so far as the vouchers rendered to his office will enable him to set forth the same, for the year ending the 31st December 1828.

Ordered, That the committee of the whole be discharged from the further consideration of the bill entitled "An act authorising the canal board to settle with Joseph E. Smith & Co. upon equitable terms;" and that the same be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Falley, Mr. Dygert and Mr. Mixer, to consider and report thereon.

Ordered, That the committee of the whole be discharged from the further consideration of the bill entitled "An act to divide the town of Junius in the county of Seneca, into four towns;" and that the same be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Bostwick, Mr. Scott and Mr. Boynton, to consider and report thereon.

Mr. W. Hall, from the committee on engrossed bills, reported, that they have examined the engrossed bill entitled "An act to create a fund for the benefit of the creditors of certain monied corporations, and for other purposes;" and that the same is correctly engrossed.

The said engrossed bill, entitled "An act to create a fund for the benefit of the creditors of certain monied corporations, and for other purposes," was read the third time.

Debates were had thereon;

The question being put whether the house would agree to the final passage of the said bill, it was determined in the affirmative.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the town of Ellington in the county of Chautauque, praying for a division of that town, was read, and referred to the committee on the erection and division of towns and counties.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the county of St. Lawrence, praying legislative aid, to repair the turnpike road from Wilna in the county of Jefferson, to Parishville in the county of St. Lawrence, was read, and referred to the committee on the establishment and improvement of roads and bridges, and the incorporation of turnpike companies.

The remonstrance of sundry inhabitants of the county of Tioga, against any alteration of the charter of the Ithaca and Owego turnpike company, was read, and committed to a committee of the whole, when on the bill upon that subject.

Mr. Burt, from the committee on the establishment and improvement of roads and bridges, and the incorporation of turnpike companies, to which were referred the petitions of sundry inhabitants of the towns of Rome and Vienna in the county of Oneida, praying for the incorporation of a company for the purpose of constructing a certain turnpike road as set forth in their petitions, asked for leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Burt, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to incorporate the Rome and Vienna turnpike company;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. E. Baker, from the committee on the establishment and improvement of roads and bridges, and the incorporation of turnpike companies, to which was referred the petition of sundry inhabitants of the county of Onondaga, for the appointment of commissioners to lay out a road across the Onondaga Indian reservation, asked for leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. E. Baker, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to appoint commissioners to lay out a road across the Onondaga Indian reservation;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Hubbard, from the committee on the establishment and improvement of roads and bridges, and the incorporation of turnpike companies, to which was referred the petition of Samuel Crippin and Henry N. Wilkins, praying for the renewal of the grant made to John Low, for building a dam across the Susquehannah river in the town of Milford, asked leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Hubbard, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act amending an act passed April 15th, 1814, authorising John Low and others to erect a dam across the Susquehannah river;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Eldridge, from the select committee to which was referred the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act authorising the investment of a part of the school fund in stock to be created for the construction of the Cayuga and Seneca canal," reported, that they have examined the said bill, and see no reason why the same should not be passed into a law.

Ordered, That the said bill be committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Dana, from the select committee to which was referred the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act concerning the writ of certiorari in criminal cases," reported, that they have examined the said bill, see no reason why the same should not be passed into a law, and recommend that it be ordered to a third reading.

Thereupon,

By the unanimous consent of the house,

The said bill was ordered to a third reading.

Mr. A. Smith, from the select committee to which was referred the bill entitled "An act authorising the town of Mount-Pleasant in the county of Westchester, to sell its town poor-house and farm," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, made sundry amendments thereto, and altered the title so as to read "An act authorising the supervisor and overseers of the poor of the town of Mount-Pleasant in the county of Westchester, to sell the poor-house and farm belonging to said town;" which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Burt, from the select committee to whom was referred the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act amending an act to appoint commissioners to lay out and open a road from Cedar Point, westward, through the towns of Moriah and Newcomb, in the county of Essex," passed April 21st, 1828, reported:

The amendments proposed, appear to have been suggested by the comptroller, upon the following considerations:

1. That by the 7th section of the act proposed to be amended, a large expense must be incurred, probably exceeding $2,000, for the publication as required.

2. That if the sale for road taxes be made at six months from the time of depositing a map and tax-roll in the comptroller's office, as directed, some lands may be sold, now chargeable with arrears of county taxes; and it may be questionable whether such first sale may not operate to discharge the other; or if reserved in the sale, by making the sale for road taxes subject to a lien for state taxes, might operate oppressively.

3. That by annexing the said road taxes to the state or county tax, to sell lands chargeable with them at the then next sale for arrears of county taxes, very little additional expense will be incurred; and that course will save much labor in the comptroller's department.

4. As the commissioners appointed by the act proposed to be amended, have in good faith executed the duties assigned to them, in laying out and contracting to open and work said road, stipulating to pay therefor according to their construction of that act, may not realize the amount of the taxes assessed, to meet their engagements. It is provided that if the comptroller's department be ready to give the legal necessary notices of sale, seasonably to realize the said tax before the 1st February next, to authorise the comptroller to draw on the treasury in their favor, for a sum not exceeding $2,000, in anticipation, to be refunded from the proceeds of sales for such taxes, which that department believes safe and beyond contingency.

The committee recommend an informal amendment in the first section of the bill, and with that amendment they recommend the passage of the same.

Ordered, That the said bill and report be committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Armstrong, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act for raising a sum not exceeding two thousand dollars, on the town of Lyons in Wayne county, this year and the next, to rebuild two bridges in said town," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Soper, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act confirming the division of a lot of land owned by the Dutch reformed churches in the towns of Rochester and Wawarsing, and to enable the consistory of Wawarsing to sell their portion of said lot of land," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Jones, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act authorising the commandant of the thirteenth regiment of artillery to constitute and appoint a regimental court-martial for certain purposes," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, made an amendment thereto, and agreed to the same; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. J. Hall, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act to amend the act entitled 'An act for the incorporation of the village of Syracuse,' passed April 13th, 1825," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, made sundry amendments thereto, and agreed to the same; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Starr, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act to amend the act incorporating the Albany and Greene turnpike road company, passed April 7th, 1806, and the several acts amending the same," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Soper, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act authorising the board of supervisors of the county of Ulster to raise by tax one thousand dollars, on the inhabitants of the town of Shawangunk in said county," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, made sundry amendments thereto, altered the title to "An act authorising the supervisors of the county of Ulster to raise money by tax on the town of Shawangunk, to build a bridge in said town," and agreed to the same; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

The house then proceeded to the consideration of the report and resolution reported by the committee on claims, on the petition of Darius Eggleston; the same were again read, in the words following, to wit:

The committee on claims, to whom was referred the report of the canal board on the petition of Darius Eggleston, praying for the passage of a law authorising the canal board to resettle his claims for extra allowances on a canal contract made in 1817, together with the report of the canal board on said petition, have directed their chairman to report for the consideration of the house, the following resolution:

Resolved, That the prayer of the petitioner ought not to be granted, and that he have leave to withdraw his petition.

Thereupon,

Mr. Eldridge made a motion that the house should agree to amend the said resolution, by striking out the whole of the same after the word "ought," and inserting in lieu thereof the words following, to wit, "to be granted, and that leave be given to bring in a bill."

Debates were had upon the said motion of Mr. Eldridge; and the question being put whether the house would agree thereto, it was determined in the negative.

Thereupon,

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

The house then proceeded to the consideration of the resolution of the Senate of the 13th March instant; the same was again read, in the words following, to wit:

Resolved, (if the Assembly concur,) That the Legislature will adjourn on the first Monday of April next.

Thereupon,

Resolved, That this house do not concur with the Senate in their said resolution.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver a copy of the preceding resolution to the Senate.

Ordered, That the committee of the whole be discharged from the further consideration of the bill entitled "An act to authorise the issuing of executions by the justices' court of the city of Schenectady, and for other purposes;" and that the same be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Paige, Mr. Skinner and Mr. Savage, to consider and report thereon.

In pursuance of previous notice, Mr. Paige asked for and obtained leave to bring in a bill, entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act for the relief of the heirs of John Wilkinson,' passed February 5th, 1829;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

On motion of Mr. Starr,

Resolved, That this House have heard with regret, of the decease of the venerable JOHN TAYLER, late Lieutenant-Governor of this State; and that in consideration of the distinguished services of the deceased, commencing with the revolution, and terminating only with his valuable life, will attend his funeral obsequies on Monday next.

A message from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bill therein mentioned, was read, informing that they have passed the bill entitled "An act to amend the act entitled 'An act to incorporate the Catskill and Ithaca rail-road company,' passed April 21st, 1828," without amendment.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bill to the acting Governor.

Four several messages from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bills therein mentioned, were read, informing that they have passed the bill entitled "An act for the relief of the devisees of Francis Atkinson;" the bill entitled "An act authorising John Smith, William Smith and Abram Smith, to erect a dam across the Tioughnioga river;" the bill entitled "An act authorising an additional amount of money to be raised by tax for roads and bridges in the town of Florida;" and the bill entitled "An act amending an act for the relief of the inhabitants of Lake-Pleasant, passed March 23d, 1821;" in which bills they request the concurrence of this house.

The said bills were severally read the first time, and by unanimous consent were also read a second time, and the bill entitled "An act for the relief of the devisees of Francis Atkinson," was referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Paige, Mr. Stanton and Mr. Hammond; the bill entitled "An act authorising John Smith, William Smith and Abram Smith, to erect a dam across the Tioughnioga river," was referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Curtiss, Mr. Carley and Mr. Chandler; the bill entitled "An act authorising an additional amount of money to be raised by tax for roads and bridges in the town of Florida," was referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Randall, Mr. Young and Mr. Spier; and the bill entitled "An act amending an act for the relief of the inhabitants of Lake-Pleasant, passed March 23d, 1821," was referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Spier, Mr. Randall and Mr. Young, severally to consider and report thereon.

The annual report of the commissioners of the canal fund, was read, in the words following, to wit:

REMARKS.

During the last year, the commissioners have loaned to the corporation of the city of Albany the sum of $150,000, and invested the sum of $118,475 in stocks. With the latter sum, they have purchased $100,000 of the stock issued by the state to the Delaware and Hudson canal company, and $10,000 of the stock issued to the Neversink navigation company.

By the foregoing estimates, it will appear that a further appropriation of $13,695.77, will be necessary for the Oswego canal during the current year; unless the legislature shall, in another manner, provide for this deficit in the funds and revenues of that canal. But the commissioners learn, at the comptroller's office, that lands belonging to the Oswego canal fund, to the amount of $27,650.67, have been sold, and that bonds for the purchase money are in that office. These sales have taken place since the transfer from the Erie and Champlain to the Oswego canal fund, authorised by the act, chapter 275, section 1st, of the laws of the last session. The comptroller is desirous to make the same transfer of the Oswego canal fund bonds, now in his office, which, by the act referred to, was authorised to be made of the former bonds belonging to the same fund; and the commissioners of the canal fund see no objection to the passage of a law for that purpose, similar to the one of the last session. The effect of this transfer will be simply as follows:

The literature fund now holds a certain amount of Erie and Champlain canal stock, bearing an interest of five per cent; but which, by the law pledging that stock to that fund, is to be exchanged for bonds for lands belonging to the Erie and Champlain canal fund, whenever such bonds shall come into the comptroller's office. These bonds, to a sufficient, or indeed to any considerable amount, do not as yet come in, as the lands belonging to that fund do not sell rapidly. In the mean time, the lands belonging to the Oswego canal fund have sold much more advantageously. These bonds bear an interest of six per cent; and therefore the literature fund will be benefitted by the exchange of the canal stock for the bonds. The Oswego canal fund is, as yet, inadequate to answer the calls made upon it; and therefore the sale of these bonds, or an additional loan, is necessary for the current year; and that the sale of these bonds will be preferable to an increase of the debt chargeable upon this fund, would seem to be clearly true. If, then, the Oswego canal fund will be benefitted by this transfer, the only remaining consideration is, its effect upon the Erie and Champlain canal fund. This fund has surplus monies on hand, which it is desirable safely to invest, because its outstanding stock (and which these surplus monies are destined to pay) cannot be purchased in at a reasonable rate, and because that stock is not yet redeemable. But of that stock, a small share is held by the literature fund, which can be obtained, dollar for dollar, in exchange for the bonds belonging to the Oswego canal fund. These bonds can be purchased of the Oswego canal fund for the amount due upon them, without premium; and the Erie and Champlain canal fund has the money, not invested, with which to make the purchase. The effect of the whole operation, therefore, will be, tha the Erie and Champlain canal fund will have cancelled $27,650.67 of its stock, not redeemable until 1815, and without the payment of any premium upon such stock; and will have saved the risk of investing so much of its surplus until its stock becomes redeemable.

The estimate of payments on account of the Cayuga and Seneca canal fund, to be made during the current year, is made upon the supposition that the loans, amounting to $55,000, heretofore authorised to be made for account of this fund, but not yet taken, will be made so that interest will be payable upon this amount for the last three quarters of the present year. This will make the estimated payments from this fund exceed the estimated income for the current year, by the sum of $11,957.86. Against this deficiency, the legislature alone have the power to provide, in such manner as to their wisdom shall seem best.

It will be expected by the legislature, that the commissioners should explain the circumstances under which they have felt themselves authorised to make a temporary use of a part of the general canal fund, for the completion of the Cayuga and Seneca canal. They were authorised by the law of 1827, to make a loan of $45,000 for this canal; and by the act, chapter 119 of 1828, to make another of $10,000, for the construction of a lateral canal from the Cayuga and Seneca canal to the village of East-Cayuga, with a lock connecting the same with the Cayuga lake. The monies on hand belonging to this fund, were not all expended in 1827. The work was commenced in 1828, with an unexpended balance of $18,605.77, and an amount due from the Oswego canal fund, of $24,336.78. It was supposed that this balance, the amount due from the Oswego canal fund, and the above mentioned appropriations, would be abundantly sufficient to finish the works; but the expenditure for these works, exclusive of the interest upon this canal debt, instead of being $75,000, as was estimated last year, has been more than $98,000. More has therefore been taken from the general canal fund, than the commissioners are able to reimburse by the loans which they were authorised to make. The commissioners delayed to make these loans, upon considerations of economy. If they had been made, the terms would have been such that the interest on the stock would not have been much less than five per cent. The commissioners had a large sum belonging to the general canal fund, uninvested, for which they are receiving an interest of only three and an half per cent. As soon as the loan should have been negotiated, the commissioners would have lost the difference between five, or nearly five per cent, and three and an half per cent, unless they had taken up the loans themselves. If they had taken them, the operation would have been the mere ceremony of issuing the stock, which it was thought might be done as well at one time as another.

In relation to exceeding the appropriation, the commissioners would observe, that they were not aware that more funds would be wanted than were appropriated, till the canal was nearly completed; and they did not think that the work was to be arrested, left for another year in an unfinished state, subject to suffer much injury, the country in the vicinity of the canal deprived of its use for another season, and the state lose the profits of its investment, for the want of a few thousand dollars more than the appropriation.

In these considerations, the commissioners hope there will be found a sufficient apology for their not withholding the necessary funds for the completion of this work. What has been taken from the general canal fund, and what is now required to pay damages, &c. will amount to about the sum that is now in the treasury, unemployed and unproductive, belonging to the capital of the common school fund.

It is respectfully suggested, that the loans authorised by the acts of 1827 and 1828, should be dispensed with; and that the commissioners should issue stock bearing an interest of five per cent, to the comptroller, in trust for the common school fund; and thereupon he should pay to them the amount thereof, from the capital of this fund now in the treasury.

Ordered, That double the usual number of copies of the said report be printed for the use of the legislature.

A message from the acting Governor, delivered by his private secretary, was read, in the words following, to wit:

TO THE ASSEMBLY.

GENTLEMEN,

I have this day approved and signed the following bills:

"An act to divide the towns of Portland and Ripley in the county of Chautauque."

"An act to amend the act entitled 'An act to provide for the erection of a new court-house and jail in the county of Broome,' passed April 18th, 1828."

E. T. THROOP.

Albany, March 19, 1829.

A communication from the comptroller, was read, in the words following, to wit:

COMPTROLLER'S OFFICE,
Albany, March 19, 1829.

SIR—

I have the honor herewith to transmit to the honorable the Assembly, a report made in obedience to a resolution of that body of the 17th instant.

I am, very respectfully,
Your obedient servant,
SILAS WRIGHT, Jr.

The Hon. PETER ROBINSON,
Speaker of the Assembly.

COMPTROLLER'S OFFICE,
Albany, March 18, 1829.

The Comptroller, in obedience to the resolution of the honorable the Assembly, requesting him "to lay before that house a statement of the appropriations which have been made by the state for the benefit of Columbia, Union and Hamilton Colleges, respectively, specifying the time when each appropriation was made," respectfully reports:

That the following statement exhibits the information required by the said resolution.

COLUMBIA COLLEGE.

Date of Appropriation.	Source of Appropriation, &c.	Amount.
1784, November 26,.	Granted from the treasury of the state, ...	$6,380 00
1792, April 11, ...	do do	19,750 00
	do do £750 annually for 5 yrs.	9,375 00
1796, April 11, ...	do do £750 do 2 "	3,750 00
1797, March 30, ...	do do $500 do to support a professorship of anatomy; continued till 1810, inclusive, and then transferred to the college of physicians and surgeons in the city of New-York; the am't. paid to Columbia college from 1797 to 1810, both inclusive, being 14 years, at $500 per annum, is	7,000 00
1797, March 30, ...	By an act passed this day, the botanic garden in the city of New-York was granted to this college, under certain conditions, and the conditions were repealed Feb. 1819. The value of the garden is unknown. The state gave for it, by the grant of a lottery, $74,268.75; but it was estimated by the comptroller in 1819, at	30,000 00
1819, February 19, .	Granted from the treasury of the state, ...	10,000 00
		86,255 00

By the acts chap. 82, of 1801, and chap. 105, of 1802, the Regents of the University are directed to convey to Columbia and Union Colleges, certain lands at Crown Point, Ticonderaga, and Lake George, the value of which lands the Comptroller has no means of ascertaining.

UNION COLLEGE.

1795, April 9, ...	Granted from the treasury of the state, ...	3,750 00
1796, April 11, ...	do do	10,000 00
1797, March 30, ...	do do for 2 years, $750 each.	1,500 00
1800, March 7, ...	do do	10,000 00
1805, March 27,....	do by lottery, & paid to the trustees,.	80,000 00
1814, April 13, ...	do do $200,000, with 6 years inter. at 7 per ct. $84,000..	284,000 00
		389,250 00

By an act passed 5th April, 1822, the management of the "Literature Lotteries," was transferred to the institutions for whose benefit they were granted; and the Comptroller is therefore unable to state what part of the above grant has been raised. Besides the above appropriation, ten lots in the Military Tract were granted to Union college, the value of which is unknown to the Comptroller. See also a grant of lands at Crown Point, &c., specified under the head of Columbia college.

HAMILTON COLLEGE.

1812, June 19,.....	Granted by act of this date, in bonds and mortgages, on lands in the Oneida reservation, amounting, principal and int., to.	50,000 00
1814, April 13, ...	Granted by lottery, $40,000, with 6 yrs. int. at 7 per cent., $16,800, ...	56,800 00
		$106,800 00

The remark above, in relation to the lottery grant to Union college, applies to the above grant by lottery to Hamilton college.

Respectfully submitted,
SILAS WRIGHT, JUNIOR.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Hazeltine, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act to appoint commissioners to lay out a highway from Canadaway in the county of Chautauque, to the village of Perry in the county of Genesee," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, made sundry amendments thereto, altered the title to "An act to appoint commissioners to lay out a highway from Fredonia in the county of Chautauque, to the town of Perry in the county of Genesee," and agreed to the same; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Ordered, That Mr. M'Neil have leave of absence for four days, and Mr. M'Crea for seven days.

Ordered, That the committee of the whole be discharged from the further consideration of the bill entitled "An act declaring the Ancram turnpike road a public highway;" and that the said bill be committed to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Holdridge, Mr. P. Van Beuren and Mr. H. W. Livingston, to consider and report thereon.

In pursuance of previous notice, Mr. Willey asked for and obtained leave to bring in a bill entitled "An act to amend the fifty-first section of article third of title first of chapter sixteenth of the first part of the Revised Statutes;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

In pursuance of previous notice, Mr. Baragar asked for and obtained leave to bring in a bill entitled "An act authorising John R. Drake to build a dam in the Susquehannah river;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

The house then proceeded to the consideration of the resolution reported by the committee on claims, on the petition of William Brayton and others; the same was again read, in the words following, to wit:

Resolved, That the prayer of the petitioners ought not to be granted.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

The house then proceeded to the consideration of the amendments of the Senate, to the bill entitled "An act authorising the construction of the Chenango canal."

The said bill and amendments were read, and the question on concurring with the Senate in their amendments being divided by the house, the seventh section of the bill, as originally agreed to by the Assembly, was read in the words following, to wit:

§ 7. The canal commissioners shall not proceed to construct said canal unless they shall be first satisfied, by actual survey and estimates, that there will be an adequate supply of water for the summit level without taking any of the waters of either the Oriskany or Sawquoit creeks; that the cost of the construction of said canal will not exceed one million of dollars; and also, that said canal will produce to the state, in connection with the increased tolls on the Erie canal, after paying interest upon cost, repairs, and expense of attendance for the first ten years after its construction, four per cent. annually, upon the cost of its construction.

Thereupon,

The first and second of the amendments of the Senate, to the said section were read in the words following:

After "the" in the 1st line, insert "acting"; and in the same line, after the words "construct said canal," insert "until they, together with Samuel Young, one of the canal commissioners, or any two of them, shall have first personally viewed the route thereof, which they are hereby required to do during the next summer, nor."

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to concur with the Senate in the said amendments, and it was determined in the negative.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bill to the Senate, and inform them that this house have passed the same without amendment.

The engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to incorporate the village of Lockport," with the engrossed amendments, was read the third time.

Ordered, That the said bill and amendments be laid upon the table.

A message from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bill therein mentioned, was read, informing that they have passed the bill entitled "An act relative to the clerk's office of the county of Broome," with the amendment therewith delivered.

The said bill and amendment were read; and the amendment having been again read, and concurred in,

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bill and amendment to the Senate, and inform them that this house have concurred with them in their amendment to the said bill, and have amended the same accordingly.

A message from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bill therein mentioned, was read, informing that they have passed the bill entitled "An act authorising Judiah E. Budlong, Alvin Plumb, Thomas W. Harvey, Daniel Hazeltine and Silas Tiffany, to improve a part of the outlet of Chautauque lake for steam-boat navigation," and have amended the title so as to read "An act to improve a part of the outlet of Chautauque lake, for steam-boat navigation."

The said bill and amendment were read; and the amendment having been again read and concurred in,

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bill and amendment to the Senate, and inform them that this house have concurred with them in their amendment to the said bill, and have amended the same accordingly.

Four several messages from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bills therein mentioned, were read, informing that they have passed the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Madison county rail-road company;" the bill entitled "An act concerning the poor fund of the town of Cazenovia;" the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Flushing and Huntington turnpike company;" and the bill entitled "An act to divide the town of Homer in the county of Cortland;" in which bills they request the concurrence of this house.

The said bills were severally read the first time, and by unanimous consent were also read a second time, and the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Madison counnty rail-road company," was referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Williams, Mr. Eldridge and Mr. W. K. Fuller; the bill entitled "An act concerning the poor fund of the town of Cazenovia," was referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. W. K. Fuller, Mr. Eldridge and Mr. Williams; the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Flushing and Huntington turnpike company," was referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Jones, Mr. Williamson and Mr. Hedges; and the bill entitled "An act to divide the town of Homer, in the county of Cortland," was referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Armstrong, Mr. Curtis and Mr. Carley, severally to consider and report thereon.

The house then again resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to divide the town of Camillus in the county of Onondaga;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Case, from the said committee, reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, made sundry amendments thereto, and agreed to the same; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read and agreed to by the house, and the amendments ordered to be engrossed, and the bill ordered to a third reading.

The house then resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act to authorise the payment of damages occasioned by the erection and continuance of the Fort Miller dam in the Hudson river;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Ives, from the said committee, reported progress, and asked for and obtained leave to sit again.

The house then resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act to divide the town of Richmond in the county of Ontario;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Ives, from the said committee, reported progress, and asked for and obtained leave to sit again.

And then the House adjourned until ten o'clock on Monday morning next.

MONDAY, MARCH 23, 1829.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the towns of Unadilla and Butternuts in the county of Otsego, praying for the incorporation of a company for the purpose of dressing and manufacturing hemp and flax, was read, and referred to the committee on trade and manufactures.

The petition of the trustees of the village of Cooperstown, praying for an amendment of their charter, was read, and referred to the committee on the incorporation of cities and villages.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the village of Rochester, praying for the incorporation of said village as a city, was read, and referred to the committee on the incorporation of cities and villages.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the county of St. Lawrence, praying for the erection of a new town from parts of the towns of Canton, Russell, De Kalb and Edwards, in said county, was read, and referred to the committee on the erection and division of towns and counties.

The petition of the Albany horticultural society, praying for an act of incorporation, was read, and referred to the committee on agriculture.

Mr. Burt, from the committee on the establishment and improvement of roads and bridges, and the incorporation of turnpike companies, on the petition of sundry inhabitants of the county of Dutchess, praying for the incorporation of the Deep Hollow branch turnpike road company, asked leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Burt, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to incorporate the Deep Hollow branch turnpike road company;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Burt, from the committee on the establishment and improvement of roads and bridges, and the incorporation of turnpike companies, on the petition of the supervisors of the county of Genesee, praying permission to raise money, in their discretion, for building bridges in said county, asked leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Burt, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to authorise the board of supervisors of the county of Genesee, in their discretion, to raise certain monies for the purpose of building roads and bridges;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Burt, from the committee on the establishment and improvement of roads and bridges and the incorporation of turnpike companies, to which was referred the petition of Albert H. Tracy and others, inhabitants of the county of Erie, praying for the incorporation of a company for the purpose of constructing a turnpike road from the village of Buffalo to a point near the house of Joseph Foster in the town of Hamburgh, asked for leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Burt, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to incorporate the Buffalo and Hamburgh turnpike company;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Burt, from the committee on the establishment and improvement of roads and bridges, and the incorporation of turnpike companies, to which was referred the petition of John M'Lallan, praying for the passage of a law to authorise him to keep a ferry across the Cayuga lake, asked for leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Burt, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act authorising John M'Lallan to establish a ferry across the Cayuga lake;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Mann, from the committee on claims, to whom was referred the petition of Barent Bond, reported:

That the petitioner sets forth, that previous to the 14th day of April last, he was owner and master of the canal boat "Bee of Sandy-Hill so called," employed chiefly in transporting lime to the cities of Troy and Albany; that on that day he proceeded with the said boat, properly laden, from Kingsbury in the county of Washington, for Waterford, having obtained a clearance from the first collector's office, a copy of which is annexed to his petition. Having arrived below the guard-lock, at Fort Miller, in the evening "he tied up for the night outside of two other boats, in a full depth of water, and retired to rest. On being alarmed early in the morning, by the cries of danger, he found that the water had been drawn off, and reduced more than eighteen inches, and his boat had grounded at one end, while the other was rapidly filling and sinking, and his cargo, which was in tierces and barrels, was in a state of high combustion: in short, notwithstanding the great exertions demanded by the occasion, the boat sunk, the cargo, sail and some clothing of the petitioner was lost entirely, between the devouring elements of fire and water."

On inquiry as to the cause of the disaster, the lock-keeper informed the petitioner "that he had, on the evening previous, left the wicket gates open in a proper manner, to supply the level on which the petitioner rested for the night, with sufficient water; but that either boats or rafts must have passed in the night, and their attendants negligently left those gates shut, or some evil disposed persons had wickedly shut them; and in this way, and no other, could the deficiency of the water in the level below, and the accident to the petitioner, have been produced."

The petitioner further states, "that he would willingly have abandoned the said boat and cargo, and looked for indemnity to the justice and equity of the state for his damages. But your petitioner was informed, (and so he is since informed the law is,) that unless he removed the obstruction created by his sunken boat and burning sail and cargo, he would be subject to various and heavy penalties; and he therefore, at an expense of more than $30, took out the material of his ruined cargo, and the boat being entirely ruined, he had to cut it up and take it out by pieces."

The petitioner then gives an estimate, at "cash value," of his losses, amounting in all to $436 70, and concludes in these words: "And now, in consideration of the premises, and inasmuch as your petitioner will otherwise be remediless, he humbly prays relief, and that by a legislative act he may be indemnified for his said losses."

The petitioner verifies the facts set forth in his petition, by his affidavit annexed thereto.

The committee have patiently considered and examined the case of the petitioner, but they have been compelled to believe, that with all its accumulated afflictions and perplexities to the petitioner, it calls more for commisseration, than legislative interference.

It appears, by his own showing, that the "accident," as he calls it, happened by the neglect, not of the agent of the state, but of "some other person, or by the misconduct of some evil disposed person." It is believed that the state has not as yet made itself accountable for the injuries occasioned by the misconduct or crimes of individuals: Neither has the state heretofore provided against losses by "accident," to their individual citizens. In the consideration of municipal law, therefore, the petitioner has sustained damage without injury. In the moral law, he may posssibly regard it has a paternal chastisement, intended for his benefit; but the committee have been unable to discover any rule by which they can recommend for him the relief prayed for; and they have accordingly directed their chairman to submit for the consideration of the house the following resolution:

Resolved, That the prayer of the petitioner ought not to be granted, and that he have leave to withdraw his petition.

Thereupon,

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Brinkerhoff, from the committee on the militia, to which was referred the petition of officers of infantry in the city and county of New-York, praying to be exempt from jury duty while in office, reported :

That the committee had bestowed on the subject referred to in the petition, that reflection and candid consideration which the importance of the subject requires.

The infantry in the city and county of New-York are required, by law, to parade three times in each year, once by company and twice by regiment or separate battalion ; and the officers and non-commissioned officers, for improvement, not less than eight times in each year.

The committee are aware that a faithful discharge of these duties is not only burthensome, but attended with considerable expense of money and loss of time.

Among the petitioners are officers of the highest rank, and gentlemen of the first standing and respectability in the city and county of New-York ; and the committee duly appreciate, and are proud to acknowledge, the laudable zeal and just ambition they have on all occasions evinced, to improve and bring to a high state of discipline the corps subject to their several commands, and for which they are entitled to much credit.

The constitution provides that a well regulated militia is necessary to the security of a free state, and as the militia are considered the bulwark and safeguard of our liberties, (in cases of invasion or insurrection,) it would seem as if inducements ought to be held out to them, to engage in this service. But on the other hand, when it is considered that every citizen is a soldier, and every soldier a citizen ; that we have no privileged order here ; that from our citizen soldiers emanates all our power, and that all have rights to protect and defend, and as the administration and benefit of our laws are intended to operate as equal as may be to the advantage of all, inconveniencies arising out of them ought to be borne as becomes a patriot, a citizen, and a soldier.

Our constitution guarantees to us the right of trial by jury, and as a sound, discreet and intelligent jury is highly necessary in all cases of litigation among our citizens, and to discriminate and render justice between man and man, no measures ought to be adopted that shall in any way impair the efficiency of this tribunal, or render it onerous and burthensome on a few.

The committee are of opinion, that to exempt the officers of infantry in the city and county of New-York, while in command, would be unwise, both in principle and precedent. Exempt these, and others, not only in our other cities, but throughout the state generally, would consider themselves as being justly entitled to the same privilege ; and it must be obvious to every one, that to make a general provision of this kind, would be far from being a salutary measure : For by it, our jury lists would be deprived, and our state lose the benefit and worth of many of our ablest jurymen.

The committee are therefore of opinion, that it is inexpedient, at this time, to alter the law on this subject ; and they have instructed their chairman to offer the following resolution :

Resolved, That the prayer of the petitioners ought not to be granted, and that they have leave to withdraw their petition.

Thereupon,

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Burt, from the committee on the establishment and improvement of roads and bridges, and the incorporation of turnpike companies, to whom was referred the petition of inhabitants of the town of Schoharie, reported :

That said petitioners are praying the legislature to repeal or modify the 24th section of the act concerning highways, bridges, &c. By reference to that act, chapter 16th, title 1st, article 2d, it is made the duty of the commissioners of highways of each town, to assess upon the taxable inhabitants at least three times the number of days of such taxable inhabitants, and that every male inhabitant being above the age of twenty-one years, shall be assessed at least one day: that the residue of such days' works shall be apportioned upon the estate, real and personal, of every inhabitant of such town, as the same shall appear by the last assessment roll of such town.

It is conceived that the effect and operation of the above provision will cause a larger number of days to be assessed upon the inhabitants of some districts, than is necessary to keep the roads in repair; therefore the revised law in that respect requires an alteration. This law has been but one year in operation, and was one which received a full investigation by the legislature of 1827, and was adopted after taking a general view of the whole subject. The committee do not feel authorised to recommend a repeal of a law so soon after it has been made known to our citizens, and before the usefulness of its provisions have been fairly tested. The committee believe a remedy is within the jurisdiction of the town authorities, which is, that in road districts composed of a dense population, and possessing a great share of wealth, the highway commissioners of the several towns in such cases might increase the districts so as to equalize the same. Therefore they recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That the petitioners have leave to withdraw the same.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Mann, from the committee on claims, to whom was referred the petition of Isaac Vail, praying that the canal board may be authorised to make to him a further extra allowance on a canal contract, together with the report of the canal commissioners thereon, reported the following resolution for the consideration of the house:

Resolved, That the prayer of the petitioner ought not to be granted.

Thereupon,

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Mann, from the committee on claims, to whom was referred the petition of James Ledgerwood and John Ledgerwood, praying that the canal board may be authorised to make them a further extra allowance on a contract for building locks at the Cohoes falls, together with the report of the canal commissioners thereon, reported for the consideration of the house the following resolution:

Resolved, That the prayer of the petitioners ought not to be granted.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. W. K. Fuller, from the select committee to which were referred the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act concerning the poor fund of the town of Cazenovia," and the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Madison county rail-road company," reported, that they have examined the said bills, and see no reason why the same should not be passed into laws.

Ordered, That the said bills be committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Jones, from the select committee to which was referred the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to incorporate the Flushing and Huntington turnpike company," reported, that they have examined the said bill, and see no reason why the same should not be passed into a law.

Ordered, That the said bill be committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Jones, from the select committee to which was referred the petition of sundry inhabitants of the town of New-Utrecht, in the county of Kings, praying for the passage of a law extending their privilege of fishery, reported:

That the petitioners state, they are the owners of the lands in the vicinity of the fortifications lately erected, and now erecting at the Narrows in Kings county; the value of which lands is considerably increased by the privilege of fishery belonging thereto; and on this account they pay three times the amount of taxes that the owners of lands equally as good, lying back from water, do. As the law now stands, they are prohibited from setting their hedges, &c. more than twenty rods from the shore, which brings them considerably within the range of the fortifications now erecting, by means of which their privilege of fishing is much injured; therefore they pray for the passage of a law repealing the restrictions, or giving them the privilege of fishing within thirty rods of the shore. The committee are satisfied, that by granting the privilege asked for, it will not interfere with, nor obstruct the navigation; and they think the prayer of the petitioners reasonable, and have accordingly directed their chairman to ask leave to bring in a bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Jones, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act regulating the privilege of fishing in the waters of this state, along the Narrows in Kings county;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Holdridge, from the select committee to which was committed the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act declaring the Ancram turnpike road a public highway," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read and agreed to by the house, and the bill ordered a third reading.

Mr. Dana, from the select committee to which was committed the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to change the name of the seminary of the Genesee conference, and for other purposes," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house, and the bill ordered a third reading.

Mr. Dana, from the select committee to which was committed the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to change the name of the corporation of the trustees of the funds of the Genesee conference, and for other purposes," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house, and the bill ordered a third reading.

Mr. W. M'Donald, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act to alter the October term of the courts of common pleas and general sessions in and for the county of Warren," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Seeley, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act authorising the appointment of inspectors for the Schoharie-kill bridge company," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Armstrong, from the select committee to which was referred the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to divide the town of Homer in the county of Cortland," reported, that they have examined the said bill, and that a majority of the said committee see no reason why the same should not be passed into a law.

Ordered, That the said bill be committed to a committee of the whole house.

In pursuance of previous notice, Mr. Mann asked for and obtained leave to bring in a bill entitled "An act in relation to the appraisal of damages on the canals, and for other purposes;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Ordered, That the usual number of copies of the said bill be printed for the use of the legislature.

Mr. Davenport, from the select committee to which was referred the bill reported by the committee of nine, for the preservation of fish in certain ponds in Westchester county, have had the same under consideration, and consider it unnecessary and improper to legislate on the subject, inasmuch as the act of the legislature, passed April 15th, 1826, authorising the court of common pleas to regulate the fisheries in their respective counties, makes the necessary provisions required in said bill.

Ordered, That the said report be laid upon the table.

Mr. Garbutt offered for the consideration of the house, a resolution, in the words following, to wit:

Resolved, That when this house adjourns, it will adjourn to meet again at eight o'clock to-morrow morning.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the negative.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bill to the Senate, and inform them that this house have passed the same without amendment.

The house then resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act to provide for the support of aged and indigent seamen, and the house of refuge for juvenile delinquents in the city of New-York;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Bradish, from the said committee, reported progress, and asked for and obtained leave to sit again.

The house then resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act to authorise the payment of damages occasioned by the erection and continuance of the Fort Miller dam in the Hudson river:" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Ives, from the said committee, reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, made amendments thereto, altered the title to "An act to authorise the appraisal of certain damages on the Champlain canal," and agreed to the same; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read.

Thereupon,

Ordered, That the report of the committee of the whole be laid upon the table.

And then the House adjourned until ten o'clock to-morrow morning.

TUESDAY, MARCH 24, 1829.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

Sundry remonstrances of inhabitants of the village of Rochester, against the incorporation of the same as a city, were read, and referred to the committee on the incorporation of cities and villages.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the city of Troy, owners and masters of vessels navigating the Hudson river, praying for the passage of an act requiring vessels lying at anchor in the harbor of New-York, to suspend a light during the night, was read, and referred to a committee of the whole when on the bill upon that subject.

The petition of William Young junior, an alien, praying that he may be authorised to purchase, take, hold, and convey real estate within this state, was read, and referred to the committee on the petitions of aliens.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the town of Clymer, in the county of Chautauque, praying for a division of that town, was read, and referred to the committee on the erection and division of towns and counties.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the county of Montgomery, praying for the passage of a law to authorise the construction of a rail-road from the village of Canajoharie to Catskill, was read, and referred to the committee on the establishment and improvement of roads and bridges, and the incorporation of turnpike companies.

The petition of C. Snowden and others, citizens of the city of New-York, praying for an act of incorporation under the name and style of the "Bridgewater coal and mining company," was read, and referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. C. L. Livingston, Mr. J. Van Beuren and Mr. Myers.

Mr. Mann, from the committee on claims, to whom was referred the petition of Abner Smith, of the city of New-York, a revolutionary soldier, praying for legislative aid, reported:

That they have examined and considered the representations of the petitioner, as contained in his petition, and the documents therewith submitted; but they afford no further evidence than was before the committee on claims at the last annual session of the legislature, who reported that the petitioner was not in the line of the regular army, and therefore did not come within the provisions of any law or resolution to provide for such cases, and therefore against the prayer of the petitioner. The committee have perceived no reason to differ from that conclusion, and have directed their chairman to submit the following resolution:

Resolved, That the prayer of the petitioner ought not to be granted, and that he have leave to withdraw his petition.

Thereupon,

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Mann, from the committee on claims, to whom was referred the petition of Henry Becker, of the county of Onondaga, a revolutionary soldier, praying for a grant of bounty lands for revolutionary services, reported:

That they have examined the petition and documents submitted by the petitioner, together with the public records in relation to revolutionary transactions, and are of opinion that the evidence furnished by the petitioner is not sufficient to warrant the granting of the prayer of the petitioner; and they have directed that the following resolution be submitted for the consideration of the house:

Resolved, That the petitioner have leave to withdraw his petition.

Thereupon,

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. E. Baker, from the committee on the establishment and improvement of roads and bridges, and the incorporation of turnpike companies, to which was referred the petition of sundry inhabitants of the county of Dutchess, praying for the passage of a law to district a certain turnpike mentioned in the petition, asked for leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. E. Baker, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act authorising the Philipstown turnpike company to abandon a part of their road;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Austin, from the committee on agriculture, to which was referred the petition of the Albany horticultural society, for an act of incorporation, asked for leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Austin, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to incorporate the Albany horticultural society;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Mann, from the committee on claims, to which was referred the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act for the relief of John Sergeant," reported:

The bill directs the payment of two thousand dollars to Mr. Sergeant, in full for all claims whatever against the state.

The committee have bestowed a careful attention to the ground of the relief prayed for, and they have not been unmindful of their duty in examining with some caution the equity on which the petitioner relies again to take the benefits of access to the treasury. They have been more induced to vigilance from the circumstance that this is rather a hasty renewal of the petitioner's demands, after having participated in the bounty of the state to the amount of fifteen hundred dollars, by the act of the legislature for his relief, passed at their last annual session. Ordinarily, the bestowment of bounty excites gratitude to the giver, but in this instance it seems to have awakened and sharpened cupidity. These circumstances, it is believed, will furnish an apology for the examination which the committee have felt bound to make.

The petitioner is the son of the late John Sergeant, whose connection with the Indians in this state as a useful missionary for a great number of years, is now matter of history; but the committee are not apprised whether the mantle of the father, in this respect, has fallen upon the son.

The petitioner states, "that with a view to the removal of the New-York Indians, your petitioner was appointed by the executive of this state as agent to manage the affairs relative to that object, and that he has faithfully performed the duties of his agency, being engaged about four years; and that he has expended about $1,600 of his own private funds, for which he has been paying interest about nine years."

The first inquiry to which the attention of the committee has been directed, is, whether the petitioner was the authorised agent of the state.

In order to be satisfied on this point, it is necessary to refer to the history of the transactions of the government with the Indians, found in the records, journals and statutes of the legislature, as well as in sundry documents submitted to the committee.

In a memorial presented to the legislature in 1826 by the petitioner, in connection with a part of the Stockbridge Indians, it is stated, "that in contemplation of their removal to the western wilderness, they found it necessary to procure the assistance of a 'white man:'" and "putting full confidence in the ability and integrity of Mr. John Sergeant, we solicited his aid and assistance to bring about that object." This memorial then states the fact, that after some negociation between them, Mr. Sergeant complied with their request, for which they agreed in writing to give him five hundred acres of their land, (which was designated,) at two dollars per acre, to be advanced to promote their object. This negociation was in 1818, and Governor Clinton approved of the agency; but it does not appear that he was advised of the contract except in this memorial, which no doubt was prepared by the petitioner or his counsel, and cannot be deemed evidence.

During the absence of the petitioner with a part of these Indians to Green Bay in 1821, those that remained, by treaty, sold to the state a part of their lands, including the land which they had previously promised to the petitioner. Whether they acted in good or bad faith in so doing, does not concern the state, and it is not necessary now to inquire.

By a treaty concluded in July 1818, the state purchased of these Indians a part of their lands, and granted them a yearly annuity. It seems that in making that treaty, the Indians had the benefit of the petitioner's agency, advice and services, and he in turn received substantial evidence that they considered him their "white counsellor;" for in the act of 2d April, 1819, confirming that treaty, the commissioners of the land-office are "directed to issue letters patent to John Sergeant, jun. for 250 acres of land, pursuant to the treaty; provided, that previous to the issuing of said letters patent, his excellency the Governor shall certify in writing to the commissioners of the land-office, and file it in said office, that in his opinion the said clause was not inserted in said treaty, by the mistake or fraud of the delegates who executed the treaty on the part of the said Indians; and that he has fully investigated those facts." It would seem from this proviso, that the legislature at that time did not recognize the petitioner as the agent of the state in making that treaty, and they must have been a little jealous that his agency for the Indians was not more beneficial to them than to himself.

The committee are not aware that complaints have been made as to the performance of this treaty, and probably the petitioner has enjoyed the benefits of his influence over these misguided sons of the forest.

By two successive acts of the legislature, passed in 1821 and 1822, in contemplation of the removal of these Indians to Green Bay, as represented in their memorials, the Governor is authorised to pay to them the principal of their several annuities; and both these acts provide that in case the payment shall be made to any agent, security shall be required for the faithful application thereof, but do not provide for the appointment of such agent by the state. In pursuance of these acts, the petitioner received the annuities of the Indians, and in his bond recites the fact that "the Indians in council have appointed him their agent to receive and apply the money, to aid them in their removal, and pay for their lands." The petitioner did receive the money, and probably has applied it to "aid the Indians in their removal;" but of this it cannot be necessary here to inquire.

From the view which the committee have taken of this branch of the subject, and the facts and incidents of the transactions, they have come to the conclusion as expressed in the petitioner's bond, under his own hand, "that the Indians in council appointed him their agent," for a promised reward by voluntary agreement, to accomplish their own purposes.

But since they neglected to secure to him his "promised land," in the treaty of 1821, contrary to their usual caution on such occasions, particularly in the treaty of 1818, and since the fidelity of his friends, with whom he contracted, has failed him, he alleges that he was also the agent of the state, serving two masters, from one of whom surely he should receive his reward. There is evidence in the documents that he also was the servant of the United States.

Pursuing the idea that he could fasten himself upon this state as their agent, in 1823, he, with fourteen of the Indians, began by petitioning the legislature to convey to him the five hundred acres which the Indians had promised in 1818, the commencement of his labors under his contract with them. The state had sold this land, which they had purchased and paid for pursuant to treaty.—Twenty-one of the Indians remonstrated against the petition. It is alleged that this remonstrance was procured by the exertions of evil disposed persons. This may be true, and too much confidence should not generally be placed in remonstrances or petitions coming from such sources, as they are both liable to the same objections, of being produced by extraneous influence. The petitioner states that the vouchers, contracts and papers, which he then presented to support the application, are lost, which event in several recent instances, seems to have been a fortunate and common occurrence. In that year, the legislature, by the report of the committee, (Journals Assembly, p. 413,) concluded to leave the petitioner to settle the matter with the Indians, and exert his influence in the next treaty, which was held in the summer following by Gov. Yates, assisted by the Surveyor-General. The petitioner then appeared and preferred his claims upon the Indians for services in his agency. The Governor and Surveyor-General were of opinion "that the examination of the equity and amount of his claim, could not properly be undertaken on that occasion, and advised him to apply to the legislature." Mr. Williams, who reported for the committee on claims last year, remarks, "that he appears to have followed this advice faithfully": And yet it seems, notwithstanding his success, he still feels bound to pursue its injunctions.

In 1825, the committee on Indian affairs, of which Mr. Kirkland, a neighbor to the petitioner, was chairman, reported, (Ass. Jour. p. 751,) "that it appeared that the petitioner had been employed by the Indians, in all, nearly a year, and had rendered important services; and that in their opinion, although the agreement with the Indians was for a larger sum than might be thought reasonable, yet the committee believe the petitioner is entitled to some remuneration for his services."

In 1826, the committee on claims, of which Mr. Monell was chairman, reported a bill to give the petitioner $1,000; and they state, that it appeared the petitioner had been employed in the service of the Indians nearly one year. The documents then presented were printed, and are found in documents printed of that year, No. 75.

The committee on Indian affairs in 1827, report that the petitioner "applies for the bounty of the house, but they are not aware of the time he spent in his agency."

In none of the reports which have been made by the different committees to which the petitioner's claim has been presented, does it appear that the petitioner was considered the agent of the state, or that he had a claim other than upon the bounty and generosity of the legislature. That generosity was exercised with some liberality towards the petitioner last year, even to one-third more than in 1826 he was willing to receive.

He now claims for the first time as of right. He alleges verbally, that by the treaty of 1823, the state became seized of his "promised land," in trust, by implication, for him; and that in equity, they are bound to account to him for their stewardship in the management of his equitable property. A slight examination, it is believed, will show that this pretension is unfounded.

The contract made with the Indians, by the petitioner, for the purchase of their lands in the first instance, was a violation of the constitution and laws of the country, and it is difficult to discover how the petitioner could acquire any equity by such violation. It has never been deemed advisable to reward citizens from the treasury for yielding obedience to our laws and constitution, and the committee have doubted the policy of taxing the community to give a bounty to an individual for a palpable violation of the social compact.

It is, however, said, that the contract was made with the knowledge of the executive authority. There is no evidence of this, and if there was, it could not alter the case in the least, because such knowledge could not validate that which was void by the laws and constitution. Again: It is said that the government acquired the lands with a knowledge of the petitioner's rights as to the 500 acres, and that in equity they took those lands, subject to such pre-existing incumbrance, in trust for the petitioner. Although the government knew full well of the existence of an illegal, unconscientious or void contract, by which the Indians had previously bargained their lands, when they concluded the treaty of purchase, it is not perceived how any principles of equity could thereby imply that they became trustees for a party to such contract. But when the government acquired the 500 acres in the absence of the petitioner, in point of fact they had no knowledge of his contract. At the treaty of 1823, in relation to other lands, they knew that such a contract had existed, because the petitioner was there to assert it, and make his claims, but which the Indians did not then insist upon having cancelled.

That the petitioner may have rendered beneficial services to the Indians, to the state and to himself, may be true; and that he may also, previous to the last session of the legislature, have had a claim upon the bounty and liberality of the state, may likewise be true; but if we may draw an inference from the first several reports of committees on this subject, we shall be led to the conclusion that such claim has been bountifully and amply cancelled. If the Governor knew and approved of the contract and agency of the petitioner with the Indians, he acted as a conservator of the general welfare, to protect the remnant of those who, from their habits and life, and deplorable situation, had claims upon his sympathy, and eminently required the aid of a protecting arm: And if the petitioner had acquired and possessed an undue influence over that remnant of once powerful nations, which he lost the exercise of in the treaty of 1821, or which he forebore to exercise in the treaty of 1823, it is hoped for the honor of our nature, that any claim he may have resting on such a basis, could not, for a moment, be maintained.

In every point of view which the committee have been able to consider this subject, they are of opinion that the bill ought not to become a law. It is proper to remark, however, that in this conclusion the committee are not unanimous.

Ordered, That the said bill and report be committed to a committee of the whole house.

Ordered, That the usual number of copies of the said report be printed for the use of the legislature.

Mr. Jones, from the select committee to which was referred the petition of sundry inhabitants of the county of Queens, praying that they may be authorised to construct a turnpike road from the village of Hempstead to Bethpage, reported:

That on examining the facts relative to this subject, it appears that the road now used between the villages of Bethpage and Hempstead, is direct in its general course; yet on account of the peculiarity of the soil, the travelling during certain portions of the year, and particularly after heavy rains or frosts, is extremely bad, and sometimes impassable: And also that the road proposed by the petitioners, passes over a considerable proportion of the Hempstead plain, connecting two considerable villages, and a numerous population, whose increasing necessities require that a permanent road should be established. And it further appears to the committee, that the proposed route will be confined principally to the old road; from which circumstance, it doth seem that no inconvenience or damage can arise to the proprietors of the adjoining lands. The committee are of opinion that the prayer of the petitioners should be granted, inasmuch as by the construction of this turnpike, the public, as well as the inhabitants in that section of country, would derive infinite advantage: They have therefore directed their chairman to ask leave to introduce a bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Jones, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to incorporate the Bethpage turnpike company in the county of Queens;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. White, from the select committee to which was referred the petition of sundry inhabitants of the city of Troy, relative to the election of justices of the peace, reported:

That they have had the subject under consideration, and have arrived at the opinion that the prayer of the petitioners ought to be granted, the prayer of the petitioners being founded upon sound republican principles.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. White, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to elect the justices of the peace in the city of Troy;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Sanford, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act authorising the board of supervisors of the county of St. Lawrence to levy and assess a tax on the inhabitants of the town of Oswegatchie, to build a bridge across the Oswegatchie river at the village of Ogdensburgh," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. P. C. Fuller, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act for the relief of the late treasurer of Livingston county," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Dana, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Smithsboro' and Nichols bridge company," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, made amendments thereto, and agreed to the same; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Ordered, That the committee of the whole be discharged from the further consideration of the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Troy and Bennington turnpike road and bridge company," and the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Penisten-kill turnpike road company;" and that the same be referred to a select committee, consisting of the members attending this house from the county of Rensselaer, to consider and report upon the said bills.

The house then proceeded to the consideration of the report of the committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act to authorise the appraisal of certain damages on the Champlain canal;" the said report being that the committee had gone through the said bill, made amendments thereto, and agreed to the same.

Thereupon,

The report of the committee of the whole being amended by the house,

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree with the committee of the whole in their report as amended, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

The house then proceeded to the consideration of the report of the committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act for the relief of Nathan Underwood;" the said report being that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment.

Thereupon,

The report of the committee of the whole being amended by the house,

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree with the committee of the whole in their report as amended, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

In pursuance of previous notice, Mr. Seeley asked for and obtained leave to bring in a bill entitled "An act to alter the time of holding town-meetings in the town of Athens in the county of Greene;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Garbutt offered for the consideration of the house, a resolution, in the words following, to wit:

Resolved, That from and after this week, this house will meet at nine o'clock A. M.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

The house then proceeded to the consideration of the resolutions reported by the committee on canals and internal improvements; the same were again read, in the words following, to wit:

Resolved, (if the Senate concur,) That the canal commissioners cause a route of a canal from Rome to the high falls of the Black river, to be surveyed, and estimates of the cost of constructing the same to be made; and also for improving the navigation of the river to Carthage, if they shall be of opinion that the dimensions of the canal as proposed by Mr. Cruger, will not answer, or that the surveys made by him are insufficient for them to report upon.

Resolved, That the canal commissioners cause an examination to be made as to the comparative advantages of inclined planes and locks in overcoming great elevations, the difference of time in passing from one level to another, and of expense of constructing and maintaining them.

Resolved, That the canal commissioners report on the above to the next legislature; also their opinion as to the propriety of adopting inclined planes on the proposed canal; also the probable revenue to be derived from the work, taking into consideration the additional tolls that will be received on the Erie canal; and such other information on the subject as they may obtain, and deem worthy the attention of the legislature.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolutions, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver a copy of the preceding resolutions to the Senate, and request their concurrence in the same.

Two several messages from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bills therein mentioned, were read, informing that they have passed the bill entitled "An act to authorise a special meeting of the board of supervisors of the county of Dutchess," and the bill entitled "An act for raising a sum not exceeding two thousand dollars, on the town of Lyons in Wayne county, this year and the next, to rebuild two bridges in said town," severally without amendment.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bills to the acting Governor.

Three several messages from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bills therein mentioned, were read, informing that they have passed the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Palmyra high school in the village of Palmyra in the county of Wayne;" the bill entitled "An act directing the mode of appointment of an attorney for the Stockbridge and Brothertown tribes of Indians," and the bill entitled "An act respecting the salaries of certain judicial officers;" in which bills they request the concurrence of this house.

The said bills were severally read the first time, and by unanimous consent were also read a second time, and the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Palmyra high school in the village of Palmyra in the county of Wayne," was referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Armstrong, Mr. Boynton and Mr. Hubbell; the bill entitled "An act directing the mode of appointment of an attorney for the Stockbridge and Brothertown tribes of Indians," was referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. White, Mr. Eldridge and Mr. Johnson; and the bill entitled "An act respecting the salaries of certain judicial officers," was referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. C. L. Livingston, Mr. White and Mr. Fowler, severally to consider and report thereon.

Mr. W. Hall, from the committee on engrossed bills, reported, that they have examined the engrossed bill entitled "An act authorising the appointment of inspectors for the Schoharie-kill bridge company;" the engrossed bill entitled "An act to alter the October term of the courts of common pleas and general sessions in and for the county of Warren," and the engrossed bill entitled "An act to appoint commissioners to lay out a highway from Fredonia in the county of Chautauque, to the village of Perry in the county of Genesee;" and find the said bills correctly engrossed.

The said engrossed bill, entitled "An act authorising the appointment of inspectors for the Schoharie-kill bridge company," was read the third time.

Resolved, That the bill do pass.

The said engrossed bill, entitled "An act to alter the October term of the courts of common pleas and general sessions in and for the county of Warren," was read the third time.

Resolved, That the bill do pass.

The said engrossed bill, entitled "An act to appoint commissioners to lay out a highway from Fredonia in the county of Chautauque, to the village of Perry in the county of Genesee," was read the third time.

Resolved, That the bill do pass.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said several bills to the Senate, and request their concurrence in the same.

A message from the acting Governor, delivered by his private secretary, was read, in the words following, to wit:

TO THE ASSEMBLY.

GENTLEMEN,

I have this day approved and signed the following bills:

"An act relative to the clerk's office of the county of Broome."

"An act to improve a part of the outlet of Chautauque lake for steam-boat navigation."

E. T. THROOP.

Albany, March 23, 1829.

The house then again resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act to provide for the support of aged and indigent seamen, and the house of refuge for juvenile delinquents in the city of New-York;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Bradish, from the said committee, reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, made sundry amendments thereto, and agreed to the same; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read.

Ordered, That the report of the committee of the whole be laid upon the table.

The house then resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act authorising the Mohawk turnpike company to relinquish a part of their road;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Bradish, from the said committee, reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read.

Ordered, That the report of the committee of the whole be laid upon the table.

And then the House adjourned until ten o'clock to-morrow morning.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 25, 1829.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

The petition of sundry citizens of the city of Schenectady, praying for an act of incorporation, for the purpose of establishing a school for the education of the coloured population of said city, was read, and referred to the committee on colleges, academies and common schools.

The petition of Thomas Hitchcock, Samuel Holladay and Simon Danforth, of the town of Lenox in the county of Madison, praying for certain legislative relief as set forth in their petition, was read, and referred to the committee on canals and internal improvements.

The petition of Abijah Hunt, of the town of Sterling in the county of Madison, praying certain legislative relief relative to a lot of land purchased by him from a revolutionary soldier, was read, and referred to the committee on public lands.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the county of Rensselaer, praying for the incorporation of a company for the purpose of constructing a turnpike road from Troy through the village of Lansingburgh to the town of Bennington in the state of Vermont, and for the appointment of commissioners to alter and improve the present road from Troy to Bennington, was read, and referred to the committee on the establishment and improvement of roads and bridges, and the incorporation of turnpike companies.

The remonstrance of sundry inhabitants of the counties of Livingston and Allegany, against the repeal of the law authorising the construction of a dam in the Genesee river at Mount Morris, and the documents accompanying the same, were read, and referred to the select committee on that subject, of which Mr. Skinner is chairman.

The remonstrance of sundry inhabitants of the village of Rochester, against the passage of a law to incorporate said village into a city, was read, and referred to the committee on the incorporation of cities and villages.

Mr. Burt, from the committee on the establishment and improvement of roads and bridges, and the incorporation of turnpike companies. to whom were referred the petitions of inhabitants of the counties of Greene, Schoharie and Montgomery, reported:

That the petitioners are praying for aid from the state, or for an act of incorporation, to construct a rail-road from the village of Canajoharie in the county of Montgomery, to the village of Catskill in the county of Greene. They represent that the distance from the first mentioned place to the latter, on the proposed route, would be very much diminished; therefore it is a sufficient reason for the construction of a rail-road, in order to afford them greater facilities in transporting their products to market.

The practical operations and advantages arising from rail-roads, are not sufficiently understood, to be recommended to be constructed at the public expense.

To that part of the petition which suggests the propriety of the state becoming interested in the manner contemplated by the petitioners, the committee do not discover how the state would be the gainer by undertaking the construction of a rail-road, which, if any business was done upon it to warrant the public in its expenditure, must be diverted from the Erie canal at Canajoharie, which certainly does not present so favorable a view to increase the revenue of the state, as to sustain itself for a moment's reflection. In the closing of navigation in the fall of 1827, which was realized sooner than anticipated, no doubt but what a large amount of the produce of the west was locked up for the winter, or was, by an increase of extraordinary exertions and expense, forwarded to a market; which was one of the principal reasons why the public mind was called to the subject of a canal on the north side of the Mohawk, and at present substituted by the petitioners with a project of this contemplated rail-road.

To remedy this evil, which will sometimes happen, various plans have been suggested, and have been the subject of general inquiry; but no plan has as yet been suggested, that would completely remove the impediments, in which the advantages resulting from it would be commensurate with the expenses. Double locks on this part of the canal, have been the subject frequently spoken of; damming and locking the Mohawk, has been another; and no doubt, if difficulties should continue to multiply, or the present ones be of such magnitude as to be oppressive upon community, the state, by its authorised agents, will afford relief in some way, that the interests of the state will justify, and afford that facility to those inhabitants which their necessities require.

The state have been at great expense in constructing the Erie canal through the valley of the Mohawk; and taken in connexion with improvements made at the expense of the state in the Hudson river, it could hardly be supposed that she should still be called upon to make further appropriations to relieve its citizens residing either in the county of Montgomery or Greene. This portion of our citizens cannot reasonably complain, from their secluded situation, in relation to the means afforded them for the transportation of their products to market.

As to that part of their petition, praying an act of incorporation to construct a rail-road, there could be no objection, unless it might be the means of diverting property which might otherwise seek its way on your already made canal. Should there be danger from this result, it certainly should not be granted; but if this would be only imaginary, then the act of incorporation to individuals would do no harm. Now the question arises, if the legislature should grant the favour, would it ever be carried into effect? The committee cannot conceive where individuals can be found, who would invest sufficient funds to perfect at an expense so great as this would be, to construct the contemplated rail-road.

Under all the circumstances connected with this application, the committee would not feel justified in taking up the time of the house, at so late a period of the present session, by introducing a bill; therefore they recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That the petitioners have leave to withdraw their petitions.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Burt, from the committee on the establishment and improvement of roads and bridges, and the incorporation of turnpike companies, to whom was referred the petition of the Watervliet turnpike company, reported:

That this company was incorporated at the last session of the legislature, to construct a road upon an improved plan between the cities of Albany and Troy, at an expense estimated at about thirteen thousand dollars per mile; of which the stock of the said company is understood to be subscribed by gentlemen possessing the means, and prepared to commence operations as soon as some difficulties which arose from the locating of the same, are obviated. It may be proper for the committee to observe, that this bill was introduced in the early part of the present session; since which, remonstrances have been presented, and the committee of the whole was discharged from the same, and the bill and accompanying documents referred back to the committee, for the purpose of examining into the merits of the subject: since which, the persons interested in the enterprise have made such arrangements among themselves, as has given all parties satisfaction. The committee have therefore amended the said bill, and now ask leave to introduce the same.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Burt, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act concerning the Watervliet turnpike company;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Morell, from the committee on the incorporation of cities and villages, to which was referred the petition of sundry inhabitants of the village of Cooperstown in the county of Otsego, praying for a certain amendment to the act incorporating that village, asked for leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Morell, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to amend the act entitled 'An act to vest certain powers in the freeholders and inhabitants of the village of Cooperstown in the county of Otsego,' passed June 12th, 1812;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Morell, from the committee on the incorporation of cities and villages, to which was referred the petition of the trustees of the village of Gibbonsville in the county of Albany, praying for certain amendments to their charter in relation to the granting of licenses, and also relative to their firemen, asked for leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Morell, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to vest certain powers and privileges in the freeholders and inhabitants of the village of Gibbonsville;'" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Armstrong, from the committee on the erection and division of towns and counties, to which was referred the petition of sundry inhabitants of the town of Constable in the county of Franklin, praying for a division of that town, asked for leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Armstrong, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to divide the town of Constable;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Armstrong, from the committee on the erection and division of towns and counties, to which was referred the petition of sundry inhabitants of the town of Clymer in the county of Chautauque, praying for a division of said town, asked for leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Armstrong, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to divide the town of Clymer in the county of Chautauque;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Armstrong, from the committee on the erection and division of towns and counties, to which was referred the petition of sundry inhabitants of the town of Kirkland, praying that part of the town of Westmoreland may be annexed to to Kirkland, and sundry remonstrances against the same, reported:

That they have had the same under consideration, and it appears to the committee that the two towns are about equal in territory and population, and that neither of them is so large or populous as to create any inconvenience in transacting their town business. The petitioners ask that all that part of the town of Westmoreland lying south of a line drawn due west from the east corner of lot No. 11, should be annexed to the town of Kirkland; but the petitioners have not furnished the committee with any map, and they have no means of knowing what part of the town of Westmoreland would be comprised in the prayed for division. They recommend to the house the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That the petitioners have leave to withdraw their petition.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr Armstrong, from the committee on the erection and division of towns and counties, to which was referred the petition of sundry inhabitants of the town of Hopkinton, praying for an alteration of their town lines, reported:

That they have had the same under consideration, and inasmuch as the petitioners have furnished no evidence that the requisite notices were given, they recommend to the house the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That the petitioners have leave to withdraw their petition.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. P. Van Beuren, from the committee on medical subjects, on the petition of Hiram Page of the county of Seneca, asking permission to practise as a cancer doctor, reported:

That they have bestowed that reflection on the subject which the nature of the application seems to demand; and in coming to the conclusion which accompanies this report, deem it proper to state briefly some of the reasons by which they have been governed. It appears from the representation of the petitioner himself, that he is not educated to the profession of physic, neither does he now wish to enter into the practice of that profession. His object is, to obtain permission to address himself singly to the cure of certainly one of the many inveterate diseases "which flesh is heir to." The committee are disposed to do all within the scope of their power, consistent with the safety and welfare of the public, to encourage and reward the discoveries and inventions of individuals. But in entertaining this disposition, they do not feel warranted in granting exclusive privileges to every individual who pretends to have made an important discovery; particularly when the privileges sought to be connected with that discovery, are such, as in their application will not only affect the health, but the lives of mankind. The committee have no satisfactory evidence of the nature or properties of this remedial agent of the petitioner, and consequently cannot speak of its efficacy in the removal of cancer. They assume the ground, however, that so obstinate a disease can only be cured by the assistance of a very powerful remedy. And as powerful medicines administered in improper cases and in undue quantities, become poisons in their operation on the human system, they deem it at least dangerous to trust their prescription to such as have evinced no qualification to judge of their "modus operandi." It must be conceded by all, that a person unacquainted with the structure and organization of the human system, cannot, "ceteris paribus," be so competent to judge of the effects of medicines addressed to that system, as another, whose investigations have been directed to that object. In addition to these disadvantages, the petitioner must necessarily labor under another which, though before adverted to, it may be proper to state more distinctly.

It is known to a part of the committee, that there are many local affections bearing so close a resemblance to cancer, that it requires some degree of professional discernment to discriminate their particular characters. And as errors from want of discernment must frequently happen to him who is not conversant with the aspects of different local diseases, the committee are of opinion, that the barriers which have been erected to guard the public from the pernicious effects resulting from such errors, should not lightly be encroached upon. A further reason that has operated on the minds of the committee, in guiding them to their conclusion, is, that by granting this petition, a precedent is established, and the way is paved for the introduction of an almost infinite number of applications of a similar nature. In conclusion, the committee will remark, that, inasmuch as the petitioner can, if he adduces evidence of the intrinsic value of his discovery, obtain from another source all the advantages which he can expect to derive from a special act for his relief, they deem it inexpedient to legislate on the subject; and under this impression, offer the following resolution:

Resolved, That the prayer of the petitioner ought not to be granted, and that he have leave to withdraw his petition.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Chandler, from the committee on the erection and division of towns and counties, to which were referred the petitions of sundry inhabitants of the towns of Bovina, Middletown and Roxbury, in the county of Delaware, praying for the passage of a law to annex parts of the towns of Roxbury and Middletown to Bovina, and the remonstrances of sundry inhabitants of said towns against the passage of such a law, reported for the consideration of the house, a resolution in the words following, to wit:

Resolved, That the prayer of the petitioners ought not to be granted, and that they have leave to withdraw their petition.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Dygert, from the committee on the erection and division of towns and counties, on the several petitions of sundry inhabitants of the towns of Kirkland and New-Hartford, in the county of Oneida, to annex a part of Kirkland to New-Hartford, and the petition of sundry inhabitants of the town of New-Hartford, to annex a part of said town of New-Hartford to the town of Kirkland, in said county, reported:

That the committee have had the said petitions under their consideration, and can see no good reason for granting the prayer of the petitioners; and they offer the following resolution for the consideration of the house:

Resolved, That the prayer of the petitioners ought not to be granted.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Williamson, from the select committee to which was referred the petition of sundry inhabitants of Suffolk county, praying for the passage of a law for the appointment of inspectors of wood in said county, reported:

That the petitioners state that they have for a great length of time experienced considerable inconvenience, and in many instances losses, from a want of uniformity in the measurement of wood exported from the said county: That a practice has prevailed to a considerable extent, of cutting such wood into different and unequal length; and of putting together, when piled up for sale, that of an inferior kind with that of a better quality, in such a manner as to conceal the more unsaleable part from the notice and view of the purchaser: That these practices operate hard upon those who always wish to deal with fairness and candor in these respects, and demand a remedy, by subjecting all wood intended for fuel and for exportation, to the inspection of men appointed by law for that purpose, by whom the interests of both buyer and seller will be more likely to be protected, and that article placed upon a better footing in the market to which it may be conveyed. The committee ask leave to introduce a bill in accordance with the prayer of the petitioners.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Williamson, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act for the inspection of wood in the county of Suffolk;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Armstrong, from the select committee to which was referred the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to incorporate the Palmyra high school in the village of Palmyra in the county of Wayne," reported, that they have examined the said bill, see no reason why the same should not be passed into a law, and recommend that it be ordered to a third reading.

Thereupon,

Ordered, That the said bill be read the third time.

Mr. C. L. Livingston, from the select committee to which was referred the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act respecting the salaries of certain judicial officers," reported, that they have examined the said bill, and see no reason why the same should not be passed into a law.

Ordered, That the said bill be committed to a committee of the whole house, when on the bill entitled "An act for the payment of certain officers of government."

Mr. Eldridge, from the committee appointed to examine all bills committed to a committee of the whole house, and to report all such bills as in their opinion may with safety and propriety be referred to select committees to report complete, reported the following bills as proper for such reference, to wit:

The bill entitled "An act authorising Stephen Coal to erect a dam across the Canisteo river;" the bill entitled "An act to revive an act entitled 'An act to incorporate the Orphan asylum society in the city of New-York,' passed April 7th, 1807;" the bill entitled "An act to authorise the sale of subdivision number four of lot number ninety in the town of Lansing in the county of Tompkins;" the bill entitled "An act confirming the reports of the trustees of certain school districts in this state;" the bill entitled "An act authorising the trustees of the German reformed sanctity church to sell certain real estate;" the bill entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to incorporate the village of Waterloo in the county of Seneca;'" the bill entitled "An act to alter the name of the town of Clifton in the county of Saratoga;" the bill entitled "An act relative to the city of Hudson;" and the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act relative to the county courts of the county of Onondaga."

Thereupon,

Ordered, That the committee of the whole be discharged from the further consideration of the said several bills, and that the bill entitled "An act authorising Stephen Coal to erect a dam across the Canisteo river," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Phœnix, Mr. Graves and Mr. Sheppard; that the bill entitled "An act to revive an act entitled 'An act to incorporate the Orphan asylum society in the city of New-York,' passed April 7th, 1807," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Cargill, Mr. C. L. Livingston and Mr. J. Van Beuren; that the bill entitled "An act to authorise the sale of subdivision number four of lot number ninety in the town of Lansing in the county of Tompkins," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Dana, Mr. Dean and Mr. Gosman; that the bill entitled "An act confirming the reports of the trustees of certain school districts in this state," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Skinner, Mr. J. M'Donald and Mr. Chandler; that the bill entitled "An act authorising the trustees of the German reformed sanctity church to sell certain real estate," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. P. Van Beuren, Mr. Holdridge and Mr. H. W. Livingston; that the bill entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to incorporate the village of Waterloo in the county of Seneca,'" be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Bostwick, Mr. Scott and Mr. Dana; that the bill entitled "An act to alter the name of the town of Clifton in the county of Saratoga," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Mandeville, Mr. Waring and Mr. Wheeler; that the bill entitled "An act relative to the city of Hudson," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Holdridge, Mr. P. Van Beuren and Mr. Austin; and that the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act relative to the county courts of the county of Onondaga," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. L. Smith, Mr. Matthews and Mr. J. Hall; to be by the said select committees severally reported complete.

In pursuance of previous notice, Mr. Hazeltine asked for and obtained leave to bring in a bill entitled "An act to alter the time of holding the next annual meeting of the board of supervisors of the county of Chautauque;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

In pursuance of previous notice, Mr. Randall asked for and obtained leave to bring in a bill entitled "An act to alter the law in relation to courts of general sessions in the county of Montgomery;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Ordered, That the usual number of copies of the documents accompanying the bill entitled "An act for the relief of John Sargeant," be printed for the use of the legislature.

Ordered, That the bill entitled "An act concerning the Watervliet turnpike company," be restored to the same number on the general orders of the day, which it occupied previous to its recommitment to the committee on the establishment and improvement of roads and bridges, and the incorporation of turnpike companies.

Mr. J. Hall gave notice that he would, on some future day, ask leave to introduce a bill to reduce the fee for pumping salt water in the town of Salina, and also to reduce the fee of the inspector of salt in said town.

Mr. Hascall gave notice that he would, on some future day, ask leave to introduce a bill to extend the gaol liberties of the respective counties in this state, to the lines of said counties.

Mr. H. W. Livingston gave notice that he would, on some future day, ask leave to introduce a bill to amend the act entitled "An an act to amend the act entitled 'An act to prevent horse-racing, and for other purposes,'" passed April 5th, 1828.

Mr. Paige gave notice that he would, on some future day, ask leave to introduce a bill relative to the common schools in the city of Schenectady.

The house then proceeded to the consideration of the report of the committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act authorising the Mohawk turnpike company to relinquish part of their road;" the said report being that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment.

Thereupon,

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree with the committee of the whole in their said report, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

A communication from the comptroller, was read, in the words following, to wit:

COMPTROLLER'S OFFICE,
Albany, March 24, 1829.

The comptroller, in obedience to a resolution of the honorable the Assembly of the 19th instant, directing him to report to that house "a statement of the several items for which the money received by the health commissioners in the city of New-York (for the use of the Marine hospital in that city) has been expended, so far as the vouchers rendered to his office will enable him to set forth the same, for the year ending the 31st December, 1828," respectfully reports:

That the annexed statement furnishes that information, so far as it can be given without making entire copies of all the vouchers, which, as will readily be seen by examining this digest of them, are very numerous. It is believed, also, the information to be derived from this exhibit of these expenditures, will be at least equally if not more useful for all the purposes of legislation, than full length copies of the original vouchers on file would be. The amount appearing upon the abstract is that for which vouchers have been rendered to this office, and passed upon as sufficient. The whole amount which, it appears by the return of the commissionors, they have received during the past year, is $41,196.53. In examining the vouchers mentioned upon the schedule hereto annexed, it is found that they cover an amount greater by 60 cents, than the commissioners had credited themselves for in their abstract of them. With this exception, these vouchers are regular. To make the amount of money returned as received, one voucher for the sum of $310.75, is suspended as insufficient, but will probably be returned with the proper receipt annexed, so as to balance the general abstract of the commissioners, and to complete their account for the monies thereby appearing to have been received. Yet, as that much of their account has not been audited and passed, the comptroller has not supposed it proper to report this voucher to the legislature under the resolution. There is also another subject involved in the settlement of the accounts of the health commissioners, which the comptroller avails himself of this opportunity to suggest to the legislature.

During the past year there has been collected by the health commissioner, as appears by the accounts of the commissioners of health, rendered to this office, the sum of $1.073.50, from the masters of coasting vessels, pursuant to the directions of the 7th section of title 4 of chapter 11 of the revised statutes of this state. The 8th section of the same title gives to the health commissioner a commission of $2\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. for collecting this money, but provides for no other allowance to him or any other person for this service. He has employed the clerk of the common council of the city of New-York to make these collections, and the clerk has charged 10 per cent. upon the monies collected, which has been allowed to him by the commissioners of health, and is passed by them to their credit in their accounting for the "hospital monies." This payment by them, the comptroller does not consider himself authorised by any existing law to allow in the settlement of their account, and therefore that item has also been suspended. Some other expenditures, also, from these monies, collected from masters of coasting vessels, the vouchers for which have been sent with the other accounts of the commissioners of health, are not allowed, but remain suspended at the request of the commissioners, for further explanation. These latter items, however, are not embraced in the general account rendered by the commissioners. but are contained in a separate abstract relating solely to the collections from coasting vessels. Their allowance or rejection, therefore, will not change the balance of that account as rendered, although the decision upon these vouchers involves their amount in the expenditure of these monies.

There is no doubt of the power to allow $2\frac{1}{2}$ of the 10 per cent. charged for the collection of this $1,073.50 from coasting vessels; but beyond that, it is believed no existing law will authorise the comptroller to go. The health commissioner alleges that no money from this source has ever before been realized by the hospital, and that the collections from coasters are so very difficult, that they cannot be made at a less rate per cent. than that charged; that all the commission charged has been actually paid for collecting this money, and that not one cent has been received by him for that collection; that if a commission at least equal to 10 per cent. cannot be allowed for future collections from these vessels, the result will be what it has formerly been, that no money from this source will be received. The comptroller finds from examination of former accounts of monies received for the Marine hospital, that nothing appears to have been realized from coasting vessels, although the provisions of the law have been precisely the same they now are, for several years. He has himself no knowledge of the necessary trouble and expense of making these collections, but is informed that one attempt has formerly been made to collect this contribution from coasting vessels, which was abandoned as being necessarily more expensive than the provisions of the law would remunerate. Under these circumstances, the propriety of making some further allowance for collecting these monies in future, as well as of authorising the comptroller to audit and allow the 10 per cent. charged upon the monies collected the past year, is respectfully submitted to the legislature.

Ordered, That the said communication be laid upon the table, and that the usual number of copies thereof be printed for the use of the legislature.

A communication from the Regents of the University, was read, in the words following, to wit:

TO THE HONORABLE THE ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF NEW-YORK:

The Regents of the University, in compliance with a resolution of the honorable the Assembly of the 18th of March, 1829, requesting them to report "what sums of money have been realized and paid over to the institutions interested in the lotteries, granted by an act for the promotion of literature, passed April 13, 1814; and what reports have been made to the Regents by the said institutions, in pursuance of section 6 of the act entitled 'An act to limit the continuance of lotteries,' passed April 5, 1822," report:

That they have no documents in their possession from which they can ascertain with satisfactory certainty, what sums of money have been realized and paid over to the institutions interested in the lotteries, granted by the act of April 13, 1814. But as to what reports have been made to them by the said institutions, in pursuance of section 6 of the act entitled "An act to limit the continuance of lotteries," passed April 5, 1822, they are enabled to communicate the following information.

From the annual report of the trustees of Union College, made to the Regents of the University on the 1st day of March, 1824, it appears that the institutions concerned in the lotteries referred to in the said acts, had entered into a contract with John B. Yates and Archibald McIntyre, for the drawing of the whole lottery, and had taken their obligation for the amount stipulated; that the obligation so taken, had "been reduced $28.817.96; that no part of that amount had been applied to any appropriations made to Union College, but wholly to appropriations made to other institutions interested in said lottery."

From a report of the trustees of said college, dated on the 28th day of July, 1821, but received by the Regents in March 1825, it appears that the said trustees had purchased the "right of the several public institutions in the Literature lottery," and that they had taken the obligation of Messrs. Yates & McIntyre, in behalf of the said institutions, for $276.090.14, which had, by sundry payments, been reduced to the sum of $235,467.13; all which payments had been applied towards the extinguishment of the claims of the other institutions.

In the annual report of said college, received by the Regents on the 10th of March, 1827, the trustees state, that "the original obligation given in behalf of the institutions interested in the Literature lottery, for $276,090.14, by Messrs. Yates & McIntyre, had, by sundry payments, been reduced to $143,516.58; which payments had been applied, in part, to the cancelling of the claims of other institutions, and in part to the payment of the debts otherwise owed by Union College."

In their report dated on the 31st of January, 1828, the trustees report that no further cash payments had been made to them by Messrs. Yates & McIntyre, but that the interest on the $20,000, due by the trustees of Union College to the trustees of the College of Physicians and Surgeons in New-York, had been paid by the said contractors, who had become obligated to pay the principal also; but until it should be paid, the trustees of Union College would remain responsible; and that besides payment of the interest due the College of Physicians and Surgeons in New-York, the contractors had transferred to the trustees of Union College, about eighty thousand dollars in bonds and mortgages, which the trustees had taken with a view to their greater security, and which they trusted would be ultimately realized for application as the law directed.

In their report received in January last, the trustees say: "The indebtedness of the contractors for the Literature lottery, has not been lessened during the last year. And as the law blending that lottery with the other unfinished lotteries heretofore authorised, removed the whole from the supervision of the board of trustees, they have nothing definite on that subject to report, other than that they have received positive assurance that further payment shall be made to them during the current year, and that the whole amount due shall certainly be paid off within the time fixed by law for finishing the drawing of said lotteries."

By order of the Regents.

SIMEON DE WITT, Chancellor.

Attest: G. HAWLEY, Secretary.

Ordered, That the usual number of copies of the said communication be printed for the use of the legislature.

A message from the acting Governor, delivered by his private secretary, was read, in the words following, to wit:

TO THE ASSEMBLY.

GENTLEMEN,

I have this day approved and signed the bill entitled "An act authorising the construction of the Chenango canal."

E. T. THROOP.

Albany, March 24, 1829.

Mr. W. Hall, from the committee on engrossed bills, reported, that they have examined the engrossed bill entitled "An act authorising the supervisors of the county of St. Lawrence to levy a tax on the inhabitants of the town of Oswegatchie, to build a bridge across the Oswegatchie river at the village of Ogdensburgh;" and the engrossed bill entitled "An act for the relief of the late treasurer of Livingston county;" and that the same are correctly engrossed.

The said engrossed bill, entitled "An act authorising the supervisors of the county of St. Lawrence to levy a tax on the inhabitants of the town of Oswegatchie, to build a bridge across the Oswegatchie river at the village of Ogdensburgh," was read the third time.

Resolved, That the bill do pass.

The said engrossed bill, entitled "An act for the relief of the late treasurer of Livingston county," was read the third time.

Resolved, That the bill do pass.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bills to the Senate, and request their concurrence in the same.

Mr. W. Hall, from the committee on engrossed bills, reported, that they have examined the engrossed bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Smithsboro' and Nichols bridge company," and find the same correctly engrossed.

The said engrossed bill, entitled "An act to incorporate the Smithsboro' and Nichols bridge company," was read the third time.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the final passage of the said bill, and it was determined in the negative, there not being two-thirds of all the members elected to this house voting in favor thereof.

Mr. Judd offered for the consideration of the house, a resolution, in the words following, to wit.

Resolved, That this house do reconsider its vote on the bill entitled "An act authorising a re-appraisement of certain lands in Oneida Castleton, and for other purposes."

Ordered, That the said resolution be laid upon the table.

Seven several messages from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bills therein mentioned, were read, informing that they have passed the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Flushing steam-boat company;" the bill entitled "An act to divide the town of Ancram in the county of Columbia;" the bill entitled "An act to amend the act entitled 'An act to erect a new town by by the name of Little-Falls, from parts of the towns of Herkimer and German-flatts in the county of Herkimer,' passed February 10th, 1829;" the bill entitled "An act for the relief of Betsey Cameron;" the bill entitled "An act relative to the city of Troy;" the bill entitled "An act to divide the town of Oppenheim in the county of Montgomery," and the bill entitled "An act for the relief of Thomas Staats junior;" in which bills they request the concurrence of this house.

The said bills were severally read the first time, and by unanimous consent were also read a second time, and the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Flushing steam-boat company," was referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Jones, Mr. Wyckoff and Mr. Hedges; the bill entitled "An act to divide the town of Ancram in the county of Columbia," was referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Armstrong, Mr. H. W. Livingston and Mr. Dygert: the bill entitled "An act to amend the act entitled 'An act to erect a new town by the name of Little-Falls, from parts of the towns of Herkimer and German-flatts in the county of Herkimer,' passed February 10th, 1829," was referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Armstrong, Mr. Dygert and Mr. Mann; the bill entitled "An act for the relief of Betsey Cameron," was referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Mann, Mr. C. Baker and Mr. Mathews; the bill entitled "An act relative to the city of Troy," was referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Mallory, Mr. Morell and Mr. Falley; the bill entitled "An act to divide the town of Oppenheim in the county of Montgomery," was referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Burt, Mr. Randall and Mr. Spier; and the bill entitled "An act for the relief of Thomas Staats junior," was referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Bradish, Mr. Eldridge and Mr. Savage, severally to consider and report thereon.

The remonstrance of sundry inhabitants of the town of Ancram in the county of Columbia, against a division of that town, was read, and referred to the select committee to which was referred the engrossed bill from the Senate entitled "An act to divide the town of Ancram in the county of Columbia," of which Mr. Armstrong is chairman.

The remonstrance of sundry inhabitants of the town of German-flatts in the county of Herkimer, against annexing any part of that town to the town of Little-Falls, was read, and referred to the select committee to which was referred the engrossed bill from the Senate to amend the act erecting the town of Little-Falls, of which Mr. Armstrong is chairman.

A message from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bill and amendments therein mentioned, was read, informing that they have passed the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the village of Brockport," with the amendments therewith delivered.

The said bill and amendments were read; and all of the amendments having been again read, excepting the amendments to the 23d section of the said bill,

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to concur with the Senate in their said amendment to the said bill, and it was determined in the affirmative, two-thirds of all the members elected to this house voting in favor thereof, as follows, to wit:

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bill and amendments to the Senate, and inform them that this house have concurred with them in all of their amendments to the said bill, excepting their amendments to the 23d section, in which this house do non-concur.

The house then proceeded to the consideration of the report of the committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act for the relief of the heirs and legal representatives of John Thompson deceased;" the said report being that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment, in the words following, to wit:

An act for the relief of the heirs and legal representatives of John Thompson, deceased.

The People of the State of New-York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

It shall be lawful for the commissioners of the land-office, and they are hereby required, to grant letters patent to the heirs and legal representatives of John Thompson deceased, a private in Captain Hallett's company in the second New-York regiment, commanded by Colonel Van Courtlandt, in the same manner as has been granted to soldiers serving in the line of this state, for two hundred acres of land in the tract set apart for the use of the line of this state, in full for the bounty lands of said John Thompson.

Thereupon,

Mr. Bradish made a motion that the house should agree to amend the report of the committee of the whole, by striking out of the section the word "two," and inserting instead thereof the word "five."

Debates were had upon the said motion of Mr. Bradish; and the question being put whether the house would agree thereto, it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree with the committee of the whole in their report as amended, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Three several messages from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bills therein mentioned, were read, informing that they have passed the bill entitled "An act for the relief of Daniel M'Inroy;" the bill entitled "An act to divide the town of Junius in the county of Seneca, into four towns;" and the bill entitled "An act relative to the ferry between Nuttenhook and Coxsackie landing," severally without amendment.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bills to the acting Governor.

A message from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bill, amendments, and copies of the resolutions therein mentioned, was read, informing that they have concurred with this house in all of its amendments to the bill entitled "An act to divide the town of Camillus in the county of Onondaga," excepting the amendment to the fourth section of the bill, in which they do non-concur.

Thereupon,

Resolved, That this house do recede from its amendment to the fourth section of the said bill.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bill and amendments, together with a copy of the preceding resolution, to the Senate.

The house then again resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act directing the manner of choosing electors of president and vice-president;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Sheppard, from the said committee, reported progress, and asked for and obtained leave to sit again.

The house then resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act relative to general elections;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Sheppard, from the said committee, reported progress, and asked for and obtained leave to sit again.

And then the House adjourned until ten o'clock to-morrow morning.

THURSDAY, MARCH 26, 1829.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

The petition of Benjamin Tucker, of the city of New-York, praying for the passage of an act authorising him to assume the name of Benjamin Franklin, was read, and referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Myers. Mr. C. L. Livingston and Mr. Dayton.

Two several petitions of John G. Dare and Victor Stewart, aliens, severally praying that they may be authorised to purchase, take, hold, and convey real estate within this state, were read, and referred to the committee on the petitions of aliens.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the town of Moira, in the county of Franklin, praying for the passage of an act to confirm the election of justices of the peace chosen in said town at the last general election, was read, and referred to the committee on the judiciary.

The petition of John Brown, of the town of Rotterdam in the county of Schenectady. praying to be compensated for an injury done to a canal boat of which he was the owner, in its passage through a lock on the Erie canal, was read, and referred to the committee on canals and internal improvements.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the town of Ovid, in the county of Seneca, praying for the appointment of a commissioner to perform certain duties of a judge of the supreme court, in said county, was read, and referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Bostwick, Mr. Scott and Mr. Mann.

The petition of the trustees of the Rochester high school, praying for the passage of a law to authorise them to mortgage their real estate, and for other purposes mentioned in the petition, was read, and referred to the committee on colleges, academies and common schools.

Mr. Skinner, from the committee on colleges, academies and common schools, to which was referred the memorial of the Orphan asylum society of the city of New-York, together with the message of the late Governor, recommending the subject to the favorable consideration of the legislature, reported:

That this society was instituted by a number of ladies in the city of New-York, in the year 1806, for the purpose of protecting, relieving and educating orphan children in that city. The petitioners state that the institution has been hitherto cherished and sustained by the voluntary contribution of charitable individuals, and that their labors have been attended with more than anticipated success; that six hundred orphan children have been provided with a home, supported and educated by the society; that they have all been reared in the paths of virtue and industry, and at proper ages placed in situations to become useful members of society.

They also represent, that individual donations have recently been withheld from the society, under an erroneous impression on the part of the public, that they have obtained a large bequest from the late Mr. Jacobs, which they have not received, and the probability of their ever receiving any thing from that source is not stated.

They pray that public aid may be afforded to sustain the institution, and that the real and personal estate of the society may be exempted from taxation.

This society was incorporated in the year 1807. In the year following, the sum of five thousand dollars was granted to the institution, to be raised by lottery. And in the year 1811, an act was passed directing the sum of five hundred dollars to be paid annually to the society from the fund arising from auction duties, until the farther order of the legislature, which has not been repealed.

The benevolent objects of this association; the disinterested exertion of its members in promoting the noblest charities of life; and the inestimable blessings flowing from their labors to society, and especially to the helpless orphans whom they have rescued from misery and ruin, and protected, and educated, and placed in the paths of virtue, and in a condition of usefulness and happiness, are considerations arising out of the facts before the committee in favor of this application.

This institution has been frequently and favorably noticed in years past, in messages of the Governor to the legislature, and it is believed to be one of the most useful, interesting and important charitable institutions in the state.

The committee are of opinion that a small additional appropriation ought to be made for the support and encouragement of the society, and that their property ought to be exempted from taxation.

They have therefore prepared a bill, which they now ask leave to introduce.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Skinner, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act for the benefit of the Orphan asylum society of the city of New-York;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Ordered, That the usual number of copies of the said bill and report be printed for the use of the legislature.

Mr. Skinner, from the committee on colleges, academies and common schools, on the petition of sundry inhabitants of the city of Schenectady, praying for the incorporation of the Schenectady African school society, asked leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Skinner, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to incorporate the Schenectady African school society;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Morell, from the committee on the incorporation of cities and villages, to which was referred the petition of the Washington fire company in the city of Troy, for the passage of a law to authorise them to increase the number of their members, asked for leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Morell, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to amend the act entitled 'An act to incorporate the Washington volunteer fire company in the village of Troy;'" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Morell, from the committee on the incorporation of cities and villages, to which was referred the petition of the firemen of the city of Troy, praying for an act of incorporation, asked for leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Morell, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act incorporating the firemen in the city of Troy, by the name of the Fire department of the city of Troy;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Ives, from the committee on the erection and division of towns and counties, to whom was referred the petition of sundry inhabitants of the town of Deerfield, for a division of their town, together with a remonstrance against it of sundry inhabitants of the same town, reported:

That the petitioners set forth, that from the size and form of their town, it is very inconvenient transacting their town business, and that there exists an opposition of interests in the different sections of the town, prejudicial to the improvement of roads and bridges. Those who oppose a division, state that the proposed new town will have the one-half of three bridges to support over the Mohawk river, and one over the Nine mile creek, which is much more than their share, and that it will burden them in their town expenses.

The committee have investigated the subject as far as they have been able; and it appears that the town is in the form of an L, about ten miles east and west, eleven north and south, with a population of something like four thousand. After taking into consideration the size and form of the town, together with the population, a majority of the committee are of opinion that the prayer of the petitioners ought to be granted. They have therefore prepared a bill agreeable thereto, and directed their chairman to ask leave to introduce the same.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Ives, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to divide the town of Deerfield, in the county of Oneida;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Myers, from the select committee to which was referred the memorial of Margaret Wool and the heirs of the late Captain Isaiah Wool, praying for an exchange of bounty lands, reported:

That they have investigated the claim, and find that lot number seventy-three in the township of Sterling, containing five hundred acres, was originally granted and set apart for the establishment of schools and the propagation of the gospel; and from its distant and remote situation, and inferior quality, it was taken back and exchanged under an act of the legislature, passed the 16th day of June, 1812, and lot number 17 was allotted in its stead; and in Feb. 1813, the memorialists having substantiated their claim to bounty lands from the state, as the heirs of said Wool, who was entitled to 1800 acres, received patents for 750 acres, the above described lot being part thereof. The committee have reason to believe that the land is of inferior quality; and although located on the state road, they have never been able to sell or receive any benefit from it, and that the same, instead of being a benefit, has been a source of expense to them by means of taxes and other charges. The committee are therefore of opinion that the memorial of the petitioners is reasonable, and should be granted; and have prepared a bill which they ask leave to present.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Myers, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act for the relief of the widow and heirs of the late Captain Isaiah Wool;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Jones, from the select committee to which was referred the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to incorporate the Flushing steam-boat company," reported, that they have examined the said bill, and see no reason why the same should not be passed into a law.

Ordered, That the said bill be committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Mallory, from the select committee to which was referred the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act relative to the city of Troy," reported, that they have examined the said bill, and see no reason why the same should not be passed into a law.

Ordered, That the said bill be committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Skinner, from the select committee to whom was referred the petition of sundry inhabitants of the counties of Allegany, Genesee and Livingston, praying for the removal of obstructions to the navigation of the Genesee river, reported:

That it appears from the petition and documents referred to the committee, that the inhabitants on the border of the Genesee river, in the above named counties, have sustained considerable losses, and have been put to great inconvenience in taking their lumber down that river, by means of a mill-dam erected at Mount-Morris; and they complain that the provisions of the law under which the dam was erected, are altogether inadequate for the public security. The committee have prepared a bill for the purpose of removing some of the evils complained of, which they now ask leave to introduce.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Skinner, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to authorise the erection of a dam across the Genesee river at Mount Morris,' passed April 13, 1826;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Cargill, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act to revive an act entitled 'An act to incorporate the Orphan asylum society in the city of New-York,' passed April 7th, 1807," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Mandeville, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act to alter the name of the town of Clifton in the county of Saratoga," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Holdridge, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act relative to the city of Hudson," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Phœnix, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act authorising Stephen Coal to erect a dam across the Canisteo river," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, made sundry amendments thereto, and agreed to the same; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Mixer, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act declaring a part of the Little Conewango creek a public highway," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Skinner, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act confirming the reports of the trustees of certain school districts in this state," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. P Van Beuren, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act authorising the trustees of the German reformed sanctity church to sell certain real estate," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. L. Smith, from the select committee to which was committed the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act relative to the county courts of the county of Onondaga," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house, and the bill ordered a third reading.

In pursuance of previous notice, Mr. H. W. Livingston asked for and obtained leave to bring in a bill entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to amend the act entitled 'An act to prevent horse-racing, and for other purposes,'' passed April 5th, 1828;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

In pursuance of previous notice, Mr. W. Hall asked for and obtained leave to bring in a bill entitled "An act to prevent the sale of spirituous liquors and wines in certain cases, and for other purposes;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

In pursuance of previous notice, Mr. Burt asked for and obtained leave to bring in a bill entitled "An act repealing the act incorporating the president, directors and company of the Bank of Niagara;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Ordered, That the committee on canals and internal improvements be discharged from the further consideration of the petition of Thomas Hitchcock, Samuel Holladay and Simon Danforth, praying for certain legislative relief as set forth in their petition, and that the said petition be referred to the canal commissioners.

The house then proceeded to the consideration of the resolution heretofore offered by Mr. Judd, which was again read, in the words following, to wit:

Resolved, That this house do reconsider its vote on the final passage of the bill entitled "An act authorising a re-appraisement of certain lands in Oneida Castleton, and for other purposes."

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative, two-thirds of all the members elected to this house voting in favor thereof, as follows, to wit:

The house then again resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act directing the manner of choosing electors of president and vice-president;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Sheppard, from the said committee, reported progress, and asked for and obtained leave to sit again.

The house then again resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act relative to general elections;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Sheppard, from the said committee, reported progress, and asked for and obtained leave to sit again.

And then the House adjourned until ten o'clock to-morrow morning.

FRIDAY, MARCH 27, 1829.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

The remonstrance of sundry inhabitants of the town of Manlius in the county of Onondaga, against a division of that town, was read, and committed to a committee of the whole, when on the bill upon that subject.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the town of Conewango in the county of Cattaraugus, praying for a division of said town, was read, and referred to the committee on the erection and division of towns and counties.

The remonstrance of the supervisor, justices of the peace, and sundry inhabitants of the town of Schodack, against the passage of the bill for the relief of George Hoag, was read, and committed to a committee of the whole when on that bill.

Two several petitions of sundry inhabitants of the counties of Saratoga, Montgomery and Hamilton, praying for the passage of a law to authorise the survey of a canal route from some point in one of said counties to the Erie or Champlain canal, were read, and referred to the committee on canals and internal improvements.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the town of Pierrepont in the county of St. Lawrence, praying for the passage of a law to authorise the conversion of their poor monies into a school fund for said town, was read, and referred to the committee on colleges, academies and common schools.

The remonstrance of sundry inhabitants of the counties of Tioga and Tompkins, against the passage of a law to extend the charter of the Ithaca and Owego turnpike company, was read, and committed to a committee of the whole when on the bill upon that subject.

Mr. E. Baker, from the committee on the establishment and improvement of roads and bridges, and the incorporation of turnpike companies, on the petition of John Seymour and others, praying for the passage of an act authorising him to erect a dam in the Susquehannah river in the town of Vestal in the county of Broome, asked leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. E. Baker, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act authorising John Seymour to erect a dam in the Susquehannah river;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. E. Baker, from the committee on the establishment and improvement of roads and bridges, and the incorporation of turnpike companies, on the petition of sundry inhabitants of the towns of Cayuta, Spencer, Erin and Barton, praying for the passage of an act authorising the improvement of the Cayuta creek, asked leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. E. Baker, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act declaring a part of Cayuta creek a public highway;'" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Morell, from the committee on the incorporation of cities and villages, to which was referred the petition of the trustees of the village of Newburgh, praying for the incorporation of a hook and ladder company in that village, asked for leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Morell, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to authorise the trustees of the village of Newburgh to raise a hook, ladder and hose company;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Morell, from the committee on the incorporation of cities and villages, to which was referred the petition of the trustees and sundry inhabitants of the village of Athens, praying for a certain amendment to the act incorporating that village, asked for leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Morell, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to amend the act entitled 'An act to vest certain powers in the freeholders and inhabitants of the village of Athens in the county of Greene,' passed April 2d, 1805;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Hubbard, from the committee on the establishment and improvement of roads and bridges, and the incorporation of turnpike companies, to which was referred the petition of sundry inhabitants of the counties of Genesee and Cattaraugus, praying for the appointment of commissioners to lay out a road from Sheldon to Medina, and the remonstrance of sundry inhabitants of the county of Genesee against the passage of such a law, asked for leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Hubbard, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act appointing commissioners to lay out a road from Sheldon in the county of Genesee, to intersect a road running from the Pennsylvania line to Buffalo in the county of Erie;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Garnsey, from the select committee to which was referred the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act concerning the village of Lewiston in the county of Niagara," reported, that they have examined the said bill, and see no reason why the same should not be passed into a law.

Ordered, That the said bill be committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Bradish, from the select committee to which was referred the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act authorising the commissioners of the land-office to survey and sell certain lands," reported, that they have examined the said bill, and see no reason why the same should not be passed into a law.

Ordered, That the said bill be committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Scott, from the select committee to which was referred the petition of sundry inhabitants of the village of Ovid in the county of Seneca, praying that a law may be passed, authorising the appointment of a commissioner to perform certain duties of a justice of the supreme court at chambers, reported:

That the petitioners represent, that at least one half of the legal business of said county is done at the village of Ovid; and that no person is authorised to do such duties, residing nearer than about twenty miles from said village; and they are consequently subjected to great inconvenience in consequence thereof. Under these circumstances, the committee are of opinion that the prayer of the petitioners is reasonable, and ought to be granted: They ask leave to introduce a bill accordingly.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Scott, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act for the appointment of a commissioner to do certain duties of a justice of the supreme court in the county of Seneca;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. J. Van Beuren, from the select committee to which was referred the petition of John C. Snowden, reported:

That the petitioners have possessed themselves of a valuable and extensive coal mine upon the Schuylkill canal in Pennsylvania, with a view to the introduction of that article in the New-York market; and with this single object, they solicit for their enterprise the encouragement of the legislature, by granting to them an act of incorporation. Individual enterprises undertaken for no other purpose than to supply the increasing wants of an augmenting population by the introduction of native coal, cannot, in the opinion of the committee, be viewed but as essentially contributing to the comfort and prosperity of the community. Although the encouragement heretofore granted by the legislature to similar associations, has been liberal; yet the supply of anthracite coal has been very inadequate to the wants of the people; and every measure that may tend to open the avenues to such invaluable treasures, deserves, in the opinion of the committee, a favorable consideration. The committee have prepared a bill, which they ask leave to introduce.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. J. Van Beuren, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to incorporate the Bridgewater coal and mining company;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. White, from the select committee to which was referred the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act directing the mode of appointment of an attorney for the Stockbridge and Brothertown tribes of Indians," reported, that they have examined the said bill, and see no reason why the same should not be passed into a law.

Ordered, That the said bill be committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Armstrong, from the select committee to which was referred the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to amend the act entitled 'An act to erect a new town by the name of Little-Falls, from parts of the towns of Herkimer and German-flatts in the county of Herkimer,' passed February 10, 1829," reported, that they have examined the said bill, and that a majority of the said committee see no reason why the same should not be passed into a law.

Ordered, That the said bill be committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Armstrong, from the select committee to which was referred the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to divide the town of Ancram in the county of Columbia," reported, that they have examined the said bill, and that a majority of the said committee see no reason why the same should not be passed into a law.

Ordered, That the said bill be committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Heermans, from the select committee to whom was referred the bills, petitions, remonstrances and other accompanying papers, in relation to "the Troy and Bennington turnpike road and bridge company," and "the Peuisten-kill turnpike road company," reported:

That they feel it their duty to recommend the granting of the prayer of the petitioners for a grant of incorporation for the construction of a turnpike road from the city of Troy to the town of Bennington, on the west line of the state of Vermont, by the name and style of "The Troy and Bennington turnpike road and bridge company."

The reasons which have induced the committee to come to this conclusion, are to be found in the facts disclosed to them, of the extreme badness of a considerable portion of the present highway, running from Troy to Bennington, and that the same is susceptible of great and prominent improvements, which will naturally result from an investment thereof, by a corporate body. The committee are fully satisfied, that under the existing provision of the law regulating the working of common highways, that this road will not, and indeed cannot be made such as the public interest demands.

The committee beg leave further to represent, that the bridge situated upon said road, across the Hoosick river, is in such an extreme bad condition, as that the passing thereof with loaded wagons is considered imminently dangerous; and the committee are credibly informed, that the mail stage conveying the mails from Albany to the Eastern states, has frequently been arrested in its progress at this bridge, by having one team of horses taken therefrom, and the passengers dislodged from their seats, through fear of the supposed danger. And the committee are satisfied, that in consequence of the dangerous condition of said bridge, in connection with the extreme badness of a portion of said road, a considerable portion of travel has been driven therefrom, which would, under other circumstances, have passed thereon. The committee feel persuaded that this prominent evil cannot be well remedied unless the road and the bridge are invested in a corporate company.

There are many other considerations connected with this subject, which the committee do not deem necessary or essential to advert to, to support them in the conclusion to which they have arrived.

The committee also recommend the granting of the prayer of the petitioners for the construction of a turnpike road from the city of Troy, by the way of the drowned land and the Poesten-kill in the town of Brunswick, to the Baptist meeting-house, or the house of Caleb Sherman, in the town of Pittstown, by the name and style of "The Troy and Poesten-kill turnpike road company," so as to intersect the Troy and Bennington turnpike road, as above recommended.

The committee cannot discover any impropriety in granting both of these several applications; for it is self-evident, that in a fair competition in almost any business, the public in general are benefitted. So in this instance will it be the case, should both of the bills herewith recommended become a law. As a matter of course, the stockholders in both companies will consider it for their interest to have their roads made as good as can be, in order to draw the travel. The Poesten-kill road is to intersect the other about 14 miles from the city of Troy, and about 29 miles from the same city on the latter route, and is to pass through a distinct section of country. The committee, however, cannot refrain from an expression of their solemn opinion, that as disconnected from the Troy and Bennington turnpike road, as above recommended, the Troy and Poesten-kill turnpike road bill ought not, in any event, to pass into a law.

The reason which the committee assign for this unqualified expression against the Poesten-kill bill, as disconnected from the Troy and Bennington, is founded upon the fact, that no sufficient reason has been disclosed to them that the public interest claims any such exclusive privilege.

The Troy and Bennington turnpike road and bridge company, as contemplated by the bill introduced, is to follow the now travelled road from Troy to Bennington, or as near thereto as in the opinion of the commissioners the public interest will permit, so that no injury will be done to any individual residing thereupon or contiguous thereto, nor any depreciation in value of any property be the consequence, except what is imperiously required as a sacrifice to the public, and of which no one ought of right to complain. The present road has been used as a highway, running from Troy to Bennington, for about 60 years. The inhabitants have settled thereupon, and made great and expensive improvements in building for a tavern stand, and farm houses and out buildings, under the fair supposition that the road would always remain the great highway leading from the Eastern states to the city of Troy; and the inhabitants residing upon, and who are to be benefitted by the construction of the contemplated Poesten-kill road, never calculated upon any such advantages as will be bestowed upon them by the granting of their petition.

The committee feel constrained to declare, that in case but one of the bills in question is to pass into a law, that it ought of right to be the Troy and Bennington bill; the distance being from 4 to 6 miles shorter than the Penisten-kill route.

In conclusion, the committee, under all circumstances, deem it proper and expedient to recommend the granting of the prayer of the petitioners, to incorporate "The Troy and Bennington turnpike road and bridge company," and "The Troy and Poesten-kill turnpike road company," and herewith present bills for that purpose.

Ordered, That the said bills and report be committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Eldridge, from the committee appointed to examine all bills committed to a committee of the whole house, and to report all such bills as in their opinion may with safety and propriety be referred to select committees to report complete, reported the following bills as proper for such reference, to wit:

The bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Port Byron and Auburn rail-road company;" the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Union socity of the city of New-York;" the bill entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to incorporate the village of Oswego;'" the bill entitled "An act authorising the overseers of the poor in the town of Queensbury to pay over certain monies;" the bill entitled "An act to incorporate a fire company in the town of Fishkill in the county of Dutchess;" the bill entitled "An act to authorise the overseers of the poor in the town of Peru to pay over the monies in their hands to the commissioners of highways in said town;" the bill entitled "An act relative to the clerk of the police office in the city of New-York;" the bill entitled "An act for the relief of the town of Hampstead in the county of Rockland, and to establish a permanent name for said town;" and the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the trustees of the Stamford library association in the county of Delaware."

Thereupon,

Ordered, That the committee of the whole be discharged from the further consideration of the said several bills, and that the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Port Byron and Auburn rail-road company." be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Noble, Mr. Taber and Mr Hammond; that the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Union society of the city of New-York," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Al Burtis, Mr. Cargill and Mr. Bogert; that the bill entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to incorporate the village of Oswego,'" be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Falley, Mr. Morell and Mr. Johnson; that the bill entitled "An act authorising the overseers of the poor of the town of Queensbury to pay over certain monies," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. J. M'Donald, Mr. M'Neil and Mr. Sill; that the bill entitled "An act to incorporate a fire company in the town of Fishkill in the county of Dutchess," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Judd, Mr. E. Baker and Mr. Teller; that the bill entitled "An act to authorise the overseers of the poor of the town of Peru to pay over the monies in their hands to the commissioners of highways in said town," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Edgerton, Mr. Gross and Mr. Bradish; that the bill entitled "An act relative to the clerk of the police office in the city of New-York," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Dayton, Mr. C. L. Livingston and Mr. J. Van Beuren; that the bill entitled "An act for the relief of the town of Hampstead in the county of Rockland, and to establish a permanent name for said town," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Fowler, Mr. Soper and Mr. Waugh; and that the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the trustees of the Stamford library association in the county of Delaware," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Redfield, Mr. Skinner and Mr. Bradish; to be by the said select committees severally reported complete.

Mr. Myers, from the select committee to which was referred the petition of Benjamin Tucker, praying for the passage of a law to authorise him to change his name to Benjamin Franklin, reported:

That they have had the same under consideration; and it appears to the committee that property to a considerable amount may be acquired by him, should he be allowed by law to change his name; and they are therefore of opinion that the prayer of the petitioner should be granted, and ask leave to present a bill for his relief.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Myers, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act authorising Benjamin Tucker to change his name to Benjamin Franklin;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time.

Thereupon,

Ordered, That the said bill and report be laid upon the table.

Mr. Paige, from the select committee to which was referred the engrossed bill entitled "An act to amend the act entitled 'An act to incorporate the village of Syracuse,' passed April 13th, 1825," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, made sundry amendments thereto, and agreed to the same; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be re-engrossed.

Mr. Dana, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act to authorise the sale of subdivision number four of lot number ninety in the town of Lansing in the county of Tompkins," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, made sundry amendments thereto, and agreed to the same; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

A communication from the canal board was read, in the words following, to wit:

The canal board, to which was referred, by the honorable the Assembly, the petition of several citizens of Washington county, complaining that the canal commissioners, in giving the receipts for canal tolls, have not credited to the Champlain canal the tolls which are received at Albany and West-Troy upon ascending merchandize, &c. destined to pass the Champlain canal, and alleging that those tolls have been erroneously passed to the credit of the Erie canal, report:

That upon an examination of the reports of the canal commissioners for several years past, it would seem that the complaint of the petitioners is measurably true, as relates to the reports of the canal commissioners; but it is not perceived that from the omission of the canal commissioners to distribute the tolls received, with entire mathematical accuracy, any injury has been really done to the Champlain canal, inasmuch as the commissioners of the canal fund, in their annual report for each year, since those commissioners have attempted to report the state of the canal funds, have corrected this error, and have regularly deducted the tolls referred to, from the gross amount appearing to have been collected upon the Erie canal, and have added the amount to the tolls appearing to have been collected upon the Champlain canal.

An examination of the annual reports of the commissioners of the canal fund, for the years 1825, 1826, 1827 and 1828, will shew that this course has been pursued, and will exhibit the following results for each of these years:

Years.	Tolls collected at Albany.	Tolls collected at West-Troy.	Am't deducted from Erie canal tolls, and added to Champ. canal tolls.
1825,.....	$2,023 46	$8,863 69	$10,896 15
1826,.....	1,745 38	8,580 62	10,326 00
1827,.....	1,745 38	8,580 62	10,326 00
1828,.....	5,982 05	13,799 67	19,781 72

In the year 1827, the accounts at the collector's office at Waterford, from a deficiency in the blanks furnished, did not enable the commissioners to make partition of those tolls, between the Erie and Champlain canals, for that year. The estimate, therefore, was made from the preceding year; and as the whole amount of these tolls would vary little from that collected in 1826, the share to be passed to the credit of the Champlain canal, was assumed to be the same as in 1826.

For the last year, the amount thus apportioned will be seen to have increased very considerably beyond that of any former year; but the division has been made from the same data which have governed the former distributions of these tolls, and it is presumed the share credited to the Champlain canal is not too large.

Inasmuch as the commissioners of the canal fund have uniformly done what the petitioners desire to have done, and as it can make very little difference from what source this information comes, provided it be correct, and that each canal has the fair and full credit for its earnings, the canal board do not perceive the necessity of any legislation upon this subject.

There is no doubt the commissioners of the canal fund will continue to make this division of these tolls in their reports; and it ought to be remarked, that by free access to the collectors' accounts, they are better able to do this with accuracy, than it is believed the canal commissioners can do, without considerable labor not strictly pertaining to their duties.

Albany, 27*th March*, 1829.

Ordered, That the said communication be laid upon the table.

A communication from the canal commissioners was read, in the words following, to wit:

The canal commissioners, to whom the honorable the Assembly referred the petition of sundry inhabitants of the town of Springwater, in the county of Livingston, respectfully report:

The petitioners complain that a dam, which was erected by the canal commissioners at the foot of Hemlock lake, for the purpose of a reservoir for the Erie canal, has caused the lake to overflow several hundred acres of land, and occasioned sickness among the inhabitants contiguous thereto; and they pray the legislature to direct the canal commissioners to remove the dam, which they understand is no longer required for the purpose for which it was intended.

The dam above mentioned was erected some years ago, when it was apprehended there would be a deficiency of water on the western section of the Erie canal, without a resort to the Hemlock, and several other small lakes in that vicinity; but since that time the water from Lake Erie has been thrown into the canal, and the water from the small lakes has not been required. There was a floom and gate constructed in the aforesaid dam, for the purpose of drawing off the water of the lake; and it is now nearly two years since one of the superintendents on the canal, under the express directions of the canal commissioners, raised the gates and drew down the water. Since that time the gates have not been shut, or the water raised by our order or permission. It is not improbable, however, that the owners of mills which are situated on the outlet of the lake, and who are much benefitted in using the lake as a reservoir, may have occasionally closed the gates and kept up the water to so late a period in summer, as to occasion the evils complained of. The dam is not now, and will not, in all probability, be again wanted for any public purpose; and if its continuance is in any respect injurious, the commissioners see no objection to its removal.

March 27*th*, 1829.

Ordered, That the said communication, together with the petition, be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Johnson, Mr. P. C. Fuller and Mr. Goodman.

A communication from the canal commissioners was read, in the words following, to wit:

The canal commissioners, to whom the honorable the Assembly have referred the petition of sundry manufacturers of salt in the village of Salina, respectfully report:

That the petitioners represent that they constructed in the year 1825, by authority of the legislature, and under the direction of the canal commissioners, a side-cut connected with the Salina side-cut, of about eighty rods in length, and at an expense of about fifteen hundred dollars. That the said cut was intended to facilitate the manufacture of salt, by affording the means of transporting wood to, and salt from their works. That they continued to use the same without any difficulty until the last fall, when, in consequence of its connection with the Oswego canal, which had been constructed on a lower level, the water was lowered about eighteen inches, and the navigation of the petitioners' side-cut was rendered impracticable; and that an expense of five hundred dollars is requisite to lower the bottom of the cut, and to restore the navigation; wherefore they pray the legislature to cause the necessary excavation to be done, and the side-cut to be taken into the hands of the state, and put upon the same footing as other parts of the public works.

The facts of this case, so far as the commissioners have knowledge of the subject, appear to be somewhat different from the representations of the petitioners. It is true, as they have stated, that the side-cut in question was laid out under the direction of the canal commissioners, and in such manner as to correspond and connect with one of the levels of the Salina side-cut, and with which is now connected the Oswego canal; but it is believed that the petitioners failed to dig their side-cut to its proper depth, and to obviate the difficulty which this occasioned in the navigation, the water in the short level with which it was connected, was raised about eighteen inches, by raising the height of the lock gates. That part of the Oswego canal which extends from the Seneca river to Salina, and connects with the aforesaid short level of the Salina side-cut, was made to conform to the same top water line which was originally given to the short level of the side-cut. When the bank was cut away which divided the two canals, and the junction was formed, the water in the Salina side-cut subsided to its original and proper level, leaving a depth of four feet. In the Oswego canal, the depth was a few inches greater, in consequence of its bottom having been sunk a little lower. This reduction of the water in the Salina side-cut, produced a corresponding depression in the height of the water in the canal or side-cut of the petitioners, and on account of the original deficiency of its depth of cutting, rendered it unnavigable. This occurrence has unquestionably occasioned the petitioners much inconvenience, but it is not perceived why it should be charged to the state. The level of the two canals have been so fixed and adjusted, as to do the least possible injury to the property situated along their line; and there has been no variation in the plans of any part of the work which has been the cause of the injury of which they complain. Had they constructed the work, which was constructed entirely for their private benefit, in conformity with the plan of the public works, and according to the directions of the canal commissioners, or their engineers, their difficulties would have been entirely obviated. As the matter now stands, they are not deprived of an opportunity of excavating their side-cut to its proper depth, and of finishing their work; and we think there would be no hardship in their performing it, at their own expense.

S. YOUNG,
H. SEYMOUR,
WM. C. BOUCK.

March 27th, 1829.

Ordered, That the said communication, together with the petition, be referred to the committee on canals and internal improvements.

In pursuance of previous notice, Mr. Ruggles asked for and obtained leave to bring in a bill entitled "An act to reduce the expense of distributing notices of licensed pedlers:" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Ordered, That Mr. Wheeler have leave of absence for two days.

The house then proceeded to the consideration of the report of the committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act to provide for the support of aged and indigent seamen, and the house of refuge for juvenile delinquents in the city of New-York:" the said report being that the committee had gone through the said bill, made amendments thereto, and agreed to the same.

Thereupon,

The report of the committee of the whole being amended by the house,

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree with the committee of the whole in their said report as amended, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Edgerton offered for the consideration of the house, a resolution, in the words following, to wit:

Resolved, That the clerk of this house be directed to engross into one bill, the names of all such persons as have or may apply during this session, for a law to change their names; and that the title to said bill be "An act to authorise the several persons therein named to change their names."

Ordered, That the said resolution be laid upon the table.

On motion of Mr. Hubbell,

Resolved, That the committee on the militia be instructed to inquire and report to this house, their opinion as to the propriety of so altering title fifth of chapter tenth of the Revised Statutes, as not to require the militia of this state to rendezvous either by companies, separate battalions or regiments, or to require them to rendezvous by companies only.

Mr. Eldridge offered for the consideration of the house, a resolution, in the words following, to wit:

Resolved, That after this week, this house will hold an afternoon session, each day, to commence at four o'clock P. M.; the business of which shall be confined to reading the minutes of the preceding day; receiving petitions; receiving reports from the different committees; consideration of notices, motions and resolutions, (excepting motions for reconsideration;) receiving messages from the senate, and messages and communications from the state officers; reading of bills the first and second time, and the third reading of all such bills as shall not require a majority of two-thirds for their final passage, nor appropriate the public money: And that the order of business be made conformable thereto: And that the resolution requiring the house to meet at nine A. M. be rescinded.

Ordered, That the said resolution be laid upon the table.

Five several messages from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bills therein mentioned, were read, informing that they have passed the bill entitled "An act to amend the act entitled 'An act to incorporate the Canajoharie and Sharon turnpike company,' passed February 9th, 1829;" the bill entitled "An act authorising Martin B. Young to erect a dam across the Canisteo river;" the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Ithaca and Havana turnpike road company;" the bill entitled "An act to confirm the conveyance of a certain piece of land therein mentioned, to Joseph Howard junior;" and the bill entitled "An act authorising Ann Eliza Babcock to take the maiden name of Seeley," severally without amendment.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bills to the acting Governor.

Two several messages from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bills therein mentioned, were read, informing that they have passed the bill entitled "An act to revive and amend the act entitled 'An act to authorise the building of a toll-bridge over the Hudson river,' passed April 2d, 1825," and the bill entitled "An act concerning highway labor in the town of Kent in the county of Putnam;" in which bills they request the concurrence of this house.

The said bills were severally read the first time, and by unanimous consent were also read a second time, and the bill entitled "An act to revive and amend the act entitled 'An act to authorise the building of a toll-bridge over the Hudson river,' passed April 2d, 1825," was referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Burt, Mr. Wheeler and Mr. Waring; and the bill entitled "An act concerning highway labor in the town of Kent in the county of Putnam," was referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Tailor, Mr. E. Baker and Mr. Van Wyck, severally to consider and report thereon.

A message from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bill and amendments therein mentioned, was read, informing that they have passed the bill entitled "An act for the relief of Matthew Brown junior," with the amendments therewith delivered.

The said bill and amendments were read; and the amendments having been again read, were concurred in by the house, and the bill amended accordingly.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bill and amendments to the Senate, and inform them that this house have concurred with them in their amendments to the said bill, and have amended the same accordingly.

The house then proceeded to the consideration of the amendments of the Senate to the bill entitled "An act further to extend the time for the payment of monies loaned by the commissioners of loans and loan-officers, to citizens of this state."

Thereupon,

The amendments of the Senate to the said bill being amended by this house,

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bill and amendments to the Senate, and inform them that this house have concurred with them in their amendments, with the amendments thereto therewith delivered.

Mr. W. Hall, from the committee on engrossed bills, reported, that they have examined the engrossed bill entitled "An act authorising Stephen Coal to erect a dam across the Canisteo river:" the engrossed bill entitled "An act to alter the name of the town of Clifton in the county of Saratoga;" the engrossed bill entitled "An act declaring a part of the Little Conewango creek a public highway," and the engrossed bill entitled "An act confirming the reports of the trustees of certain school districts in this state;" and that the said bills are severally correctly engrossed.

The said engrossed bill, entitled "An act authorising Stephen Coal to erect a dam across the Canisteo river," was read the third time.

Resolved, That the bill do pass.

The said engrossed bill, entitled "An act to alter the name of the town of Clifton in the county of Saratoga," was read the third time.

Resolved, That the bill do pass.

The said engrossed bill, entitled "An act declaring a part of the Little Conewango creek a public highway," was read the third time.

Resolved, That the bill do pass.

The said engrossed bill, entitled "An act confirming the reports of the trustees of certain school districts in this state," was read the third time.

Resolved, That the bill do pass.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said several bills to the Senate, and request their concurrence in the same.

Mr. W. Hall, from the committee on engrossed bills, reported, that they have examined the engrossed bill entitled "An act to revive an act entitled 'An act to incorporate the Orphan asylum society in the city of New-York,' passed April 7th, 1807;" and the engrossed bill entitled "An act authorising the trustees of the German reformed sanctity church to sell certain real estate;" and that the said bills are correctly engrossed.

Ordered, That the said bills be laid upon the table.

The house then resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act authorising the construction of a canal from the head of Seneca lake to Newtown;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Bradish, from the said committee, reported progress, and asked for and obtained leave to sit again.

And then the House adjourned until ten o'clock to-morrow morning.

SATURDAY, MARCH 28, 1829.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the town of Covert in the county of Seneca, praying for the passage of a law to alter the time of distributing their public school money, was read, and referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Scott, Mr. Bostwick and Mr. Noble.

Two several petitions of sundry inhabitants of the counties of Erie and Cattaraugus, praying for the passage of a law authorising the supervisors of said counties to raise $800 by tax, to build a bridge across the Cattaraugus creek, were read, and referred to the committee on the establishment and improvement of roads and bridges, and the incorporation of turnpike companies.

The petition of sundry inhabitants residing at Au-Sable forks, praying for the passage of an act authorising the construction of the Port Kent and Hopkinton road, was read, and committed to a committee of the whole when on the bill upon that subject.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the town of Virgil in the county of Cortland, praying for a division of that town, and the remonstrance of sundry inhabitants of said town against a division thereof, were severally read, and referred to the committee on the erection and division of towns and counties.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the towns of Pittstown, Brunswick, Lansingburgh and Hoosick, in the county of Rensselaer, praying for the appointment of commissioners to alter and improve a certain road, and to assess the expenses attending such improvement, upon the persons residing within two miles on each side of said road, was read, and referred to the committee on the establishment and improvement of roads and bridges, and the incorporation of turnpike companies.

The petition of the trustees of the village of Canandaigua, praying for certain amendments to the act incorporating that village, was read, and referred to the committee on the incorporation of cities and villages.

Two several remonstrances of sundry inhabitants of the town of Manlius in the county of Onondaga, against a division of said town, was read, and committed to a committee of the whole when on the bill upon that subject.

The memorial of the members of the Lyceum of Natural history, in the city of New-York, praying for the passage of a law to provide for a practical and efficient examination of the mineral formations of this state for bituminous coal, and a resolution of the common council of the city of New-York, approving of the objects of the application, were severally read, and referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. T. L. Smith, Mr. Bradish and Mr. Skinner.

The petition of the directors of the Harlæm river canal company, praying for an extension of their charter, was read, and referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. T. L. Smith, Mr. Johnson and Mr. Armstrong.

The petition of John Johnston and Robert Cochran, of the county of Chautauque, aliens, praying for the passage of a law to enable them to purchase, take, hold, and convey real estate within this state, was read, and referred to the committee on the petitions of aliens.

The petition of Thomas Garvey, praying for the passage of a law to authorise him to construct a wharf opposite his lands in the town of Oyster-Bay in the county of Queens, was read, and referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Jones, Mr. Davenport and Mr. Wyckoff.

Mr. Johnson, from the committee on canals and internal improvements, to whom was referred the petition of sundry inhabitants of the town of Salina, praying for relief in consequence of the construction of the Oswego canal having rendered useless a side-cut at that place, and the report of the canal commissioners on the same, recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That the prayer of the petitioners ought not to be granted.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Burt, from the committee on the establishment and improvement of roads and bridges, and the incorporation of turnpike companies, on the petition of sundry inhabitants of the county of Ontario, praying for the incorporation of the Naples turnpike company, asked leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Burt, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to incorporate the Naples turnpike road company;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Tower, from the committee on ways and means, in obedience to the resolution of the house, "instructing them to inquire into the expediency of providing by law for the sale of lands liable to be sold for taxes, in the county where the lands are situated, and not at the seat of government, as is now provided," reported:

That they have attentively considered and examined the subject referred to them in the resolution, by a careful perusal of the past and present laws upon the subject, and a careful comparison of the old laws with the provisions in the revised statutes; by inquiry of the state officers having in charge the execution of those laws, and other examinations within their reach.

Occasional errors and mistakes have been, and probably will continue to be committed in the sale of land for taxes. On a close examination, most of these, the committee believe, will be found to have occurred from inaccurate descriptions of such land; sometimes by improper returns either of collectors or county treasurers. In some instances, the errors have been committed by the owners of the lands themselves, by furnishing a wrong number for their lot or lots, or paying upon a wrong number, perhaps discharging taxes upon lands in which they had no interest, their own being at the same time neglected, until title was perfected in a purchaser.

A change of the mode of sale, would not, in the opinion of the committee, remedy these evils; their remedy would seem to lie in a requirement of a more accurate and attentive description of all lands, from the assessors.

Article third, chapter thirteen of the first part of the revised statutes, contains the present law which relates to this subject. This article of the revised statutes, it is believed, contains some important new provisions for the safety of the public upon this head. The comptroller is directed to reject all lands returned for taxes, where the description is not perfect; and where he shall deem it necessary to test the correctness of the description of said lands credited the several counties, he may require from the board of supervisors, at the expense of the county, maps of any tract or tracts of land, with particular description, statement of the quantity, &c.; and all lands held for arrears of taxes, shall not remain unsold but two years after return to the comptroller.

It is made the duty of town clerks, at the opening of every town-meeting for the election of town officers, to give notice that lists of lands advertised for sale for taxes by the comptroller, are deposited in his office for inspection. With these precautions in addition to the old law, the committee cannot conceive of a case where all owners of lands would not have full notice of any delinquency before a sale. In addition to this, the delinquent has two years' time, after sale, for the redemption of his land; the comptroller sending to the county treasurers, lists of the same six months previous to the expiration of the time of redemption, and said lists to be advertised in all the public newspapers.

The change of these sales from the seat of government of the state, to the different counties, upon whatever plan might be adopted, whether sales were to be made upon transcripts from the comptroller's office, or upon original returns made to the treasurer's office of the county, or otherwise, would necessarily, upon its first commencement, like all new things of this kind, produce more or less of confusion, and probably more expense than the present mode.

With these views of the subject, the committee have unanimously come to the conclusion, that it is inexpedient at present to make any alteration in our laws for the sale of lands held for arrears of taxes; and therefore ask to be discharged from the further consideration of the subject.

Thereupon,

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to discharge the said committee from the subject referred to them, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Morell, from the committee on the incorporation of cities and villages, to which were referred the several petitions of the trustees and sundry inhabitants of the village of Rochester, praying for the passage of a law to incorporate said village as a city, and the several remonstrances against the passage of such a law, asked for leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Morell, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to incorporate the city of Rochester;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Morell, from the committee on the incorporation of cities and villages, to which was referred the petition of Thomas Goodsell, Joseph Kirkland, Nathan Williams and others, inhabitants of the village of Utica, praying for the passage of a law to incorporate said village as a city, asked for leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Morell, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to incorporate the city of Utica;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Falley, from the committee on the incorporation of cities and villages, on the petition of sundry inhabitants of the village of Fredonia, praying for the passage of an act of incorporation, asked leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Falley, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to incorporate the village of Fredonia;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Burt, from the select committee to which was referred the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to revive and amend the act entitled 'An act to authorise the building of a toll-bridge over the Hudson river,' passed April 2d, 1825," reported, that they have examined the said bill, and see no reason why the same should not be passed into a law.

Ordered, That the said bill be committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Tailor, from the select committee to which was referred the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act concerning highway labor in the town of Kent in the county of Putnam," reported, that they have examined the said bill, and see no reason why the same should not be passed into a law.

Ordered, That the said bill be committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. L. Smith, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act for the relief of the heirs of Jonas C. Baldwin deceased," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, made sundry amendments thereto, and altered the title to "An act for the relief of the heirs and devisees of Jonas C. Baldwin deceased;" which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Judd, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act to incorporate a fire company in the town of Fishkill in the county of Dutchess," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, made sundry amendments thereto, and agreed to the same; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Bostwick, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to incorporate the village of Waterloo in the county of Seneca,'" reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Falley, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to incorporate the village of Oswego,'" reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Redfield, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the trustees of the Stamford library association in the county of Delaware," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Edgerton, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act to authorise the overseers of the poor in the town of Peru to pay over the monies in their hands to the commissioners of highways in said town," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Dayton, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act relative to the clerk of the police office in the city of New-York," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. J. M'Donald, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act authorising the overseers of the poor of the town of Queensbury to pay over certain monies," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

In pursuance of previous notice, Mr. J. Hall asked for and obtained leave to bring in a bill entitled "An act to regulate the fees for pumping salt water in the town of Salina, and for other purposes;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

In pursuance of previous notice, Mr. Hascall asked for and obtained leave to bring in a bill entitled "An act to extend the liberties of jails;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Ordered, That the usual number of copies of the said bill be printed for the use of the legislature.

Ordered, That Mr. Graham and Mr. Chandler have leave of absence for ten days respectively.

Ordered, That the committee on grievances be discharged from the further consideration of the petitions of sundry inhabitants of the county of Warren, relative to a certain dam at the outlet of Lake George; and that the said petition be referred to the attorney-general.

The house then proceeded to the consideration of the report of the committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act for the relief of William Wisner;" the said report being, that the committee had diagreed to the first and only clause of the said bill.

Thereupon,

Mr. Hubbell made a motion that the house should agree to amend the report of the committee of the whole, by inserting after the enacting clause thereof, four several sections, in the words following, to wit:

§ 1. The person or property of William Wisner shall not be held liable to satisfy the judgment in favor of the people of the state of New-York against Matthew Carpenter and the said William Wisner, unless a new suit be brought upon said judgment within one year after the passing of this act, and a new recovery be had thereon; and in case of such new recovery, the original judgment shall continue in force; but only one of said judgments shall be collected.

§ 2. In any suit to be brought upon said judgment, the said William Wisner may give in evidence any matter of defence which he might have pleaded or given in evidence in the suit upon the bond upon which said judgment was recovered.

§ 3. Nothing herein contained shall be construed to affect or discharge the liability of the said Matthew Carpenter on the said judgment; and execution may be issued on the said judgment in the usual form, but directions shall be endorsed thereon not to take the body or property of said William Wisner.

§ 4. The said William Wisner shall not avail himself of this act, unless within three months after the passage thereof, he shall, with one or more sufficient sureties, to be approved by one of the judges of the county courts of the county of Tompkins, execute a bond to the people of this state in the penal sum of two hundred dollars, conditioned to pay the costs of a suit upon the said judgment, if such suit shall be commenced within one year from the passage of this act, and judgment be rendered against him; and file such bond in the office of the comptroller.

Debates were had upon the said motion of Mr. Hubbell; and the question being put whether the house would agree thereto, it was determined in the negative.

Mr. W. Hall, from the committee on engrossed bills, reported, that they have examined the engrossed bill entitled "An act authorising the sale of subdivision number four of lot number ninety in the town of Lansing in the county of Tompkins;" and the engrossed bill entitled "An act to amend an act to authorise the erection of a dam across the Genesee river at Mount Morris, passed April 13th, 1826;" and find the same correctly engrossed.

The said engrossed bill, entitled "An act authorising the sale of subdivision number four of lot number ninety in the town of Lansing in the county of Tompkins," was read the third time.

Resolved, That the bill do pass.

The said engrossed bill, entitled "An act to amend an act to authorise the erection of a dam across the Genesee river at Mount Morris, passed April 13th, 1826," was read the third time.

Resolved, That the bill do pass.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bills to the Senate, and request their concurrence in the same.

The Senate returned, by their clerk, the bill entitled "An act authorising the superintendent of light-houses on Lake Ontario, to remove certain obstructions to the light-house at the mouth of the Genesee river;" the bill entitled "An act to authorise the issuing of executions by the justices' court of the city of Schenectady, and for other purposes;" and the bill entitled "An act for the relief of Matthew Brown"

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bills to the acting Governor.

A message from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bill and amendments therein mentioned, was read, informing that they have concurred with this house in its amendments to the amendments of the Senate to the bill entitled "An act further to extend the time for the payment of monies loaned by the commissioners of loans and loan-officers, to citizens of this state."

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bill to the acting Governor.

The house then again resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act to authorise the construction of a canal from the head of Seneca lake to Newtown;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Bradish, from the said committee, reported progress, and asked for and obtained leave to sit again.

And then the House adjourned until nine o'clock on Monday morning next.

MONDAY, MARCH 30, 1829.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

The remonstrance of sundry inhabitants of the town of Manlius in the county of Onondaga, against a division of that town, was read, and committed to a committee of the whole when on the bill upon that subject.

The remonstrance of sundry inhabitants of the counties of Tioga and Tompkins, against the extension of the charter of the act incorporating the Ithaca and Owego turnpike company, was read, and committed to a committee of the whole when on the bill upon that subject.

The petitions of Peter Baucalari, Louis I. Belloni and Joseph Weaver, of the city of New-York, aliens, severally praying for the passage of a law to enable them to purchase, take, hold, and convey real estate within this state, were read, and referred to the committee on the petitions of aliens.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the village of Watertown in the county of Jefferson, praying for certain amendments to the act regulating highways, so far as the same relates to said village, was read, and referred to the committee on the establishment and improvement of roads and bridges, and the incorporation of turnpike companies.

The petition of the president and directors of the Eastchester bridge company, praying for permission to surrender their corporate rights, and to remove the property now belonging to said corporation, was read, and referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Dayton, Mr. Myers and Mr. Brown.

The petition of William Thompson and others, inhabitants of the county of Orange, praying for the passage of a law to authorise them to drain a certain bog meadow in the towns of Warwick and Goshen in said county, was read, and referred to the committee on agriculture.

Mr. Cargill, from the committee appointed to examine all bills committed to a committee of the whole house, and to report all such bills as in their opinion may with safety and propriety be referred to select committees to report complete, reported the following bills as proper for such reference, to wit:

The bill entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to authorise the sale of certain lands therein mentioned, by the people of this state,' passed 10th March, 1827;" the bill entitled "An act to provide for the transferring from the office of the secretary of state, to the office of the register in chancery, certain papers therein named;" the bill entitled "An act relative to monies in the hands of overseers of the poor;" the bill entitled "An act to establish a high school at Newburgh;" the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the village of Smyrna in the county of Chenango;" the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Rome and New-London turnpike company;" the bill entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to incorporate the Buffalo high school association;'" the bill entitled "An act repealing the act incorporating the St. Lawrence turnpike road company, passed April 2d, 1810;" and the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to establish a ferry across the Seneca lake, from the cove on the south side of Peach-orchard point in Hector, Tompkins county, to Big-stream point in the town of Starkey, Yates county."

Thereupon,

Ordered, That the committee of the whole be discharged from the further consideration of the said several bills, and that the bill entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to authorise the sale of certain lands therein mentioned, by the people of this state,' passed 10th March 1827," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Matthews, Mr. J. Hall and Mr. L. Smith; that the bill entitled "An act to provide for the transferring from the office of the secretary of state, to the office of the register in chancery, certain papers therein named," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Dana, Mr. Mann and Mr. Johnson; that the bill entitled "An act relative to monies in the hands of overseers of the poor," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. White, Mr. W. M'Donald and Mr. Noble; that the bill entitled "An act to establish a high school at Newburgh," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Waugh, Mr. Fowler and Mr. Allison; that the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the village of Smyrna in the county of Chenango," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Case, Mr. Franklin and Mr. Tower; that the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Rome and New-London turnpike company," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Bacon, Mr. Johnson and Mr. Savage; that the bill entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to incorporate the Buffalo high school association,'" be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Fillmore, Mr. Garnsey and Mr. Mixer; that the bill entitled "An act repealing the act incorporating the St. Lawrence turnpike road company, passed April 2d, 1810," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Sanford, Mr. H. D. Smith and Mr. Bradish; and that the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to establish a ferry across the Seneca lake, from the cove on the south side of Peach-orchard point in Hector, Tompkins county, to Big-stream point in the town of Starkey, Yates county," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Dana, Mr. Dean and Mr. Sheppard; to be by the said select committees severally reported complete.

Mr. Eldridge, from the committee of ways and means, to whom was referred so much of the message of his excellency the Governor as relates to the general fund and the ordinary expenses of government, reported:

That it appears from the annual report of the comptroller, that the expenses of government for the last year have exceeded the revenue of the general fund the sum of $183,865.65. By the same report it appears that the estimated expenses of the current year exceed the estimated revenue of the general fund for the same time, by the sum of $118,950; making for the two years a deficit of $302,815.65. It also appears, that on the close of the last year, the sum of $115,065.20 remained in the treasury unappropriated, which was therefore applicable to the ordinary expenses of government. This sum deducted from the deficit of the two years, will leave a balance of $187,750.45.

By a law passed at the last session of the legislature, the comptroller is authorised to sell so much of the public stocks belonging to the general fund, as may be necessary to meet any deficiency that may exist in the revenue of that fund, to defray the ordinary expenses of government.

The following communication from the present comptroller, in the opinion of the committee, places this subject in its proper light. They have therefore seen fit to present the same as a part of their report.

COMPTROLLER'S OFFICE,
March 20, 1829.

Hon. James B. Eldridge,
Chairman of the Committee of Ways and Means, &c.

Sir—Pursuant to your request, I give you, as far as I am able, a concise view of the general fund, and its available means to meet the calls upon it. The basis of the statement I make, is the last annual report from this office.

By that report, it appears that the general fund was, on the 30th November last, indebted as follows:

"To the common school fund, viz:
Capital,	$70,446 24
Revenue,	100,000 00
		$170,446 24
To the literature fund, viz:
Capital,	$5,955 77
Revenue,	4,680 06
		10,635 83
Due from the general fund 30th Nov. last,		$181,082 07
Of this amount of debt, there has been since paid, as follows:
To common school fund,	$81.294 45
To literature fund,	4,680 06
		85,974 51
Leaving a balance of this debt now due, of		$95.107 56
This balance is due as follows: To the common school fund, viz:
Capital,	$70,446 24
Revenue,	18,705 55
		$89,151 79
To the literature fund capital,		5,955 77
Making the amount of debt as above,		$95,107 56
In addition to the above, I learn from the treasurer that he has overdrawn at the depositing bank, at this time, about	$15,000 00
And that he has used of the canal fund monies, coming into the treasury from the Manhattan company, the sum of	20,000 00
		35,000 00
Making the whole debt now due from the general fund, about..		$130,107 56

The capital of the general fund is stated, in the last annual report from this office, to amount to the sum of $1,614,986.79.

Of this capital there is of canal stock the sum of	$280,000
Of bank stock, exclusive of $15,000 of the stock of the B'k of Hudson,	112,740
Amounting, together, to the sum of	$392,740

The residue of this capital consists in bonds and mortgages for lands sold, in loans to individuals, and in sundry debts due the state, but none of which, it is presumed, can be made available to raise money beyond the ordinary receipts for interest, and the gradual payments of principal. The above sum, therefore, of $392.740, may be considered as the only part of the capital of the general fund, available, to raise money from to meet any indebtedness of this fund, or any calls upon the treasury beyond the revenue of the general fund.

Take, then, this sum as the means of supplying the present demands,.....	$392,740 00
Deduct from it the amount of debts now due, as before given, ..	130,107 56
And there will remain	$262,632 44

of the capital of the general fund, which may be put into the market to raise money upon, to meet any calls on the treasury after this date, which the revenue of the general fund, thus reduced in its capital, shall not be sufficient to answer.

This view cannot vary materially from the truth as to the present state of the treasury.

I am, with great respect,
Your obedient servant,
SILAS WRIGHT, Jun.

These deficiencies alone might be provided for by continuing to dispose of an unnecessary portion of the principal of the general fund; but whether it will be wise to do so, is a proper subject of inquiry, and one that the legislature alone have the right to determine,

To come to a right conclusion on this subject, it is necessary to refer to our future prospects, as well as our present situation.

The expenses of government for the two last years, have been materially increased by the revision of our statute laws, and the building of a new state prison at Sing-Sing: but as our state is rapidly increasing in population and business, it must be expected that there will be a corresponding increase in the expenses of government. While this gradual increase of expense might not become burthensome to our citizens from the fact that their capacity to meet it would be proportionably advanced; yet it is perfectly plain, that when the expenses of government are dependent upon a fund, the productions of which are not equal to the present demands upon it, that without aid from some other quarter, the fund itself must shortly be exhausted, and the expenses thereafter be provided for by some other means.

The general fund of this state being composed of such items as are not, in and of themselves, capable of being increased any farther than the interest of the same may add to them; and that increase not being equal to the ordinary demands upon it, it follows of course that there must be some further provisions made to meet what may be expected to be the annual expense of government hereafter.

A great proportion of the funds of this state are secured by the constitution to the use of common schools; another portion is appropriated to the literature fund, and a third to the canal fund. The two first are permanent appropriations, and cannot ever be applied to the ordinary expenses of government. As to the third, or those items constituting the canal fund, the committee are fully aware that the revenue derived from them, promises in a short period to extinguish the debts contracted for the construction of the canals: also when those debts shall be extinguished, should the present rate of tolls on the canals be continued, they will, in all probability, produce a revenue far beyond the ordinary expense of government.

With this view of the subject alone, it would appear to warrant the consumption of the principal of the general fund as occasion might require, leaving us to depend upon the revenue hereafter derived from canals for the support of government.

But it must not be forgotten that there are many sections of the state, from their isolated and sequestered situation, have a right to expect that, in due time, they will be accommodated by such internal improvements as the different sections may severally be adapted to. And as all the different parts of the state have, in a greater or lesser degree, contributed towards the construction of those great works that promise with so much certainty such an abundant revenue, it is no more than reasonable and just towards those sections wanting internal improvements; while it is perfectly consistent with the ultimate interest of the state to leave the revenue hereafter to be derived from the canals, to be appropriated to the construction of such new works of internal improvement as will be necessary, useful and proper.

The state of New-York, although she was among the first to commence, and has succeeded in the construction of canals beyond any other state in the Union, and almost beyond any other country, yet she is very far from having accomplished all that is to be expected from her acknowledged enterprise and extensive resources.

As the amount or extent of internal improvements that it may become necessary and proper for the state to undertake, cannot be ascertained at this time with any degree of certainty, or even conjectured. The committee are of opinion, that it is yet altogether too early to anticipate the revenue to be derived from canals, so far as to willingly exhaust the sources of the general fund, and leave the ordinary expenses of government dependent upon the canal revenue, or upon direct taxation. They would therefore recommend as the most prudent and proper course, to raise a sum by a tax that will relieve the general fund from its present embarrassment, and provide for any deficiency that may hereafter occur.

The half mill tax, so called, produced in the year 1826, the sum of $147,534.17, which was the last year it was levied. It is presumed that a similar tax would now produce $165,000, or rising, which would shortly relieve the general fund, and be sufficient to cover any deficiency that might hereafter occur.

The committee have therefore prepared a bill for that purpose, and directed their chairman to ask for leave to introduce the same.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Eldridge, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to levy a tax of half a mill upon each dollar of the valuation of the real and personal estates in this state;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Ordered, That the usual number of copies of the said bill and report be printed for the use of the legislature.

Mr. Skinner, from the committee on colleges, academies and common schools, to which was referred the petition of the trustees of the Rochester high school, praying for the passage of a law to authorise them to mortgage their real estate, and for other purposes, asked for leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Skinner, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to amend the act entitled 'An act to incorporate the Rochester high school in the county of Monroe,' passed March 15th, 1827;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Hubbard, from the select committee to whom was referred the petition of sundry inhabitants of the town of Plainfield in the county of Orange, praying for a certain amendment to the act appointing commissioners to lay out a certain highway in that town, passed April 19th, 1828, asked for leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Hubbard, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to appoint commissioners to lay out a road from Plainfield to Winfield,' passed April 19th, 1828;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. T. L. Smith, from the select committee to whom was referred the memorial of the Lyceum of Natural History in the city of New-York, on the expediency of instituting a search for bituminous coal within this state, accompanied with a resolution recommendatory from the common council of said city, reported:

Under the direction of a wise and liberal policy, our state has advanced beyond all parallel in prosperity, and the development of those vast resources which nature has dispensed with a prodigal hand within our limits. The advantages that we now enjoy, and which mark so emphatically our superiority, are but so many incentives to perseverance in the same bright career. The much that we have already accomplished, has but brought us to the threshold of those resources which are constantly evolving, and invite to new enterprise, with all the allurements of honor, and all the stimulus of wealth. To relax now in the discharge of our duty, would be a reproach; and to postpone to a distant period what is imperiously demanded at this time, would be as unwise as it would be indefeasible. Among the many demands upon the legislature for its authority and munificence, that is certainly not the least imposing, which leads to the encouragement of a department of science most likely to result in great public good, and which will find its way to every man's fire-side.

From the magnitude of our population, the extent of our manufactures, and the number of our steam-boats, the article of fuel constitutes one of the first items in our economy. The constant augmentation of all these great sources of consumption; the consequent diminution of our forests, and the inadequacy of our domestic supply of fuel, commensurate to the present and increasing demand, make it expedient that every facility should be given to remedy this check to our prosperity. So fully sensible of the importance of this matter, was the late distinguished chief magistrate of this state, whose well-stored mind and inquiring eye were often brought to bear successfully upon our honor and interest, that he made it a part of several messages to the legislature; and in his last comprehensive message, it constituted a prominent feature. An honorable member of the present house, as chairman of the committee to whom the matter was referred, made an elaborate and able report, recommending the appointment of a suitable person to conduct geological researches within the state, with a view principally to the discovery of fossil coal, to be defrayed at the expense of the state; which report is on the journals of the last session.

The highly respectable source from which this subject is now brought before the legislature, (the memorial of the Lyceum of Natural History in the city of New-York,) in the estimation of the committee, gives it additional claims to a favorable consideration. The following important facts are taken from this memorial. They constitute so many of the strong points of the case, lucidly arranged, and briefly, yet cogently urged, that the committee have adopted them as the best report they can make; believing that the legislature are so well aware of the sound policy of undertaking this measure, that they require no elaborate argument to prove its importance and necessity.

They would respectfully state that they have been long satisfied of the probable existence of bituminous coal in this state, in situations and in quantities offering the strongest inducements for instituting a research for that valuable fuel, upon the approved principles derived from the science of geology, which teaches that all the extensive and profitable beds of bituminous coal which have hitherto been worked, are found in a constant relation to, or connection with, other mineral formations analogous to those known to exist in this state. Accident has already disclosed many seams of bituminous coal in this state; but the quantity contained in them has been insufficient to warrant their being worked; and they are not only to be considered as indications of more abundant beds within the reach of a vigorous and skilful research. The new branch of industry that would ensue upon the opening of coal mines in the western part of this state; the arrestation of the rapid destruction of wood fuel: the abundance and cheapness of the first quality of coal for domestic and manufacturing purposes; the augmentation of the canal revenue for its transportation; the stoppage of the present supply from abroad, and the exportation of it from our own state; all these circumstances are of obvious and immediate application to the reasonableness of the proposition, that no further time should be lost in commencing the investigation.

In respect to the present supply of fuel from abroad, it would not do justice to the subject, if the following statement, which is made from what is deemed sufficient authority, were withheld.

During the seven years preceding the year 1828, and including the years 1821 and 1827, 5,794,116 bushels of bituminous coal were imported into the United States, the whole of which might as well have been furnished by the coal mines of this state, and supplied by the coasting trade from the port of New-York. But this great amount is inconsiderable, when we look to the consumption which an increased population and a reduction of the price would, in a short time, effect. It is estimated that eight hundred millions of bushels of bituminous coal are raised per annum for general purposes in Great Britain.

As to the present annual consumption of coal in the city of New-York, the following approximation may be considered as not far from the truth.

English and Scotch bituminous coal, 20,000 chaldrons; Virginia coal, 20,000 chaldrons; Lehigh and Schuylkill anthracite, 16,000 chaldrons, the average price of which in the New-York market, is $8.53 per chaldron of 36 bushels, making a gross sum of $478,000 per annum, paid out of the state for coal, in the present amount of population. The quantity of Rhode-Island coal consumed, cannot be accurately ascertained, but it is not thought to exceed 4,000 chaldrons, at an average of $6.50 per chaldron.

The consumption of wood fuel in the city of New-York, may be considered as amounting to 280,000 cords; and it is stated in a recent publication, that the steam-boats which ply from New-York, consume annually the additional quantity of 200,000 cords: Valuing the whole 480,000 cords at $5 per cord, and we have a gross amount of $2.400,000 annually expended for wood fuel. It is universally known that this article is becoming scarce, and with a population rapidly pressing upon us, the substitution of coal is the only measure that can save us from the inconveniences of a scarcity of timber.

For these substantial reasons, and from a thorough conviction that it is the province of the legislature to act promptly and liberally upon this subject, the committee recommend that provision be made by law for the appointment of a competent person, skilled in the science of geology, to make the necessary researches within the limits of this state, for the discovery of coal, and for defraying the expenses of the same.

To this end a bill has been prepared, and permission is asked for its introduction.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. T. L. Smith, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act directing geological researches;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Ordered, That the usual number of copies of the said bill and report be printed for the use of the legislature.

Mr. P. C. Fuller, from the select committee to which was referred the report of the canal commissioners upon the petition of David Holmes and others, praying to be relieved from the effects of a dam at the foot of Hemlock lake, reported:

The petitioners pray that the dam in question may be removed, because, by raising the waters of the lake, it causes the overflow and ruin of some two or three hundred acres of valuable land at the head of the lake; and from the unusual prevalence of sickness since the erection of the dam, particularly during the past season, in the vicinity of the land so flooded, the petitioners believe the raising and keeping up of the waters creates disease, and they state that such is the opinion of physicians in the neighborhood.

The canal commissioners state, that nearly two years ago, one of their superintendents was directed to raise the gates, and draw down the waters of the lake; since which, the waters have not been raised by their permission; and that the waters are not now, and probably never will be, wanted for any purpose connected with the Erie canal: They therefore perceive no objection, on the part of the state, to its removal.

The outlet of this lake is a valuable mill stream. It is stated by the mill owners thereon, to be much benefitted by the dam in question; and the committee are assured in behalf of these men, that they are not only willing to come into any reasonable and equitable arrangement with any and all persons interested, but that they have heretofore applied to the canal commissioners for authority to manage the gate in said dam, according to such mutual arrangement as might be made, but have received no permission so to do. This authority they still wish, on the ground of the great public benefit which might be secured by a judicious use of the surplus waters of the lake. They express an entire willingness to make all reasonable compensation for any injury sustained by the owners of land overflowed; and represent in strong terms, that much injury would be sustained, not by the owners of machinery only, but by the public generally, if an entire removal of the dam were to be determined on.

Under these circumstances, and in the absence of precise information as to the extent of injury in either case, the committee are of opinion that they shall best secure a just and satisfactory decision of this question, by referring the whole subject to the judges of the common pleas in the county where the complaint originates; the more so, as there appears to be no particular asperity of feeling, and no circumstances which indicate any other wish than an amicable and fair adjustment of difficulties. In pursuance of this opinion, the committee have prepared a bill, which they ask leave to introduce.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. P. C. Fuller, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act concerning the dam at the foot of Hemlock lake in the county of Livingston;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Al Burtis, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Union society of the city of New-York," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Johnson, from the select committee to which was referred the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act for the relief of Daniel Carswell," reported, that they have examined the said bill, and see no reason why the same should not be passed into a law.

Ordered, That the said bill be committed to a committee of the whole house.

Ordered, That Mr. Mann have leave of absence for ten days, and Mr. Al Burtis for seven days.

Mr. W. Hall, from the committee on engrossed bills, reported, that they have examined the engrossed bill entitled "An act relative to the duties of the clerk of the police office in the city of New-York;" the engrossed bill entitled "An act authorising the overseers of the poor of the town of Queensbury to pay over certain monies," and the engrossed bill entitled "An act for the relief of the heirs and devisees of Jonas C. Baldwin deceased," and find the said bills severally correctly engrossed.

The said engrossed bill, entitled "An act relative to the duties of the clerk of the police office in the city of New-York," was read the third time.

Resolved, That the bill do pass.

The said engrossed bill, entitled "An act authorising the overseers of the poor of the town of Queensbury to pay over certain monies," was read the third time.

Resolved, That the bill do pass.

The said engrossed bill, entitled "An act for the relief of the heirs and devisees of Jonas C. Baldwin deceased," was read the third time.

Resolved, That the bill do pass.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said several bills to the Senate, and request their concurrence in the same.

Mr. W. Hall, from the committee on engrossed bills, reported, that they have examined the engrossed bill entitled "An act to incorporate a fire company in the town of Fishkill in the county of Dutchess," and the engrossed bill entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to incorporate the village of Oswego,'" and find the said bills severally correctly engrossed.

The said engrossed bill, entitled "An act to incorporate a fire company in the town of Fishkill in the county of Dutchess," was read the third time.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the final passage of the said bill, and it was determined in the affirmative, two-thirds of all the members elected to this house voting in favor thereof, as follows, to wit:

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bill to the Senate, and request their concurrence in the same.

A message from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bill therein mentioned, was read, informing that they have passed the bill entitled "An act to provide for the establishment of a county poor-house in the county of Richmond;" in which bill they request the concurrence of this house.

The said bill was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Jones, Mr. Bogert and Mr. Vanderbilt, to consider and report thereon.

Two several messages from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bills therein mentioned, were read, informing that they have passed the bill entitled "An act authorising the Mohawk turnpike company to relinquish part of their road," and the bill entitled "An act to alter the name of the town of Clifton in the county of Saratoga," severally without amendment.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bills to the acting Governor.

A communication from the canal commissioners was read, in the words following, to wit:

The canal commissioners, to whom was referred by the honorable the Assembly, the petition of John Brown, submit the following report:

The petitioner states that he was the owner of a canal boat called W. J. Lighthall, which boat being loaded with about two thousand bushels of barley, was navigating the Erie canal; when, about the fifteenth day of November last, whilst the boat was descending one of the locks near the Cohoes falls, it settled upon the bick horn of an anvil which lay in the bottom of the lock, and that the said bick horn thrust a hole through the bottom of the boat, by which the water was let in and the cargo injured, and that he was compelled to unload the barley in order to save the same and to repair the boat. He states, also, that the lock-tender knew that the anvil was in the bottom of the lock, and gave no information of the same to those who had charge of the boat. And the petitioner asks of the legislature a full compensation for his loss, alleging that he is in justice and equity entitled to relief.

Numerous claims of a description very like the present, have heretofore, from time to time, been presented to the canal commissioners, but they have been uniformly disallowed.

There is no law which makes the state an insurer against the dangers and risks which may happen to boats, and their lading, on the canals. If those who are engaged in transportation, wish to be insured against the perils of the canal, they may doubtless find companies or individuals who, for an adequate premium, would become underwriters.

If any lock-tender or superintendent should be guilty of gross negligence, in the discharge of his duty, by which boats or property on the canal should be lost or damaged, there can be no doubt but that the party injured could maintain an action at law against such lock-tender or superintendent, to recover the damages; and on such recovery being had, the canal board would doubtless superadd the further penalty of removing the delinquent from office.

But it would not seem to be just, to permit an interested party to fix delinquency upon a public officer, without the officer's having an opportunity to be heard in his defence; nor would it seem to be equitable, even after the delinquency was clearly established, to inflict the penalty of such delinquency upon the community.

Let it be supposed that the state should become responsible for all the accidents and losses which happen to property navigating the canals, and what would be the result? The risk being thus assumed by the state, new competition would be invited in the business of transportation, so that what the state should pay would not benefit those who are engaged in this department of labor.

If the state should supply, at the expense of the treasury, all the horses or the boats which are engaged in transporting property and passengers upon the canals, it would confer no permanent benefit upon those who are engaged in transportation, because competition would in a very short time reduce the profits of this occupation to the level of those in other pursuits.

If an individual, by carelessness or accident, should drop an anvil upon a turnpike road, which should be the cause of injury or loss to another individual who was travelling the same road, can it be pretended that the injured individual could sustain an action against the turnpike company? The injured party in such a case, if he should consult able counsel, would probably be advised to ascertain who had dropped the anvil, and to institute the suit against him who had caused the mischief, on the ground that every man must so use his property as not to injure that of his neighbor.

But the petitioner seems to have adopted a more compendious mode of obtaining redress. Without any effort to ascertain who had dropped the anvil into the lock, it seems to comport with his ideas of justice, to fix the whole delinquency upon the lock-tender, and then instead of exacting any redress from him, the petitioner claims the equity of inflicting the penalty upon the community. This would seem to be bad logic, bad law and worse morality. To punish the innocent for the guilty, is not the most effectual way of enforcing the obligations of duty.

Every wrong is provided with an appropriate remedy by the laws of the land; nor can a lock-tender or any other public officer, claim an exemption from the fulfilment of his social or civic duties, any more than a private individual.

If the petitioner has been injured by the lock-tender, or any other individual, courts of justice will afford him redress; but it would seem to be not only wrong in principle, but a dangerous precedent, to fasten his loss upon the community.

If the canal commissioners become satisfied that the lock-tender is in fault, they will immediately remove him from office; but they will not condemn him unheard; for, after the experience they have had, they are not prepared to yield an unqualified assent to the declarations of an interested individual.

All which is respectfully submitted,

S. YOUNG,
H. SEYMOUR,
WM. C. BOUCK.

A communication from the canal board was read, in the words following, to wit:

The canal board, to which the honorable the Assembly have referred the petition of Paul Knight, submit the following report:

The petitioner states, that in the year 1826 he became the owner of a valuable mill-seat in the village of Rochester, south of the aqueduct over the Genesee river; that in the same year he made a contract to erect a saw-mill; for which the frame and machinery was prepared and fitted for use, when one of the canal commissioners gave notice that said mill must not be erected, because its erection would be injurious to the aqueduct, by preventing the free passage of water; that in consequence of such notice the mill was not raised, and that he sold the frame, materials and machinery on the best terms he could, but a considerable part of said frame and materials was lost or injured so as to be of little value; that after a lapse of seven months, one of the canal commissioners gave notice to the petitioner that he might erect his saw-mill, excepting a slip on the north end thereof, ten feet wide, which was appropriated to the public use; that after receiving such notice or permission, he erected a saw-mill on the residue of said lot, and completed it in 1827; that by such prohibition and appropriation of said mill lot, he has sustained a loss and damage in the sale of the frame and machinery, of $2,026, and a profit on his mill, if it had been erected, of $1,896.62, and a diminution in the value of his mill, by appropriating a part of his lot to the public use, of $600; that in October last he prepared and signed a petition for the purpose of presenting the same to the canal commissioners and appraisers, in order to obtain relief; that he made diligent inquiry as to the place of residence of the canal cammissioners and appraisers, or at what place or places they could be found, in order that said petition might be handed to them, but that he was unable to obtain correct information as to where they could be found, or how the papers could be sent to them, and that he made several other fruitless efforts to put his petition in the hands of one of the canal commissioners. The petitioner further states, that he is advised and apprehends that the provisions of the forty-ninth section, article third of the ninth chapter, title ninth of the revised statutes, will be deemed by the canal commissioners and appraisers, a reason for declining to estimate and appraise his damages, and that it is very doubtful whether any part of his claim for damages comes within any existing law of the state; wherefore he prays that his claim may be considered by the legislature, and that by special directions his damages may be estimated and appraised by the appraisers or other persons, or that he may have such other relief in the premises as shall be deemed equitable.

It is true that the canal commissioner who had charge of the western section of the Erie canal in 1826, forbid the erection of a saw-mill as stated by the petitioner, for reasons which were then, and are now believed to be just and proper.

The petitioner had located his saw-mill in the bed of the Genesee river, adjoining the aqueduct, and immediately in front of one of the main arches, which he had enclosed with a stone wall so as entirely to prevent the floods of the river from being discharged through it.

The level of the canal where it crosses the Genesee river, is so little elevated above its bed, as to admit of no more than fifty feet space to the arches; and the erection of the necessary piers between them was calculated to lessen the capacity of the channel to discharge the floods of the stream. To obviate this difficulty, the aqueduct was extended over a low and broken piece of ground, on the margin of the west bank of the river, a sufficient distance to admit of nine arches; two of which, on the west bank of the river, have been obstructed by the erection of mills above them, for which no permission, it is believed, was ever given. The remaining arches could not but be considered as indispensably necessary to discharge the floods of the stream; and one of these the petitioner had entirely enclosed for purposes connected with his mill. The commissioner could not, without a manifest violation of duty, have consented that this arch should be converted into a mill race, whereby the security of an important public work, and even the safety of the village of Rochester, would have been jeopardized.

If the petitioner had taken the trouble to inquire of the commissioner or superintendent, he would have readily ascertained that the location of his mill was objectionable, and could not be consented to.

It is believed to be true, as the petitioner states, that he had incurred expenses in procuring materials and machinery for his mill, on the sale of which he may have sustained a loss; but we cannot conceive how this circumstance could justify the commissioner in permitting the erection of his mill where it was attended with so much hazard to the public work, or how it furnishes a claim for damages.

The petitioner's mill-seat was in the bed of the Genesee river, purchased by him several years after the erection of the aqueduct; and how he could have conceived that he would be indulged in closing one of the main apertures under it, or upon what principle he has a claim upon the state for damages, we cannot imagine.

The canal commissioner did consent to the erection of the petitioner's present saw-mill, but it was on the express condition that fifty feet of the wall with which he had enclosed the arch, should be removed, and a space between the mill and aqueduct should be left unobstructed.

The canal appraisers were on a tour of duty on the western section of the Erie canal, in the fall of 1826, at which time the petitioner made application for the payment of his damages, which was refused, because he had purchased his mill-seat after the construction of the aqueduct, and was making his erections under circumstances which were not only obviously objectionable to the most common observer, but a palpable trespass on the public works. It is not now recollected whether he presented his claim in writing, or whether it was definitively passed upon.

If damages have resulted from occupying a part of what the petitioner terms a mill lot, the claim should be regarded as coming from the person who was the proprietor at the time the aqueduct was erected. This person is one of the principal proprietors of the lands on which is situated the village of Rochester, and whose property has been greatly benefitted by the canal. The canal appraisers have uniformly refused to recognize claims coming from those who have purchased property on the line of the canal after its construction, unless presented in the name of the person who was the owner at the time the property was appropriated, To illustrate the propriety of this course, it will only be necessary to state that the law under which the appraisers act, requires them "to make a just and equitable estimate and appraisal of the loss and damage, if any, over and above the benefits and advantages to the respective owners": if then the claim is regarded as coming from the former owner, the increased value given to his property would have been a full off-set to his claim; if as coming from the person who has purchased after the construction of the canal, there could be no off-set for benefits as against him, because he has already paid the increased value given to it.

It will be seen by the foregoing remarks, that the petitioner has had an opportunity to present his claim, and that the hardship of his case in not having been able, as he says, to ascertain the place of residence of the canal commissioners and appraisers, or how papers could be sent to them, is not entitled to much consideration.

Ordered, That the said communication be referred to the committee on canals and internal improvements, and that the usual number of copies thereof be printed for the use of the legislature.

A message from the acting Governor, delivered by his private secretary, was read, in the words following, to wit:

TO THE ASSEMBLY.

GENTLEMEN,

I have this day approved and signed the following bills:

"An act authorising Martin B. Young to erect a dam across the Canisteo river."

"An act to incorporate the Ithaca and Havana turnpike road company."

"An act to confirm the conveyance of a certain piece of land therein mentioned, to Joseph Howard, junior."

"An act authorising Ann Eliza Babcock to take the maiden name of Seeley."

"An act to authorise the issuing of executions by the justices' court of the city of Schenectady, and for other purposes."

A message from the acting Governor, delivered by his private secretary, was read, in the words following, to wit:

TO THE ASSEMBLY.

GENTLEMEN,

I have this day approved and signed the following bills:

"An act for the relief of Matthew Brown junior."

"An act authorising the superintendent of light-houses on Lake Ontario, to remove certain obstructions to the light-house at the mouth of the Genesee river."

"An act to continue in force the act authorising Russel Atwater and his associates to erect a toll-bridge over the Black river."

"An act to amend the act entitled 'An act to incorporate the Canajoharie and Sharon turnpike company,' passed February 9th, 1829."

Albany, March 29, 1829.

The house then again resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act authorising the construction of a canal from the head of Seneca lake to Newtown;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Bradish, from the said committee, reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, made sundry amendments thereto, altered the title to "An act to authorise the construction of a canal from the head of Seneca lake to Elmira," and agreed to the same; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read.

Thereupon,

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree with the committee of the whole in their said report, and it was determined in the affirmative.

The house then again resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act relative to general elections;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Spier, from the said committee, reported progress, and asked for and obtained leave to sit again.

The house then again resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act directing the manner of choosing electors of president and vice-president;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Spier, from the said committee, reported progress, and asked for and obtained leave to sit again.

And then the House adjourned until nine o'clock to-morrow morning.

TUESDAY, MARCH 31, 1829.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

The petition of James King, of the town of Pompey in the county of Onondaga, relative to the estate of Thomas King, late of said town, deceased, was read, and referred to the select committee to which was referred the engrossed bill from the Senate for the relief of Betsey Cameron.

The remonstrance of sundry inhabitants of the town of Oppenheim in the county of Montgomery, against the division of that town, was read, and referred to the select committee upon that subject, of which Mr. Burt is chairman.

The remonstrance of sundry inhabitants of the county of Westchester, against annulling the charter of the Eastchester bridge company, was read, and referred to the select committee upon that subject, of which Mr. Dayton is chairman.

Mr. Burt, from the committee on the establishment and improvement of roads and bridges and the incorporation of turnpike companies, to which was referred the petition of sundry inhabitants of the town of Watertown in the county of Jefferson, praying for certain alterations of the law regulating highways, so far as the same relates to said town, asked for leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Burt, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act in relation to the commissioners of highways of the town of Watertown in the county of Jefferson;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Tower, from the committee on canals and internal improvements, to whom was referred the petition of Elijah Miller, Silas Bower, Jonathan Hupey, George C. E. Thompson, Elijah Cone, Wing Taber, Gershom Moore, Rowland Day, Artimus Cady, Ambrose Cock, Silas Underwood, and others, of the county of Cayuga, praying for the incorporation of a company by the name and style of the "Owasco and Erie canal company," reported:

That they have had the subject under consideration. The petitioners are desirous that this company should be incorporated, with the view of the construction of a canal from some point upon the Erie canal, in the county of Cayuga, to the outlet of the Owasco lake, on the most feasible route, a distance of about nine miles, and an improvement of the inlet of said lake, so as to make it navigable to the village of Milan, a distance of six miles. The length of the lake is stated at thirteen miles, making a navigable communication through the centre of the south part of this rich and populous county, of twenty-eight miles.

The county of Cayuga contains an enterprising population of near fifty thousand people, enjoying one of the most fertile sections of the state, which is in a high and progressive state of improvement. The village of Auburn, which has a population of from 3.000 to 4.000, is situated upon the outlet of the Owasco lake, seven miles south of the Erie canal. In addition to the well-known enterprise, skill and industry of the population of this village, they have the advantage of the location of one of the first penitentiaries in this or any other country, and which has been brought into repute and usefulness by the exertions and perseverance of some of her own citizens. Added to this artificial advantage, they have a natural one in that of hydraulic power in the use of the outlet of the Owasco lake. In finding its way to the Erie canal, this stream has a descent of a few feet short of three hundred, one half of which is within one mile of the village. And it may be observed, that it embraces the most of the hydraulic power in the county.

The committee are aware that it may be objected, that the usefulness of this stream of water for manufacturing purposes, would preclude its use for a canal; but the petitioners propose an expedient which has, under like circumstances, upon other canals, not only given an abundant supply of water without injury to the hydraulic power, but increased that power.

The Owasco lake is thirteen miles in length, and from one to one and a half in width; for our estimates we assume it at one mile by thirteen. It is proposed to cut down the outlet, and construct a guard lock, so as to be enabled to draw upon it as a reservoir, to the depth of three feet during the dry part of the season; the quantity drawn, to be supplied by the fall and spring freshets.

Three feet in depth, will produce 1,087,257,600 cubic feet of water. Assuming the length of the canal at nine miles, and the supply of water for soakage and evaporation at 50 cubic feet per minute per mile, for 210 days a year, and a passage of 20 boats per day, with the consumption of an entire lock full of water for each boat passing, the consumption of water by the canal would be 220,320,000 cubic feet annually; leaving for hydraulic or manufacturing purposes, 867,937,600 cubic feet. This, divided by 312, the working days of the year, would give a daily supply of 2,781,853 cubic feet over and above the quantity produced by the natural stream. Mill-wrights, and those conversant with hydraulic power, estimate that about 200 cubic feet of water per minute upon an overshot wheel, whose diameter is 20 feet, will propel or turn a pair of mill-stones.

At this rate, the surplus water over what would be wanted for the canal, would drive fourteen pair of mill-stones sixteen hours in the twenty-four, upon every fall or wheel of twenty feet. Admit that ten manufacturing or mill sites were to be occupied in the descent of 300 feet, it would produce an aggregate hydraulic power equal to the driving of one hundred and forty pair of mill-stones, sixteen hours out of the twenty-four, the year round. This water power itself, may at some future day be of sufficient value and importance to not only warrant, but pay for this improvement.

The strong objection to this undertaking, is the amount of lockage in so short a distance; but this difficulty is outweighed, in some measure, in the consideration of the advantage to the state prison at Auburn—an establishment in which the state have already invested more than half a million, and to which a considerable portion of the materials wrought by the convicts are now carted up this ascent from the Erie canal, and their wares returned; in the value that would be given to the natural and artificial hydraulic power, and the extended water communication, without expense, thirteen miles by the lake.

At the last session of the legislature, the inspectors of the state prison petitioned the state for an appropriation for the construction of a rail-road from said prison to the Erie canal. Mr. Granger, chairman of the committee on canals and internal improvements, made a lengthy report in favor, which may be found in the journal of last year, page 610, and introduced a bill for its construction, which passed this house, but was lost in the Senate. A bill has this session been introduced into this house for the incorporation of a company to construct the rail-road. If the work is to be undertaken either by a canal or rail-road, the committee should be inclined to give a preference to that of a canal.

The committee of last year seem to have been guided in recommending the rail-road, with the view of the trial of an experiment to test the usefulness of that species of improvement. The committee say, that "the attention of our citizens has but recently been attracted to this species of improvement, and it appears to the committee that the public intelligence in regard to it bears but a limited proportion to the enthusiasm which prevails in its favor. That in particular districts and for particular objects within this state, improvements by rail-roads can be usefully extended, is probably true; but that they can bear a fair competition with well located canals, remains to be proved.

"With this view of the subject, while, in the opinion of the committee, rail-roads are of minor consideration to canals, yet as tributaries to them, and as the means of connecting with the Erie and Champlain canals, those interior waters which cannot otherwise be joined to the existing chain of communications, they will become of vital importance.

"The proposed improvement appears to the committee to present decided advantages for testing this desirable object. By the short distance of seven miles, it will connect this extensive prison establishment with the canal; upon its route is to be found every material for its construction, excepting iron; and its location is such that it can receive the supervision of the canal commissioners without additional expense to the state."

In addition to the views of that committee, the committee now understand that the first cost of a rail-road, with double tracks or rails, will be more than a canal of the dimensions of the Erie, unless it be through a district of country of extraordinary difficulty of execution. The strong point in favor of the construction of rail-roads, is the want of water to supply a canal. Celerity of movement upon them, with less expense of power, has been urged; this may have its advantage for the conveyance of passengers, or with light and expensive merchandize. It, however, has been found, that the moving power is lessened to a considerable extent if the speed is increased beyond a certain ratio; this is particularly so in horse power. With the locomotive steam engine, the weight of the engine and apparatus, with fuel, water, &c. is a drawback.

It is understood that the proprietors of the Maunch Chunk rail-road upon the Schuylkill, in Pennsylvania, have declared they would construct a canal in the place of their rail-road, if they could command a supply of water. Their descent in about the same distance is 800 feet instead of 300.

A canal from the Erie canal to the foot of Owasco lake, 9 miles, would, without much hesitation, be made for $25,000 per mile, with stone locks complete, and the expense might not extend beyond $20,000 per mile.

The estimated expense of the Boston and Hudson rail-road, is $16,434.77 per mile; that of the Baltimore and Ohio, $25,000 per mile. This project, as yet mostly in theory, will have a fair opportunity of having its utility and usefulness tested by a comparison with the Chesapeake and Ohio canal, as, if both are built, they pass up the same valley parallel to each other.

The length of the Liverpool and Manchester rail-road, England, is 33⅓ miles, and has cost $2.666,666, or more than $80,000 per mile. The total amount of merchandize passing between the two places, is daily more than 1,200 tons; the amount having increased so enormously, and difficulties and high tolls charged by a company holding the exclusive water communication, has induced capitalists to undertake this work.

Tredgold, London edition, page 8, says, "up to this time (1825) rail-ways have been employed with success only in the conveyance of heavy mineral products; and for short distances where immense quantities were to be conveyed. In the few instances where they have been intended for the general purposes of trade, they have never answered the expectations of the projectors."

The comparative power of a horse on a canal and rail-road, is as 3 to 1: this has been settled by experiment. A horse will move thirty tons upon a canal with the same ease as ten upon a level rail-way.

The petitioners have not presented the committee with any survey or estimate of the contemplated work, and in treating of it they are rather inclined to the opinion that it ought to be a state object rather than be committed fully into the hands of a company. They are led to this opinion from the importance of it in connection with the state prison at Auburn, and a question of state policy as to the creation of corporate power and right in perpetuity for the construction of any of our public improvements.

Where this power is created with the view of their holding real estate, as canals, rail-roads, turnpikes, &c., they necessarily must hold in perpetuity, unless the legislature reserve the right to purchase and assume the property by the original law. The question is now, as the committee understand, definitely settled, that rights once granted to an incorporation cannot be changed or taken from them, unless by subsequent contract, or originally so reserved.

In a political point of view, it may not be policy to create these corporations. It has been said that corporations can construct these works with more economy than your public officers. In the view of the committee, this remains to be shown; but admit it so, is there nothing else of which you ought to be saving but your money? nothing else in danger? If that is lost in the construction of your public improvements, some one of the family of the republic will have in most cases found it.

Not so, if by the creation of these corporations you give them undue rights, privileges and influence upon our liberties. They are in effect aristocracies and monopolies.

The passage of laws by this legislature, to create the multiplicity of corporate bodies within and without the state, has been and is now admitted to be a growing evil; but it is an evil so extensive, that there is no resisting it.

Judge Kent, in his commentaries upon American law, vol. 2, page 219, says, that "the multiplicity of corporations and the avidity with which they are sought, have arisen in consequence of the power which a large consolidated capital gives them over business of every kind, and the facility which the incorporation gives to the management of that capital, and the security which it affords to the persons of the members and to their property not vested in the corporate stock. The demands for acts of incorporations is continually increasing, and the propensity is the more striking, as it appears to be incurable, and we seem to have no moral means to resist it."

"All these incorporations are contracts between the government and the company, which cannot ordinarily be affected by legislative interference; and it has been attempted to retain a control over these private incorporations by a clause 'that it shall be lawful for the legislature, at any time thereafter, to alter, modify or repeal the act.'"

It would seem that if the creation of corporate power is to be justified for any purpose, it is that of holding and dealing in personal property and securities, and for limited periods, the legislature holding supervisory control over their conduct. Of this class are banks, insurance companies, lombard companies, and some manufacturing and commercial operations, where investments are not made in real estate. In no case ought they to be allowed to hold any considerable extent, landed or real property.

Give corporate power to an association of men for the construction of a canal or rail-road, or any other spacious object of public improvement, where the amount of the investment shall in the aggregate make one, two or three millions in real estate, they go on and complete the work. Here then would be an investment to be held in perpetuity, by whom? Not by an individual, who, through a long life, had by industry and talent accumulated this vast estate, and at whose decease it would be divided among his half dozen children, rendering harmless its influence on community. The statutes of 1787 of this state, abolishing all feudal tenures, and the descent of landed property by primogeniture, has usually been considered as one of the strong links in the maintenance of our freedom.

The certain and consequent influence, control and direction that the managers of a canal would hold over the destinies of a district of country, through which it should pass, needs only to be mentioned to be seen. Their power and influence would accumulate with increasing years. As may, and frequently is seen, the rights of the citizens change in relation to these incorporations. The rights and privileges once created and given them, remain unalterable. Corporate power created in this country by the British government, whilst we were colonies, with the privileges and rights then so granted, will so remain to the holders to the end of time.

The granting of charters by the state to associated companies, gives them a concentrated power and influence, and in consequence gives them extended opportunities and power to monopolize. Who doubts that if a canal of any extent, passing a district of country whose population were dependent upon its use, was under the control of a limited number of men, but whose directors, either in their individual or corporate capacity, would directly or indirectly speculate in the produce or merchandize which would necessarily pass upon its waters? An intentional or accidental derangement of its navigation, would furnish the opportunity; and men who have capital or influence sufficient to make them directors in a company of such magnitude, usually can command the means in their individual capacity to take advantage of such a contingency. Dr. Smith, Say, and other eminent writers upon political economy, consider corporations as possessing the power, and generally using it, to monopolize to the injury of the freedom of trade and the progress of improvement.

A company once created, and its operation commenced, has advantages over individuals for the acquirement of new grants of power and privilege, or a requisition for funds out of your treasury: and so far as our experience has as yet shown on this head the advance of funds to assist in the prosecution or completion of a work, seems but as consequent upon the granting a charter. From the limited extent of this canal, and the investment therefor, but little may be apprehended from the political influence that the corporation might exercise. And so strongly are the state interested in its construction, from the reasons which have been recapitulated, that there would be no great loss in an appropriation of the public funds, in part or in whole, for the work.

The committee have accordingly prepared a bill for the incorporation of said company; one of the terms of which is, that the state at any time hereafter have the right to repeal the act of incorporation, by paying the original cost of the canal and works connected therewith and ten ten per centum interest; which bill they respectfully ask leave to introduce.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Tower, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act for the incorporation of the Owasco and Erie canal company;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Ordered, That the usual number of copies of the said bill and report be printed for the use of the legislature.

Mr. Jones, from the select committee to which was referred the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to provide for the establishment of a county poor-house in the county of Richmond," reported, that they have examined the said bill, and see no reason why the same should not be passed into a law.

Ordered, That the said bill be committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Bacon, from the committee on trade and manufactures, to which was referred the petition of John M. Betts and others, inhabitants of the county of Otsego, praying for an act of incorporation for the purpose of dressing and manufacturing hemp, asked for leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Bacon, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to incorporate the Butternuts and Unadilla hemp manufacturing company;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Scott, from the select committee to which was referred the petition of sundry inhabitants of the town of Covert in the county of Seneca, praying for an alteration of the time of distributing their public school money, reported:

That they have had the subject under consideration. The petitioners represent, that under the existing law, it is made the duty of the school commissioners to apportion the public school money on the first Tuesday in April in each year; that being the day on which their annual town-meetings are held, renders it very inconvenient. They further represent, that the sum of money received by the commissioners of common schools of said town, from the trustees of the school lot in said town, is more than the whole amount received from the county treasurer and town collector, and is not due until the first of April in each year; and it is principally due from farmers, who depend upon making the remittances from the avails of their produce, which is not received until about the first of June. The committee are of opinion that the prayer of the petitioners is reasonable, and ought to be granted: They have accordingly prepared a bill, which they now ask leave to introduce.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Scott, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act authorising the commissioners of common schools of the town of Covert in the county of Seneca, to alter the time of apportioning the public school money to the trustees of the several school districts of said town;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Burt, from the committee appointed to examine all bills committed to a committee of the whole house, and to report all such bills as in their opinion may with safety and propriety be referred to select committees to report complete, reported the following bills as proper for such reference, to wit:

The bill entitled "An act in relation to firemen in the village of Rochester;" the bill entitled "An act authorising the board of supervisors of the county of Livingston to raise money to build a bridge over Genesee river at Squakie hill;" the bill entitled "An act to authorise the appointment of inspectors of wood and timber in the county of Montgomery;" the bill entitled "An act for the relief of the trustees of the reformed congregation of Galway;" the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Troy water-works company;" the bill entitled "An act authorising George D. Coles to erect a dock in the town of Oysterbay;" the bill entitled "An act authorising Jonathan Peck and his associates to erect a dock in the town of Flushing;" the bill entitled "An act to enable the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New-York, to raise money by a tax;" and the bill entitled "An act authorising the board of supervisors of the county of Orleans to raise money to build a bridge across Sandy creek in the town of Murray."

Thereupon,

Ordered, That the committee of the whole be discharged from the further consideration of the said several bills, and that the bill entitled "An act in relation to firemen in the village of Rochester," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Norton, Mr. Eldridge and Mr. White; that the bill entitled "An act authorising the board of supervisors of the county of Livingston to raise money to build a bridge over Genesee river at Squakie hill," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. P. C. Fuller, Mr. Goodman and Mr. Bailey; that the bill entitled "An act to authorise the appointment of inspectors of wood and timber in the county of Montgomery," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Randall, Mr. Starr and Mr. Mandeville; that the bill entitled "An act for the relief of the trustees of the reformed congregation of Galway," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Wheeler, Mr. J. M'Donald and Mr. Mandeville; that the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Troy water-works company," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Mallory, Mr. Barnett and Mr. Heermans; that the bill entitled "An act authorising George D. Coles to erect a dock in the town of Oysterbay," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Jones, Mr. Wyckoff and Mr. Williamson; that the bill entitled "An act authorising Jonathan Peck and his associates to erect a dock in the town of Flushing," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Jones, Mr. Wyckoff and Mr. Williamson; that the bill entitled "An act to enable the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New-York, to raise money by a tax," be referred to a select committee, consisting of the members attending this house from the city and county of New-York; and that the bill entitled "An act authorising the board of supervisors of the county of Orleans to raise money to build a bridge across Sandy creek in the town of Murray," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Fleming, Mr. Garbutt and Mr. Willey; to be by the said select committees severally reported complete.

Mr. Jones, from the select committee to whom was referred the petition of sundry inhabitants of the county of Queens, praying that Thomas Garvie may be authorised to erect a wharf opposite his land in said county, reported:

That the petitioner contemplates building a dock or wharf on the waters of the Sound or East river, at or near Hempstead harbour. Much delay is now occasioned to vessels at this place, upon the circumstance of their having to depend on the tide waters in order to discharge their cargoes. And the reason urged in support of the propriety of having a good landing place established here, is, that the shore abounds in clay and other materials adapted to the manufacture of bricks, tile and pottery; and the probability is, that manufacturing of those articles will be established at this place the moment such wharf should be erected; and further, that it would be of general utility.

It does not appear to the committee that the navigation will be impeded or interrupted in any way, by granting the prayer of the petitioners in relation to said wharf. He proposes to extend his wharf not less than one hundred feet, and not more than three hundred feet, into said harbor.

The committee are of the opinion that the prayer of the petitioner should be granted: they have therefore prepared a bill, and ask leave to introduce the same.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Jones, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act authorising Thomas Garvie to erect a wharf in the town of Oysterbay;" whi h was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Matthews, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to authorise the sale of certain lands therein mentioned, by the people of this state,' passed 10th March, 1827," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Waugh, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act to establish a high school at Newburgh," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Sanford, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act repealing the act incorporating the St. Lawrence turnpike road company, passed April 2d, 1810," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Bacon, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Rome and New-London turnpike company," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Dana, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act to provide for the transferring from the office of the secretary of state, to the office of the register in chancery, certain papers therein named," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. White, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act relative to monies in the hands of overseers of the poor," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Case, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the village of Smyrna in the county of Chenango," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Fillmore, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to incorporate the Buffalo high school association.'" reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, made sundry amendments thereto, and agreed to the same; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Noble, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Port Byron and Auburn rail-road company," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, made sundry amendments thereto, and agreed to the same; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Dana, from the select committee to which was referred the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to establish a ferry across the Seneca lake, from the cove on the south side of Peach-orchard point in Hector, Tompkins county, to Big-stream point in the town of Starkey, Yates county," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house, and the bill ordered a third reading.

Mr. Dean offered for the consideration of the house, a resolution, in the words following, to wit:

Resolved, (if the Senate concur,) That this Legislature will adjourn on Monday the 20th of April next.

Ordered, That the said resolution be laid upon the table.

Mr. Austin gave notice that he would, on some future day, ask leave to introduce a bill to provide for the support of government, and to do away the necessity of imposing the half mill tax.

The engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to establish a ferry across the Seneca lake, from the cove on the south side of Peach-orchard point in Hector, Tompkins county, to Big-stream point in the town of Starkey, Yates county," was read the third time.

Resolved, That the bill do pass.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bill to the Senate, and inform them that this house have passed the same without amendment.

A message from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bill and amendment therein mentioned, was read, informing that they have passed the bill entitled "An act to create a fund for the benefit of the creditors of certain monied corporations, and for other purposes," with the amendment therewith delivered.

The said bill and amendment were read; and the amendment having been again read, was concurred in by the house, and the bill amended accordingly.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bill and amendment to the Senate, and inform them that this house have concurred with them in their amendment to the said bill, and have amended the same accordingly.

Mr. W. Hall, from the committee on engrossed bills, reported, that they have examined the engrossed bill entitled "An act relative to the city of Hudson," and find the same correctly engrossed.

The said engrossed bill, entitled "An act relative to the city of Hudson," was read the third time.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the final passage of the said bill, and it was determined in the affirmative, two-thirds of all the members elected to this house voting in favor thereof, as follows, to wit:

Thereupon,

On motion of Mr. Savage,

Resolved, That Gerrit Y. Lansing and John K. Paige, of the county of Albany, and John Sudam, of the county of Ulster, be, and they are hereby nominated on the part of the Assembly, regents of the university of this state, to fill the vacancies occasioned by the resignation of Martin Van Buren and Samuel A. Talcott, and by the death of John Tayler.

A copy of a resolution of the Senate, delivered by their clerk, was read, in in the words following, to wit:

Resolved, (if the Assembly concur,) That the Senate will immediately meet the Assembly in the Assembly chamber, to compare their respective nominations of regents of the university of this state.

Thereupon,

Resolved, That this house do concur with the Senate in the said resolution.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver a copy of the preceding resolution of concurrence to the Senate.

The Senate accordingly attended in the Assembly chamber; and having withdrawn, Mr. Speaker informed the House, that on comparing the nominations of the Senate and Assembly, they were found to agree in the names of John Keyes Paige, John Sudam and Gerrit Y. Lansing.

Thereupon,

On motion of Mr. Savage,

Resolved, That Gerrit Y. Lansing and John K. Paige, of the county of Albany, and John Sudam, of the county of Ulster, be, and they are hereby nominated and appointed regents of the university of this state, in the places of Martin Van Buren and Samuel A. Talcott, resigned, and John Tayler, deceased.

A message from the acting Governor, delivered by his private secretary, was read, in the words following, to wit:

TO THE ASSEMBLY.

GENTLEMEN,

I have this day approved and signed the following bills:

"An act to alter the name of the town of Clifton in the county of Saratoga."

"An act authorising the Mohawk turnpike company to relinquish part of their road."

E. T. THROOP.

Albany, March 31, 1829.

A message from the acting Governor, delivered by his private secretary, was read, in the words following, to wit:

TO THE ASSEMBLY.

GENTLEMEN,

I have this day approved and signed the bill entitled "An act further to extend the time for the payment of monies loaned by the commissioners of loans and loan-officers, to citizens of this state."

E. T. THROOP.

Albany, March 30, 1829.

A communication from the commissioners of the land-office, was read, in the words following, to wit:

The commissioners of the land-office, on the petition of William D. Ross, referred to them by the Honorable the Assembly, respectfully report:

That in June 1826, the petitioner purchased four lots of land in the Roaring brook tract in the county of Essex, containing 992 acres; paid $58.20, and gave his obligations for $177. He states in his petition, that when he bought those lots, he supposed them to be valuable for the purpose of making charcoal, and has since found that he has been entirely deceived; that they are of little value, and almost inaccessible. He therefore prays that a law may be passed, authorising the commissioners of the land-office to receive his certificates for the lots, to cancel his bonds given for the consideration monies due, and to credit his other accounts for lands purchased of the state, with the $58.20 which he paid as above mentioned.

The commissioners of the land-office are of opinion that the granting of the prayer of the petitioner would set a precedent which policy forbids.

Respectfully submitted,
SIMEON DE WITT, Surveyor-General.
A. C. FLAGG, Secretary.
SILAS WRIGHT, Jun. Comptroller.
GREENE C. BRONSON, Att'y Gen.
A. KEYSER, Treasurer.

Ordered, That the said communication be laid upon the table.

The house then again resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act in relation to the salt manufacturing lots in the town of Salina, and for other purposes;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Fitch, from the said committee, reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, made amendments thereto, and agreed to the same; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

The house then again resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act directing the manner of choosing electors of president and vice-president;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Spier, from the said committee, reported progress, and asked for and obtained leave to sit again.

The house then again resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act relative to general elections;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Spier, from the said committee, reported progress, and asked for and obtained leave to sit again.

And then the House adjourned until nine o'clock to-morrow morning.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 1, 1829.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

Two several petitions of John Loftus Gilliland and William Maxwell, praying that they may be authorised to purchase, take, hold, and convey real estate within this state, was read, and referred to the committee on the petitions of aliens.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the city of Albany, praying for the passage of a law authorising the erection of a school district, was read, and referred to the committee on colleges, academies and common schools.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the town of Bethany, praying for the passage of a law to authorise the supervisors of the county of Genesee to raise one thousand dollars by tax, for the building and support of bridges. was read, and referred to the committee of the whole when on the bill upon that subject.

Mr. Dana, from the committee on the judiciary, to which was referred the petition of Samuel Pruyn and S. De Witt Bloodgood, reported:

That it appears from the petition, and the papers accompanying the same, that the petitioners are the owners of a building in the city of Albany, called the Atheneum; which, with the lot whereon it stands, is worth about the sum of $32,000: That during the years 1827 and 1828, it has been rated in the tax lists at $23.000; which is alleged to be higher in proportion to its actual value, than other property in the same ward is assessed; and that it was rated so high by mistake, and should have been assessed at $13,000 only.

The committee are satisfied that the property in question has been rated considerably higher in proportion to its value, than other property in the vicinity; but every inequality of this kind may be corrected by application in due season to another tribunal, without the interference of the legislature. Inequalities in taxation must constantly occur; and should the legislature attempt to correct them, it would produce an infinity of applications, and occasion an expense greater than the errors to be corrected. As the law very explicity requires property to be assessed at its fair cash value, the present application to reduce the valuation of property which had been rated at less than three-fourths of its value, to a sum equal to about two-fifths of the value, appeared to the committee a little extraordinary; but as it is no part of their duty to inquire into the motives which governed the assessors. they forbear to remark upon the subject. The committee have directed their chairman to submit the following resolution:

Resolved, That the petitioners have leave to withdraw their petition.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Hubbard, from the committee on the establishment and improvement of roads and bridges, and the incorporation of turnpike companies. on the petition of sundry inhabitants of the counties of Schoharie and Greene, praying for the incorporation of the Schoharie and Durham turnpike road company, asked leave to report by bill.

Ordered. That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Hubbard, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to incorporate the Cooperstown, Schoharie and Durham turnpike road company;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Skinner, from the committee on colleges, academies and common schools, on the petition of sundry inhabitants of the town of Pierrepont in St. Lawrence county, praying authority to divert the poor monies of said town into a school fund, asked leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Skinner, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to authorise the overseers of the poor of Pierrepont in St. Lawrence county, to pay certain monies to the commissioners of common schools of said town;"

which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Randall, from the select committee to which was referred a petition, praying for the incorporation of the village of Canajoharie, reported:

That they have given the subject due attention. The village contains nearly one thousand inhabitants, is of small territory and dense population, and situated on the bank of the Erie canal: That the streets in said village require paving, because of the frequent overflowing of the waters of the Mohawk and other streams in the vicinity: That some security is necessary against the dangers to which they are exposed by fires; and that authority is required to make regulations on these and other subjects. They conceive the prayer of the petition reasonable, and therefore ask leave to bring in a bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Randall, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to incorporate the village of Canajoharie in the county of Montgomery;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Fleming, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act authorising the board of supervisors of the county of Orleans to raise money to build a bridge across Sandy creek in the town of Murray," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, made sundry amendments thereto, and agreed to the same; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Cargill, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act to enable the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New-York, to raise money by a tax," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Mallory, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Troy water-works company," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Norton, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act in relation to firemen in the village of Rochester," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Randall, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act to authorise the appointment of inspectors of wood and timber in the counties of Montgomery, Saratoga and Albany," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, made sundry amendments thereto, and agreed to the same; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Case, from the select committee to which was referred the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act relative to the Chenango bridge company," reported, that they have examined the said bill, and see no reason why the same should not be passed into a law.

Ordered, That the said bill be committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. W. Hall, from the committee on engrossed bills, reported, that they have examined the engrossed bill entitled "An act to provide for the transferring from the office of the secretary of state, to the office of the register in chancery, all such papers as were deposited in the office of the secretary of state, for safe keeping, under the act of the 21st March 1823;" the engrossed bill entitled "An act in relation to the salt manufacturing lots in the town of Salina, and for other purposes;" the engrossed bill entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to authorise the sale of certain lands therein mentioned by the people of this state,' passed March 10th, 1827;" the engrossed bill entitled "An act relative to monies in the hands of overseers of the poor;" the engrossed bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Port Byron and Auburn rail-road company;" the engrossed bill entitled "An act to establish a high school at Newburgh;" the engrossed bill entitled "An act repealing the act incorporating the St. Lawrence turnpike road company, passed April 2d, 1810:" the engrossed bill entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to incorporate the Buffalo high school association,'" and the engrossed bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Rome and New-London turnpike company;" and find the said bills correctly engrossed.

The said engrossed bill, entitled "An act to provide for the transferring from the office of the secretary of state, to the office of the register in chancery, all such papers as were deposited in the office of the secretary of state, for safe keeping, under the act of the 21st March 1823," was read the third time.

Resolved, That the bill do pass.

The said engrossed bill, entitled "An act in relation to the salt manufacturing lots in the town of Salina, and for other purposes," was read the third time.

Resolved, That the bill do pass.

The said engrossed bill, entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to authorise the sale of certain lands therein mentioned by the people of this state,' passed March 10th, 1827," was read the third time.

Resolved, That the bill do pass.

The said engrossed bill, entitled "An act relative to monies in the hands of overseers of the poor," was read the third time.

Resolved, That the bill do pass.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said several bills to the Senate, and request their concurrence in the same.

The said engrossed bill, entitled "An act to incorporate the Port Byron and Auburn rail-road company," was read the third time.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the final passage of the said bill, and it was determined in the affirmative, two-thirds of all the members elected to this house voting in favor thereof, as follows, to wit:

S. W. JOHNSON, Inspector.

Albany, March 20, 1829.

Ordered, That the same be laid upon the table.

A communication from the canal commissioners was read, in the words following, to wit:

The canal commissioners, to whom the honorable the Assembly have referred the petition of Thomas Hitchcock, Samuel Holliday and Simon Danforth, respectfully report:

That the petitioners represent that they are the owners of land in the village of Canistota, contiguous to which there has been a waste-weir constructed on the Erie canal, for the purpose of discharging its surplus water; that in consideration of various conversations and acts of the agents and officers of the state, who were employed upon the canal, tending to impress them, and those from whom some of them derive their title, that they were to have the use of the surplus water drawn over said waste-weir; and in consideration of the persons from whom the petitioners derive their title, having relinquished all claim for damages on account of the occupancy of their lands by the Erie canal, and of the use of the Canistota creek, which run over their land, as a feeder to said canal, the petitioners believed that they were justly entitled to the use of the surplus water, and under such belief, they have constructed a dam and embankment, and have created thereon a saw-mill and a bark-mill, connected with an extensive tannery.

They further represent, that the canal commissioners advertised and sold, at public auction, the surplus water on that part of the canal which extends from Brandy brook, in the town of Verona, to New Boston, in the town of Sullivan, which included the surplus water at the aforesaid waste-weir; that intending to purchase the water at this sale, several persons attended on the request, and in behalf of the petitioners; that one Eber Dunham bid for the water, in opposition to them, when an arrangement was entered into, by which it was understood and agreed, that the water should be bid off by the said Dunham, and be divided and drawn at two places, one half by the said Dunham, and the other half by the petitioners; that Dunham conveyed a right to one half of the waters to Ichabod Spencer of Canistota, who, since that time, refuses to convey to the petitioners, and denies them any right or interest therein. In consequence of which, their mills and property are much diminished in value; and in consideration of all the circumstances of their case, the petitioners ask the legislature to grant them relief.

Within the limits of that portion of the canal which are mentioned by the petitioners, there were three waste-weirs, and below each were erected mills, which drew their supply of water from the canal. The owners of these mills severally claimed a right, in preference to each other, to use the surplus water; and during winter, when the water was lowered in the canal, and the waste water could not be so equally divided as during summer, it became the subject of contention among them, each one of whom founded his claim upon some alleged understanding, agreement or encouragement which he had, at some early period, received from some of the public agents.

Of the grounds on which those pretensions were founded, the present canal commissioners have no personal knowledge; but from what they have understood of them, they by no means justify the expectations which they appear to have raised in the minds of the petitioners, in whose case, they appear to have been mostly speculations on the advantages which they, or those from whom they have purchased, were to derive from the canal, which from its location and plan of construction, would create a water power and cause a village to grow up upon their lands; speculations which have, in truth, been fully realized, so far, at least, as relates to the village and the enhanced value of their lands.

The petitioners claim a right to this water power, on the ground that they were entitled to the surplus water of the Canistota creek, which had been taken into the canal from their lands. But this creek is a small stream, not sufficient to carry a mill during the year, and the surplus which might be considered as derived from it, would be too small to answer any valuable purpose; and the water which has been used several years by the petitioners, has been mostly drawn from other creeks and feeders.

The commissioners, satisfied that the state was justly entitled to compensation for the use of the water power which it had created at its own expense, and desirous of settling the contention which had arisen among the claimants, advertised the water, and sold it, in August, 1827, according to the then provisions of the statutes. It was struck off at auction, to Eber Dunham and Ichabod Spencer, who had permission to draw one half of it at Oneida creek, and the other half at the village of Canistota. This permission was given with a view of enabling the petitioners to purchase it, and to secure to themselves the benefits of its use, in propelling the mills which they had erected. Their failure to accomplish this, seems to have arisen, in a great measure, from their own negligence or credulity.

The petitioners, or some of them, own about one half of the ground on which the village of Canistota is situated; and the use of the waters on this ground, is chiefly desired for the purpose of enhancing the value of their village lots. Mr. Spencer, who purchased the water, owns the other half of the village grounds, and has a rival interest. He is willing to purchase the mills of the petitioners, but intends that the principal use of the water shall be made upon his lands, for the purpose of enhancing the value of his lots. To this, the petitioners will not agree, but insist upon the continual use of it upon their land and in their part of the village.

The mills of the petitioners have been erected without any authority or sanction from the canal commissioners, and without any right to use the water from the canal, any longer than they should deem it proper and expedient to discharge the water at the aforesaid waste-weirs. If the petitioners have failed to secure a legal right to use this water, through the deception and fraudulent conduct of Dunham or Spencer, as they appear to intimate, they should seek their remedy in a court of law or equity.

The value of the petititioners' property has been too much enhanced by the construction of the canal, to justify any claim for damages; and the canal commissioners are of opinion, that this case does not require any legislative interposition.

S. YOUNG,
H. SEYMOUR,
WM. C. BOUCK.

1st April, 1829,

Ordered, That the said communication be referred to the committee on canals.

The Senate returned, by their clerk, the bill entitled "An act to create a fund for the benefit of the creditors of certain monied corporations, and for other purposes."

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bill to the acting Governor.

The house then again resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act directing the manner of choosing electors of president and vice-president;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Sheppard, from the said committee, reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, made amendments thereto, and agreed to the same; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree with the committee of the whole in their said report as amended, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Allison, from the committee appointed to examine all bills committed to a committee of the whole house, and to report all such bills as in their opinion may with safety and propriety be referred to select committees to report complete, reported the following bills as proper for such reference, to wit:

The bill entitled "An act to incorporate the East kill turnpike road company;" the bill entitled "An act for the relief of Abraham Chase;" the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Saratoga county turnpike company;" the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the New-York sacred music society;" the bill entitled "An act to amend the act entitled 'An act to incorporate the village of Buffalo, in the county of Erie,' passed April 2d, 1822;" the bill entitled "An act to amend the act entitled 'An act to vest certain powers in the freeholders and inhabitants of the village of Whitesboro', and for other purposes,' passed March 26th, 1813;" the bill entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act relative to the road from village of Northampton, in the county of Montgomery, to the Mohawk turnpike,' passed April 10th, 1828;" the bill entitled "An act authorising James E. Jones to erect a dam across the Canisteo river;" and the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the New-Hartford fire company."

Thereupon,

Ordered, That the committee of the whole be discharged from the further consideration of the said several bills, and that the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the East kill turnpike road company," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Austin, Mr. Seeley and Mr. Soper; that the bill entitled "An act for the relief of Abraham Chase," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Dana, Mr. Judd and Mr. P. Van Beuren; that the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Saratoga county turnpike company." be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Hubbard, Mr. Mandeville and Mr. Wheeler; that the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the New-York sacred music society," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Dyckman, Mr. Bogert and Mr. Al Burtis; that the bill entitled "An act to amend the act entitled 'An act to incorporate the village of Buffalo, in the county of Erie,' passed April 2d, 1822." be referred to a select committee, consisting Mr. Fillmore, Mr. Falley and Mr. Burt; that the bill entitled "An act to amend the act entitled 'An act to vest certain powers in the freeholders and inhabitants of the village of Whitesboro', and for other purposes,' passed March 26th, 1813," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. White, Mr. Johnson and Mr. Savage; that the bill entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act relative to the road from the village of Northampton, in the county of Montgomery, to the Mohawk turnpike,' passed April 10th, 1828," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Spier, Mr. Burt and Mr. Wheeler; that the bill entitled "An act authorising James E. Jones to erect a dam across the Canisteo river," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Dana, Mr. Phœnix and Mr. Fitch; and that the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the New-Hartford fire company," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Savage, Mr. Bradish and Mr. Bacon, severally to consider and report thereon.

Mr. Paige, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act to provide for the apportionment of the school money in the city of Schenectady," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Skinner, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act in relation to school district number twelve in the town of Attica," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Wheeler, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act for the relief of the trustees of the Reformed Presbyterian congregation of Galway," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Jones, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act authorising Jonathan Peck and his associates to erect a dock in the town of Flushing," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report o the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Jones, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act authorising George D. Coles to erect a dock in the town of Oysterbay," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Holdridge, from the committee on the judiciary, to which was referred the petition of sundry inhabitants of the town of Moira, in the county of Franklin, praying the passage of an act to confirm the election of justices of the peace chosen in said town at the last annual election, with a remonstrance of sundry inhabitants of the same place, remonstrating against the passage of an act to confirm the election of justices of the peace chosen in said town at the last general election, reported:

That the committee have had the same under consideration; and from an examination of the petition and remonstrance in the matter referred to them, it appears that Samuel Philips was elected a justice of the peace at the fall election in 1827, agreeably to the act. He was classed, and his term of service fixed at three years. He neglected to take upon himself the office, and when the inspectors of election gave their notice of the number of justices of the peace to be elected at the fall election in 1828, they considered the office as vacant, and gave notice accordingly. On the second day of the election in 1828, contrary to all notions of propriety, and against the provisions and intention of "An act to amend the act regulating elections, and to regulate the election of justices of the peace," the said Samuel Philips took the oath of office as a justice of the peace, and entered upon the duties thereof. By the provisions of the act for regulating elections, passed 17th April 1822, the time for the annual election is fixed for the first Monday in November; and it is made the duty of the inspectors to give notice of such election: And by the provisions of the first section of the act entitled "An act to amend the act regulating elections, and to regulate the election of justices of the peace," passed April 7th, 1827, it is made the duty of the inspectors to state the number of justices of the peace to be voted for by the electors. By the 6th section of the act, it is required of the justices of the peace, when elected, to enter upon the duties of their office respectively, first taking the oath of office on the 1st day of January after they are elected.

Although there is no express provision in the statute concerning such as refuse to accept of the office, yet the committee are of opinion that a neglect to take the oath of office until after the first day of January subsequent to their election, is a refusal to accept the office, and it becomes thereby vacated. But if, in this case, a more liberal construction be extended to Samuel Philips, claiming the office by the election in 1827, and should he be allowed a longer time than the first of January next after his election, to decide whether he will accept the office, still the committee are of opinion that he must signify his determination by an acceptance of the office, before it comes necessary for the inspectors of elections to give notice, previous to the next election, of the number of justices to be elected.

In the present case the justice did not signify his acceptance, or any intention to accept of the office on the first of January, first after his election, nor before the notice by the inspectors of election, designating the number to be elected; but delayed his determination until the second day of the election in the autumn of 1828, one year after he had been elected.

The committee are therefore of opinion, that the office of justice became vacant by the refusal of Samuel Philips, the person elected in the autumn of 1827, to accept the office, and that the persons elected at the annual election in November, 1828, must be considered as legally elected justices of the peace. From this view of the subject matter submitted to the committee, they are of the opinion that any legislative enactment upon the subject is rendered unnecessary, and recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That the prayer of the petitioners ought not to be granted, and that they have leave to withdraw their petition.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the usual number of copies of the said report be printed for the use of the legislature.

A communication from the canal commissioners was read, in the words following, to wit:

The canal commissioners, to whom the honorable the Assembly have referred the petition of Ogden Mallory, respectfully report:

That the petitioner alleges that he constructed four locks on the Oswego canal, under a contract originally made between Abraham Beaumont & Co. and the canal commissioner; that he was to receive the same price that was to have been paid to the original contractors; that he was informed by the said Abraham Beaumont & Co. that they were not bound to dig the pits, prepare the foundation, puddle, or embank the locks, and that he was confirmed in this particular, by reference to the contract, which, in TERMS, expressed nothing relating thereto; that he was to construct the locks for a specified sum per foot rise; that after he had commenced cutting stone for the locks, he was informed by the engineer on the canal, that it was his duty to dig the pits, and perform all the necessary work, at his own expense; and that the engineer encouraged him to proceed in the execution of his contract, and spoke of an expected alteration in the law, which would authorise the canal board to settle such contract equitably.

And the petitioner further states, that he has not known of any instance, on the middle or western section of the Erie canal, in which the contractor was paid by the foot rise of the lock, that he was bound to dig the pits, prepare the foundation or embank them, without it was so expressed by the terms of his contract; that he made application to the canal board for compensation for this service; that his claim was rejected, wherefore he prays the legislature for relief.

The aforesaid contract was made with Abraham Beaumont & Co. in August, 1825, at the village of Salina, at a public letting of all the work required in the construction of the Oswego canal. The acting commissioner and engineer were both present, and not only gave verbal information of what work would be included in the contract for building the locks, but for the purpose of preventing all misapprehension on that subject, the acting commissioner put upon the side of the house, in which he received proposals, a written specification, which included all the work necessary to complete them, in all respects, like the locks which were then constructed in the village of Salina; and the commissioner was of opinion, that every contractor who was present, and was desirous of contracting for the locks, fully understood that he would be required to dig the pits and prepare the foundations, as well as to perform every other work necessary to their entire completion.

By the terms of the written contract, the contractors were bound to construct the locks, in all respects, similar to the locks already constructed at the village of Salina; for which the commissioners were to pay them at the rate of $700 and $750 per foot rise.

The price of a lock by the foot rise, is always considered as embracing every expense attendant upon its construction and entire completion, unless some exception is expressed.

The commissioners have, however, contracted for the building of locks in various ways. Sometimes they have made contracts with different individuals, for the various kinds of materials required; engaged one man to dig the pits, another to lay the foundations, make the gates and complete the wood and iron work, and employed others to lay up the lock's walls, for which they were paid by the perch; and the commissioners engaged with the lock builders, or those who laid up the lock walls, that the pits should be excavated and the foundations prepared, and all the materials furnished within a specified time; but it was found extremely difficult to perform those engagements, with all the punctuality which the lock builder required; and the commissioners were subjected to claims for extra allowance, on account of disappointments and detentionswhich had resulted to one contractor on account of the non-performance of another. This led to a gradual change of the system; and we have, in all our latter contracts, required the builder to furnish all the materials, and to perform all the work necessary to the entire completion of the locks.

If there could be any reasonable doubt of the obligation of the petitioner to dig the pits and prepare the foundations, in his engagement to construct the locks, in all respects like those already constructed at Salina, and which were then in full operation, a reference to the obligation on the part of the commissioners would seem to remove it. If the contractors were not bound to dig the pit or prepare the foundation, the commissioners must have been, or the work could not have been accomplished. It would have been most extraordinary, if the contractors had engaged to build these locks, on condition that the commissioners would perform a part of the work, and without which, the remainder of the work could not have been accomplished, and should have signed a contract, in which no mention is made, or is to be inferred, of this important consideration.

The contract was severally signed by Abraham L. Beaumont, Lawrence Barclay and James V. Cole. We can hardly believe all these persons to have been so unmindful of their immediate personal interest, as not to notice an omission so material.

What encouragement the petitioner may have had from the engineer, in the expectation of getting compensation over and above his contract price, we know not; but we can say, that such encouragement was not authorised by the canal commissioner.

The petitioner has probably lost money on his contract; but the ground on which he has placed his claim for relief, we believe, is untenable. The canal board, during the last year, made him an extra allowance of ———, which covered all the losses which he had sustained, excepting such as resulted from the unfavorable terms of his contract; and they refused to allow him any thing on the claim which he now presents to your honorable body.

The commissioners do not consider this case as distinguishable from that of many others, in which the contractors have sustained losses in the performance of work, the value of which they had a fair opportunity of estimating before they signed their contract.

HENRY SEYMOUR,
WILLIAM C. BOUCK.

Albany, April 2, 1829.

Ordered, That the said communication be referred to the committee on canals and internal improvements.

A communication from the attorney-general, was read in the words following, to wit:

The attorney general, to whom was referred by the Assembly the petition of sundry inhabitants of the county of Warren, respectfully reports:

That the petitioners complain that a dam had been erected across the outlet of Lake George, in the county of Essex, which has occasioned the raising of the waters of the lake, and the overflowing of five thousand acres of land in the county of Warren, and produced sickness and disease to an alarming extent: That redress in courts of justice is rendered difficult, from the fact that the nuisance complained of is located in the county of Essex, and the evils resulting from it arise in the county of Warren; and they pray the aid of the legislature.

The attorney-general is of opinion, that no legislative interference is necessary in this case. The law has made ample provision, as well for the punishment of the authors, as the abatement of a public nuisance; and upon the facts stated in this case, the wrong-doers may be indicted and tried, either in the county where the dam is situated, or in that where the injurious consequences are produced: But with a view to the execution of the judgment, in case of conviction, (as well as the probable convenience of parties and witnesses,) it would be most proper to proceed in the county where the dam is located.

Respectfully submitted,

GREENE C. BRONSON, Attorney-General.

April 2, 1829.

Ordered, That the said communication be laid upon the table.

Two several messages from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bills therein mentioned, were read, informing that they have passed the bill entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act granting privileges to the firemen of the city of New-York;'" and the bill entitled "An act to amend the act entitled 'An act further to extend the time for the payment of monies loaned by the commissioners of loans and loan-officers, to citizens of this state;'" in which bills they request the concurrence of this house.

The said bills were severally read the first time, and by unanimous consent were also read a second time, and the bill entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act granting privileges to the firemen of the city of New-York,'" was referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. C. L. Livingston, Mr. Cargill and Mr. Falley; and the bill entitled "An act to amend the act entitled 'An act further to extend the time for the payment of monies loaned by the commissioners of loans and loan-officers, to citizens of this state,'" was referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Johnson, Mr. White and Mr. Dana, severally to consider and report thereon.

A message from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bill therein mentioned, was read, informing that they have passed the bill entitled "An act to extend the charter of the Fort Edward bridge company, passed April 14th, 1626;" in which bill they request the concurrence of this house.

The said bill was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. J. M'Donald, Mr. Burt and Mr. E. Baker, to report the same complete.

Two several messages from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bills and copies of the resolutions therein mentioned, were read, informing that they have rejected the bill entitled "An act to enable the trustees of the Reformed Dutch church in the town of Bushwick in the county of Kings, to sell a lot of land lying in the village of Williamsburgh;" and the bill entitled "An act confirming the division of a lot of land owned by the Dutch Reformed churches in the towns of Rochester and Wawarsing, and to enable the consistory of Wawarsing to sell their portion of said lot of land."

A message from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bill therein mentioned, was read, informing that they have passed the bill entitled "An act authorising the supervisor and overseers of the poor of the town of Mount-Pleasant in the county of Westchester, to sell the poor-house and farm belonging to said town," without amendment.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bill to the acting Governor.

A message from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bill and amendments therein mentioned, was read, informing that they have passed the bill entitled "An act to authorise the board of supervisors of the county of Onondaga to borrow the sum of ten thousand dollars, for the purpose of completing the court-house and gaol in said county," with the amendments therewith delivered.

The said bill and amendments were read; and the amendments having been again read, were concurred in by the house, and the bill amended accordingly.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bill and amendments to the Senate, and inform them that this house have concurred with them in their amendments to the said bill, and have amended the same accordingly.

Mr. Johnson, from the committee on canals and internal improvements, to whom was referred the petition of Ogden Mallory, praying compensation for losses sustained by him in the fulfilment of a contract to construct locks on the Oswego canal, and the report of the canal commissioners on the same, reported the following resolution:

Resolved, That the prayer of the petitioner ought not to be granted.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

The house then proceeded to the consideration of the resolutions of the Senate, adhering to their amendments to the 23d section of the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the village of Brockport," and in which amendments this house non-concurred.

Thereupon,

Mr. Garbutt made a motion that the house should agree to recede from its resolutions of non-concurrence to the said amendments.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said motion of Mr. Garbutt, and it was determined in the affirmative, two-thirds of all the members elected to this house voting in favor thereof, as follows, to wit:

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. T. L. Smith, from the select committee to which was referred the petition of the subscribers and directors of the Harlæm river canal company, reported:

That a charter was granted to the Harlæm river canal company, by the legislature of this state, on the 16th of April, 1827, for the purpose of cutting and completing a canal in the twelfth ward of the city of New-York, from Spitendeuvel creek to Harlæm river, and to expire at the termination of two years from the passage of the act, should the said canal not be commenced. On the 16th instant, the aforesaid charter will expire, and the condiiton has not been complied with.

The committee are of opinion, that as the object contemplated by this company is likely to result in much public good, and that from causes beyond the control of the company, they have been prevented commencing the work within the time stipulated by the charter, and its forfeiture will consequently ensue; that it is reasonable and proper to extend the time to enable the company to effect the work.

They have accordingly prepared a bill, and have instructed their chairman to ask permission to introduce the same.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. T. L. Smith, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to incorporate the Harlæm river canal company;'" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Tower, from the committee appointed to examine all bills committed to a committee of the whole house, and to report all such bills as in their opinion may with safety and propriety be referred to select committees to report complete, reported the following bills as proper for such reference, to wit:

The bill entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to incorporate the village of Saratoga Springs,' passed April 17th, 1826;" the bill entitled "An act for allowing compensation to petit jurors, attending certain courts in the county of Schenectady;" the bill entitled "An act to authorise the commissioners of highways of the town of Otego, to alter a road;" the bill entitled "An act to authorise the overseers ot the poor of the town of Queensbury to sell a certain lot of land;" the bill entitled "An act allowing the president and directors of the Great Island turnpike company to relinquish part of their road;" the bill entitled "An act to give effect to the revised statutes relating to the county of Genesee;" the bill entitled "An act authorising the supervisors of the county of Ontario to raise a sum of money for the purpose of repairing the jail of said county;" the bill entitled "An act concerning the revised statutes;" and the bill entitled "An act to extend the time for completing the Newtown turnpike road."

Thereupon,

Ordered, That the committee of the whole be discharged from the further consideration of the said several bills, and that the bill entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to incorporate the village of Saratoga Springs,' passed April 17th, 1826." be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Wheeler, Mr. Mandeville and Mr. Hubbell; that the bill entitled "An act for allowing compensation to petit jurors, attending certain courts in the county of Schenectady," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Paige, Mr. Bradish and Mr. Dana; that the bill entitled "An act to authorise the commissioners of highways of the town of Otego, to alter a road," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Morell, Mr. Collier and Mr. White; that the bill entitled "An act to authorise the overseers of the poor of the town of Queensbury, to sell a certain lot of land," be referred to a select committee, consisting Mr. Randall, Mr. Edgerton and Mr. W. M'Donald; that the bill entitled "An act allowing the president and directors of the Great Island turnpike company, to relinquish part of their road," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Judd, Mr. Waugh and Mr. Dyckman; that the bill entitled "An act to give effect to the revised statutes relating to the county of Genesee," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Skinner, Mr. Hascall and Mr. Norton; that the bill entitled "An act authorising the supervisors of the county of Ontario to raise a sum of money, for the purpose of repairing the jail of said county," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Hubbell, Mr. Dickson and Mr. Johnson; that the bill entitled "An act concerning the revised statutes," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Allison, Mr. Hubbell and Mr. W. K. Fuller; and that the bill entitled "An act to extend the time for completing the Newtown turnpike road," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. C. Baker, Mr. Fitch and Mr. Phœnix, severally to consider and report thereon.

Mr. J. M'Donald, from the select committee to which was referred the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to extend the charter of the Fort Edward bridge company, passed April 14th, 1826," reported, that they have examined the said bill, see no reason why the same should not be passed into a law, and recommend that it be ordered to a third reading.

Thereupon,

By the unanimous consent of the house, the said bill was ordered to a third reading.

Mr. C. L. Livingston, from the select committee to which was referred the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act granting privileges to the firemen of the city of New-York,'" reported, that they have examined the said bill, see no reason why the same should not be passed into a law, and recommend that it be ordered to a third reading.

Thereupon,

Ordered, That the said bill be read the third time.

Mr. Johnson, from the select committee to which was referred the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to amend the act entitled 'An act further to extend the time for the payment of monies loaned by the commissioners of loans and loan-officers, to citizens of this state,'" reported, that they have examined the said bill, see no reason why the same should not be passed into a law, and recommend that it be ordered to a third reading.

Thereupon,

Ordered, That the said bill and report be laid upon the table.

Mr. Dayton, from the select committee to which was referred the petition of the president and directors of the Eastchester bridge company, and Thomas C. Taylor, praying leave to surrender their corporate rights, and to remove the materials composing the bridge, reported:

It appears to the committee, that the said company was incorporated by an act of the legislature, passed in the year 1812, for the purpose of constructing a toll draw-bridge over Eastchester creek, in the county of Westchester, to which act a supplement was passed in 1814.

Under these acts a bridge was erected, which soon after its completion, was swept away by a flood. On the 12th day of April, 1816, another act was passed, whereby the president and directors of the said company were authorised to sell the remains of the bridge for the benefit of the creditors; and the purchasers and their successors were made a body corporate for the term of forty five years from the passage of the said last mentioned act, with the name, and with all the powers, privileges and immunities conferred upon the original corporation by the two former acts.

The remains of the bridge were accordingly sold, and were purchased by the petitioner Thomas C. Taylor, in conjunction with Benjamin W. Rogers and William Edgar, for the sum of sixteen hundred dollars. The purchasers then proceeded to build a new bridge, at an expense of about ten thousand dollars; after which, the said Thomas C. Taylor purchased the interest of the other two persons named, and became the sole stockholder. Since that time, he has expended four thousand dollars in repairing the bridge, which is liable to frequent and serious injury from storms and the action of a rapid tide, and which, at the present time, would require a further expenditure of two thousand dollars, to make it secure and passable. The tolls which have been received since it was rebuilt, have been barely sufficient to pay for their collection, and to defray the expense of attendance upon the draw.

The bridge was originally erected with a view of having a certain road laid out to communicate with it, which it was expected would attract the eastern travelling; and when the remains from the flood were sold, under the act of 1816, the petitioner states, that the construction of this road was made a condition of the sale, on the part of the sellers, and was stipulated for by those of the original stockholders, who were the owners of farms in Pelham and its vicinity, and who expected to be benefitted by the rebuilding of the bridge. This road, however, has never been formed; and the bridge has served no other purpose than to accommodate a few individuals, residing in the neighborhood, on the side of the creek, and has been a constant burden and a heavy expense to the proprietor.

Under these cirmumstances, the petitioner prays that the legislature will relieve him from the charges and risk to which he is exposed, by allowing him to surrender his corporate rights, and to take away and dispose of the materials of which the said bridge, and the causeway adjoining it, which was also constructed by the same company, are composed.

The committee think it unreasonable, under the facts which have been stated, that the petitioner should be compelled to continue an accommodation to a few persons residing in a particular vicinity, not only without profit to himself, but with a heavy annual loss.

It is also considered just and equitable, that upon the dissolution of the corporation, he should be suffered to remove, for his own benefit, the materials composing the bridge and causeway, which are now his undisputed property, as the sole stockholder, and which were purchased and used for a laudable purpose, and upon the faith of engagements which have not been fulfilled, upon the performance of which the whole success of the undertaking was known to depend, and the breach of which has subjected him to immense loss.

The committee therefore recommend that the prayer of the petitioner be granted; and they have accordingly prepared a bill, which they ask leave to introduce.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Dayton, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act for the relief of the Eastchester bridge company;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Hazeltine, from the select committee to which was referred the petition of Justus Dobbin, reported:

That the petitioner sets forth, that on the 25th of October, A. D. 1826, he, as one of the constables of Ontario county, arrested Loton Lawson, by virtue of a warrant procured by one Stephen Bates, from Jeffrey Chipman, Esquire, against said Lawson, on a charge of kidnapping William Morgan. Lawson was afterwards indicted, and plead guilty to the charge.

On the 9th of the same month, the then governor of this state had issued his proclamation, calling upon all magistrates and ministers of justice to be aiding in the apprehension of the offenders in the case of Morgan; but offering no specific reward. On the 26th, he issued another proclamation, offering a reward of $300 for the discovery of the offenders, and $100 for the discovery of any one of them. This proclamation, the petitioner states, was first known in Canandaigua on the 1st day of November following. On the evening of that day, Joseph Garlinghouse and David C. Bates procured a warrant for the arrest of Nicholas G. Cheesbro and Edward Sawyer of Canandaigua, who immediately entered into recognizance for their appearance at court, were indicted, and plead guilty. At the same time, they procured a warrant for the arrest of John Sheldon, and placed it in the hands of Holloway Hayward, a constable. On the 5th of November, the warrant against Sheldon not having been served, the petitioner procured another, and arrested Sheldon, who was afterwards convicted.

It also appears from the petition, that some time previous to any of these proceedings, the affidavits of respectable persons had been published in Canandaigua, implicating Lawson, Cheesbro and Sawyer in the outrages committed on Morgan; and that Mrs. Hall, the wife of the jailer, at that place, had made known the connection of John Sheldon with those transactions.

After the conviction of these individuals, Joseph Garlinghouse and David C. Bates set up a claim to the reward of three hundred dollars, offered in the governor's proclamation, which was paid to them. The petitioner also presented his claim for the reward, or a portion of it, which was submitted, together with the vouchers in support of it, to the governor, before any payment was made to Garlinghouse and Bates.

If the facts set forth in the petition are true, and the committee have no reason to doubt their authenticity, Messrs. Garlinghouse and Bates received a very ample reward for the services rendered by them in procuring the apprehension and conviction of Lawson, Cheesbro, Sawyer and Sheldon; and they conceive a very liberal construction must have been given to the proclamation of the governor, in allowing them the sum proposed in it, to those who should discover the offenders. The petitioner probably rendered more efficient service in the prosecution of this business, than they did; still, the committee do not, by any means, believe that his case presents such a strong equity as ought to induce the legislature to interfere in his behalf, if the reward were yet unpaid and left to their distribution. In the opinion of the committee, other persons, who have not applied for any share of the reward, did much more in bringing to light the part which the persons above named took in the transactions relative to William Morgan, than did the petitioner or Messrs. Garlinghouse and Bates.

The petitioner undoubtedly has a good claim against the county of Ontario, for his services in arresting Lawson and Sheldon; but the committee think that such services as he sets forth, do not, under the circumstances, entitle him to the interposition of the legislature in his behalf: They therefore recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That the prayer of the petitioner ought not to be granted.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Bogert gave notice, that on Monday the 13th instant, he would move a call of the house.

Ordered, That Mr. Waugh have leave of absence for eight days.

Ordered, That the committee of the whole be discharged from the further consideration of the bill entitled "An act to improve the navigation of the Cattetunk creek," and that the same be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Baragar, Mr. C. Baker and Mr. Dean, to consider and report thereon.

On motion of Mr. Bradish,

Resolved, That the Senate be requested to return to this house, the bill entitled "An act authorising the construction of a canal from the head of Seneca lake to Elmira."

A message from the acting Governor, delivered by his private secretary, was read, in the words following, to wit:

E. T. THROOP.

Albany, April 3, 1829.

The house then resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to continue in force an act relative to the court for the trial of impeachments and the correction of errors, passed January 26th, 1825;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Burt, from the said committee, reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house, and the bill ordered to a third reading.

The house then resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to continue the act for the employment of counsel for the purposes therein mentioned;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Burt, from the said committee, reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house, and the bill ordered to a third reading.

The house then resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Salina and Susquehannah rail-road company;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Burt, from the said committee, reported progress, and asked for and obtained leave to sit again.

The house then again resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act authorising the construction of a road from Port Kent in the county of Essex, to Hopkinton in the county of St. Lawrence, and making an appropriation therefor;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Johnson, from the said committee, reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, made amendments thereto, filled the blanks, and agreed to the same; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read.

Ordered, That the report of the committee of the whole be laid upon the table.

The house then again resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act authorising the construction of the Crooked lake canal;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Johnson, from the said committee, reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, made amendments thereto, and agreed to the same; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read.

Ordered, That the report of the committee of the whole be laid upon the table.

And then the House adjourned until nine o'clock to-morrow morning.

SATURDAY, APRIL 4, 1829.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

Mr. Dana, from the committee on the judiciary, to which was referred the petition of George Robb, reported:

That it appears by the petition, that the petitioner is the owner of a lot of land in Florida in the county of Montgomery, through which the Erie canal has been constructed: That the canal commissioners appraised his damages, and that he has refused to accept the same, conceiving the assessment to be too low; and that he has just learnt that that the time for appealing, has expired; and praying the passage of a law, to authorise him to appeal to the supreme court.

When the appraisal in this case was made, does not appear, but it must have been prior to the 20th of April 1825, as the law authorising the canal commissioners to appraise was on that day repealed. The petitioner exhibits no proof that he has been aggrieved in the assessment; and the additional amount he claims, as the committee are informed, is very trifling. Under these circumstances, the committee deem it inexpedient to pass an act which would unsettle the law respecting appraisals, and open the door to a multitude of similar applications. They therefore submit the following resolution:

Resolved, That the petitioner have leave to withdraw his petition.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Dana, from the committee on the judiciary, to which was referred the petition of Samuel Jackson, reported:

That the facts in this case are very similar to those in the case of George Robb, except that the amount of the claim is greater. The committee submit the following resolution:

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

And then the House adjourned until nine o'clock on Monday morning next.

MONDAY, APRIL 6, 1829.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the town of Williamstown in the county of Oswego, praying for a division of that town, was read, and referred to the committee on the erection and division of towns and counties.

The petition of Bennet Bicknell, John G. Stower and others, of the county of Madison, praying for the incorporation of a bank, to be located at the village of Cazenovia, was read, and referred to the committee on the incorporation and alteration of the charters of banking and insurance companies.

The remonstrance of sundry inhabitants of the village of Rochester, against incorporating the same as a city, was read, and committed to a committee of the whole when on the bill upon that subject.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the town of Vestal in the county of Broome, praying for the passage of a law requiring notices to be published in cases of applications for dams across the public waters of this state, was read, and referred to the committee on the establishment and improvement of roads and bridges, and the incorporation of turnpike companies.

The memorial of Robert R. Henry, an inspector of pot and pearl ashes of the city of New-York, praying for certain amendments to the law passed November 14th, 1828, entitled "An act respecting the inspection of pot and pearl ashes, and the duties of inspectors and auctioneers," was read—

Thereupon,

Ordered, That the clerk communicate the said memorial to the Senate.

The memorial of sundry inhabitants of the counties of Erie and Cattaraugus, praying for the passage of a law authorising the supervisors of said counties to raise money by tax for the purpose of constructing a bridge across the Cattaraugus creek, was read, and committed to a committtee of the whole when on the bill upon that subject.

Mr. Bradish, from the committee on public lands, to whom was referred the petition of Abijah Hunt, praying compensation for an alleged deficiency in a patent for bounty lands, reported:

That from an examination of the subject referred to them, it appears that in 1809, letters patent were granted to Archibald McKinley, a soldier of the revolution, for 200 acres of bounty lands, being subdivision No. 2, of lot No. 23, in the town of Sterling. The location of these lands was made by ballot.

Some time after the date of the patent, the petitioner became the purchaser of these lands, without ever having seen them. Upon making a settlement thereon, he finds, as he states in his petition, and as is proven by the affidavit of John McFadden, a surveyor, that 86 acres and 42 hundreths of an acre thereof, are under the water of Little Sodus bay. The petitioner desires to retain one acre and 42 hundreths of an acre of this part of the said patent, as a site for a wharf, and prays for the passage of an act authorising the commissioners of the land-office to grant him letters patent for 85 acres of other lands, to make up the deficiency in the original patent, occasioned by this part thereof being covered with water, as above stated.

In the year 1796, an act was passed, authorising the commissioners of the land-office, in certain cases and on certain conditions, to make up any deficiency there might appear to be in any patent granted for bounty lands. This provision of the act expired, by its own limitation, on the the first of January, 1798; since which time, the committee are not aware that any provision has ever been made by law for any such deficiencies. They are unanimously of opinion that the case of the petitioner does not present any peculiar circumstances of right or equity, that should induce the making of any such provision in his case; and especially as the reasons of general policy are so numerous and manifest against establishing a precedent that could not fail to be exceedingly inconvenient for the future. The committee therefore respectfully recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That the prayer of the petitioner ought not to be granted, and that he have leave to withdraw his petition, together with the documents accompanying it.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Dygert, from the committee on the erection and division of towns and counties, to whom was referred the petition of sundry inhabitants of the town of Conewango, in the county of Cattaraugus, for a division of said town, reported:

That the committee have had the said petition under consideration, and in the opinion of said committee, from evidence to be relied on, that the notices for the intended application for the division of said town, has not been given agreeable to the requirement of the statute in such case made and provided. And the committee submit the following resolution:

Resolved, That the petitioners have leave to withdraw their petition.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Ives, from the committee on the erection and division of towns and counties, to whom was referred the petition of sundry inhabitants of the town of Barre, in the county of Orleans, reported, that in the opinion of the committee the prayer of the petitioners ought not to be granted, and they would offer the following resolution:

Resolved, That the prayer of the petitioners ought not to be granted, and that they have leave to withdraw their petition.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Hazeltine, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act to divide the town of Gerry in the county of Chautauque," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, made sundry amendments thereto, and agreed to the same; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Defreest, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to incorporate the Sandlake and Nassau turnpike company,' passed April 23d, 1823," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, made sundry amendments thereto, and agreed to the same; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Hubbard, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act to alter the name of the First congregational church and society of the town of Worcester in the county of Otsego," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, made sundry amendments thereto, and agreed to the same; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Baragar, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act authorising the erection of two poor-houses in the county of Tioga," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, made sundry amendments thereto, and agreed to the same; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Myers, from the select committee, consisting of the members attending this house from the city and county of New-York, to which was referred the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act authorising the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New-York, to erect a public market, and to lay out and open a public street in the eleventh ward of the said city," reported, that they have examined the said bill, and see no reason why the same should not be passed into a law.

Ordered, That the said bill be committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Myers, from the select committee, consisting of the members attending this house from the city and county of New-York, to which was referred the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act for the further support and extension of common schools in the city of New-York," reported, that they have examined the said bill, and see no reason why the same should not be passed into a law.

Ordered, That the said bill be committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Myers, from the select committee, consisting of the members attending this house from the city and county of New-York, to which was referred the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act making certain alterations in the map or plan of the city of New-York," reported, that they have examined the said bill, and see no reason why the same should not be passed into a law.

Ordered, That the said bill be committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Myers, from the select committee, consisting of the members attending this house from the city and county of New-York, to which was referred the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act relative to the imprisonment within the city and county of New-York, of female convicts adjudged to be confined in the state prison," reported, that they have examined the said bill, and see no reason why the same should not be passed into a law.

Ordered, That the said bill be committed to a committee of the whole house.

A communication from the attorney-general, was read in the words following, to wit:

The Attorney-General, to whom was referred by the Assembly, the petition of James Lynch, of the county of Orange, respectfully reports:

That the petitioner represents, that the Comptroller, in the year 1816, conveyed to Nathaniel Lynch, sixty-nine acres of land in the county of Clinton, which had been sold for taxes: That Nathaniel Lynch conveyed the land to the petitioner, and he instituted actions of ejectment to recover the possession: That the tenant in possession immediately commenced a suit in chancery, and obtained an injunction staying proceedings at law; and that a decree of the court of chancery has since been made against the petitioner; and he prays that he may be indemnified for the value of the premises and his losses and expenses.

It is not alleged that there was any error in assessing or returning the taxes, or in the sale made by the Comptroller; nor that the title derived under that sale, has in any way proved defective. Nor does it appear upon what ground the petitioner failed in obtaining possession of the land. He may have been defeated in consequence of his own acts, or the acts of his grantor, or by some other means with which the state has no concern; and the Attorney-General has been unable to discover the least foundation for a claim to indemnity or relief of any kind.

Respectfully submitted,
GREENE C. BRONSON, Attorney-General.

April 6, 1829.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bill to the Senate, and request their concurrence in the same.

Two several messages from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bills therein mentioned, were read, informing that they have passed the bill entitled "An act authorising the supervisors of the county of Cattaraugus to raise money to build a court-house and gaol, and for other purposes," and the bill entitled "An act for the prevention of masquerades," in which bills they request the concurrence of this house.

The said bills were severally read the first time, and by unanimous consent were also read a second time, and the bill entitled "An act authorising the supervisors of the county of Cattaraugus to raise money to build a court-house and gaol, and for other purposes," was referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Partridge, Mr. Fillmore and Mr. Burt; and the bill entitled "An act for the prevention of masquerades," was referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. T. L. Smith, Mr. Dana and Mr. Arnold, severally to consider and report thereon.

A message from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bill and amendments therein mentioned, was read, informing that they have non-concurred with this house in its amendments to the bill entitled "An act directing the manner of choosing electors of President and Vice-President."

Thereupon,

Resolved, That this house do adhere to its amendments non-concurred in by the Senate.

Thereupon,

Resolved, (if the Senate concur,) That a committee of conference be appointed upon the matters of difference between the two houses, on the bill entitled "An act directing the manner of choosing electors of President and Vice-President;" and in case of such concurrence, that Mr. Skinner, Mr. Johnson and Mr. Edgerton be of the said committee on the part of this house.

Odrered, That the clerk deliver the said bill and amendments, together with copies of the preceding resolutions, to the Senate.

A message from the acting Governor, delivered by his private secretary, was read, in the words following, to wit:

TO THE ASSEMBLY.

GENTLEMEN,

I have this day approved and signed the bill entitled "An act relative to the city of Hudson."

E. T. THROOP.

Albany, April 4, 1829.

A message from the acting Governor, delivered by his private secretary, was read in the words following, to wit:

TO THE ASSEMBLY.

GENTLEMEN,

I have this day approved and signed the following bills:

"An act to authorise the board of supervisors of the county of Onondaga to borrow the sum of ten thousand dollars, for the purpose of completing the court-house and gaol in said county."

"An act authorising the supervisors of the county of St. Lawrence to levy a tax on the inhabitants of the town of Oswegatchie, to build a bridge across the Oswegatchie river at the village of Ogdensburgh."

"An act to authorise the supervisors of the county of Ulster to raise money to build a bridge over the Shawangunk-kill, in the town of Shawangunk in said county."

"An act to appoint commissioners to lay out a highway from Fredonia, in the county of Chautauque, to the village of Perry, in the county of Genesee."

"An act to incorporate the village of Brockport."

E. T. THROOP.

Albany, April 6, 1829.

A communication from Gerrit Y. Lansing, was read, in the words following, to wit:

Hon. PETER ROBINSON,
Speaker of the Assembly of the State of New-York.

SIR,

Permit me to communicate, through you, to the hon. the Assembly, the acceptance of my appointment as a Regent of the University of the state.

I am, very respectfully,
Your obedient servant,
GERRIT Y. LANSING.

Albany, 6*th April*, 1829.

The house then again resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Salina and Susquehannah rail-road company;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Burt, from the said committee, reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, made sundry amendments thereto, altered the title to "An act to incorporate the Salina and Port Watson rail-road company," and agreed to the same; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

The house then resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Susquehannah and Chemung navigation and railway company;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Burt, from the said committee, reported progress, and asked for and obtained leave to sit again.

The house then resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to divide the town of Homer in the county of Cortland;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Burt, from the said committee, reported progress, and asked for and obtained leave to sit again.

And then the House adjourned until nine o'clock to-morrow morning.

TUESDAY, APRIL 7, 1829.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

The petition of the trustees of Springville academy, praying for an amendment of their charter, was read, and referred to the committee on colleges, academies and common schools.

The petition of William McLeish and Martin Wilcox, aliens, severally praying that they may be authorised to purchase, take, hold, and convey real estate within this state, was read, and referred to the committee on the petitions of aliens.

Mr. Taber, from the committee on the establishment and improvement of roads and bridges, and the incorporation of turnpike companies, to which was referred the petition of sundry persons residing in the counties of St. Lawrence and Franklin, praying for legislative aid to construct a road through the St. Regis Indian reservation, reported:

That they have had the same under consideration, and have reason to believe that the following facts, on which the petitioners ground their claims, are true:

That the inhabitants of the towns of Brasher, Massena, Lawrence, Stockholm, Hopkinton, and a part of Potsdam, have no convenient access to water communication, except by means of the river St. Lawrence: That their usual place of deposit is at a point on said river, below the Indian reservation: That they have hitherto suffered great and serious inconvenience from having to transport their ashes and other heavy articles of produce by a circuitous route, over a bad road around said reservation: That by the exertions of the inhabitants, aided by a very heavy and specific tax on the adjacent lands, a good carriage road is now in a rapid train of completion, which reaches to the south line of said reservation: from thence to the village of Hogansburgh, there is now no road at all, nor any white inhabitants. The lands are not subject to taxation, being in possession of the natives; the right of the reversion being, as is supposed, in the state. The distance is two and a half miles; the soil and face of the country such, that considerable expense must be incurred to make a passable road, to defray which, neither the petitioners or the committee are aware of any means, other than by a resort to the state treasury. The sum required is only 800 dollars, to appropriate which, the committee ask leave to introduce a bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Taber, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act making an appropriation for the purpose of constructing a road through the St. Regis Indian reservation;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

A communication from John Paine, secretary of the Troy Savings Bank, was read, in the words following, to wit:

TROY SAVINGS BANK,
April 7th, 1829.

SIR,

Inclosed you have the sixth annual report of the Troy Savings Bank, which you will present to that branch of the legislature over which you preside.

I am, respectfully,
Your humble servant,
JOHN PAINE,
Secretary of the Troy Savings Bank.

Hon. PETER ROBINSON,
Speaker of the Assembly.

To the Honorable the Legislature of the State of New-York:

Report of the board of managers of the Troy Savings Bank, for the year ending the first Monday of April, 1829.

Pursuant to the provisions of the act entitled "An act to incorporate the Troy Savings Bank," the board of managers report:

That from the first Monday of April last to the first Monday of April instant, there has been received from depositors in said bank, the sum of seventeen thousand six hundred and sixty-six dollars and eighty-three cents; and that during that time, there has been withdrawn from the bank, by the depositors, the sum of eighteen thousand one hundred and sixty-five dollars and eighty cents, including dividends paid; and that six dollars and seventy-five cents has been paid for contingent expenses of the bank in the same time. That there is now deposited, to the credit of the said bank, in the Bank of Troy, the sum of sixty-nine thousand one hundred and thirteen dollars and nine cents, being the amount received by the Troy Savings Bank since the commencement of the institution, and the interest which has accrued thereon, after deducting the amount refunded to depositors, including dividends paid, and the amount paid out for contingent expenses of the bank.

We further report, that we have paid the depositors dividends at the rate of five per cent. per annum, and that there is now a surplus of interest amounting to twelve hundred and forty-nine dollars and seventeen cents, carried to the credit of the profit and loss account.

All which is respectfully submitted,

TOWNSEND M'COUN, President.

JOHN PAINE, Secretary.

Troy, April 6th, 1829.

Ordered, That the said report be laid upon the table, and that the usual number of copies thereof be printed for the use of the legislature.

A communication from the Surveyor-General was read, in the words following, to wit:

SIR,

The repairs of the Capitol, directed to be made by the 10th section of the act, ch. 239, passed April 12, 1824, have been completed. The sum of $2,700, according to an estimate made by Philip Hooker, was appropriated for this work. It will appear by the certificate of the Comptroller, that on the 5th December last, the unexpended part of the appropriation was paid to Peter Smith, on his account for coppering the roof of the capital, leaving a balance due him of $264.70, and as he was urgent for the money, I advanced it to him. The account of another person for doing the slating part of the roof, is $106.81; this has remained unpaid. Mr. Hooker, as architect, was employed to direct the manner of having the work done, to attend to its proper execution, and certify the fairness of the accounts, for which he charges $30. By the advice of the late Comptroller, I paid $8.75, the one half of the expense for repairing the conducting rod of the Capitol, which had been shattered by a stroke of lightning, the corporation of the city of Albany paying the other half. These items give a sum of $410 above the appropriation. In contracting for building the wing to the state hall, it was agreed to allow Philip Hooker $50 for attending to the erections in their progress, and to see that every part of the work was done in a proper manner. He charges besides, for drawing plans and making estimates, $10, with alterations and specifications of the buildings, $6, and for drawing contract, $4, making in all, $70. This account remains unpaid, and the late Comptroller informs me that the appropriation is expended.

This statement is respectfully submitted for the consideration of the legislature.

I have the honor to be,
Most respectfully,
Your obedient servant,
SIMEON DE WITT, Surveyor-General.

The Hon. PETER ROBINSON,
Speaker of the Assembly.

COMPTROLLER'S OFFICE,
Albany, February 27th, 1829.

I certify, that on the 5th day of December last, Peter Smith's account for repairing the roof of the Capitol, pursuant to the act, ch. 239, of 1824, amounting to $691.46, was presented at the Comptroller's office, and so much thereof audited, as remained unexpended of the appropriation by said act, to wit, $426.76, leaving unpaid of his account $267.70.

PHILIP PHELPS.
Dep. Comptroller.

Ordered, That the said communication and the accompanying documents, be referred to the committee of ways and means.

Mr. W. Hall, from the committee on engrossed bills, reported, that they have examined the engrossed bill entitled "An act relating to common schools in the city of Albany," and that the same is correctly engrossed.

The said engrossed bill, entitled "An act relating to common schools in the city of Albany," was read the third time.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the final passage of the said bill, and it was determined in the affirmative, two-thirds of all the members elected to this house voting in favor thereof, as follows, to wit:

FRIDAY, APRIL 10, 1829.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

Mr. Edgerton, from the committee of arrangements appointed to conduct the funeral obsequies of the hon. Ezra C. Gross, of the county of Essex, late a member of this house, reported:

That they have made the arrangements which appeared necessary to carry into effect the intentions of this house. The details of their preparations, so far as they are necessary to be reported, will appear by the order adopted by the committee, a copy of which is annexed to this report. In similar cases, it has been the practice to direct the chair of the Speaker to be shrouded in black. Unwilling to omit any mark of respect due to the deceased, in his public character as a member of this house, the committee would respectfully recommend that analagous precedents be followed. The committee also recommend that this house meet in their chamber at three o'clock this afternoon, to unite with the hon. the Senate in the funeral obsequies.

The following are the arrangements for the funeral obsequies:

1. The Senate and Assembly will meet in their respective chambers at three o'clock P. M. of to-day, and proceed to the late residence of the deceased, at the Albany Coffee-House, Green-street, preceded by their respective officers.

2. The reverend clergy of the city of Albany are requested to join in the funeral solemnities.

3. The chancellor, justices of the supreme court, circuit judges who may be in the city, and the state officers, are also requested to attend at the same time and place.

4. The citizens of the city of Albany and the friends of the deceased, are invited to attend and join in the procession.

The procession will move at 4 o'clock P. M., in the following order:

1. The clergy of the city and the attending physicians.
2. The hearse and pall-bearers.
3. The relations of the deceased.
4. The committee of arrangements.
5. The acting Governor.
6. The Assembly, preceded by its officers.
7. The Senate, preceded by its officers.
8. The chancellor, justices of the supreme court, and circuit judges.
9. The state officers.
10. Citizens and strangers.

The procession will move up State and Washington-streets, to the place of interment.

And then the House adjourned until nine o'clock to-morrow morning.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bill to the Senate, and request their concurrence to the same.

And then the house adjourned until seven o'clock this afternoon.

7 O'CLOCK P. M.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

A message from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bill and amendment therein mentioned, was read, informing that they have concurred with this house in its amendment to the bill entitled "An act authorising the supervisors of the county of Cattaraugus to raise money to build a court-house and gaol, and for other purposes."

The said amended bill having been examined,

Ordered, That the clerk return the same to the Senate.

The house then again resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Susquehannah and Chemung navigation and railway company;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Burt, from the said committee, reported progress, and asked for and obtained leave to sit again.

And then the House adjourned until nine o'clock to-morrow morning.

THURSDAY, APRIL 16, 1829.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

Mr. Brinkerhoff, from the committee on the militia, to which was referred the resolution instructing that committee to enquire and report to the house the propriety of so altering Title V. of Chapter X. of the Revised Statutes, as not to require the militia of this state to rendezvous either by companies, regiments or separate battalions, or to require them to rendezvous by companies only, reported:

That in considering the subject referred to in the resolution, they have examined the constitution of the United States, the law of congress providing for the organization of the militia, and the constitution and law of this state, so far as they relate to the subject referred to in the resolution.

The act of congress of 1792, plainly contemplates that there shall be, annually, regimental or separate battalion parades; and it makes it the duty of the several brigade-inspectors, annually, to inspect their respective brigades during the time of their being under arms, and to make a return once in each year, to the adjutant-general of the state, of the situation of the same; and the adjutant-general shall make a return of all the militia in the state, to the commander-in-chief, and a duplicate of the same to the president of the United States. This act of congress is still in force, and no state has a right to pass any law that shall contravene it.

The committee are aware that the militia and the militia system have been ridiculed as useless—even worse than useless. It is true, that militia parades are attended with expenditures of money and loss of time, and that improprieties often occur at them; but are these the only places where improprieties are committed? are they not common at all our popular assemblies—for instance, our annual elections, when most all, and the most important officers of our government are elected by the people, a large proportion of whom are not subject to military duty? And are our elections always attended with that order and regularity that they should be? Facts have abundantly shown the contrary.

Observation has shown to the committee that the disorders which are said to take place at military parades, are in but a very few cases the acts of those subject to duty; for while they are in the field, attending to the duties of the day, others, who are not subject to military duty, and who might rather be at home attending to their proper business, from different motives attend. It is among this class of people that these disorders generally take place, and who after having become satisfied of their own folly, are generally among the first to declaim against militia parades.

That sacrifices are incurred in consequence of these parades, there is no doubt; but good also results from them. The soldier knows that by the use and means of arms, our fathers resisted the power and threw off the shackles of British slavery and usurpation, and established for themselves and their posterity, a free and independent government. When clad in armour, and formed in military array, it awakens in their minds deeds of glory, in which themselves or their countrymen have participated. It brings to recollection dangers, toils and sufferings they have undergone in defence of their country: all of which has a tendency to keep alive that spirit of patriotism and love of country, which is so highly necessary to the preservation of a republican form of government.

Have not the militia, on almost all occasions, been prompt in cases of alarm or invasion, to repair to the post of danger? and have they not on many occasions shown as much valor and intrepidity as regular troops? To prove this, many instances might be adduced; but the committee name but one. Who was it that saved New-Orleans, and perhaps a large portion of the western country from British invasion in 1815? Who was it that defeated at that place, the pride and flower of the British army, glorying in their strength, and elated with victory from the fields of Europe? It was a few hastily collected militia, commanded by General Jackson, who knew their worth and confided in their valor and fidelity.

The committee fully accord in opinion with the President of the United States, that "the militia is the bulwark of our defence": and his declaration, that "to any just system calculated to strengthen this national safeguard of the country, he shall cheerfully lend all the aid in his power," indicates a determination on his part to bring about what is, on all hands, admitted to be desirable—a militia system which shall be general in its character, and beneficial in its operations.

The present militia system of this state, in the opinion of the committee, is not the best that may be devised; the company parades and the officer meetings for improvement, (the last of which are considered the most burthensome,) may be abolished by a law of this state, and not contravene any act of congress on this subject. But believing that the general government will soon reorganize the whole militia system, and considering also from the lateness of the session, that no bill for this purpose can, with justice, be acted on before this legislature will adjourn, they have instructed their chairman to offer the following resolution:

Resolved, That it is inexpedient, at this time, to make any alterations in the militia law of this state, of the nature contemplated by the resolution.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the usual number of copies of the said report and resolution be printed for the use of the legislature.

Mr. Skinner, from the committee on colleges, academies and common schools, to which was referred the petition of the trustees of the Springville academy, praying for a certain amendment to the act incorporating that academy, asked for leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Skinner, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to incorporate the Springville academy in the county of Erie;'" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Burt, from the committee on the establishment and improvement of roads and bridges, and the incorporation of turnpike companies, to which was referred the petition of sundry inhabitants of the county of Madison, praying for the incorporation of the Canastota turnpike company, asked for leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Burt, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to incorporate the Canastota turnpike road company;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Armstrong, from the committee on the erection and division of towns and counties, to which was referred the petition of sundry inhabitants of the town of Clarkson in the county of Monroe, for the passage of a law to alter the time of holding the annual town meeting of said town, asked for leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Armstrong, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to alter the time of holding town-meetings in the town of Clarkson in the county of Monroe;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Jones, from the select committee to which was referred the memorial of Abraham G. Thompson, for and in behalf of himself and his associates, praying for the passage of a law amendatory of the act incorporating the Long-Island canal company, reported:

That the facts furnished the committee in relation to this subject, are as follows:

In 1828 a law was passed, constituting Abraham G. Thompson, and such persons as should, together with him, become stockholders, a body corporate, to be styled the Long-Island canal company: That this bill originated in the Assembly, and was introduced by the committee on canals and internal improvements. It was then referred to a select committee, consisting of the members composing the delegation from Suffolk and Kings counties, to consider thereon. The chairman of that committee reported the same with amendments, and it was ordered to a third reading, as may be seen by referring to the journals of this house for the year 1828, page 952. The committee are satisfied, from a communication received from the chairman of the select committee who reported the said bill, that it did not pass in the form agreed upon by that committee, nor does it appear to have been altered subsequently to their report by order of the house. The committee are therefore induced to believe from this communication, and from other information furnished them upon the subject, that an error was committed in engrossing the said bill, which escaped detection. This error, though slight in form, is material in substance, and has prevented the company from commencing the contemplated improvement. It consists in a transposition of the word "exclusively," in the third section of the bill, from one part of a sentence to another, so that the privilege which was intended to be conferred to the company incorporated, may yet be extended to others without limitation. The committee, therefore, in order to carry into effect what they believe to have been the design of the committee which reported, and of the legislature which passed the said bill, recommend the repeal of the third section thereof, and the passage of an amendatory act granting to the said company the exclusive privilege of constructing the said canal. For this purpose, the committee have prepared a bill, which they now ask leave to introduce.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Jones, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to incorporate the Long-Island canal company,' passed April 15th, 1828;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Thereupon,

Ordered, That the committee of the whole be discharged from the further consideration of the said bill, and that it be committed to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Jones, Mr. Williamson and Mr. Hedges, to report the same complete.

Mr. C. L. Livingston, from the select committee to which was referred the memorial of the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New-York, relative to the line of West-street, reported:

That according to the present plan for the formation of West-street, the easterly line thereof would be 180 feet distant from the westerly line of Washington-street, at the Albany basin, and 120 feet at the termination of the said streets on Marketfield-street. An alteration of this plan, whereby West-street would run parallel with Washington-street, south of the Albany basin, is one of the most desirable and substantial improvements of which the city is susceptible. It would lead to results permanently useful in the arrangement of the wharves, piers and slips, and afford extensive accommodation to the shipping in that section of the city. The owners of the property interested in the proposed alteration, have expressed to the corporation their readiness to undertake this great work, whenever proper plans shall have been adopted, and the contemplated street ordered to be made. The committee are of opinion that it is expedient to make the alteration; and they have prepared a bill to carry the same into effect, which they ask leave to introduce.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. C. L. Livingston, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act relative to the line of West-street, between the Albany basin and Marketfield-street, in the city of New-York;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Dayton, from the committee on the incorporation and alteration of the charters of banking and insurance companies, to which was referred the petition of the president, directors and company of the Bank of New-York in the city of New-York, asked for leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Dayton, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to extend for a limited period the charter of the Bank of New-York in the city of New-York;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Dayton, from the committee on the incorporation and alteration of the charters of banking and insurance companies, to which was referred the petition of the president, directors and company of the City Bank in the city of New-York, asked for leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

E. T. THROOP.

Albany, April 17, 1829.

And then the house adjourned until four o'clock this afternoon.

4 O'CLOCK P. M.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

The house then again resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act to extend for a limited period the charter of the Union Bank of the city of New-York;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Bradish, from the said committee, reported progress, and asked for and obtained leave to sit again.

And then the House adjourned until nine o'clock on Monday morning next.

MONDAY, APRIL 20, 1829.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

The memorial of John Townsend and others, in favor of the prayer of the petition of Joseph Lancaster for pecuniary aid, and setting forth the benefits and advantages of his system of education, was read, and committed to a committee of the whole when on the bill entitled "An act for the relief of Joseph Lancaster."

The petition of P. W. Engs, Samuel Whittemore and others, praying for the passage of an act to incorporate the Guaranty company, was read, and referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Al Burtis, Mr. Myers and Mr. Curtiss.

Mr. Curtiss, from the committee on the incorporation of charitable and religious societies, to whom was referred the petition of the trustees of the Baptist and congregational society of the town of Eden and county of Erie, reported:

That the petitioners set forth in their petition, that the Holland land company has granted to each of the said societies, two several pieces of land, to be appropriated for the benefit of said societies, and that in its present state it is unproductive; and they therefore request the legislature to pass a law authorising the petitioners to sell the said lands. The committee, on examination, find that the existing statutes make ample provision for relief in such cases, which renders further legislation on this subject unnecessary. They would therefore offer the following resolution:

Resolved, That the petitioners have leave to withdraw their petition.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Mann, from the committee on claims, to which was referred the petition of Frederick Stanley of the city of New-York, praying for the passage of a law to grant to him a certain lot of land in the village of Oswego, asked for leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Mann, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act for the relief of Frederick Stanley;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Dickson, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Naples turnpike road company," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Partridge, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act appointing commissioners to lay out a road from Sheldon in the county of Genesee, to intersect a road running from the Pennsylvania line to Buffalo in the county of Cattaraugus," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Jones, from the select committee to which was committed the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to incorporate the Flushing steam-boat company," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house, and the bill was ordered to a third reading.

Mr. Johnson, from the select committee to which was committed the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act concerning the towing-path bridge across the Mohawk river," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house, and the bill was ordered to a third reading.

Mr. Eldridge, from the committee appointed to examine all bills committed to a committee of the whole house, and to report all such bills as in their opinion may with safety and propriety be referred to select committees to report complete, reported the following bills as proper for such reference, to wit:

The bill entitled "An act authorising Alanson B. Wright to take the name of Alanson B. Cady;" the bill entitled "An act altering the October term of the court of general sessions of the peace in the county of Delaware;" the bill entitled "An act concerning trespasses on lands contracted to be sold by the state;" the bill entitled "An act relative to the imprisonment within the city and county of New-York, of female convicts adjudged to be confined in the state prison;" the bill entitled "An act making certain alterations in the map or plan of the city of New-York;" the bill entitled "An act authorising the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New-York, to erect a public market, and to lay out and open a public street in the eleventh ward of the said city;" the bill entitled "An act for the relief of the stockholders of the Farmers' woollen manufacturing company of the town of Benton in the county of Yates;" the bill entitled "An act for the relief of Thomas Staats junior," and the bill entitled "An act concerning the village of Lewiston in the county of Niagara."

Thereupon,

Ordered, That the committee of the whole be discharged from the further consideration of the said several bills, and that the bill entitled "An act authorising Alanson B. Wright to take the name of Alanson B. Cady," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Tower, Mr. White and Mr. Savage; that the bill entitled "An act altering the October term of the court of general sessions of the peace in the county of Delaware," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Redfield, Mr. Allison and Mr. Seely; that the bill entitled "An act concerning trespasses on lands contracted to be sold by the state," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Bradish, Mr. Edgerton and Mr. Mann; that the bill entitled "An act relative to the imprisonment within the city and county of New-York, of female convicts adjudged to be confined in the state prison," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. W. K. Fuller, Mr. Bogert and Mr. Dayton; that the bill entitled "An act making certain alterations in the map or plan of the city of New-York," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. T. L. Smith, Mr. Myers and Mr. Arnold; that the bill entitled "An act authorising the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New-York to erect a public market, and to lay out and open a public street in the eleventh ward of the said city," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Cargill, Mr. Titus and Mr. Al Burtis; that the bill entitled "An act for the relief of the stockholders of the Farmers' woollen manufacturing company of the town of Benton in the county of Yates," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Franklin, Mr. Dickson and Mr. Eldridge; that the bill entitled "An act for the relief of Thomas Staats junior," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Johnson, Mr. Tower and Mr. Burt; and that the bill entitled "An act concerning the village of Lewiston in the county of Niagara," be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Burt, Mr. Garnsey and Mr. Fillmore, severally to consider and report thereon.

Mr. Skinner, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act to appoint commissioners to lay out a public highway from the village of Albion in the county of Orleans, to the village of Olean in the county of Cattaraugus," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Falley, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act for the relief of Jonathan Wheat," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Burt, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act requiring the publication of notices in certain cases," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Hubbell, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act to amend section fifteenth of title first of chapter twentieth of the first part of the Revised Statutes," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Hubbell, from the select committee to which was referred the engrossed bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Owasco and Erie canal company," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, made sundry amendments thereto, and agreed to the same; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Thereupon,

Ordered, That the bill be re-engrossed.

Mr. J. M'Donald, from the select committee to which was committed the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act for the relief of Daniel Carswell," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and recommend that it be ordered to a third reading.

Thereupon,

Ordered, That the said bill be re-committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Wheeler, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act relative to the bridge across the outlet of Long lake in the county of Saratoga," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

The house then proceeded to the consideration of the resolution offered by Mr. C. L. Livingston on Saturday last; the same was again read, in the words following, to wit:

Resolved, That this house do reconsider its vote on the final passage of the engrossed bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Waterville volunteer fire company."

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative, two-thirds of all the members elected to this house voting in favor thereof, as follows, to wit:

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Savage, from the select committee, appointed in pursuance of a resolution of the 26th March, to inquire into the expediency of removing the seat of government of this state from the city of Albany to the town of Utica, or such other place within the state of New-York as the committee might deem expedient, with instructions to report by bill or otherwise, reported:

That the committee, in the first place, have directed their attention to the inquiry, whether a removal of the Capitol from the city of Albany, would at this time be deemed expedient? And when they consider that a large and durable edifice is already owned in part by the state, for the publick accommodation, it might naturally be inferred that the expense of purchasing ground for new buildings, and making suitable erections thereon, ought not lightly to be undertaken. The present Capitol was erected at considerable expense to the state. The expenditures from 1806 to 1814, were $73,185; the city and county of Albany contributed $37,200; making, in all, $110,685, and the state in fact only secured a species of co-tenancy with the city and county of Albany, the public business of which places may at all times, and on all occasions, be transacted within the walls of the state Capitol. The committee do not mention this as derogating in the least from the character of the state, nor as having given rise to any interruption or delay in the administration of public affairs; but the inquiry may respectfully be submitted, whether a rich and powerful commonwealth like that of the state of New-York, ought not at least to have the exclusive control of an edifice in which the affairs of state exclusively might be transacted; where the state archives might be lodged with perfect security, and where the representatives of the people and the executive of the state might discharge their public duties without the possible contingency of interruption from a co-tenant.

As early as the year 1796, at a time when the great mass of the population of our state was south of Albany, the question on a removal of the legislative sessions to Albany, was decided by a vote in the Assembly, of 53 to 50, and in the Senate by the casting vote of the President of the Senate, the Hon. Stephen Van Rensselaer, the members of that branch of the legislature standing 19 to 19. This decision at that day, was probably made under the conviction that the extensive territory north and west of the present Capitol, might at some future period be rendered so far habitable as to give it a population somewhat approximating to that inhabiting the territory east and south of it. It can hardly be supposed that at that early period, the legislature could foresee or even anticipate, that, within less than half a century from the time in which they were deliberating, the tide of emigration would roll the popular centre of the state to a point far west of Albany. The vote which was then given, was probably induced by the conviction that something was due to geographical considerations, as well as to the centre of population; and in locating the Capitol at Albany, they seemed willing to propitiate extent of territory by a partial sacrifice of what then may have been popular feeling. At that period, the country lying south of the city of Albany, had by far the largest amount of population, and the western portion of the state, now containing near a million of inhabitants, did not contain a population larger than may now be found in the single county of Oneida. It may not, however, be improbable, that at that early period of our history, the proffered assistance of the citizens of the city and county of Albany, to erect a building for the mutual accommodation of the citizens of that county and of the state, may have led to its present location. If so, the committee cannot, for the reason already submitted, assent to the correctness of the decision, and for the further reason, that aside from the considerations of state dignity and state independence, state partnership is any thing else than profitable.

The committee are not fully informed on the subject, but they venture to state that something like 6 or 7,000 dollars has been paid out of the public treasury for repairs to the room occupied by the court of common pleas and circuit courts of Albany, in the shape of a sky-light; and if this be correct, they conceive it to be but a small equivalent for this enormous expenditure, that the supreme court is permitted to hold two of its sittings yearly in that room. This and other expenditures in the repairing of the Capitol, show the impolicy of state partnership.

Upon an examination of the census of 1825, the committee have ascertained that the counties forming the line of St. Lawrence, Herkimer, Broome and the half of Otsego, together with the counties lying west of those counties, contained a population of 800,663, while the counties east and south thereof, contained a poplation of 823,797, and if the unparalleled increase of population in the western sections of our state, previous to 1825, has continued since that period up to the present time, or if it has continued with a diminution of fifty per cent. from the four years preceding 1825 for the four years subsequent thereto, the committee conceive themselves to be treating of facts when they state that at this moment the centre of population as well as the geographical centre of the state lies west of the line they have drawn.

In addition to the precedent already established by our legislature, of locating the seat of government in the centre of population, the committee would remark, that our sister state of Pennsylvania has made two removals in the location of her public buildings, for the attainment of the same object, and the committee are unable to discover any solid reason against such a measure, unless the question of expense should be taken into the account, and upon that subject the committee will offer some suggestion before concluding this report.

In relation to a location at Utica, the committee have been influenced by the consideration that it is nearer the centre of population and the geographical centre of the state, than any other considerable village or town within it—it is at the point of concentration of great public roads from every direction, and affords facilities of communication with every part of the state, not equalled by any other inland town. It is situated in the midst of a rich and fertile district of country, and surrounded by a dense, active and enterprising population; its climate pure and healthy, and its public accommodations to the traveller or the temporary resident, is probably not surpassed by any town of equal population within the state, and it contains at this time a population equal to that of Albany, at the time that that city became the seat of government, and there is reason to believe, that it will soon equal that city, both in wealth and numbers.

Notwithstanding the heavy expenditures of money in the erection of the present Capitol, it is not a very flattering specimen of architecture, and its internal arrangement is very far from being well adapted to the purpose for which it was designed. Nearly eight thousand dollars have been expended in repairs, since its erection; and at the present session of the legislature it has been proposed to erect a new building for the public convenience, and a bill is now before the Assembly, having passed the Senate, for putting an end to the co-tenancy existing between the state and the county of Albany.

So far as the expense of a measure, connected with the interest and just pride of this great and flourishing state is a proper subject of consideration, it will be proper to take into the estimate the amount that may be procured for the present public buildings and the land attached to the same, and the probable expense of making a more elegant and better adapted erection, the committee are satisfied that the necessary expenditure will be but a moderate item in comparison with the benefits to be derived.

The committee, with the view of eliciting information on a subject of so much importance, as that referred to their consideration, would respectfully recommend to the House the adoption of the following resolutions, which they hope that no portion of the representatives of the people will feel themselves called upon to oppose.

Resolved, (if the honorable Senate concur herein,) That Henry Huntington, Thomas B. Hubbard, Joseph Kirkland, Samuel Stocking, Montgomery Hunt, Alexander B. Johnson, Samuel Beardsley, William Clarke and Abraham Varick, be and they are hereby appointed commissioners in relation to the erection of a Capitol and other public buldings at Utica, in the county of Oneida.

Resolved, That it shall be the duty of the said commissioners to ascertain whether some suitable site or sites for a Capitol and other public buildings at Utica, aforesaid, will be gratuitously conveyed to the people of this state, and what other donations, if any, will be made to the said people, in the event of the erection of the said public buildings.

Resolved, That the said commissioners cause an accurate survey and map of any such site or sites to be made, and procure plans for a Capitol and other public buildings, sufficiently spacious for the accommodation of all the public officers, with estimates of the expense of erecting and completing the same according to the several plans that may be suggested.

Resolved, That the said commissioners ascertain, as far as practicable, what price or sum of money can be obtained for the present Capitol and other public buildings, and the lands occupied by and attached to the same.

Resolved, That the said commissioners take such other and further measures for the purpose of affording full and accurate information on the foregoing subjects as they may deem proper, and that they report their proceedings in the premises, to the legislature at its next session.

Ordered, That the said report and resolutions be laid upon the table.

Ordered, That the usual number of copies of the said report and resolutions be printed for the use of the legislature.

The house then proceeded to the consideration of the report of the committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act to extend for a limited period the charter of the Union Bank in the city of New-York;" the said report being that the committee had gone through the said bill, made amendments thereto, and agreed to the same in the words following, to wit:

An Act to extend for a limited period the charter of the Union Bank in the city of New-York.

The People of the State of New-York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

§ 1. The act entitled "An act to incorporate the stockholders of the Union Bank in the city of New-York," passed March 8th, 1811, and all acts and parts of acts relating to the same as now in force, shall be, and they are hereby continued in force, until the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-three; except that from and after the filing of the assent hereinafter mentioned, so much and such parts of the said acts as may be repugnant to the provisions contained in the eighteenth chapter of the first part of the Revised Statutes, and the provisions contained in the act entitled "An act to create a fund for the benefit of the creditors of certain monied corporations, and for other purposes," passed April 2d, 1829, shall be, and they are hereby repealed; subject, however, to the modifications mentioned in the fifth section of this act.

§ 2. The said corporation shall be subject to the provisions contained in the eighteenth chapter of the first part of the Revised Statutes, from and after the filing of the assent hereinafter mentioned, except so far as the same are modified by the act last recited in the preceding section.

§ 3. The said corporation shall have power to carry on the business of banking by discounting bills, notes and other evidences of debt, by receiving deposits, by buying and selling gold and silver bullion, foreign coins and bills of exchange, by issuing bills, notes and other evidences of debt, and by exercising such other incidental powers as shall be necessary to carry on such business.

§ 4. No person shall be a director of such corporation, who does not hold in his own right, free from all and every incumbrance by way of hypothecation, at least one thousand dollars of the capital stock of the said corporation; and when such director shall cease to hold such stock, his office as such director shall become vacant.

§ 5. The said corporation shall be subject to the provisions contained in the act entitled "An act to create a fund for the benefit of the creditors of certain monied corporations, and for other purposes," passed April 2d, 1829, from and after the filing of the assent hereinafter mentioned, except the twenty-seventh section of said act, which section shall be binding upon said corporation from and after the first day of July, in the year one thousand eight hundred and thirty.

§ 6. The provisions of the acts now binding upon said corporation, which regulate the amount of notes or bills loaned or put in circulation, and the amount of the loans and discounts of said corporation, shall be in force and obligatory upon said corporation until the said first day of July, one thousand eight hundred and thirty.

§ 7. It shall not be lawful for the said corporation to take a hypothecation of its own stock, as security for any loan or discount made by such corporation.

§ 8. The charter of the said corporation shall not be extended, by virtue of this act, beyond the first day of May, one thousand eight hundred and thirty-six, unless the said corporation shall, on or before the first day of May, one thousand eight hundred and thirty-two, cause to be filed with the comptroller of this state, a certificate under its corporate seal, and signed by its president and cashier, setting forth that said corporation assents to become subject to all the provisions of this act; and shall, on or before the day last mentioned, make such payments to the fund mentioned in the said act, entitled "an act to create a fund for the benefit of the creditors of certain monied corporations, and for other purposes," as they would have been bound previously to make, had the assent aforesaid been filed on the fourth day of January, one thousand eight hundred and thirty.

Thereupon,

Mr. P. Van Beuren made a motion that the house should agree to amend the said report, by striking out all of the same after the enacting clause, and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

An Act to extend for a limited period the charter of the Union Bank in the city of New-York.

The People of the State of New-York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

§ 1. The act entitled "An act to incorporate the stockholders of the Union Bank in the city of New-York," passed March 8th, 1811, and all acts and parts of acts relating to the same, as now in force, shall be, and they are hereby continued in force until the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-three; except that from and after the filing of the assent hereinafter mentioned, so much and such parts of the said acts as may be repugnant to the provisions contained in the eighteenth chapter of the first part of the revised statutes, and the provisions contained in the act entitled "An act to create a fund for the benefit of the creditors of certain monied corporations, and for other purposes," passed April 2d, 1829, shall be, and they are hereby repealed; subject, however, to the modifications mentioned in the fourth section of this act.

§ 2. The said corporation shall be subject to the provisions contained in the eighteenth chapter of the first part of the revised statutes, from and after the filing of the assent hereinafter mentioned, except so far as the same are modified by the act last recited in the next preceding section.

§ 3. No person shall be a director of such corporation, who does not hold in his own right, free from all and every incumbrance, by way of hypothecation, at least one thousand dollars of the capital stock of the said corporation; and when such director shall cease to hold such stock, his office, as such director, shall become vacant.

§ 4. The said corporation shall be subject to the operation of the provisions contained in the act, entitled "An act to create a fund for the benefit of the creditors of certain monied corporations, and for other purposes," passed April 2d, 1829, from and after the filing of the assent hereinafter mentioned, except the twenty-seventh section of said act, which section shall be binding upon said corporation from and after the first day of July, in the year one thousand eight hundred and thirty.

§ 5. The provisions of the acts now binding upon the said corporation, which regulate the amount of notes or bills loaned or put in circulation, and the amount of the loans and discounts of said corporation, shall be in force and obligatory upon said corporation until the said first day of July, one thousand eight hundred and thirty.

§ 6. The charter of the said corporation shall not be extended, by virtue of this act, unless the said corporation shall, on or before the fourth day of January next, cause to be filed with the comptroller of this state, a certificate under the corporate seal, and signed by its president and cashier, setting forth that said corporation assents to become subject to all the provisions of this act.

§ 7. It shall not be lawful for the said corporation to take a hypothecation of its own stock, as security for any loan or discount made by such corporation.

§ 8. The legislature may at any time repeal, alter or modify this act.

Debates were had upon the said resolution of Mr. P. Van Beuren; and the question being put whether the house would agree thereto, it was determined in the affirmative.

A message from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bill therein mentioned, was read, informing that they have concurred with this house in its amendment to the bill entitled "An act authorising the commissioners of the land-office to survey and sell certain lands," and have amended the same accordingly.

The amended bill having been examined,

Ordered, That the clerk return the same to the Senate.

A message from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bill, amendments, report of the comm ttee of conference, and a copy of the resolution therein mentioned, was read, informing that they have agreed to the report of the committee of conference on the bill entitled "An act concerning the proof and acknowledgment of deeds."

Thereupon,

The said bill and report were read; and the report having been again read,

Resolved, That this house do agree to the report of the committee of conference.

And then the House adjourned until nine o'clock to-morrow morning.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 22, 1829.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of Greenwich in the city of New-York, praying for the incorporation of the Greenwich Bank for Savings, was read, and referred to the committee on the incorporation of charitable and religious societies.

Mr. Brinkerhoff, from the committee on the militia, to which was referred the petition of Alexander Sickles and others, members of the New-York state artillery, for a discharge from militia duty, reported:

That they have had under consideration the application of the petitioners. The petitioners set forth in their petition, that in the year 1819 they enlisted into a company of militia, called New-York state artillery, in the city of Albany: That at the time of their enlistment, inducements were held out to them, and they were led to believe, that after they should have served for the term of seven years in said company," they would then be legally exempted from any further militia duty. The committee, however, on examination, find that there was no law that would warrant such inducements or belief, nor have they been fully satisfied from any company book or muster-roll, as to the time of their enlistment. The committee have therefore instructed their chairman to offer the following resolution:

Resolved, That the prayer of the petitioners ought not to be granted.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. T. L. Smith, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act concerning the printing of legal notices in the city and county of New-York," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, filled up the blank, and agreed to the same, and that a majority of the committee recommend that it be ordered to be engrossed for a third reading.

Thereupon,

Ordered, That the said bill be re-committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. C. Baker, from the committee on the petitions of aliens, to which was committed the bill entitled "An act to enable certain aliens therein mentioned, to take, hold, and convey real estate, and for other purposes," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, made sundry amendments thereto, and agreed to the same; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Edgerton, from the select committee to which was committed the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act for the relief of Basil Nadeau, a Canadian refugee," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house, and the bill was ordered to a third reading.

Mr. T. L. Smith, from the select committee to which was referred the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act concerning the special elections to be held for the election of justices of the peace in certain towns in the county of Onondaga," reported, that they have examined the said bill, and see no reason why the same should not be passed into a law, and recommend that it be ordered to a third reading.

Thereupon,

By unanimous consent, the said bill was ordered to a third reading.

Mr. Cargill, from the select committee to which was committed the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to prevent hawking and peddling in the city of New-York," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house, and the bill was ordered to a third reading.

Mr. Arnold, from the select committee to which was committed the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act for the relief of the New-York Protestant Episcopal public school," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house, and the bill was ordered to a third reading.

Mr. Starr, from the select committee to which was committed the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act in relation to masters and examiners in chancery in the cities of New-York and Albany," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house, and the bill was ordered to a third reading.

Mr. Paige, from the select committee to which was committed the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to incorporate the president, directors and company of the Merchants' Exchange Bank of the city of New-York," reported, that the committee have examined the said bill, and see no reason why the same should not be passed into a law.

Ordered, That the said bill be committed to a committee of the whole, when on the bills for the incorporation of banks and the renewal of bank charters.

Mr. Paige, from the select committee to which was committed the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to incorporate the president, directors and company of the Yates County Bank," reported, that the committee have examined the said bill, and see no reason why the same should not be passed into a law.

Ordered, That the said bill be committed to a committee of the whole, when on the bills for the incorporation of banks and the renewal of bank charters.

Mr. Cargill, from the select committee to which was referred the bill entitled "An act further to extend the act passed April 11th, 1815, entitled 'An act for the more effectual prevention of fires in the city of New-York,'" reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Mann, from the select committee to which was referred the bill entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act extending and supplementary to certain acts providing for the indigent deaf and dumb in this state,' passed April 15th, 1825," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, made sundry amendments thereto, and agreed to the same; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

In pursuance of previous notice, Mr. Lindsley asked for and obtained leave to bring in a bill entitled "An act to amend so much of the first part of the revised statutes as relates to the division line between the towns of Fallsburgh and Neversink, in the county of Sullivan;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

The house then proceeded to the consideration of the resolution offered by Mr. Hazeltine on Monday last; the same was again read, in the words following, to wit:

Resolved, That this house do reconsider its vote on the final passage of the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Troy and Bennington turnpike road and bridge company."

Debates were had upon the said resolution; and the question being put whether the house would agree thereto, it was determined in the negative, two-thirds of all the members elected to this house not voting in favor thereof, as follows, to wit:

4 O'CLOCK P. M.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

Mr. Dickson offered for the consideration of the house, a resolution, in the words following, to wit :

Resolved, That this house do reconsider its vote on the third reading of the engrossed bill entitled "An act to incorporate the president, directors and company of the Farmers' and Mechanics' Bank of Catskill."

Ordered, That the said resolution be laid upon the table.

Mr. T. L. Smith offered for the consideration of the house, a resolution, in the words following, to wit:

Resolved, That this house do reconsider its vote on the third reading of the engrossed bill entitled "An act to incorporate the president, directors and company of the Bank of Schenectady in the city of Schenectady."

Ordered, That the said resolution be laid upon the table.

Mr. Brinkerhoff offered for the consideration of the house, a resolution, in the words following, to wit:

Resolved, That this house do reconsider its vote on the third reading of the engrossed bill entitled "An act to incorporate the president, directors and company of the Livingston County Bank."

Ordered, That the said resolution be laid upon the table.

The engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act relative to the imprisonment within the city and county of New-York, of female convicts adjudged to be confined in the state prison," was read the third time.

Resolved, That the bill do pass.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bill to the Senate, and inform them that this house have passed the same without amendment.

A message from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bill therein mentioned, was read, informing that they have concurred with this house in its amendments to the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Brooklyn collegiate institute for young ladies," and have amended the same accordingly.

The amended bill having been examined,

Ordered, That the clerk return the same to the Senate.

Two several messages from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bills therein mentioned, were read, informing that they have passed the bill entitled "An act to incorporate Manhattan college," and the bill entitled "An act authorising certain town officers of the town of Augusta in the county of Oneida, to compromise with Elijah Shepard junior, and Elisha Mayo, sureties of Joseph Harrison, collector of said town;" in which bills they request the concurrence of this house.

The said bills were severally read the first time, and by unanimous consent were also read a second time, and the bill entitled "An act to incorporate Manhattan college," was referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Judd, Mr. P. Van Beuren and Mr. Carrier; and the bill entitled "An act authorising certain town offices of the town of Augusta in the county of Oneida, to compromise with Elijah Shepard junior and Elisha Mayo, sureties of Joseph Harrison, collector of said town," was referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Johnson, Mr. White and Mr. Fleming, severally to consider and report thereon.

The Senate returned by their clerk, the bill entitled "An act to amend the act entitled 'An act to incorporate the village of Syracuse,' passed April 13th, 1825;" the bill entitled "An act to establish a high school at Newburgh;" and the bill entitled "An act to amend the act entitled 'An act to vest certain powers in the freeholders and inhabitants of the village of Whitesboro', and for other purposes,' passed March 26th, 1813."

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bills to the acting Governor.

Eighteen several messages from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bills therein mentioned, were read, informing that they have passed the bill entitled "An act to extend for a limited period the charter of the Farmers' Bank;"

the bill entitled "An act to extend for a limited period the charter of the New-York State Bank;" the bill entitled "An act to provide for the establishment of a court-house in the village of Brooklyn in the county of Kings;" the bill entitled "An act authorising Thomas Garvie to erect a wharf in the town of Oyster-bay in the county of Queens;" the bill entitled "An act for the relief of Bradford Howland;" the bill entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to authorise the sale of certain lands therein mentioned, by the people of this state,' passed March 10th, 1827;" the bill entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to incorporate the village of Saratoga Springs,' passed April 17th, 1826;" the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Rome and Vienna turnpike company;" the bill entitled "An act to give effect to the revised statutes relating to the county courts in the county of Genesee;" the bill entitled "An act to amend the act entitled 'An act to incorporate the village of Buffalo in the county of Erie,' passed April 2d, 1822;" the bill entitled "An act concerning the Watervliet turnpike company;" the bill entitled "An act to divide the town of Clymer in the county of Chautauque;" the bill entitled "An act authorising the Philipstown turnpike road company to abandon a part of their road;" the bill entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act relative to the road from the village of Northampton in the county of Montgomery, to the Mohawk turnpike,' passed April 10th, 1828;" the bill entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to incorporate the Buffalo high school association;'" the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Bethpage turnpike company in the county of Queens;" the bill entitled "An act to authorise the board of supervisors of the county of Genesee in their discretion to raise certain monies for the purpose of building roads and bridges;" and the bill entitled "An act for the appointment of commissioners to perform certain duties of a justice of the supreme court in the county of Seneca and in the eastern jury district of the county of Tioga, and for other purposes," severally without amendment.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bills to the acting Governor.

The house then again resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to incorporate the New-York dry dock company,' passed April 12th, 1825;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Hubbell, from the said committee, reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, made sundry amendments thereto, and agreed to the same; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

The house then resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to incorporate the president, directors and company of the Fulton Bank of the city of New-York;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Hubbell, from the said committee, reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

The house then resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the president, directors and company of the Otsego County Bank;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Hubbell, from the said committee, reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, made sundry amendments thereto, and agreed to the same; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

The house then resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the president, directors and company of the Saratoga County Bank;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Hubbell, from the said committee, reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, made sundry amendments thereto, and agreed to the same; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

The house then resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the president, directors and company of the Onondaga County Bank;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Hubbell, from the said committee, reported progress, and asked for leave to sit again.

And then the House adjourned until nine o'clock to-morrow morning.

THURSDAY, APRIL 23, 1829.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

Mr. Mann, from the committee on claims, to which was referred the petition of the heirs and representatives of Joseph Hubbard deceased, a revolutionary soldier, praying for the passage of a law to grant to them certain lands, asked for leave to report by bill.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Mann, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to grant certain lands to the heirs of Joseph Hubbard, a revolutionary soldier;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Skinner, from the committee on colleges, academies and common schools, to whom was referred the memorial of the Infant school society in the city of New-York, reported:

That this society was formed by a number of ladies in the city of New-York, in May, 1827, for the purpose of protecting and educating the children of the laboring poor of the city, from the age of eighteen months to six years. The petitioners state, that they have registered 510 scholars since the commencement of their school, and many very interesting facts are set forth, shewing the great variety of accidents to which children of this age and class are exposed, during the necessary absence of their parents for the day, to procure the means of support. They are already provided with funds to support the school now in operation, but are anxious to establish others upon the same plan in different parts of the city, and they ask for a share of the public school fund, or that other means may be granted them for the purpose of extending more widely the blessings of this noble charity, and of securing upon a permanent foundation, the stability of institutions so well calculated to alleviate the condition of the laboring poor, to train their children to habits of virtue and industry. and to fasten upon the first buddings of the infant mind, those moral and religious impressions which afford the only safeguard against the seductions of vice and the temptations to crime.

The simple statement of what has been done by this interesting association, affords the most impressive evidence of the value of these institutions, and reflects the most cheering light upon the motives which originated and the benevolence which has sustained it. The characteristic benevolence of the female character has rarely been drawn out in forms more attractive, or in labors more productive of happiness and of hope. The children of the poor, the ignorant and the abandoned, have been sought out from the lanes and alleys, from the abodes of poverty and wretchedness, by that charity which "suffereth long and is kind, which beareth all things, and which seeketh not her own," and clothed and protected, and the rudiments of learning and the maxims of wisdom and virtue, have been impressed upon their minds and hearts.

It is believed that the infant and sabbath schools are among the most efficient means of terminating the evils of poverty, vice and crime, which fill up the picture of misery, and swell the lists of the despairing tenants of prisons and almshouses in our populous cities. From these institutions spring those streams which carry through every vein and artery of society a most benevolent and healthful influence.

The first infant school was established in the city of London, in the year 1819, and so convincing have been the proofs of its usefulness, that more than two hundred were established in different parts of England in 1826 and 1827.

Since the establishment of the school from which this petition comes, similar schools have been set up in Albany, Hartford and Boston, and in most of our cities and large towns, and thus are justly reckoned among the most obvious means of doing good in the circle of benevolent institutions, which the piety and charity of the age has created.

The mode of instruction adopted in these schools, is suited to the age and capacities of the children, and is admirably calculated to arrest and secure their attention, and to call forth their utmost energies. The schools exhibit an appearance of animation and industry, a devotedness of feeling and of purpose to the business in which they are engaged, which, on the part of children so young, presents a scene altogether new, and of a character the most interesting and impressive, and demonstrates that the mind is susceptible of cultivation and of very considerable attainments in knowledge, at an age earlier than the minimum adopted in the law regulating the distribution of the public school monies.

But while the committee are thus sensible of the advantages of infant schools, and believe them eminently useful, and to present a new and interesting field for the exertions and charities of the benevolent, they have not felt at liberty to alter a mode of distributing the public money, which has been long established, and which operates with entire uniformity and equality thoughout the state; and as they have not been able to discover any other means which can be consistently applied to the object, they have directed their chairman to submit the following resolution.

Resolved, That the petitioners have leave to withdraw their petition.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the usual number of copies of the said report and resolution be printed for the use of the legislature.

Mr. Hubbell, from the committee on expiring laws, who, by a resolution of this house, were directed to inquire into the expediency of repealing all laws authorising the sale of lottery tickets, and to ascertain, if practicable, what sums are due to the institutions, or their agents, for whose benefit such lotteries were granted, and to report their opinion upon the expediency of making provision for the payment of such sums as may be due to said institutions, or their agents, out of the treasury of this state, reported:

That the various inquiries directed to be made by the above recited resolutions, have rendered it necessary for the committee to examine numerous acts of the legislature, and other public documents relating to the subject of lotteries authorised by the laws of the state.

It is not now a question whether lotteries are pernicious in their tendency, and unworthy of legislative support; the resolution directing the present inquiry, seems based on the admission that lotteries are pernicious, and that it is desirable, if practicable, to put an immediate termination to their existence in this state.

The expedient of raising money for various objects of public interest by lotteries, was early resorted to by the legislatures of this state; and under the imposing titles of "An act for the encouragement of literature"; "An act to enable the mayor, aldermen, and commonalty of the city of Albany to dispose of their public lands by lottery"; "An act to provide for the erection of a fever hospital in the city of New-York," and the like, large sums of money have at different times been raised by lotteries, which, to say the least of them, are, in language of the late Governor Clinton, "dubious in the eye of morality, and certain in the most pernicious results."

No more decisive evidence of the light in which lotteries are now viewed by the wisest men of the present day, can be furnished than the fact, that the convention who revised the constitution of this state, deemed it necessary to incorporate into that fundamental law of the land, an article declaring that no lottery should thereafter be authorised by the legislature, and requiring laws to be passed prohibiting the sale of tickets in lotteries not already provided for. It then becomes an interesting inquiry, how long may the lotteries already provided for be continued?

It appears that all lotteries granted previous to the 13th of April, 1814, have been drawn. By an act entitled "An act for the promotion of literature," passed April 13, 1814, the sum of $274,000 is directed to be raised for the benefit of the following institutions, viz:

For Union college, in the whole,.....	$200.000
" Hamilton college, ...	40,000
" For the college of physicians and surgeons in the city of New-York, ...	30,000
" the African Asbury church in the city of New-York,.....	4,000

It also appears, that from the time of passing this act, until the year 1822, owing to delays in drawing previous lotteries, and to losses from frauds and other causes in drawing the lotteries under this act, the institutions for whose benefit the lotteries were established, had received less than the interest on the grants made to them under the said act of the 13th April, 1814; and on the 9th April, 1822, it appears from the certificate of the comptroller, filed in the office of the secretary of state, there was due to the several institutions interested in the Literature lotteries, the sum of $322.256 81.

On the 5th of April, 1822, an act was passed, entitled "An act to limit the continuance of lotteries," by which the responsibility and power of the state in the management of the Literature lotteries, were transferred to the institutions interested therein, and their agents and contractors; and the said institutions, by accepting that grant, assumed the management and became, responsible for the payment of prizes and the hazard of losses in the said lotteries.

This grant to the institutions was made with two conditions or limitations:

1. The time in which they were to raise the money due to them, was limited, and was to be fixed by the comptroller's certificate, who was instructed by the terms of the law, to take as a rule for his computation of the time in which the institutions were required to raise the said money, the average nett sum which had annually been raised by lottery for the then preceding five years in this state, and the institutions were to be allowed a proportionate time to raise the sum due to them.

2. The annual average amount of tickets, according to their scheme price, in all lotteries thereafter to be drawn under the said act, during the term of years fixed by the comptroller, should not exceed the annual average amount of tickets according to their scheme price in the lotteries already drawn within this state, during the five years immediately preceding the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and twenty-two, which amount was to be ascertained by the comptroller, and a certificate thereof filed with the secretary of state. The said institutions were also required to furnish the comptroller a certified copy of the amount of tickets at their scheme price, in all classes thereafter to be drawn, that the same might be filed in the office of the secretary of state. It was also provided by the said act, that so soon as the whole amount of tickets at their scheme price authorised by the said act, should be sold and drawn, the authority therein granted to said institutions, should cease, though the time fixed by the comptroller in his certificate, might not have expired; and that the said institutions should make report annually of the avails of said lottery, after deducting the expense of managing the same, to the Regents of the University.

The institutions interested in the Literature lotteries, severally filed with the secretary of state their acceptance of the provisions of the act above mentioned, and in pursuance of the provisions of the act, the comptroller filed his certificate, bearing date the 9th day of April, 1822, stating the amount then due the said institutions, to be three hundred and twenty-two thousand, two hundred and fifty-six dollars and eighty-one cents, and fixing the time in which the same should be raised by the institutions, at eleven years. The institutions did not file their acceptance of the terms of this act. until April 21st, 1823, which would extend the drawing of the Literature lottery to April, 1834.

It also appears, that in order to avail themselves of the terms offered by the said act of the 5th of April, 1822, the trustees of Union college were compelled to purchase of the other institutions interested in the Literature lottery, their interest therein, and by such purchase, the trustees of Union college became entitled to the whole of the several sums to be raised by the act for the promotion of literature. The said trustees also purchased the grant to the Historical society of twelve thousand dollars, to be drawn after the closing of the Literature lotteries.

The trustees of Union college, on or about the first of April, 1823, entered into a contract with John B. Yates and Archibald M'Intyre, by which they conveyed to the said Yates and M'Intyre, their interest in the said lotteries, in consideration of the sum of two hundred and seventy-six thousand and ninety $\frac{14}{100}$ dollars; for which Yates and M'Intyre gave their obligation to the said trustees. The said trustees being eventually responsible for the payment of the prizes, in case the said Yates and M'Intyre should fail to pay them, and the said Yates and M'Intyre to receive the whole avails of the said lotteries.

By an act passed 24th March, 1823, entitled "An act to authorise and provide for the erection of a fever hospital in the city of New-York," in consideration of the sum of forty thousand dollars, to be paid into the treasury of the state, and that a fever hospital should be erected within six months for the city of New-York, the state granted to the city of New-York the whole amount of money then authorised to be raised, with the interest thereon, for reimbursing to the treasury losses on former classes of the literature lottery, with power to sell the same, upon condition, however, that the city of New-York, or their assigns, should not issue any schemes therein, until the expiration of the time fixed as aforesaid by the comptroller, for the drawing of the Literature lottery; and after that time, they were to be allowed the same proportional time and terms, as were granted to the institutions for the Literature lottery. The amount of this grant to the city of New-York, was, on the 6th April, 1814, sixty thousand seven hundred and sixty dollars and thirty-four cents, as appears by the books of the comptroller; and the same was by said city sold to the said Yates and M'Intyre. By the mode of computation settled by the aforesaid act, and fixed by the certificate of the comptroller, the drawing of this last lottery, together with the Historical society lottery, would extend something more than four years beyond the year 1834, the time fixed for the closing of the Literature lottery.

By an act passed April 14th, 1820, entitled "An act to enable the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of Albany, to dispose of their public lands by lottery," a lottery was granted to the city of Albany, the prizes to be payable in land; and by an act passed April 13th, 1826, the city of Albany was authorised to contract with the owners or agents of the literature and fever hospital lotteries, to draw the land lottery in connexion with the others, and to mix the prizes as they should think proper, such land prizes not to exceed two hundred and fifty thousand dollars: And provided also, that all the then existing lotteries should be closed within the time then allowed for the drawing of the literature and fever hospital lotteries, as ascertained by the comptroller. This land lottery was also bought by the said Yates and M'Intyre, who then became the proprietors of all the lotteries authorised to be drawn in this state. And by the last mentioned act, they were discharged from the duty of reporting the amount of tickets sold by them each year, except the amount of land inserted in each scheme, which they are required to exhibit to the Attorney-General and Comptroller, and obtain their assent to the scheme. The time limited for mixing land with money prizes, is confined to the term fixed for closing the literature lottery, and does not extend to the fever hospital lottery.

The state having thus parted with its power to control the said lotteries, and discharged the assignees from their duty to account for their annual progress, the committee have no means of determining what progress has been made in drawing the said lotteries, except from the reports which the literary institutions interested in them are required to make to the Regents of the University. The trustees of Union college having bought out the rights of the other institutions, have reported to the Regents, and by their reports it appears that in January last, there was due to the said college, on the obligation of Yates and M'Intyre, the sum of $143,516 58, which had been due, and no payments made for two years, owing, as the committee are informed, to heavy losses sustained by Yates and M'Intyre in the sale of tickets.

From these returns it appears, that although the grant to Union college by the act of the 13th April, 1814, was a liberal one, $143,516 58 of that grant has not yet been realized by the college.

In reviewing this brief statement of the present condition of the lotteries and the persons interested in them, there is no room to doubt but that the institutions and their assigns have obtained vested rights, secured by repeated acts of the legislature, in the nature of contracts, by which the faith of the state is plighted; and which rights cannot now be divested by repealing the acts by which they were granted and confirmed.

Previous to the act of the 13th of April, 1826, the institutions were required to report the amount of tickets at the scheme price, sold in each year; which as appears by the Comptroller's certificate, fixing the average amount sold for the five years preceding the first of January, 1822, ought not to exceed about $395,800 in each year; but from the returns made by the institutions, it appears that from the 20th of May, 1823, to the 30th of August, 1826, there were drawn tickets amounting, at the scheme price, to $2,743,793 38, being more than double the amount authorised by the act to be sold within that time; and yet the sum acknowledged by the institutions to have been received during that time, as the avails of the lottery, amounts, exclusive of interest, to only $132,573 56; this deficiency in the proceeds of the lottery is owing, it is said, to losses and expenses incurred in drawing the same.

By the reports made to the Regents in 1828 and 1829, it appears that no payments were made in those years by the contractors, Yates and M'Intyre, to the institution, (Union college,) the proceeds of the lottery having been applied, as is said, to the payment of previous losses and expenses.

What amount of tickets has been sold since the 30th of August, 1826, the committee have no means of ascertaining, no report being now required.

The committee feel constrained to remark, that many parts of the acts before mentioned, relative to these lotteries, are drawn with singular obscurity; and the meaning of some of them is very difficult to be determined.

It is apparent, however, from these acts, that it was not designed by the legislature to suffer any greater amount of tickets to be sold than was necessary to raise the several sums authorised to be raised by the acts appointing the lotteries. And although the present proprietors are expressly released by the last mentioned act, from making an annual report of the progress made by them, the committee cannot doubt but that the said contractors may be called upon to answer in such a manner that they would be compelled to disclose the true state of their progress in drawing these lotteries, provided there was any reason to suspect that they were raising a larger sum than that authorised by law. Until they are so called upon, the committee see no security, except the integrity of the contractors, against their raising an indefinite amount by these lotteries, during the time in which they are authorised to continue them; but the committee would do injustice not to remark, that they have no reason to suspect that the contractors have yet raised a larger sum than they are authorised to raise, or that they have any intention to do so.

The committee have had communications from the contractors, Yates and M'Intyre, in which they express a willingness to surrender their rights in the lotteries to the state, upon receiving the amount yet to be raised: but as there is yet in arrear, besides the balance due to Union college, the whole of the fever hospital lottery, amounting to something more than $100,000, and also a part of the Albany land lottery, the committee do not believe that the state will be disposed, in the present state of its finances, to advance such a sum, although the evil of lotteries is felt to be a very great one.

The contractors being themselves desirous, as they assure the committee, of bringing the whole to a close, have submitted a stipulation, which is in these words:

"Whereas, by the various acts relative to the lotteries of this state, and the contracts with the institutions and assignees of the various grants, the time granted for conducting the Literature and Albany land lotteries, will terminate on the 16th of April, 1836, and the lottery for the sum granted to the city of New-York, the consideration for which has been paid into the treasury, viz. forty thousand dollars, will be extended for an indefinite time within the limit of between four and five years beyond that period: And whereas an anxiety has been expressed by a great many individuals in the community, that as early a period should be put to the use of lotteries, as a mean of raising money, as possible, compatible with the rights of the parties interested in them: Desirous also, on our part, to comply with the wishes of so highly respectable a portion of community, so far as we are enabled to do so, with a due regard to our pecuniary safety and performance of our contract—we declare, if we shall be permitted to continue the lotteries unmolested by proceedings of any sort, unless for any charge of misconduct in the management of lotteries, until the end of the year 1835, that we will surrender all our right to the remainder of the term of time which shall then be left for the Literature and Albany lotteries, and the whole of the time which would thereafter be allowed to raise the money for what is termed the Fever Hospital grant: But inasmuch as every attack upon our rights has proved a serious injury, we feel justified in making the declaration, that if we are constrained to sustain the expense and perplexity of litigation to retain our rights, we shall need the whole time given us by the laws, without a surrender of any portion of it, in order to indemnify ourselves, we being now the assignees, and holding in our own right, all the grants of this description in the state of New-York, having paid the whole sum to the corporation of the city of New-York, and the treasury of the state for the last grant, and paid or contracted to pay the whole sums to be received by the institutions and the corporation of the city of Albany.

"YATES & M'INTYRE.

"New-York, March 24th, 1829."

This stipulation is deposited with the committee, for the purpose of being filed with the secretary of state, provided the legislature, by an act or joint resolution, shall accept the terms of the stipulation, and order it so to be filed.

In the opinion of the committee, it is a matter of importance that the public mind should be settled on the subject of the termination of the lotteries in this state, and that it should be generally known that the time for their termination is definitely fixed; and as, by the terms of the stipulation, the contractors must close their lotteries at least four years sooner than, by the existing laws, they would be required to do, the committee believe that the public interest requires that the stipulation should be accepted, and be made binding by the legislature; at the same time, guarding against granting, either expressly or by implication, any further privileges to the contractors than are required by the stipulation.

With this view, and the session having so far advanced as to render the passing of an act for the purpose very difficult, the following concurrent resolution is submitted:

Resolved, That the legislature hereby accepts the stipulation of Yates and M'Intyre, set forth in the foregoing report, and that the same be filed with the secretary of state; but the said Yates & M'Intyre shall not hereby be authorised to continue any lottery held by them for a longer period than they are now authorised by law to continue it, or to raise a greater sum of money by any such lottery than they are now authorised by law to raise.

Ordered, That the said report and resolution be laid upon the table, and that the usual number of copies thereof be printed for the use of the legislature.

Mr. Al Burtis, from the select committee to which was referred the petition of P. W. Engs and others, reported:

That the petitioners represent that a large proportion of sales made by commission merchants, are guaranteed by them: That from the course of business, this must be done not only by old and well established houses, but by those doing a moderate business, and who have but a small capital; and that any considerable loss the young and enterprising merchant sustains, is attended with ruin to himself and loss to the employer.

The committee conceive that persons would gladly avail themselves of the facilities afforded by a responsible public institution, which could afford to take the risk upon themselves for a moderate compensation; and that the effect would be to afford to each a small profit, and reduce trade between strangers to a certainty.

The committee are of the opinion that an institution of the character prayed for by the petitioners, would be mutually advantageous to the purchaser and vendor of commodities. Strangers from the country and from neighbouring states, might ascertain with certainty whether the purchasers of their property were persons of such credit that their contracts might be counted upon as good, by application to such an institution, before parting with the title of their property; and they would thus be enabled to calculate with a degree of certainty upon their business, and avoid the expenses arising from commissions, storage, and other accidental charges.

The committee cannot perceive any harm that can result from such a company, but on the contrary, that it may be an institution of great usefulness; are of the opinion that their prayer ought to be granted. They have prepared a bill accordingly, and instructed their chairman to ask leave to bring in the same.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. Al Burtis, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act to incorporate the Guarantee company of the city of New-York;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Judd, from the select committee to which was referred the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to incorporate Manhattan college," reported, that they have examined the said bill, and see no reason why the same should not be passed into a law.

Thereupon,

Mr. Mann made a motion that the house should agree to refer the said bill to the board of regents of the university of this state, to report thereon.

Debates were had upon the said motion of Mr. Mann; and the question being put whether the house would agree thereto, it was determined in the negative.

The house then proceeded to the consideration of the resolution offered by Mr. Johnson; the same was again read, in the words following, to wit:

Resolved, (if the Senate concur,) That there be appointed a committee of three persons, to consist of one member of the Senate and two members of the Assembly, who shall examine the accounts and vouchers of the treasurer, pursuant to the provisions of title 4 of chapter 8 of the first part of the revised statutes.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

The house then proceeded to choose by ballot, two members of the committee on the part of this house, in pursuance of the aforesaid resolution; and the ballots having been taken and counted, it appeared that Mr. Johnson was the only person duly elected agreeably to the requirements of the 28th rule of this house.

The house then proceeded to a second ballot; and the ballots having been taken and counted, it appeared that Mr. Mann was duly elected.

Thereupon,

Resolved, (if the Senate concur,) That there be appointed a committee of three persons, to consist of one member of the Senate and two members of the Assembly, who shall examine the accounts and vouchers of the Treasurer, pursuant to the provisions of title 4, chapter 8, of the first part of the revised statutes; and in case of such concurrence, that Mr. Johnson and Mr. Mann be of said committee on the part of this house.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver a copy of the preceding resolution of concurrence to the Senate.

The engrossed bill entitled "An act to incorporate the president, directors and company of the National Bank in the city of New-York," was read the third time.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the final passage of the said bill, and it was determined in the affirmative, two-thirds of all the members elected to this house voting in favor thereof, as follows, to wit:

The house then proceeded to the consideration of the resolutions of the Senate relative to the printing of the journals and other papers of the two houses; the same were again read, in the words following, to wit:

Resolved, (if the Assembly concur,) That the printing for the legislature, except when otherwise specially directed, shall, after the present session, be done in the following form and manner, viz: Bills as has been heretofore used, with pica type; rule or table work, in royal octavo size, where it can be brought into that size by any type not smaller than brevier, and in such form as to fold conveniently into the volume. All other printing shall be done with small pica type, on royal paper, in pages of the octavo form, and each to contain not less than 1,538 ems. The secretary of state and comptroller shall contract with the state printer for doing the printing authorised by these resolutions; but the price allowed shall not exceed the present rate per page, after a deduction of the difference between the number of pica ems in the folio size, and the number of small pica ems in the octavo size.

Resolved, (if the Assembly concur,) That after the present session, the journals of the Senate and Assembly shall be printed in the above form and size, and with the above type; and no document or paper which had previously been printed, shall be reprinted therein; nor shall any message, report, communication or other document be printed in the journals, but the same shall be referred to in the journals by number or in some other convenient manner.

Resolved, (if the Assembly concur,) That seventy-three copies of the documents and reports, in addition to the usual number, shall be printed; twelve of which shall be delivered to the clerks of the Senate and Assembly, for the use of their respective houses, and the remainder shall be distributed with the journals of the two houses, agreeable to law.

Thereupon,

Resolved, That this house do concur with the Senate in their said resolutions.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver a copy of the preceding resolution of concurrence to the Senate.

The Senate returned by their clerk, the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Essex steam navigation company;" the bill entitled "An act relative to suits on behalf of the people of this state;" the bill entitled "An act authorising John McLallen to establish a ferry across the Cayuga lake;" the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Waterville fire company;" and the engrossed bill entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to incorporate the Long-Island canal company,' passed April 15th, 1828."

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bills to the acting Governor.

Three several messages from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bills therein mentioned, were read, informing that they have passed the bill entitled "An act to amend the act incorporating the Albany and Greene turnpike road company, passed April 7th, 1806, and the several acts amending the same;" the bill entitled "An act authorising the supervisors of Livingston county to raise money to build a bridge over the Genesee river at Squakie hill;" and the engrossed bill entitled "An act for the relief of the Owego and Ithaca turnpike road company," severally without amendment.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bills to the acting Governor.

And then the house adjourned until four o'clock this afternoon.

4 O'CLOCK P. M.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

The engrossed bill entitled "An act to appoint commissioners to lay out a road in the town of Manheim in the county of Herkimer," was read the third time.

Resolved, That the bill do pass.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bill to the Senate, and request their concurrence in the same.

Mr. Starr gave notice that on Monday next, at 11 o'clock, he would move a call of this house.

A message from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bill and amendments therein mentioned, was read, informing that they have passed the bill entitled "An act relative to monies in the hands of overseers of the poor," with the amendments therewith delivered.

The said bill and amendments were read; and the amendments having been again read, and concurred in,

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bill to the Senate, and inform them that this house have concurred with them in their amendments to the said bill, and have amended the same accordingly.

Two several messages from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bills and amendments therein mentioned, were read, informing that they have passed the bill entitled "An act incorporating the firemen in the city of Troy by the name of the Fire department of the city of Troy," and the bill entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to vest certain powers in the freeholders and inhabitants of the village of Canandaigua,'" with the amendments therewith delivered.

Ordered, That the said bills and amendments be laid upon the table.

A message from the acting Governor, delivered by his private secretary, was read, in the words following, to wit:

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

The house then resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to incorporate the president, directors and company of the Merchants' Exchange Bank of the city of New-York;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Hubbell, from the said committee, reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, made sundry amendments thereto, and agreed to the same; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house, and the amendments were ordered to be engrossed, and the bill was ordered to a third reading.

And then the House adjourned until nine o'clock to-morrow morning.

SATURDAY, APRIL 25, 1829.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

Mr. Case, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act relative to the Oxford and Lackawaxen turnpike road company," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Mathews, from the select committee to which was committed the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act for the relief of Betsey Cameron," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house, and the bill was ordered to a third reading.

Mr. Brown, from the select committee to which was committed the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to incorporate the Presbyterian church of Peekskill," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house, and the bill was ordered to a third reading.

Mr. Carrier, from the select committee to which was committed the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to authorise the commissioners for the diversion of the surplus waters of Black river, to levy a tax to effect that object," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, made an amendment thereto, and agreed to the same; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house, and the amendment was ordered to be engrossed, and the bill was ordered to a third reading.

Mr. Edgerton, from the select committee to which was committed the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act authorising Alanson B. Wright to take the name of Alanson B. Cady," and the several bills before this house to change the names of John Shields, Edmund Day and David E. Harris, respectively, reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, made sundry amendments, altered the title so as to read "An act to authorise the several persons therein named, to change their names," and agreed to the same; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house, and the bill and amendments were ordered to a third reading.

Mr. Mann, from the committee on claims, to whom was referred the petition of Esther Chace, of the town of Kirkland, reported:

That the petitioner represents that she has an equitable claim for dower in a certain lot of land sold by the commissioners of the land-office; but no evidence has been submitted to the committee, sustaining the rights of the petitioner, and they therefore submit the following resolution:

Resolved, That the petitioner have leave to withdraw her petition.

Thereupon,

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Mann, from the select committee, to whom was referred the petition of the merchants and forwarders on the Erie canal, praying for an alteration of the law in relation to preferences given to packet-boats in passing locks on the Erie canal, reported:

That they have had the subject referred to them under careful consideration, and a majority of the committee are of opinion that it is inexpedient at present to legislate in the premises, and therefore submit the following resolution:

Resolved, That the petitioners have leave to withdraw their petition.

Thereupon,

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Mann, from the committee on claims, to whom was referred the petition of John Shiland, of the county of Washington, praying to be reimbursed for a lot of land sold by the comptroller for arrears of taxes, together with the report of the commissioners of the land-office thereon, reported:

That they have diligently examined the allegations and documents of the petitioner, and are unanimously of opinion that the petitioner has no claim upon the state for relief; and they submit for consideration the following resolution:

Resolved, That the prayer of the petitioner ought not to be granted.

Thereupon,

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Mann, from the committee on claims, to whom was referred the petition of Junia Curtis, praying additional compensation for certain labor on the pump works at Salina, reported:

That the petitioner states that he performed labor on the pump works at Salina, under direction of the superintendent of said works, and that on a settlement therefor, a disagreement arose between him and said superintendent as to the quantity and value of such labor, which was finally submitted to arbitration; but he complains that the arbitrators did not allow him as much as he believes he ought to have from the state; but the committee believe otherwise, and therefore submit the following resolution for the consideration of the house:

Resolved, That the prayer of the petitioner ought not to be granted.

Thereupon,

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Dayton, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Greenwich bank for savings," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, made amendments thereto, and agreed to the same; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Austin, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Cooperstown, Schoharie and Durham turnpike road company," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, made amendments thereto, and agreed to the same; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Dickson, from the committee appointed under the 47th rule of this house, to which was referred the engrossed bill entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act extending and supplementary to certain acts providing for the indigent deaf and dumb within this state,' passed April 15th, 1825," reported the following resolution:

Resolved, That the bill entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act extending and supplementary to certain acts providing for the indigent deaf and dumb within this state,' passed April 15th, 1825." requires the assent of two-thirds of the members elected to each branch of the legislature to pass the same.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Mann, from the committee on claims, to whom was referred the petition of Zenas Barker, a revolutionary soldier, reported:

That the petitioner sets forth that he enlisted on the 6th January 1781, in the New-York state battalion, commanded by Col. Marinus Willet, and served the term for which he enlisted. There is no evidence in relation to the allegations of the petitioner: and no provision having been made for the relief of that part of the army of this state not belonging to the continental army, the committee submit the following resolution:

Resolved, That the petitioner have leave to withdraw his petition.

Thereupon,

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Mann, from the committee on claims, to whom was referred the petition of Jacob Buckdorf, of the county of Herkimer, praying for the passage of a law authorising the commissioners of the canal fund to refund certain tolls paid by him on timber used for the construction of the Erie canal, reported:

That they have examined the allegations of the petitioner, and are satisfied that he has no claim against the state, but that if he is entitled to remuneration at all, it is against the individual with whom he contracted; and therefore they submit the following resolution:

Resolved, That the prayer of the petitioner ought not to be granted.

Thereupon,

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

The engrossed bill, entitled "An act to amend section fifteen of the first chapter of the first part of the revised statutes, relative to the office of superintendent of the poor," was read the third time.

Resolved, That the bill do pass.

Mr. Mann, from the committee on claims, to whom was referred the petition of Andrew Phares, praying compensation for his improvements on lot No. 6 in in the village of Geddes, reported:

That the petitioner sets forth that he was in possession of lot No. 6, in the village of Geddes, at the time said lot was sold by the surveyor-general, and had erected thereon a barn of the value of $100; and he says, "that as the state heretofore have not been in the practice of speculating on private property," he supposes that they will not now be disposed to do so, and therefore claims to be paid for his barn.

The committee are not apprised by what right or authority the petitioner erected his barn on state lands, unless it be by that which declares public property "lawful prize;" and although the committee concur with the petitioner in the belief that the state have not been in the habit of speculating out of individuals, yet they do not discover in this instance the propriety of suffering an individual to speculate out of the state; and they submit for consideration the following resolution:

Resolved, That the petitioner have leave to withdraw his petition.

Ordered, That the said report and resolution be laid upon the table.

Mr. W. Hall, from the select committee to which was referred the memorial of Jedediah Morse, praying relief for damages sustained in consequence of having been made a plaintiff in a suit brought by the attorney-general on behalf of the people of this state, reported:

That they have had the same under consideration, and find the said Morse leased of the people of this state, a lot of land situate in the town of Burlington in the county of Otsego, and that upon attempting to take possession of the same, it was found to be in possession of a third person; whereupon the attorney-general commenced a suit in ejectment against the said occupant, making use of the name of the memorialist as a plaintiff: but the said attorney-general neglected to prosecute the same to effect, in consequence of which, judgment was entered against the said Morse for costs. The committee therefore believe that the prayer of the memorialist is reasonable, and that he ought to have relief; and they have prepared a bill, and directed their chairman to ask leave to introduce the same.

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in such bill.

Mr. W. Hall, according to leave, brought in the said bill, entitled "An act for the relief of Jedediah Morse;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and committed to a committee of the whole house.

Ordered, That the said bill, report, and the documents accompanying the same, be referred to the commissioners of the land-office.

The house then proceeded to the consideration of the amendments of the Senate to the bill entitled "An act incorporating the firemen in the city of Troy by the name of the Fire department of the city of Troy."

The said bill and amendments were read; and the amendments having been again read, Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to concur with the Senate in their amendments to the said bill, and it was determined in the affirmative, two-thirds of all the members elected to this house voting in favor thereof, as follows, to wit:

The Senate returned, by their clerk, the bill entitled "An act relative to monies in the hands of overseers of the poor;" the bill entitled "An act in relation to the salt manufacturing lots in the town of Salina, and for other purposes;" the bill entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to vest certain powers in the freeholders and inhabitants of the village of Canandaigua;'" and the engrossed bill entitled "An act incorporating the firemen of the city of Troy by the name of the Fire department of the city of Troy."

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bills to the acting Governor.

A communication from the commissioners of the land-office was read, in the words following, to wit:

The commissioners of the land-office, to whom the memorial of Jedediah Morse, the report of a committee thereon, and a bill for his relief, were referred by the Assembly, reported:

That in the year 1823, the commissioners of the land-office leased to said Morse, a farm in the town of Burlington in the county of Otsego, belonging to the people of this state; and for the purpose of putting him in possession under his lease, an action of ejectment was commenced in the fall of that year by the then attorney-general, against one Dorcas Morse. The declaration, besides a count on the demise of the people, also contained a count on the demise of said Morse, which might have been ejected on the ground of the right of possession he had acquired by the lease. The suit remained pending until near the close of the year 1828, when the defendant obtained a judgment as in case of non-suit, for not bringing the suit to trial pursuant to the course and practice of the court. There had been one trial of the suit, and a verdict for the plaintiff, which had subsequently been set aside: why the suit was not again brought to trial, the commissioners of the land-office are not informed.

In the progress of the cause, the petitioner paid some costs to the defendant, and is now liable (as one of the lessors of the plaintiff) to pay the general costs of the suit, which the defendant may collect by attachment.

Considering this act as a proceeding on behalf of the people of this state, and not a suit by the petitioner, the commissioners of the land-office are of opinion that the petitioner ought to be indemnified against the cost he has paid and is liable to pay to the defendant.

Ordered, That the said bill, together with the preceding communication, be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. W. Hall, Mr. Dana and Mr. Morell.

Nine several messages from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bills therein mentioned, were read, informing that they have passed the bill entitled "An act requiring the publication of notices in certain cases;" the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Deep Hollow branch turnpike road company;" the bill entitled "An act relative to firemen in the village of Rochester;" the bill entitled "An act to appoint commissioners to lay out a public highway from the village of Albion in the county of Orleans, to the village of Olean in the county of Cattaraugus;" the bill entitled "An act relative to the bridge across the outlet of Long lake in Saratoga county;" the bill entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to incorporate the village of Oswego;'" the bill entitled "An act to extend the time for completing the Newtown turnpike road;" the bill entitled "An act concerning school districts number two and five in the town of Kinderhook;" and the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Salina and Port Watson rail-road company," severally without amendment.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bills to the acting Governor.

And then the house adjourned until four o'clock this afternoon.

Ordered, That the said resolutions be laid upon the table.

And then the house adjourned until four o'clock this afternoon.

4 O'CLOCK P. M.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

Mr. Edgerton offered for the consideration of the house, a resolution, in the words following, to wit:

Resolved, That this house do reconsider its vote on the final passage of the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Farmers' and Manufacturers' Bank of the city of Hudson."

Ordered, That the said resolution be laid upon the table.

Mr. C. L. Livingston offered for the consideration of the house, a resolution, in the words following, to wit;

Resolved, That this house do reconsider its vote on the final passage of the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the president, directors and company of the Oswego Bank."

Ordered, That the said resolution be laid upon the table.

Mr. Morell offered for the consideration of the house, two several resolutions, in the words following, to wit:

Resolved, (if the Hon. Senate concur,) That the canal commissioners cause examinations, surveys and estimates, to be made of the most eligible manner of opening a navigable communication from Otsego lake in the county of Otsego, through the valleys of the Susquehannah and Chemung rivers, to the Chimney narrows in the county of Steuben; and also of connecting the Otsego lake with the Erie canal at or near Fort Plain, either by a canal or rail-road: And that the canal commissioners report on the above to the next legislature.

Resolved, That the expenses of this survey be paid by the treasurer, on the warrant of the comptroller, out of any money not otherwise appropriated, on the certificate of the canal commissioners under whose direction it shall be performed.

Ordered, That the said resolutions be laid upon the table.

A message from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bill, amendments and copies of the resolutions therein mentioned, was read, informing that they have concurred with this house in certain of its amendments to the bill entitled "An act authorising Alanson B. Wright to take the name of Alanson B. Cady," and have non-concurred in others of the said amendments.

Thereupon,

Resolved, That this house do recede from its amendments to the said bill, non-concurred in by the Senate.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bill and amendments, together with a copy of the preceding resolution, to the Senate.

The house then proceeded to the consideration of the amendments of the Senate to the bill entitled "An act making further appropriations to complete the Cayuga and Seneca canal."

The said bill and amendments were read; and the amendments having been again read, were concurred in by the house, and the bill amended accordingly.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bill to the Senate, and inform them that this house have concurred with them in their amendments to the said bill, and have amended the same accordingly.

A copy of a resolution of the Senate, delivered by their clerk, was read, informing that they have concurred with this house in its resolution of the 15th instant, fixing upon Tuesday the 5th of May next, for the adjournment of the legislature.

A copy of a resolution of the Senate, delivered by their clerk, was read, in the words following, to wit:

Resolved, (if the Assembly concur,) That the canal commissioners be requested to cause a survey and estimate to be made, 1st, Of constructing a side-cut and aqueduct from the Erie canal, over the Mohawk river, near the village of Amsterdam, with a commodious basin on the north side of said river, on the level of said canal; and, 2d, Of constructing a dam on the said river, between the villages of Amsterdam and Cranesville, with a navigable feeder connecting it with the said canal, at or immediately below Phillips' locks in the town of Florida in the county of Montgomery: Said commissioners shall report to the legislature, as early as may be at its next session, such surveys and estimates; together with the relative advantages and disadvantages of such improvements to the canal revenue, and extent of accommodation to the country adjacent.

Ordered, That the said resolution be laid upon the table.

Two several messages from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bills and amendments therein mentioned, were read, informing that they have passed the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Scottsville canal company," and the bill entitled "An act to amend the act entitled 'An act to incorporate the Rochester high school in the county of Monroe,' passed March 15th, 1827," with the amendments to the said bills therewith delivered.

The said bills and amendments were read,

Ordered, That the same be laid upon the table.

Two several messages from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bills therein mentioned, were read, informing that they have passed the bill entitled "An act relating to the militia and the public defence in the county of Kings," and the bill entitled "An act further to provide for the improvement of the navigation of Hudson river;" in which bills they request the concurrence of this house.

The said bills were severally read the first time, and by unanimous consent were also read a second time, and the bill entitled "An act relating to the militia and the public defence in the county of Kings," was referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Brinkerhoff, Mr. Wyckoff and Mr. Allison; and the bill entitled "An act further to provide for the improvement of the navigation of Hudson river," was referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Johnson, Mr. Armstrong and Mr. Starr, severally to consider and report thereon.

Three several messages from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bills and amendments therein mentioned, were read, informing that they have passed the bill entitled "An act to appoint commissioners to lay out a road across the Onondaga Indian reservation;" the bill entitled "An act to erect the town of Arkwright in the county of Chautauque," and the bill entitled "An act to provide for the apportionment of school money in the city of Schenectady," severally with the amendments therewith delivered.

The said bills and amendments were severally read; and the amendments having been again read and concurred in,

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bills and amendments to the Senate, and inform them that this house have concurred with them in their amendments to the said bills, and have amended the same accordingly.

Five several messages from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bills therein mentioned, were read, informing that they have passed the bill entitled "An act in relation to the commissioners of highways of the town of Watertown in the county of Jefferson;" the bill entitled "An act amending an act passed April 15th, 1824, authorising John Low and others to erect a dam across the Susquehannah river;" the bill entitled "An act concerning standard measures of capacity;" the bill entitled "An act for the relief of Mary Ann Byrne, Margaret Byrne, John Byrne and Peter Charles Byrne, infants;" and the bill entitled "An act to authorise the overseers of the poor of the town of Pierpont in St. Lawrence county, to pay certain monies to the commissioners of common schools of said town," severally without amendment.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bills to the acting Governor.

A message from the acting Governor, delivered by his private secretary, was read, in the words following, to wit:

TO THE ASSEMBLY.

GENTLEMEN,

I have this day approved and signed the following bills:

"An act relative to firemen in the village of Rochester."

"An act incorporating the firemen of the city of Troy, by the name of the Fire department of the city of Troy."

"An act concerning school districts number two and five in the town of Kinderhook."

"An act relative to the bridge across the outlet of Long lake in Saratoga county."

"An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to incorporate the village of Oswego.'"

"An act to extend the time for completing the Newtown turnpike road."

"An act relative to monies in the hands of overseers of the poor."

"An act to incorporate the Deep Hollow branch turnpike road company."

"An act to appoint commissioners to lay out a public highway from the village of Albion in the county of Orleans, to the village of Olean in the county of Cattaraugus."

"An act requiring the publication of notices in certain cases."

"An act to incorporate the Salina and Port Watson rail-road company."

"An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to vest certain powers in the freeholders and inhabitants of the village of Canandaigua.'"

"An act in relation to the salt manufacturing lots in the town of Salina, and for other purposes."

E. T. THROOP.

Albany, April 27, 1829.

The house then resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the bill entitled "An act to loan the credit of the state to the president, managers and company of the Delaware and Hudson canal company;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Burt, from the said committee, reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, made amendments thereto, and agreed to the same; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read.

Thereupon,

Ordered, That the report of the committee of the whole be laid upon the table.

The house then resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to incorporate Manhattan college;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Burt, from the said committee, reported progress, and asked for and obtained leave to sit again.

And then the House adjourned until nine o'clock to-morrow morning.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 29, 1829.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

The petition of sundry inhabitants of the county of Greene, praying for the repeal of the law prohibiting persons other than licensed lawyers to appear in justices' courts as counsellors, was read, and referred to the committee on the judiciary.

Mr. Johnson, from the select committee to which was committed the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act further to provide for the improvement of the navigation of Hudson river," reported, that they have examined the said bill, and see no reason why the same should not be passed into a law.

Ordered, That the said bill be committed to a committee of the whole house.

Mr. Mandeville, from the select committee to which was referred the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to revive and amend the act entitled 'An act to authorise the building of a toll-bridge over the Hudson river,' passed April 2d, 1825," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house, and the bill was ordered to a third reading.

Mr. Hazeltine, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act to divide the town of Ellington in the county of Chautauque," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, made an amendment thereto, and agreed to the same; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. J. Van Beuren, from the select committee to which was referred the engrossed bill entitled "An act to incorporate the president, directors and company of the Anthracite foundry," reported:

That the bill contains the following section: "The said corporation shall have full power to carry on the business of manufacturing from fossil substances." The committee would ask, does this mean digging out of the earth mammoth bones or subjects for dissections, minerals, coals, or ore? It is rather obscure and metaphysical, and totally beyond the comprehension of the committee. It may be another Manhattan bank charter, for the bill is perpetual. Part of another section runs as follows: "Provided such real estate so to be holden, shall be such only as is now owned by the said company, or such as shall by purchase be conveyed to it." This, the committee think, authorises the corporation to operate to any extent whatever in real estate. Another feature also alarms the committee, to wit: "The directors for the time being shall have power to make such by-laws, rules and regulations, as shall appear needful and proper, touching the duties of the officers, artificers, and servants by them employed, and all such matters as appertain to the concerns of the corporation." If this last clause be not granting almost unlimited powers, then the committee confess they do not understand the force of words or language.

The committee recommend that the further consideration of the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the president, directors and company of the Anthracite foundry," be postponed to the same day with the bill relative to escheats, to wit, the fourth day of July next.

Thereupon,

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree with the committee in their said report, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. Skinner gave notice that he would hereafter ask leave to introduce a bill to amend the act entitled "An act concerning school districts number two and five in the town of Kinderhook."

Thereupon,

By unanimous consent, and in pursuance of previous notice, Mr. Skinner asked for and obtained leave to bring in a bill entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act concerning school districts number two and five in the town of Kinderhook;'" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and ordered to be engrossed for a third reading.

Ordered, That Mr. Scott have leave of absence for four days.

Ordered, That the committee of the whole be discharged from the further consideration of the bill entitled "An act for the relief of Seth Wetmore, in relation to his purchase of certain lands of this state, and for other purposes;" and that the same be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Randall, Mr. Mann and Mr. Mathews, to consider and report thereon.

The house then proceeded to the consideration of the resolutions heretofore offered by Mr. Morell; the same being amended by striking out the second and last of the said resolutions, was again read, in the words following, to wit:

Resolved, (if the Senate concur,) That the canal commissioners cause examinations, surveys and estimates, to be made of the most eligible manner of opening a navigable communication from Otsego lake in the county of Otsego, through the valleys of the Susquehannah and Chemung rivers, to the Chimney narrows in the county of Steuben; and also of connecting the Otsego lake with the Erie canal at or near Fort Plain, either by a canal or rail-road: And that the canal commissioners report on the above to the next legislature.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said resolution, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Mr. Randall, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act for the relief of Seth Wetmore, in relation to his purchase of certain lands of this state, and for other purposes," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, altered the title so as to read "An act for the relief of Seth Wetmore," and agreed to the same; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

Ordered, That the committee of the whole be discharged from the further consideration of the bill entitled "An act authorising the choice of commissioners of deeds in the several towns of the state, at their annual town meetings;" and that the same be referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Spier, Mr. Mann and Mr Edgerton, to consider and report thereon.

Ordered, That the bill entitled "An act for the relief of Andrew P. Tillman," be referred to the committee of the whole, when on the bill to incorporate Manhattan college.

Ordered, That the bill entitled "An act to extend the charter of the Rensselaer bridge company," be referred to the committee of the whole, when on the bill to incorporate Manhattan college.

Ordered, That the bill entitled "An act authorising the canal commissioners to reduce the waters of the Seneca lake," be referred to the committee of the whole, when on the bill to incorporate Manhattan college.

Ordered, That Mr. Eldridge and Mr. Sill have leave of absence for the remainder of the session, and Mr. Fowler for one day.

The house then proceeded to the consideration of the resolution of the Senate as entered on the journal of Tuesday last; the same being amended, was read, in the words following, to wit:

Resolved, (if the Assembly concur,) That the canal commissioners be requested to cause a survey and estimate to be made, 1st, Of constructing a side-cut and aqueduct from the Erie canal, over the Mohawk river, near the village of Amsterdam, with a commodious basin on the north side of said river, on the level of said canal; and, 2d, Of constructing a dam on the said river, between the villages of Amsterdam and Cranesville, with a navigable feeder connecting it with the said canal, at or immediately below Phillips' locks in the town of Florida in the county of Montgomery: Said commissioners shall report to the legislature, as early as may be at its next session, such surveys and estimates; together with the relative advantages and disadvantages of such improvements to the canal revenue, and extent of accommodation to the country adjacent: And the said commissioners shall also cause to be surveyed, the route of a canal, or canal and slack water navigation, from the Canandaigua lake, to the most convenient point on the Erie canal; and report to the next legislature such survey, and an estimate of the expense of constructing such canal or canal and slack water navigation: Also a canal route from Plattsburgh in the county of Clinton, to Ogdensburgh in the county of St. Lawrence; and that they report to the next legislature their survey and estimates in a detailed form: And shall also cause a survey to be made of the Mohawk river from Schenectady to Utica, and also of the route of a canal on the north side of said river; and to report to the next legislature the surveys and estimates of expense of constructing a slack water navigation in said river, and of a canal on the north side thereof.

Thereupon,

Mr. White made a motion that the house should agree to reconsider its vote on adopting that part of the said resolution relating to the navigation from Canandaigua lake to the Erie canal, in the words following, to wit:

"And the said commissioners shall also cause to be surveyed, the route of a canal, or canal and slack water navigation, from the Canandaigua lake, to the most convenient point on the Erie canal; and report to the next legislature such survey, and an estimate of the expense of constructing such canal or canal and slack water navigation."

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said motion, and it was determined in the negative.

Albany, April 30, 1829.

A copy of a resolution of the Senate, delivered by their clerk, was read, in the words following, to wit:

Resolved, (if the Assembly concur,) That the hour for the adjournment of the Legislature on Tuesday next, be twelve o'clock at noon.

Thereupon,

Resolved, That this house do concur with the Senate in their said resolution.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver a copy of the preceding resolution of concurrence to the Senate.

And then the house adjourned until four o'clock this afternoon.

4 O'CLOCK P. M.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

The house then again resolved itself into a committee of the whole, on the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to incorporate Manhattan college;" and after some time spent thereon, Mr. Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Burt, from the said committee, reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read.

Thereupon,

Mr. Mann made a motion that the house should agree to amend the said report, by striking out of the third section all after the word "of" in the second line, and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "thirteen trustees to be appointed by the regents of the university, in the same manner as by law trustees are appointed in the medical colleges of this state."

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the said motion of Mr. Mann, and it was determined in the negative.

And then the House adjourned until nine o'clock to-morrow morning.

FRIDAY, MAY 1, 1829.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

Mr. Bogert, from the select committee to which was referred the bill to incorporate the New-York sacred music society, and the communication from his excellency the acting Governor, respecting the said bill, reported:

That the committee having examined the bill, find that the words "of the eighteenth chapter," should be inserted after the word "title" in the third line of the seventh section of the bill. The committee therefore recommend that this informal amendment be made in the bill.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree with the committee in their said report, and it was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bill, together with a copy of the preceding report, to the Senate.

Sundry documents relative to the bill for the payment of certain officers of government, were read, and referred to a committee of the whole when on the bill upon that subject.

Mr. Spier, from the select committee to which was committed the bill entitled "An act authorising the choice of commissioners of deeds in the several towns of this state, at their annual town meetings," reported, that the committee had gone through the said bill, and agreed to the same without amendment; which he was directed to report to the house, and he read the report in his place, and delivered the same in at the table, where it was again read, and agreed to by the house.

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed.

A communication from John Dobson, an inspector of leather for the county of Erie, was read, in the words following, to wit:

To the Honorable the Legislature of the State of New-York:

The report of John Dobson, an inspector of sole leather in and for the county of Erie, made the first day of February, A. D. 1829, sheweth:

That during the year ending on the first day of January, 1829, there were eight hundred and forty sides of sole leather inspected by him, amounting to about thirteen thousand four hundred and forty pounds, some part of which was of the best, and all of a good quality, worth about twenty-five cents per pound; making the value of the leather so inspected, three thousand three hundred and sixty dollars: That his fees thereon are about thirty-three dollars and sixty cents, at the rate of four cents per side.

And this report further sheweth, that there has been, during the last year, and still continues to be, an increase in the quantity as well as improvement in the quality of the sole leather manufactured in this county, and that the trade in this article is in altogether a flourishing condition.

All which is respectfully submitted.

JOHN DOBSON, Inspector of Leather
in and for the county of Erie.

Ordered, That the said report be laid upon the table.

The engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act to incorporate Manhattan college," was read the third time.

Mr. Speaker put the question whether the house would agree to the final passage of the said bill, and it was determined in the negative, there not being two-thirds of all the members elected to this house voting in favor thereof.

By unanimous consent, and in pursuance of previous notice, Mr. Hubbell asked for and obtained leave to bring in a bill entitled "An act relative to the salary of the bank commissioners;" which was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and by unanimous consent ordered to be engrossed for a third reading.

On motion of Mr. Burt,

Resolved, That the committee on the establishment and improvement of roads and bridges, and the incorporation of turnpike companies, be discharged from the further consideration of the report of John Richards and Nathan Shearman, commissioners appointed to lay out and open a road from Cedar Point, westward; and that the map and field notes accompanying the same, be deposited in the Surveyor-General's office.

Mr. Burt made a motion that the house should agree to reconsider its vote on agreeing with the report of the committee of the whole on the bill entitled "An act for the relief of Andrew P. Tillman."

A message from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bill therein mentioned, was read, informing that they have passed the bill entitled "An act concerning the debt due to the people of this state from the president, directors and company of the Bank of Niagara;" in which bill they request the concurrence of this house.

The said bill was read the first time, and by unanimous consent was also read a second time, and referred to a select committee, consisting of Mr. Paige, Mr. Dayton and Mr. Tower, to consider and report thereon.

A message from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bill and a copy of the resolution therein mentioned, was read, informing that they have rejected the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the president, directors and company of the Onondaga County Bank."

A message from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bill and a copy of the resolution therein mentioned, was read, informing that they have concurred with this house in its resolution of this day, appointing a committee of conference on the amendments of this house to the bill entitled "An act to prevent hawking and peddling in the city of New-York," and have appointed Mr. S. Allen, Mr. Benton and Mr. Viele of the said committee on the part of the Senate.

A message from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bill and amendments therein mentioned, was read, informing that they have passed the bill entitled "An act to erect a new town from parts of the towns of Allen and Almond in the county of Allegany," with the amendments therewith delivered.

The said bill and amendments were read; and the amendments having been again read and concurred in,

Ordered, That the clerk return the said bill to the Senate, and inform them that this house have concurred with them in their amendments to the said bill, and have amended the same accordingly.

Two several messages from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bills therein mentioned, were read, informing that they have passed the bill entitled "An act to loan the credit of the state to the president, managers and company of the Delaware and Hudson canal company," and the bill entitled "An act to confirm the election and designation of the justices of the peace in the towns of Waterloo, Junius, Seneca Falls and Tyre, in the county of Seneca," severally without amendment.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bills to the acting Governor.

The Senate returned by their clerk, the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the president, directors and company of the Canal Bank of Albany;" the bill entitled "An act for the relief of the widow and children of James Usher;" the bill entitled "An act relative to the office of superintendent of the poor;" and the bill entitled "An act further to extend the time of payment of a loan made to Daniel Johnson."

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bills to the acting Governor.

A copy of a resolution of the Senate, delivered by their clerk, was read, informing that they have concurred with this house in its resolution of the 23d April, appointing a committee to examine the accounts and vouchers of the Treasurer of this state, and that Mr. S. Allen is of the said committee on the part of the Senate.

A message from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bill and amendments therein mentioned, was read, informing that they have passed the bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Clinton insurance company," with the amendments therewith delivered.

Ordered, That the said bill and amendments be laid upon the table.

Mr. Paige, from the select committee to which was referred the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act concerning the debt due to the people of this state from the president, directors and company of the Bank of Niagara," reported, that the committee had examined the said bill, agreed thereto, and had directed their chairman to recommend that the same be ordered to a third reading.

Thereupon,

By unanimous consent of the house, the said bill was ordered to a third reading.

A message from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bill and amendment therein mentioned, was read, informing that they have passed the bill entitled "An act to amend so much of the first part of the revised statutes of this state as relates to the division line between the towns of Fallsburgh and Neversink in the county of Sullivan," with the amendment therewith delivered; the said amendment being to alter the title to "An act relative to the division line between the towns of Fallsburgh and Neversink in the county of Sullivan."

The said bill and amendment were read; and the amendment having been again read, was concurred in by the house, and the bill amended accordingly.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bill and amendment to the Senate, and inform them that this house have concurred with them in their amendment to the said bill, and have amended the same accordingly.

The house then proceeded to the consideration of the report of the committee of the whole, on the bill from the Senate, entitled "An act respecting the salaries of certain judicial officers."

The said report having been amended by the house, was read, in the words following, to wit:

§ 1. There shall be allowed to the officers hereinafter named, the following annual salaries, that is to say:

1. To the chancellor, the sum of two thousand five hundred dollars:

2. To each of the justices of the supreme court, the sum of two thousand two hundred and fifty dollars:

3. To each of the circuit judges, the sum of one thousand five hundred dollars:

4. To the register and assistant register of the court of chancery, each the sum of two thousand dollars, and the sum of one thousand dollars annually for clerk hire.

§ 2. Such salaries respectively shall commence from the first day of July next, and shall be paid by the treasurer, on the warrant of the comptroller, quarterly thereafter; which shall be instead of all salaries and compensation as now provided for by law, except the fees given to circuit judges by law.

§ 3. The register and assistant register of the court of chancery, shall, after the first day of July next, keep an accurate account of all sums of money by them received for fees, and exhibit a detailed statement thereof on oath, and of their necessary disbursements for stationary, quarterly, to the comptroller.

§ 4. The said register and assistant register shall, once in three months, pay over to the treasurer of this state, all sums by them received for fees in their respective offices.

§ 5. The treasurer shall pay, quarterly, on the warrant of the comptroller, such sums as shall have been expended by the register and assistant register for stationary.

§ 6. The fees and perquisites of the register and assistant register, allowed by law, after the first day of July next, shall belong to the people of this state.

Debates were had thereon; and the question being put whether the house would agree with the committee of the whole in their said report, and it was determined in the negative.

Resolved, (if the Assembly concur,) That all proceedings relative to the sale of lands in the tract commonly called Coxe's patent, supposed to be forfeited by the attainder of John Taber Kempe, be suspended until after the next session of the legislature.

Thereupon,

Resolved, That this house do concur with the Senate in their said resolution.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver a copy of the preceding resolution of concurrence to the Senate.

A copy of a resolution of the Senate, delivered by their clerk, was read, informing that the Senate have receded from their amendment to the resolution relative to the survey of a route for a canal or rail-road from the Otsego lake to Fort-Plain, and for the improvement of the navigation of the Susquehannah and Chemung rivers, and have concurred in the said resolution.

The house then proceeded to the consideration of the report of the committee of the whole on the engrossed bill from the Senate, entitled "An act respecting the salaries and compensation of certain public officers;" the said report being that the committee had disagreed to the said bill.

Thereupon,

The report of the committee of the whole being amended,

Mr. Skinner made a motion that the house should agree further to amend the said report, by inserting a clause in the words following, to wit:

"There shall annually be paid to the superintendent of common schools, the sum of two hundred and fifty dollars in addition to his compensation as secretary of state and superintendent."

Debates were had upon the said motion; and the question being put whether the house would agree thereto, it was determined in the affirmative.

A message from the Senate, delivered by their clerk, with the bill and amendments therein mentioned, was read, informing that they have passed the bill entitled "An act for the payment of certain officers and expenses of government," with the amendments therewith delivered.

The said bill and amendments were read; and the amendments having been again read, were concurred in.

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bill to the Senate, and inform them that this house have concurred with them in their amendments to the said bill, and have amended the same accordingly.

The Senate returned by their clerk, the bill entitled "An act for the payment of certain officers and expenses of government."

Ordered, That the clerk deliver the said bill to the acting Governor.

Ordered, That Mr. Johnson and Mr. Burt wait upon the acting Governor, and inform him that unless he has some further business to lay before the Legislature, this house is ready to adjourn.

Ordered, That Mr. Skinner and Mr. Edgerton be a committee to wait upon the Senate, and inform them that this house is ready to adjourn.

Mr. Johnson reported, that pursuant to the order of the house, Mr. Burt and himself had waited upon the acting Governor, and informed him that unless he had some further business to lay before the Legislature, this house was ready to adjourn; and that the acting Governor had been pleased to say, that as soon as he had signed the bill for the payment of certain officers and expenses of government, he should have no further communication to make to the Legislature.

Mr. Skinner reported, that pursuant to the order of the house, Mr. Edgerton and himself had waited upon the Senate, and informed them that this house was ready to adjourn.

A message from the acting Governor, delivered by his private secretary, was read, in the words following, to wit:

TO THE ASSEMBLY.

GENTLEMEN,

I have this day approved and signed the bill entitled "An act for the payment of certain officers and expenses of government."

E. T. THROOP.

Albany, May 5, 1829.

On motion of Mr. Johnson,

Resolved unanimously, That the thanks of this house be presented to the Hon. PETER ROBINSON, for the able, impartial, and dignified manner in which he has presided over its deliberations, and discharged the various and arduous duties of Speaker during the present session.

Thereupon,

His Honor the Speaker made the following reply:

GENTLEMEN,

The uniform kindness and courtesy which you have shown me whilst discharging the duties of the chair during the present session, have made an impression upon my heart which time can never efface. I entered upon the discharge of these duties with the greatest diffidence; and it is only by your assistance and support, that I have been enabled to discharge them in any manner to your satisfaction. The resolution you have just adopted, assures me, that whatever may have been my errors, they are remembered no more, and that we part with feelings of mutual esteem and good will In the warmest language of the heart, I thank you for the distinguished favors conferred upon me, and pray you to accept my best wishes for your health, happiness, and prosperity.

A message from the Senate, delivered by Mr. Viele and Mr. Todd, was received, informing that the Senate were ready to adjourn.

Thereupon,

Mr. Speaker adjourned the House sine die.

FRANCIS SEGER,

Clerk.

Documents relative to the Chenango Canal.

(SEE JOURNAL, PAGE 120.)

REPORT OF N. S. ROBERTS.

MADISON, September 17, 1828.

To Reuben Tower, Fortune C. White and Apollus Cooper, of the County of Oneida; Moses Maynard and Rufus Bacon, of Madison; Smith M. Purdy, Henry Mitchell and Ira Wilcox, of Chenango; and Ammi Doubleday and Hazard Lewis, of Broome, the Committee of the Chenango Canal.

GENTLEMEN,

Having been engaged by you to ascertain the practicability of forming an inland navigation for the accommodation of an extensive portion of country, situated along and adjacent to the vallies of the Oriskany creek and the Chenango river, connecting the Erie canal at or near the village of Whitesborough or Utica in the county of Oneida, to the "wide spread branches of the Susquehannah river," at the village of Binghamton in the county of Broome. The country through which this canal would pass, and adjacent thereto, which would be accommodated by it, is extensive, fertile and rich; and its population dense, industrious and enterprising, though in a great measure deprived of an equal communication with the great commercial highway of the state. That such a communication is very feasible by the proposed route of the Chenango canal, in point of expense, has been admitted by all competent engineers who have examined the ground. The only doubt on the subject has been, whether a sufficient supply of water could be obtained for the supply of the summit of said canal, and the expense of obtaining the same.

With the view of determining this question, I have examined all the streams, ponds and lakes on said summit, with their sources of supply, their relative situation, and the area or surface of country from which the water to supply said summit may be drawn; and after the fullest consideration, I am satisfied that the supply of water for the use of said canal, which may at all times be commanded, will not only be ample, but very abundant; and this without any resort to the use of the waters of the Oriskany or Saquoit, on the route north to the Erie canal. And it may not be improper here to remark, that considerable additional quantities of water will be added to those creeks by filtration, and by passing over the waste-weirs necessary for the safety of the canal.

The positive and permanent supply of water, will be derived from the three branches of the Chenango river, a reservoir on Leland's ponds and Madison pond. The contingent and secondary supply, if ever required, may be derived from a feeder out of Oneida creek, put into the head of Leland's pond reservoir. Hatch's pond, a reservoir of 1000 acres on the west branch of Chenango, above Morrisville, and another of 1,774 acres, can, with a small comparative expense, be made on the east branch.

While the survey of the Leland pond reservoir was going on, under the care of Messrs. Jones and M'Call, I guaged the streams or branches of the Chenango, and found them, at the dates mentioned, and at the usual summer drought, as follows, viz:

July 21, 1827.	The outlet of Leland's pond below Johnsville brook, or middle branch of the Chenango, per minute, cubic feet,	1222
Aug. 1, 1827.	West branch, above Ladd's mills, ...	933
" "	Bradley brook, being a part of the west branch, ...	78
2, "	East branch above Dunbar's mills,.....	421
	Running water amounting to, per minute, cubic feet, ..	2654

The survey of the Leland pond reservoir was commenced on the 25th July, and was found to contain 562 acres. This can be raised fourteen feet above the apron of Leland's saw-mill, or twenty feet above the bottom of the canal, and adjoining it, and drawn down, besides the loss by evaporation, ten feet, equal to 252,288,000 cubic feet of water; this is equal to 1460 cubic feet of water per minute for four months. To ensure a copious supply of water to this reservoir, the feeder from the west branch is so located as to deliver all its water through it; and the Oneida creek feeder, if made, will be put into its head. It will readily be seen, that if drawn upon in the course of the season, after being filled by spring freshets, that by this arrangement occasional showers and rain will be by this reservoir saved to be used as required. To this add the water which may be drawn from Madison pond. This was surveyed, and found to contain 74 acres. It is a body of water without much apparent inlet or outlet—is situated near the line of the canal. The natural surface of this pond is 18.13 feet above the bottom of the canal; a short cut through a bank will give this water to the canal. The surrounding banks to this pond are abrupt, and 25 to 30 feet higher than its surface. A feeder of two miles long, from White's brook, can be introduced, which will fill it; so that 20 feet at least in depth may be drawn from this 74 acres, besides evaporation, &c.; which will produce 373 cubic feet per minute for four months.

Recapitulation.

The three branches of the Chenango river, ...	2654
Leland pond reservoir, ...	1460
Madison pond, ...	373
Per minute, cubic feet, ...	4487

This quantity to be at all times contiguous to the canal. The contingent or secondary supply, if ever wanted for either the canal or hydraulic purrposes, may be made to produce as much as the permanent.

The two reservoirs are very remarkable as respects their size, cheapness of construction, and certainty of being filled in the winter and spring. About $\frac{1}{2}$ mile above Morrisville, the high banks on the west branch approach within 200 feet of each other. A dam of this length, 30 feet high, will flow 1147 acres; the levels and surveys were made at 20 feet high, which will flow about 1000 acres, extending 3 miles in length, and about 180 rods on an average, in width; flowing a swamp which is so level, that some small ponds were found at the upper end only ninety feet above the surface of the stream where the dam is to be made. Say draw 10 feet from 800 acres, allowing overplus for loss by evaporation, soakage, &c., equal to 348,480,000 cubic feet of water; this is equal to 2016 feet of cubic water per minute for four months. This reservoir on the west branch, would be very valuable for hydraulic purposes, as there is 125 feet fall in the stream, besides the height of the reservoir. calculated at 20 feet between the reservoir and the entrance of the feeder, a distance of 6 miles. This would add very much to the utility of the present mills and factories on the stream, and form a number of new and valuable sites for other hydraulic purposes.

The dam, to make the great swamp or eastern branch reservoir, will be 2 miles, 71 chains and 13 links up from the termination of the east branch feeder. The surface of the stream at this point, is $44\frac{06}{100}$ feet above the bottom of the canal. The hills at this place approach each other so that a dam 20 feet high, will be only 308 feet long at its top line. This will flow 1774 acres, in an extent of five miles in length, and an average of about 200 rods in width. Say draw 10 feet from 1400 acres, allowing overplus for evaporation, &c., equal to 609,840,000 cubic feet of water; this is 3528 cubic feet of water per minute for four months.

Hatch's pond is a beautiful sheet of water, situated in the southeast corner of the town of Eaton—elevated at least 200 feet above the summit level. The shores of this pond are bold and its waters limpid. The survey shows 140 acres. By a cut 50 rods in length, greatest depth 28 feet, 10 feet from the present level of the pond can be drawn; 6 to 10 feet more can be raised by a dam at the outlet: Say draw 10 feet from 140 acres, will give 60,984,000 cubic feet of water. This is 352 cubic feet per minute for 4 months.

The Oneida creek can be turned into Leland's pond. This stream guaged on the 15th Aug. 1827, below Gray's saw-mill, 300 feet of running water per minute. The survey shows the feeder to be 6 miles 30 chains long.

Recapitulation.

Total cubic feet per minute,....	10683

I have ascertained the area or surface of country from which the upper branches and ponds of the Chenango receive their supply of water, and from which the supply of the summit level will be drawn, viz:

$\frac{5}{6}$	Madison, "	30	"
$\frac{5}{6}$	Eaton, "	30	"
$\frac{1}{4}$	Smithfield, "	9	"
$\frac{1}{2}$	Nelson, "	18	"
$\frac{1}{4}$	Lebanon, "	9	"
$\frac{2}{3}$	Hamilton, "	24	"
$\frac{1}{4}$	Brookfield, (large town,)	18	"

amounting to an area of 156 square miles; and this area would be increased to 200 square miles, if the Oneida creek was drawn to the summit. It will be noticed, on reviewing the report of Judge Geddes on the several routes surveyed by him from across the Mohawk valley to that of the Susquehannah, that this summit is lower by 60 to 70 feet than any other east of the Cayuga lake. Nature has apparently cut down the high ridge, extending east and west, at this point; so that a water navigation can easily be constructed through this gap or valley; and the streams are so disposed, that a copious supply of water can be commanded with but comparatively small expense.

With respect to the quantity of water which a canal requires, various calculations and opinions have been presented to the public. The scientific reports of the United States engineers, have stated that an average of five canals, the best in France, the water required per minute for each mile, is $46\frac{78}{100}$ cubic feet:

and in the same report it is stated that on 141 miles of the Erie canal, each mile required for filtration, evaporation and lockage, at the rate of 121 cubic feet of water per minute. It has recently been ascertained by Dr. Whippo, engineer, (see his report on Tonawanda canal, page 5,) "that 5400 cubic feet of water per minute passed a given point on the Erie canal, between Lockport and Rochester, and that this supplies 123 miles of canal from Lockport to the Cayuga marshes, including 126 feet of lockage. This is 45 cubic feet of water per minute on each mile." The canal on the above distance, is constructed on every variety of ground, from impervious loam and clay to porous gravel, but principally of sandy loam, which the sediment and self-puddling operation of canal water had in so short a time rendered almost perfectly tight. When the Erie canal (middle section) was first made, but little pains was taken to preserve water, and great quantities were drawn for the use of mills, besides what passed through porous banks and newly opened ground, as well as evaporation. Under such circumstances, the first estimates were made.

M. J. Sganzin, a French engineer, says, in his work on canals, (which see at page 147,) that "the quantity of water required for the summit level of a canal, is composed of several parts. First. The quantity lost by evaporation: by experiment this has been fixed as equal to a stratum of water about 34 inches thick, per year. The second is the expense by filtration. This, in common earth, is valued at half the evaporation. Inspector-General Ducros observes that this is not enough, and fixes it at one and a half the evaporation.

"This rule may generally be followed in common soils; but it is greatly augmented in sandy soils. An instance may be cited; the loss at the Narbonne canal, some time after its construction, was $\frac{1}{18}$ of the whole quantity of water in the canal in 24 hours. This expense, however, continued to decrease, and finally ceased." The expenditure on a canal of the dimensions of the Erie canal, of one-eighteenth part of its water in 24 hours, would be 28 cubic feet per minute per mile. The evaporation of a stratum of water 34 inches in thickness on the Erie canal would be less than 2 cubic feet per minute on each mile, and allowing for this only six months in the year. The extreme consumption then allowable by this author, for filtration and evaporation, is 30 cubic feet per minute per mile.

Major Douglass, in his report to the Pennsylvania canal commissioners on the quantity of water consumed by a canal, (page 8 of his report,) says, "on the New-York canals it was observed, during the first years of their construction, that the expenditure for evaporation and filtration, amounted to upwards of 100 cubic feet per mile per minute; but as the supply of water was very abundant, it is presumed the canal was not as carefully puddled as it might have been: when this is done, the expense of water attributable to these causes, may be reduced to half that amount, and probably to as little as one-fourth, after a sufficient time has been allowed for the banks to settle."

The Major in his calculations in the above mentioned report, has computed 50 cubic feet per minute per mile for filtration and evaporation, besides lockage. Relying upon these calculations as the best which at present can be afforded, and believing them to have been made with a strict adherence to facts, and as they agree with my own observations and opinions, I cannot persuade myself to differ materially from them. Take then the position of Major Douglass, which is the extreme on the safe side. The distance from the Erie canal at Whitesboro', along the line of the Chenango, passing over the summit south to lock No. 9, in the town of Sherburne, below which is the first feeder from the main Chenango river, is 37 miles, 47 chains, to Handsome Brook, a considerable feeder coming in from the east in the town of Sherburne, is 38 miles, 30 chains; to the village of Sherburne, is 39 miles, 26 chains; but allow 40 miles of canal to be supplied from the summit. Take the water that is found running in the three branches of the Chenango, and which very naturally come to this summit as feeders, amounting to 2,654 cubic feet. 50 cubic feet per minute per mile, for 40 miles, will give.....cubic ft. 2,000

Allow 20 boats to pass over the summit per day, on an average, and each boat to draw two locks of water of 8 feet lift, or per minute, 300

2,300
Leaving a balance of water in the feeders and on the summit, ... 354

Cubic ft. 2,654

Sufficient to pass 20 additional, or 40boats per day.

The calculation of water to fill locks to pass boats is perhaps a safe one, yet it may be observed that the water to supply evaporation and filtration below the summit, which in this case embraces 22 miles of canal, will necessarily be that with which boats pass up and down, provided the business of the canal is sufficient to give the necessary supply, if not, it must be passed round the locks.

If we go on in further calculation, and suppose the reservoir on Leland's pond to be made, and the feeders brought into it according to the plan, and for reasons before mentioned, I would strongly recommend, and when completed, will, in my opinion, afford an ample supply of water at all time.

Then we may calculate from the reservoir, per minute,..... 1,460
Madison pond,..... 373
Three branches of the Chenango, ... 2,654

per minute into the summit of the canal. This quantity will pass 100 boats over the summit per day, allowing to each boat two locks of water, which will average per minute, ... 1,500
Add for filtration and evaporation on 40 miles of canal, ... 2,000

3,500
Leaving a quantity of water in the reservoir and Madison pond, equal to, per minute, ... 987

Cubic ft. 10,683

This quantity of water can be drawn into the canal without material injury to private property, and of the sufficiency of the supply for all purposes of said canal, no practical observer can reasonably doubt. The expense of constructing 14 miles, 49 chains of the summit level of said canal, the above feeders and reservoirs, I have computed as follows, viz :

The summit is 17 miles, 60 chains, in length, from lock No. 1, at the south termination, to lock No. 1, at the north termination; 3 miles, 11 chains of the north end I did not locate or examine the ground.

SECTION OF MILES.

Section No. 1.

Commencing at the south side of the Cherry-Valley turnpike, in the Johnsville swamp, town of Madison. The ground 17.51 feet above the bottom of the canal, extending through a cedar and black ash swamp; at its termination, ground 20.80 feet above bottom of canal.

Soils. Black mould, gravelly loam and gravel.

212,560 cub. yds. excavation, at 17 cts.	$36,135 20
80 chains of grubbing,	800 00
2 road bridges, at $200,	400 00
Amount,	$37,335 20

Section No. 2.

Ten chains of swamp; then declining, hard land, to the west branch of the Oriskany creek; deep cutting, running out at 40 chains, continuing along the bed and on the south side of the creek.

Soil. Gravelly loam.

116,484 cub. yds. excavation, at 14 cts.	$16,307 76
16 chains of grubbing, at $10,	160 00
2 road bridges, at $200,	400 00
Amount,	$16,867 76

Section 3 is 57 chains.

Passing south of Oriskany creek, through some light wood-land, along a side-hill south of Cleaveland's mill-pond and his factory.

Soil. Gravelly loam.

25,080 cub. yds. excavation, at 11 cts.	$2,758 80
20 chains of light grubbing,	100 00
1 road bridge,	200 00
Amount,	$3,058 80

Section 1, south of the Cherry-Valley turnpike.

Commencing on ground 17.51 feet above bottom of canal, and passing through a cedar swamp, 36 to 40 chains; then through cleared land, over a beaver meadow; then along the west shore of swamp, terminating 13.03 feet above bottom.

Soil. Black mould, clay, clay loam, gravelly loam and gravel.

162,720 cub. yds. excavation, at 14 cts.	$22,780 80
68 chains of swamp grubbing,	680 00
Amount,	$23,460 80

Section No. 2, south, 1 mile.

Along the bed of Johnsville creek, 55 chains, to the point of the commencement of the embankment of Leland's pond reservoir; the remainder of the section along said embankment, which is made by the excavation of the canal, the ground to be all removed to the west side to form the embankment.

145,760 cub. yds. excavation, at 14 cts.	$20,406 40
30 chains of light grubbing,	120 00
1 road bridge,	200 00
Amount,	$20,726 40

Section No. 3.

Continues 38 chains along the Leland pond reservoir embankment, (this embankment is all through a fine open meadow;) then crossing open fields and level ground, to the side of Woodman's lake, along the side of which is partly wooded, and the bank steep and some broken. Top water of this lake, 6.34 feet below the bottom of the canal.

Soil. Gravelly loam, in some places approaching clay.

62,560 cubic yards excavation, at 12½ cents,	$8,720	00
20 chains of lightish grubbing,	80	00
1 road bridge,	200	00
Amount,	$9,000	00

Section No. 4—South.

Commences on the east side of Woodman's lake. 18 chains of the first part of the section is wooded, then open level land; towards the south end is from 20 to 30 chains of deep cutting through open fine ground.

Soil, same as section 3d.

26,560 cubic yards of excavation, at 9 cents,	$2,390	40
18 chains of grubbing,	90	00
1 road bridge,	200	00
Amount,	$7,680	40

Section No. 5.

Along the edge of a swale on wet ground; land descending gradually to the south. We reach the side-hill on our left, crossing the town line between Madison and Hamilton, 5 chains before we reach the end of this section, crossing Madison creek at the end of 66 chains, which is taken into the canal as a feeder. (This stream William Jones, Esq. guaged on the 28th August, at which time he found 560 cubic feet per minute of running water. It is a considerable stream, emptying itself into Lebanon factory pond, below the village of Hamilton. In the estimates of water to supply the summit level, this stream is not taken into account.)

Soils. In the commencement of this section, we leave the gravel and gravelly loam land, and meet with clay, black mould, clay loam and some sand.

22,800 cubic yards excavation, at 9 cents,	$2,052	00
2,788 do embankment across Madison creek, at 11 cts..	306	68
Waste-weirs for creek, &c.	160	00
2 road bridges,	400	00
Amount,	$2,918	68

Section No. 6.

This section commences on a steep side-hill, on the east side of Madison creek, running parallel with that stream for some distance; part of the way a steep hemlock hill, then a more gradual side-hill, to Shanty brook, on the south bank of which it terminates.

Soils. Clayed and sandy.

13,782 cubic yards of embanking, at 11 cents,	$1,516	02
32,042 do of excavation, at 9 cents,	2,883	78
40 chains of grubbing,	200	00
Culvert for Shanty brook,	400	00
2 road bridges,	400	00
Amount,	$5,399	80

Section No. 7—South.

Is in open, fine ground, with sloping side-hill; in a few places considerable steep; south of the village of Hamilton, and in front of the Theological seminary.

Soil. Same as section 6th, with the exception of some slate rock towards the south end.

34,640 cubic yards of excavation, at 10 cents,	$3,464 00
2 road bridges,	400 00
Amount,	$3,864 00

Section No. 8.

First part is along a gentle sloping side-hill; the latter part, the hill more steep, and some uneven.

Soil. Gravelly loam.

49,810 cubic yards of excavation, at 10 cents,	$4,081 00
All on side-hill, so that the ground can be chosen.
Amount,	$4,081 00

Section No. 9.

Thirty-two chains of this section are over rather rough, broken ground, on steep side-hill, descending to the west; passing a small creek, which will be taken into the canal by an embankment in the distance; crossing into Lebanon, then on level, smooth ground, east of Lebanon factory, its termination reaching a steep side-hill in some thin woods.

Soil. Gravelly loam; some shelly slate rock on the south part of this section.

41,734 cubic yards of excavation, at 10 cents,	$4,173 40
3,180 do embanking at creek, at 11 cents,	349 80
10 chains of grubbing,	40 00
Amount,	$4,563 20

Section No. 10.

Along a gentle side-hill, open ground, crossing and recrossing the Hamilton and Sherburne road several times; fine ground for a canal.

Soil. Gravelly loam; on this section, the ledge of slate rock makes its appearance two or three times.

34,640 cubic yards excavation, at 10 cents,	$3,464 00
Removal of the road west of the canal, for 18 chains, at $16,	288 00
Amount,	$3,752

Section No. 11.

Side-hill moderately steep, terminating on the west side of a hill which puts down towards the river; all cleared land.

Soil. Gravelly loam; slate rock in a number of places on this section.

26,560 cubic yards excavation, at 9 cents,	$2,390 40
2 road bridges,	400 00
Amount,	$2,790 40

Section No. 12, of 72 chains.

Continued along side-hill, terminating in the edge of a piece of woods at the head of Lock No. 1 south, on the south bounds of the town of Hamilton, little north of Waters' tavern, Sherburne.

31,176 cubic yards excavation, at 10 cents,	$3,117 60
15 chains light grubbing,	60 00
1 road bridge,	200 00
Amount,	$3,377 60

The feeder to fill this lake or pond, is 3 miles, 47 chains, 80 links; but a cut of 2 miles will put the water into a small natural creek, which runs directly into the pond, $500 per mile,	1,793 75
Total cost,	$13,158 75

West Branch Feeder.

This feeder is 7 miles, 38 chains, 96 links in length, to be brought into the Leland pond reservoir; is mostly cleared land, and may be made for $1500 per mile, $11,250 00

East Branch Feeder.

This feeder is 5 miles, 34 chains, 72 links in length, to be put into the canal summit above Lock No. 1 south. at $1500 per mile, $8,151 00

Total cost of the summit, including necessary feeders and reservoirs, $194,-313 56.

The estimate of cost of the construction of the Oneida creek feeder, the Morrisville reservoir, the Hatch pond reservoir, and the Great Swamp or Eastern branch reservoir, is as follows:

Oneida Creek Feeder.

This feeder is 6 miles, 18 chains, 15 links in length, over some rather broken ground and timbered land; it may be made for $2000 per m. $12,453 00
(It may be remarked of this feeder, that it will give a very considerable supply of water, and quite permanent.)

Purchasing and clearing 1000 acres swamp, at $30 per acre,	30,000 00
		31,919 40

Hatch's Pond.

This pond will require a cut from the east side of it of 50 rods in length, greatest depth 28 feet, to draw from below the natural surface 10 feet of water.

14,597 cubic yards of excavation, at 15 cents,	$2,189 55
Dam at outlet of pond,	250 00
The expense of making this cut is so small, and as the water will be conducted along a natural stream (Bradley's brook) to the entrance of the west branch of the feeder, it would be well to construct this work,	$2,439 55

Great Swamp or Eastern Branch Reservoir.

It can hardly be supposed that this work will ever be wanted for the use of the canal, at least not until the business of the canal should accumulate beyond any thing it is possible to conceive, and if so, the revenue of the canal would pay for making a work of the grandest of the kind known in the world. There cannot remain a doubt but both this swamp and the Morrisville, have heretofore been lakes, and that their outlets have been broken down by some convulsion of nature, or in the process of time become, by the constant wearing away of their waters, reduced to their present level. This swamp contains 4,208 acres of land; a dam of 54 feet high would flow the whole. Confined between gradual sloping hills, which reach to a height of from 100 to 200 feet above this top water line. A dam 20 feet in height and only 308 feet long at top line, will flow 1,774 acres.

10,582 cubic yards of embankment at 15 cents,	$1,587
Grubbing, preparatory, and waste gate,	600
Purchasing and clearing 1,774 acres, at $30,	53,220

As a further illustration of the expense and supply of water for the summit of the Chenango canal, I would observe, that the canal of Narbonne, above mentioned, requires a greater of expense of water than any canal in France; the minimum of which is computed at $\frac{1}{18}$ part of its prism in 24 hours, and of course, if the supply should cease, it would become dry in 18 days; and this loss of water, considered so extraordinary, is supplied by 28 cubic feet per minute per mile on the Erie canal. Let us calculate the loss per day sustained on the Erie canal to require the estimated supply of 50 cubic feet per minute for each mile of canal. A mile of the Chenango canal contains, viz. 718,080 cubic feet of water; this divided by 50, the supply per minute, and the quotient is $14{,}361\frac{6}{10}$ minutes, or 10 days nearly, so that 50 cubic feet per minute would supply each mile of the canal, if it should lose all its water once in ten days; a loss almost double to the most expensive canal in France. From this it appears that 50 cubic feet is amply sufficient, even in the most extraordinary cases.

With regard to the reservoirs, and the constant supply of water, as contemplated, it has been ascertained that a surface not less than 156 square miles, slopes towards the reservoirs and feeders calculated to supply the summit, &c. of the Chenango canal, and which of course will receive into its reservoirs and feeders annually, all the surplus water which runs off from said surface, by the three branches of the Chenango.

An approximate towards said quantity, is attempted as follows. And in order to this, it has been ascertained (by rain guages,) that the quantity of rain which falls annually, at places differently situated, is as follows, viz:

At Carlisle, S. C.,	54	cubic inches pr annum.
Frankfort, Ky.	54	do
Andover, Mass.	51	do
Williamsburgh, Vt.	41	do
Rutland, Vt.	41	do
Brunswick, Me.	40	do
Charleston, Mass.	37	do
Philadelphia,	30	do
Williamstown, Mass.	25	do

9)373(41.4 inches average.

But allow 36 inches or 3 feet as a minimum quantity; and of this, $\frac{2}{5}$ is allowed for evaporation; the balance finds its way by degrees in springs and streams, and to low grounds.

A depth of 3 feet of water on a surface of 156 square miles, is equal to 13,047,091,200 cubic feet.

From this deduct two-fifths, as above stated, ... 5,218,836,480

7,828,254,720 cubic feet

of running water.

This last amount, divide by the contents of all the reservoirs, viz:

Leland's Pond reservoir,	252,288,000 cubic feet.
Madison Pond do	9,670,320
Morrisville do	348,480,000
Hatch's Pond do	18,295,200
East Branch or Sangerfield do	609,840,000
Amount of all the reservoirs,	1,238,573,520 cubic feet.

Each reservoir
1,238,573,520)7,828,254,720(6.3 times full annually.
7,431,441,120

396,813,600.0
371,572,056.0

25,241,544.0

From the above calculations, it appears that all the above contemplated reservoirs can be filled six times annually, after making deductions as above stated.

All which is respectfully submitted,
NATHAN S. ROBERTS, Civil Engineer.

REPORT OF HOLMES HUTCHINSON.

To Reuben Tower, Fortune C. White and Apollus Cooper, of the county of Oneida; Moses Maynard and Rufus Bacon, of Madison; Smith M. Purdy, Henry Mitchell and Ira Wilcox, of Chenango, and Ammi Doubleday and Hazard Lewis, of Broome, the committee of the Chenango Canal.

GENTLEMEN—

Since the completion of the survey of the route of the Chenango canal by the late Mr. William Jones and Mr. Elijah B. M'Call, engineers, under the direction of your committee, I have made an examination through the valleys of the Sawquoit and Oriskany creeks, and the Chenango river from the Erie canal to the Susquehannah river at Binghamton; I have also examined the books containing the field notes of the surveys and levelling, and the maps of the country, together with the streams and the principal reservoirs proposed as feeders on the summit level. I have been accompanied in my examinations by Col. Reuben Tower and Major Moses Maynard, and have received from those gentlemen and from Mr. M'Call, particular explanations in relation to the surveys; and from the information derived from these sources, I am enabled to present you the following report:

The Chenango canal is intended to connect the Erie canal, at or near the village of Whitesboro or Utica, with the Susquehannah river at Binghamton, in the county of Broome; and when completed will afford a cheap navigation to the country through which it passes, and will accommodate a large amount of trade from the Susquehannah river, through the Chenango and Erie canals to New-York. To the northern parts of Pennsylvania, it will be the means of extending the market for her coal, produce and lumber. And the counties bordering on the Susquehannah river would receive salt, lime, plaster and merchandize, with a great reduction of transportation.

The route as surveyed runs through a rich and highly cultivated country, and will accommodate the following villages: Commencing in Whitesboro or Utica, it passes through New-Hartford, Clinton, near the forge and furnace neighborhood in Kirkland, up east from which, at three miles distance, is the village of Waterville, through Cassety Hollow, Madison, Hamilton, Sherburne, Norwich, Oxford, Greene, Chenango Forks, and terminates at Binghamton, where it unites with the Susquehannah river. The distance from the Erie canal to the Susquehannah river, is 92¾ miles. From the Erie canal to the summit level there is an elevation of,..... 706 ft.
And the descent to the Susquehannah river, is..... 303

Total lockage,.... 1,009 ft.

The amount of lockage in proportion to the distance, compares well with several canals in this country now completed, or nearly so, being a little more than that on the Union canal in Pennsylvania, the Blackstone canal in Rhode-Island and Massachusetts, and the Delaware and Hudson canal in this state. And although the lockage forms a considerable item of the cost of the work, yet, considering the remarkable favorable valleys of the Sawquoit and the Oriskany creeks, and the Chenango river, through which the route passes in its whole extent, the undertaking may be considered very feasible, and may be accomplished at a reasonable expense.

As the Chenango canal may be considered as one of the most important lateral branches of the Erie canal, the estimates have been formed for a work of the same dimensions, viz. 40 feet surface of water, 28 feet on the bottom, and 4 feet deep; the locks to be 15 feet wide and 90 feet chamber, so that the same boats may be used in the navigation. I would, however, suggest the propriety of reducing the size of the canal and locks, and giving greater slopes to the banks. Boats of two-thirds the width of those on the Erie canal, say 10 feet wide and 80 feet long, would carry from 25 to 30 tons, and would require for ordinary speed but one horse, they would have less resistance, be easier of traction, and create less surf upon the sides of the canal. From inquiries and observation, I am of the opinion that freighting can be done on the Erie canal with boats of this description, as cheap, and probably cheaper, than with those now in common use. This reduction would be a great saving in the amount of excavation and embankment, save length of culverts and bridges, and something in the cost of locks. The canal would occupy less land, and there would be a saving of water, as it would require less for lockage, soakage and evaporation.

The plan of the summit level was arranged, and the survey made, under the direction of Nathan S. Roberts, Esq.; and he has made a report as to the supply of water and the cost of construction. From my examinations, I am of the opinion that his plan is judicious; and although there is some deep cutting to be encountered, on the summit near the north end of the level, and some high embankment to be made along the side of a steep ridge of land south of Hamilton village, yet the advantages amply compensate for this expense. The deep excavaiion in the summit swamp, ensures a greater supply of water and saves double lockage. And by the extension south, takes the eastern branch of the Chenango river and greatly extends the limits of the country that will drain into the summit pond by this valuable stream. Mr. Roberts guaged the streams in the dry part of last summer, and made calulations on the subject of reservoirs that would supply the summit; and I find that the Madison brook is not enumerated. This stream, by Mr. Jones' guaging on the 28th day of August last, gave 560 cubic feet of water per minute. And it can be introduced into the canal with little expense, near the village of Hamilton.

From a knowledge derived from the statements and calculations of Mr. Roberts, whose character and standing as a civil engineer, is well known, and from a personal examination of the streams and sources from which water must be obtained, I fully concur with him in opinion, as expressed in his report, that an ample supply of water can be obtained for all the purposes of the canal. The country from the Erie canal to the north end of the summit level at Madison, presents no unusual difficulties for the location of a canal, and the ascent by so many locks, will give an opportunity to choose the direction and the proper depth of excavation. South of Clinton village, limestone of an excellent quality is found in the vicinity of the line: And at Cassety Hollow, where there is an ascent of near two hundred feet, extensive quarries of fine building stone are on the spot; and from some specimens obtained at the place, I believe there is an abundance of hydraulic lime in the same ledge. Here are also extensive forests and mills, so that having all the materials, stone locks can be constructed at this place at a very cheap rate.

The distance from the Erie canal at Whitesboro, to the summit level, is 19 miles, and may be estimated as follows:

19 miles of excavation and embankment, pavement where necessary, &c. at $4,000,		$76,000 00
8 miles, 26 chains grubbing, at $		6,830 00
22 road bridges, at $180,		3,960 00
24 farm bridges, at $140,		3,360 00
26 culverts, as follows:
3 of 10 ft. span each, at $1,600,	$4,800
1 15 "	2,000
1 12 "	1,700
1 6 "	400
1 5 "	350
6 4 " each, at $300,	1,800
1 3 "	280
12 2 " each, at $250,	3,000
		14,330 00
15 lock-houses, with necessary land for yard and garden, at $500,		7,500 00
$12\frac{1}{2}$ miles of fencing cleared land, at $62\frac{1}{2}$ cents per rod on each side,		5,000 00
Add 10 per cent. for contingencies, superintendence, engineers, &c.		11,698 00
		$128,678 00

The summit level is 14 miles and 49 chains long, and extends from Madison to near Waters' tavern, in the town of Hamilton. This level was surveyed under the direction of Mr. Roberts, and his estimates for the canal, reservoirs, feeders, &c. amount to $194,313 56.

From the southern termination of the summit level, down the valley, the Chenango river has wide alluvial meadows, with a gentle declination towards the stream. There is a great uniformity in this valley, for 40 miles, to the village of Greene.

From Greene to Chenango forks, 8 miles, the valley of the river is more contracted, the banks rise more abrupt, and I am of the opinion that the river may be used most of the way advantageously for navigation. As the valley decreases in width, the river has a better direction; and to make it navigable, it will be necessary to remove the logs, trees, &c. from the shore, and construct a towing-path upon the bank.

From Chenango forks to Stone's mill, 6 miles, the country was examined on both sides of the river, with a view to judge of the best and cheapest method to make this navigation. The difficulties on the west side of the valley, are, the Onondaga branch, a large and rapid stream in freshets, to cross which would require an expensive aqueduct, built in the best manner, and of sufficient height to resist the violence of the floods and ice. An expensive embankment would also be required across the low meadows on each side of the river. Below the Onondaga branch, there is half a mile of bank that comes abrupt to the river. Kettle hill, of $\frac{3}{4}$ of a mile, and a bluff bank opposite Osborn Hollow brook, in all about $1\frac{3}{4}$ miles, to be embanked in the bed of the river, and protected by a slope wall or pavement on the outside of the canal.

This survey was made on the east side of the river; and all things considered, I think that side is to be preferred. As this part of the route presents the greatest difficulties, I will give a more particular description of the line, and the method proposed to make the navigation.

Edwards' dam at Chenango Forks, across the Chenango river, sets the water back four miles. The canal could connect with this pond at the point where there is sufficient depth of water; and by constructing a tow-path, the pond may be navigated to the dam. For a mile and a quarter below the dam, the canal must be made in the bed of the river, by excavating from the hill. The bank for the towing-path must be sufficiently high to be above the floods, and its exterior protected by a slope wall or pavement of stone, in the manner successfully adopted in the valley of the Mohawk river on the Erie canal, and subsequently on other canals that have been built in beds of rivers, where they are subject to the abrasion of the floods. Then succeeds a level flat of half a mile, and immediately below, a fourth of a mile in the bed of the river, by the side of a steep bluff bank; here also the embankment must be protected by a pavement. The route then passes along near the foot of a hill on level land, and crosses Little Pond brook, a stream that will require a culvert of four feet span of arch. A mile further south the line intersects Page brook, which may be admitted into the canal; and a dam constructed with a cap log, two feet above the bottom of the canal, would allow the flood waters to pass off readily without exposing the banks to injury. A flush board may be placed on the top of this dam, to retain the water in the canal at the proper height for the navigation, and so secured that they would be removed by any unusual rise of the brook. A mile below Page brook, there is a rocky point that is much exposed in floods to the force of ice and drift-wood, and the water in the river is from 2 to 10 feet deep. Around this point I would recommend an embankment in the river, and a protection on the outside by a pavement of heavy stone. I have no doubt this would be permanent, considering that a considerable proportion of the river passes near the west side of the valley in unusual high floods. This rocky shore on a low level, would extend about 80 rods; and the canal would then pass off on a flat, crossing Osborn Hollow brook, and continue over favorable land a mile and a quarter, to a cove on the side of Stone's mill-pond. Below the cove there is a very steep rocky hill, three-fourths of a mile in length, composed of shelly slate at the surface.

To construct a canal by the side of this hill, would be expensive; and I would recommend that the canal should connect with the river at the cove, and navigate the pond.

Should it be deemed expedient to conduct a part of the waters of the river from this pond to Binghamton village, to be used for hydraulic purposes, as has been proposed, a new dam may be built at the termination of the steep hill, from the intervale to the island, and an embankment raised across the island to the east end of the west dam. At the east end of the new dam, there should be constructed a strong and heavy abutment, and an ice-breaker, extending up the river at the proper distance from the shore, to admit the necessary quantity of water, and to afford a safe and easy entrance for boats. A towing-path must be made on the east bank of the pond, at the foot of the steep hill; and the canal would be continued on the same level to Binghamton, giving a little descent to the bottom, to allow the requisite quantity of water to pass with facility.

From Stone's mill to Binghamton, 6 miles, the route is feasible, in a good direction; and the canal may be made of an increased size, without much additional cost.

Should the contemplated navigation be constructed between the village of Greene and Stone's mill, in the manner above recommended, I have no doubt that it would be made at an average expense per mile, as low as other parts of the canal in the Chenango valley. The distance is 15 miles, and 8 miles would be river navigation.

Cost of Locks.

The following statement will show the expense of a wood lock, calculated with a due regard to economy, durability and usefulness. The foundation is proposed the same as for stone locks; and the walls of stone on the sides, support the embankment, protect the timber from the earth, and may be used for the backing wall, whenever the locks are rebuilt with stone masonry.

Should the northern termination of the canal be made in the village of Utica, the line from Clinton village would take a more easterly direction, pass through the village of New-Hartford, cross the Sawquoit creek, and continue over very favorable land, and terminate in the village of Utica. This route would increase the distance 2½ miles, and would add to the preceding estimate $17,500.

Should it be deemed advisable to reduce the dimensions of the canal to 18 feet on the bottom and 34 feet surface of water, giving the inside of the banks a slope of two feet horizontal base to one foot perpendicular rise, and also the locks to 10 feet width, it would produce a reduction in the estimate of about 10 per cent.

Locks of wood constructed without stone walls, (which I would by no means recommend,) can be made for $150 per foot lift. This would reduce the estimate $109,000.

These two items deducted from the above sum, will leave the estimated cost of constructing the canal, at $752,196.84.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

Albany, January 22, 1828.

(B.)

Judge Wright's Report.

To Moses Maynard, John G. Stower and Thomas Wylie, Esquires, a Committee appointed to take measures for the proposed Chenango Canal:

GENTLEMEN—

At the personal request of Major M. Maynard, and accompanied by him, I have made a personal examination of the waters proposed to feed a summit level of this canal, and also the line of canal route down the valley of the Chenango to Binghamton, where it discharges its waters into the Susquehannah river.

As a very important point in the project of this proposed work, and one on which the whole project depended, in a measure, was, the question whether water enough could be controlled on the summit level, to feed, at all times, for any amount of trade which could be reasonably supposed would ever pass upon it? I had provided myself with the measurement of water which might be taken for this purpose, as made by Mr. Nathan S. Roberts, a gentleman long known to me for his care, and caution and accuracy in all such calculations. I had also the measurement of Mr. Owen Forman, and the report and estimate of Mr. H. Hutchinson, together with the very plain and perspicuous maps and profiles, and field book of the late Mr. William Jones, and Mr. Elijah B. McCall; wherein is traced the line of the proposed work, together with the plain and well-made topographical views of the county.

With these papers before me, I viewed the several streams proposed as feeding water for the summit. I found them (as represented by the inhabitants of the neighborhood) at an average of common summer water; but evidently considerably more water than was given by Mr. Roberts in his report on the several streams, was now discharged daily by them. I did not consider it proper to measure them, being long accustomed to measure water and determine its volume and amount, as applied to feeding a canal. I could readily and without hesitation, say, that the quantity which might be obtained in the manner and upon the plan as laid down by Mr. Roberts, would be entirely sufficient, without ever resorting to the "contingent and secondary supply of Oneida creek, "Hatch's pond, or either of the proposed reservoirs on the east and west "branch."

I am of opinion that the Leland pond reservoir, with either the east or west branch, will, if care is taken to make the summit level tight, and to keep that level from all useless waste of water, (by keeping the gates of all locks from the summit to a point where another supply of feeding water may be received,) as nearly water-tight as possible, and only permitting surplus water to pass, by side culverts, from one lock to another, when they are not in use. This supply, with good management, will equal any demand which the trade will require, for many years to come; and whenever it shall be wanted, a resort may be had to other sources, although I am now of opinion, that no more water will be wanted for this canal, than can be supplied by the Leland pond reservoir and either the east or west branch, provided the trade should require a daily passage of sixty boats through the summer season.

Being fully satisfied, in my own mind, as to the sufficiency of water, I then followed down the line as marked out by Messrs. Jones and McCall, and examined the feasibility of excavation and embankment along the line, to the town of Binghamton, as before mentioned; and I can assure you, gentlemen, that the valley of the Chenango river, from the town of Madison, presents a formation of ground most extraordinary favorable for easy execution of a canal; so much so, that I do not think the whole state of New-York can present a similar continuous distance, where nature has given a formation more favorable for such a work, and more easy and cheaply executed.

There are only two or three places, and these of only a few miles in extent, where it may be said there is any difficulty. These are near the lower end of the valley, and will require some little skill of the engineer to adopt the safest and useful, and at the same time, most economical plan for the work. It is at this time useless for me to go into detail of any of these difficulties; but I will make a passing remark, by saying, that I should, from my present impressions, adopt the plan, in part, as recommended by Mr. Hutchinson, by one or more dams, to overcome the expense of navigation along the bluffs a few miles above Binghamton; and I would so construct this part of the work, as to take water to the neighborhood of Binghamton for hydraulic purposes, to a considerable extent, as not only a plan of benefit to the country, by creating water power for important manufacturing purposes, but as a project which might easily be made a money-making scheme, if managed properly.

I was requested by Major Maynard to view two distinct routes from the summit level northward; one passing through Augusta, and along the valley of the Skenandoa creek; and the other passing down the valley of the Oriskany creek.

As I had a good knowledge of all this part of the county of Oneida, and well knew that no difficulties existed, but the country along either route was remarkably easy for the formation of a canal, I declined wasting time upon this part of the proposed canal route. The whole matter in this part, may be comprised in a very few words; when I say, that for excavation and embankment for the execution of a canal, this part of the country is remarkably and uncommonly favorable; and from a point near Madison pond, the canal may take its direction northward, and connect with the Erie canal at any point between the east line of Madison county and Utica, as the whole country from near the Seneca turnpike, northward to the Erie canal, lays open, and so nearly the desired level, as to make it accessible in almost any direction, for such a work.

Having now, gentlemen, given you my opinion as to the question of feeding water for the summit, and of the ease and favorable ground for constructing the work, it will follow that you require my opinion of the estimated cost of construction, as reported by Mr. Hutchinson.

I have examined with care and attention, Mr. Hutchinson's estimate for the northern and southern sections, and Mr. Roberts' for the summit; the sum total of which amounts to 914,775 dollars.

There are two or three items in Mr. Hutchinson's statement, in detail in which I should add to his amount. The principal is the aqueducts; the others are the culverts and bridges. To these I should add from 30 to 50 per cent., so as to ensure an estimate that would cover all contingencies on these items.

With these additions, I am decidedly of opinion, the work, under good management, may be accomplished for less than one million of dollars; by a good canal of 40 feet on the surface, and 4 feet in depth, the distance of 90 miles, with locks of wood backed up with stone wall.

As I have now given you my opinion of the supply of water and the cost of construction, you have requested an opinion of the probable amount of trade which will pass upon this canal if constructed.

It is in some countries considered as a part of the duty of an engineer who surveys and makes estimates of a proposed work of a canal, to give statements of the probable amount of trade which will pass upon such a canal when completed. These duties can be much better performed in old settled countries than in new ones. There the population in most cases has arrived at nearly its maximum density, and the regular amount of supplies for sustenance and interchange of products, are more systematically and correctly known.

In a new country like this, where the proposed work is to be executed, there is one half of the country within twenty-five miles on each side of the Chenango river, which is yet in forest; and the part that is settled and inhabited, will no doubt sustain and possess, within thirty years, two or three times the present population.

There is now a line of villages along the Chenango valley in a very flourishing and healthy state, and equal to any to be found in any of the valleys of the state, of no greater age.

That there will be a great interchange of the lime, the gypsum and the salt of the north end of the canal, for the lumber of every kind, from the best of pine and oak to staves and hoop-poles of the south, is easily to be seen—because the interchange is going on daily by land carriage.

That this will form a very good item of tonnage among other things, will not be doubted: and when we add to this the products of the valley and the merchandize required by the population, it will be seen that a very handsome amount of tonnage must pass annually along this canal.

And when we know the fact that coal may be brought by winter transportation, (if not by summer,) from the coal mines in Pennsylvania, to the waters at the southerly end of this canal, and from thence transported northwardly, it is not assuming too much to believe that this will be an item of tonnage producing an increasing and regular trade.

If to these facts we add, that a canal through a country like the Chenango valley, generates and forms new items of trade and intercourse between different parts of the country, it is easy to conceive that the trade upon the Chenango canal, if made, will be very considerable as soon as completed, and will be a regular increasing trade annually.

It may perhaps be stepping out of my duty to say any thing upon the general policy of constructing this work; I will therefore make only one remark, which has struck my mind very forcibly.

If we admit that there ought to be a connection by a canal between the northern counties through which the Erie canal passes, and those counties along the Susquehannah river, the Chenango valley presents advantages in its prominent features of a much lower summit than any other route east of Cayuga lake, and a better supply of water; and therefore if a canal is to be made to connect these counties, the Chenango valley ought to be the place of location for the first work.

Respectfully submitted,

BENJ. WRIGHT, Civil Engineer.

ANNUAL REPORT

Of the Comptroller, relative to the expenditures on the canals, for the year 1828.

(MADE TO THE ASSEMBLY, JANUARY 26, 1829.)

COMPTROLLER'S OFFICE,
Albany, January 26th, 1829.

SIR—

I have the honor herewith to transmit to you, a report made pursuant to the provisions of the law relative to the canals, containing an account of the expenditures on the said canals for the last year.

I am; with great respect,
Your obedient servant,
W. L. MARCY.

Hon. PETER ROBINSON,
Speaker of the Assembly.

STATE OF NEW-YORK—COMPTROLLER'S OFFICE,
Albany, January 26th, 1829.

The Comptroller, in obedience to the provisions of the "law relative to the funds, revenue, expenditures and property of this state, and the administration thereof,"

RESPECTFULLY REPORTS—

That the annexed statement A. exhibits the several sums paid to the canal commissioners, and the amount expended by them respectively.

The annexed statement B. shews the several sums expended by William C. Bouck, on the Erie and Champlain canals, the time when, the names of the persons to whom, and the purposes for which the same were paid.

C. the same by Henry Seymour, on the Erie canal.
D. " " " Oswego canal.
E. " William C. Bouck " Cayuga and Seneca canal.
F. shews the amount expended by superintendents of repairs, on the Erie, Champlain and Oswego canals, during the year 1828.

All which is repectfully submitted.

W. L. MARCY, Comptroller.

STATEMENT shewing the sums received and expended by the canal commissioners, for repairs and improvements of the Erie and Champlain canals, and for the construction of the Oswego, and Cayuga & Seneca canals, during the year ending 1st January, 1829.

SUMMARY of the receipts and expenditures by the canal commissioners, from the passage of the "Act respecting navigable communications between the great Western and Northern lakes and the Atlantic Ocean," on the 15th day of April, 1817, to the settlement of their accounts in January, 1829.

RECEIPTS.

do made 21st March, 1822. (see Appendix B. Assembly Journal,)	385,008 95
do made 17th March, 1823, see Ap. E. do.	345,000 00
do 16th Feb. 1824, " C. do.	370,020 00
do 19th " 1825, " F. do.	35,533 94
To which add amount paid by commissioners of canal fund, pursuant to the "act to provide for the payment of certain notes given by Myron Holley, as treasurer of canal commissioners," passed March 7th, 1825, and also to the "act for the relief of John Thayer and Samuel Learned," passed 17th March, 1826.	17,155 91
		2,567,135 43

Note.—The assignment, by Myron Holley, of his real and personal property to the state, was to operate, in the opinion of a majority of the commissioners of the canal fund, as a discharge of any balance which they might find against him on the investigation which they were directed to make pursuant to the act entitled "an act to provide for the settlement of the accounts of Myron Holley, late canal commissioner," passed 21st April, 1825. The commissioners found a balance against him, of $30,965 27. Since this examination, Mr. Holley has been charged with $1,347 33. It is perhaps a matter of doubt whether this charge of $1,347 33, was discharged by the assignment.

DOCUMENTS

Accompanying the report of the committee on privileges and elections, on the petition of Harvey Granger.

(MADE TO THE ASSEMBLY, JANUARY 30, 1829.)

Petition of Harvey Granger.

To the Honorable the House of Assembly of the State of New-York.

The memorial of the undersigned respectfully represents to your honorable body, that from the accompanying petition and affidavits of the electors of the town of Greenfield, in the county of Saratoga, it appears that fraud or gross negligence is chargeable on the board of inspectors of the election in said town, which, if not corrected, is calculated to destroy all confidence in the purity of our elections—to prostrate the sovereignty of the people, and to defraud your memorialist of a seat in your honorable body.

It will appear from the documents herewith presented, that at the annual election held on the third, fourth and fifth days of November last, in said town, that Howell Gardner, a resident of said town, was a candidate for the office of elector of president and vice-president; and that the board of inspectors in said town, canvassed and certified that one hundred and eleven votes only, on which the name of Howell Gardner was written or printed, were found in the ballot box: Whereas it now appears, and is herewith presented to you, that one hundred and seventy-two electors of said town, on oath certify, that they, on the days of election aforesaid, presented and delivered to one of the board, to be deposited in the ballot box provided for that purpose, a written or printed ballot, with the name of Howell Gardner for elector thereon. From which it is manifest that the board of inspectors of the said election, or some one of them, have wickedly and corruptly taken from the said ballot boxes sixty-one ballots on which the name of the said Howell Gardner was written or printed, and inserted an equal number with the name of Salmon Child thereon, who was the opposing candidate; or have so negligently and carelessly kept the said boxes as to suffer some other evil minded and wicked citizen, to perpetrate the fraud. Either of which, in the judgment of your memorialist, if properly substantiated, would taint the whole proceeding of this board, and entirely vitiate and render void the election of that town: And if the vote of said town, on investigation by your honorable body, should be determined to be fraudulent and void, your memorialist would be justly and legally entitled to a seat as a member of the legislature from the county of Saratoga.

All which matters and things your memorialist prays may be inquired into by your honorable body.

HARVEY GRANGER.

Petition of the inhabitants of the town of Greenfield.

To the Honorable the Legislature of the State of New-York, in Senate and Assembly convened:

The petition of the undersigned inhabitants of the town of Greenfield, in the county of Saratoga,

Respectfully Sheweth—

That at the last annual election held in the said town of Greenfield, at the time the votes of said town were canvassed, there appeared to have been only one hundred and eleven votes given for Howell Gardner, one of the candidates for the office of elector of president and vice-president:

That the undersigned became satisfied that there was some error or irregularity at the polls of said town, and efforts were made to ascertain, who of the voters of said town had voted for the said Gardner, by calling on them individually: That the result of said efforts were, that upwards of one hundred and sixty voters in said town, certified on oath that they had voted at said polls for the said Gardner:

From which circumstances, and from others within the knowledge of the undersigned, they have reason to doubt whether the said canvass corresponds with the intent and fair expression of the sentiments of said voters.

The undersigned do therefore present the case to your honorable body, as one, in their opinion, deserving legislative inquiry; praying that such measures may be adopted as are calculated to develope the cause or causes of the extraordinary result of the said election.

And your petitioners will ever pray, &c.

The People of the State of New-York, by the grace of God, free and independent:

To Jonathan Lapham, Solomon Deake, Silas Gifford, Henry Miller, Adam Bockes, jun., Salmon Childs, Charles Deake, John Prior, John Pettit, Elihu Wing, Seth Hewit and Judiah Ellsworth.

In and by virtue of the authority vested in me by the annexed resolution, you and each of you are commanded to be and appear before the committee of privileges and elections, at the Capitol in the city of Albany, on the twenty-fourth day of January instant, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, then and there to testify and give evidence relative to an inquiry pending before the said committee, on a charge of fraud preferred against the inspectors of elections of the town of Greenfield, in the county of Saratoga, alleged to have been committed at the last annual election in said town.

Given under my hand at the Capitol in the city of Albany, this 20th day January, 1829.

By order.

BELA EDGERTON,
Chairman of said Committee.

STATE OF NEW-YORK—In Assembly,
January 20th, 1829.

Resolved, That the standing committee on privileges and elections, have power to send for persons and papers; and that they report to the house their proceedings on the same from time to time, as the said committee shall deem expedient.

By order,

FRANCIS SEGER, Clerk.

PRIVILEGES AND ELECTIONS.

January 24th, 1829.

Memorial of Harvey Granger sets forth fraud on the part of inspectors in town of Greenfield, in Saratoga county, viz. Howell Gardner, a candidate for elector of president and vice-president, &c., received, as per certificate, 111 votes; 172 electors swear that they voted for Howell Gardner.

[See memorial of Harvey Granger.]

Affidavits read in support of the charge of fraud, &c.

Jonathan Lapham sworn. Deponent is supervisor in town of Greenfield; was very careful in the charge of the boxes; was induced to be so in consequence of reports that an attempt would be made to set aside the election of said town. Mr. Solomon Dake is the person from whom deponent heard the report. All the votes given to Howell Gardner, were duly canvassed and returned for said Howell Gardner; thinks it impossible that any of the votes could have been taken out of the box without deponent's knowledge.

Silas Gifford sworn. Deponent was inspector of election, and attended the three days of election. Boxes kept first night with town clerk; second night kept by Lapham. Heard somebody say on the second day, that an attempt would be made to set aside the election, but don't recollect who made the declaration. The usual oath was administered to the inspectors. No votes were given to Howell Gardner that were not duly canvassed and returned. Keys were kept by deponent third night.

Adam Bockes jun. Was present as inspector of the election in said town of Greenfield; was sworn as the inspector, &c.; is positive that no votes given for Howell Gardner, could have been neglected to be properly canvassed and returned.

Mr. Solomon Dake. Is town clerk; attended the election for the three days; was present at the canvass; every vote given for Howell Gardner, was canvassed and returned for him. Thinks it impossible that any vote could have been taken out; the boxes were carefully sealed; the seals were never broken but in the presence of the board of inspectors; no person could have opened the box without deponent's discovering it; heard from Mr. Alvah Dake, some days before the election, that he would cause the election to be set aside; stated to the deponent the several means by which he would effect such result; such as procuring illegal votes, and by inducing the same person to vote twice. Alvah Dake offered to bet that the election would be set aside; and deponent therefore stated to the inspectors the necessity of proceeding with extreme caution. Deponent thinks the board did proceed with more than ordinary care; several tickets were handed open to the inspectors, and by them folded and put in their proper boxes; thinks that no mistake could have been made in canvassing the votes without deponent's knowledge.

Henry Miller. Is assessor of the town of Greenfield, and attended the election the three days; the boxes, after each day, were sealed, &c.; first night in charge of Mr. Dake; second, in charge of Mr. Lapham; and third night, again in charge of Mr. Dake. There was no vote given for Gardner that was not canvassed; was apprised on the first day of the election, that an attempt would be made to set aside the election, and the board was therefore cautious in their proceedings; the boxes appeared every morning in the same condition as left on the preceding evening; and deponent does not think that the boxes could have been opened without his detecting it.

Salmon Childs. Is a resident of the town of Greenfield in Saratoga county; knows Mr. Solomon Dake, the town clerk, and thinks him an upright and industrious man. Deponent knows all the inspectors, and thinks them entitled to the confidence and good opinion of the community in which they reside; deponent was present at the polls a greater part of the three days, and as far as he observed, the election was conducted with caution and propriety.

Elihu Wing. Deponent resides in the town of Greenfield, county of Saratoga; thinks the inspectors men in whom the confidence of the community may be safely reposed; was present at the canvass, and saw what was doing by the inspectors in regard to the congress box, and thinks the inspectors acted with propriety.

Charles Deake. Deponent thinks there was no fraud on the part of the inspectors; deponent stated his knowledge to the examinations, &c.; deponent thinks more ballots were given for Gardner than were canvassed.

Judiah Ellsworth took the affidavits, &c.; stated severally the manner of so doing.

Monday, January 26th, 1829.

John Pettit sworn. Resides in Greenfield, Saratoga county; has for thirty years known the canvassers, and their characters are established as honest and pure men.

Deposition of Joseph Daniels.

Saratoga County, ss.

I Joseph Daniels, of the town of Greenfield, in said county, do solemnly swear in the presence of Almighty God, that I was present on the second day of the late election of said town, and a short time before the poll was adjourned on that day, a gentleman by the name of Abraham Tuttle was there and wished to vote; and Alvah Dake of said town offered the said Tuttle votes, which the said Tuttle observed he did not like. I observed to him and asked him what votes he wanted. He, Tuttle, observed he wanted administration votes. I told him I could furnish him with such votes, and showed him the same. Alvah Dake observed that they were Jackson votes, but his were administration. I observed to Tuttle that he had better see some of his friends that would not deceive him. With that Tuttle went into the house, and Alvah Dake, Richard Hewet, and Seth Tallmadge took hold of him and crowded the said Tuttle to the back part of the room, and Alvah Dake stated to hold on to him until the poll was closed. They were threatened to desist or the authority would interfere. I took hold of said Tuttle, and helped him to extricate him from the said Dake, Hewet and Tallmadge, and he with my assistance went to the poll and voted, which was the last vote taken on that day.

The Deposition of John Gifford, Henry Peacock, Seneca Weed, and Wm. R. Pettit.

I, John Gifford, do solemnly swear that I did, on the 5th day of November last present my tickets to the board of Inspectors of the said election for the town of Greenfield, by laying them on the table before them; that the ballot containing the name of Salmon Child for elector of president and vice president was laid on the said table open, for the purpose of its being publicly known what my sentiments were on the presidential election; my name having previously appeared in the public prints as one of the committee of vigilance to aid the election of Andrew Jackson. And that the said open ballot was taken up by Solomon Dake, one of the Inspectors, folded and put into a ballot-box, he observing at the same time, in a jocular manner to some of the bystanders, (as I then conceived it) "there is one of your Jackson votes," or some similar expression.

I, Joseph Mitchel junior, of the town of Greenfield, do solemnly swear that I was present on the 5th day of November last, at the board of election in the town of Greenfield, at the inn of Seth Austin, and saw John Gifford of said town present his tickets to the board of inspectors, and they were not folded but perfectly open so that they might be read by the bystanders if they had been a mind so to do.

Affidavit of Nehemiah Wing.

Saratoga County, ss.

I, Nehemiah Wing, of the town of Greenfield, in the said County, do solemnly swear in the presence of Almighty God, that I was present on the second day of the late election, at the Inn of John Page in said town of Greenfield, but a short time before the board adjourned at evening. I was passing through the bar-room, and nigh the outside door I met a Mr. Abraham Tuttle, Capt. Joseph Daniels, Alvah Dake, and two or three other gentlemen. Capt. Daniels asked Mr. Tuttle of he was acquainted with me. He answered he was. Capt. Daniels observed that I could tell him, so that he should not be deceived. Alvah Dake told him not to vote until he see George Riddle. I then asked Mr. Tuttle whether he wished to vote the Jackson ticket or administration. He said he would not vote the Jackson ticket. I then a received a set of tickets from Capt. Daniels and read them to him, the said Tuttle; and Alvah Dake told him I was deceiving him—them tickets were Jackson tickets, and repeated again not to vote until he see George Riddle. I then told him (Tuttle) to read the tickets himself, and handed them to him, and he attempted to go to the board and was prevented by Alvah Dake and others. The said Alvah hauled him or crowded him some feet in a different direction from that of the board. I then told the said Alvah not to prevent Mr. Tuttle from voting; and after some struggle Mr. Tuttle succeeded in going to the board.

Deposition of John Barney.

Saratoga County, ss.

I, John Barney, of the town of Greenfield, county of Saratoga, and state of New-York, do solemnly swear in the presence of Almighty God, that I did execute to Solomon Dake, of the aforesaid place, for a valuable consideration, a warrantee deed, (of a certain piece or parcel of land, lying in said town of Greenfield,) bearing date the first day of April, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and twenty-six; which said land has not been conveyed to me by any person since that time, either by deed, bond, mortgage, judgment or article, or by any other mode of conveyance; and the aforesaid deed is now in the hands of the said Solomon Dake, and from the best of my knowledge and belief, the aforesaid title has been vested in him from that time up to the present date.

The affidavit of Solomon Dake.

Saratoga County, ss.

I, Solomon Dake, do solemnly swear, that during the month of September last, I had frequent conversations with Alvah Dake on the subject of the result of the election of the town of Greenfield as to the probable majority of said town, and that while engaged in conversation on the subject, he, the said Alvah Dake, observed, that it would make no difference what the majority in the town of Greenfield would be, as it respected the result in the county, for the election of Greenfield would be overthrown. I then asked him how the election of Greenfield could be overthrown; he replied that he would get some illegal voter to vote, or would get some one to vote twice; and after arguing with him some time that his projects would fail, he replied that it could be done and would be done.

William Mitchell's Affidavit.

Saratoga County, ss.

William Mitchell, of the town of Greenfield, in said county, aged thirty-three years, being duly sworn, deposeth and saith, that he is an elector of said town; was present at the poll of election held in said town of Greenfield in November 1828, on the last day of the election, and on that day he saw Orran Hathorn offer a ballot to one of the inspectors of the said election; the said Orran's vote was challenged by John E. Deake, a legal voter of said town, in the presence of all the inspectors, on the ground that the said Orran was not a resident of the said town of Greenfield, but lived in the town of Milton. Henry Miller, one of the inspectors of said election, observed, that he was acquainted with the said Orran, and that he was a legal voter; the ballot was deposited in the box by one of the inspectors, in the presence of this deponent, without the challenge being withdrawn or waived, or the elector being sworn; that in relation to such taking of that vote, and on that subject only, did this deponent ever hear any thing relative to setting aside the poll of the town, until since the election, and after the discovery of the existence of other frauds in said election or canvass. That this deponent, together with Alvah Dake, went to the different persons in said town, who signed a certificate, and afterwards swore, that they voted for Howell Gardner; and the deponent says that no person whatever signed such certificate, without having, in this deponent's presence and knowledge, a full explanation and understanding of the contents and meaning of said certificate.

D. GOTT, Commissioner.

Saratoga County, ss.

Andrew Shook, of Greenfield, being duly sworn, says, that on Wednesday, the fifth day of November last, he delivered to the inspectors of election of said town, a ballot for elector, for justice of the peace, and for one assemblyman, and for sheriff; that after the said ballots were delivered to the said inspectors, to be inserted in the ballot boxes, the ballots for justice of the peace and for elector, were put into the boxes by the inspectors without being unfolded; but the ballot for assembly and sheriff, which was delivered to Solomon Dake, town clerk, and was doubled or folded three times, was unfolded by the said town clerk once, so that it was folded but twice; when this deponent spoke to the said town clerk, telling him he did not vote two tickets; the said town clerk then hastily folded up the ticket again, and put it into the ballot box. This deponent then and now believes, that the said town clerk intended, by unfolding the said ballot, to discover the name or names of some person or persons written on the same. This deponent says the ballot for elector was for Howell Gardner.

ANDREW SHOOK.

Subscribed and sworn, the 17th day of December, 1828, before me,
J. ELLSWORTH, Commissioner, &c.

Saratoga County, ss.

Alvah Dake and Charles D. Rogers, of Greenfield, being duly sworn or affirmed, say, that on the fifth day of November last, they saw John Gifford, of the said town, present and deliver to the board of inspectors of election in said town, a sett of ballots, to be inserted in the ballot boxes; that Solomon Dake, town clerk, took up one of the said ballots, took one edge of the same in the thumb and finger of one hand, and the other edge of the said ballot in the thumb and finger of the other hand, opened or unfolded the same, held it up over his shoulder, open, and requested this deponent, Alvah Dake, to look at the ballot, saying, "There is one of your Jackson committee." These deponents further say, that when the ballot was held up to this deponent, Alvah Dake, John Gifford had gone away from the board, or had turned to go away.

ALVAH DAKE,
CHARLES D. ROGERS.

The said Alvah Dake was sworn, and the said Charles D. Rogers solemnly affirmed, to the above affidavit and affirmation, the 17th day of December, 1828, before me,

J. ELLSWORTH, Commissioner, &c.

Alvah Dake, of Greenfield, in said county, being duly sworn, says, that in April, 1827, at the annual town-meeting in said town, Solomon Dake was a candidate for town clerk; and on inquiry being made of this deponent, by Asa Bowen, one of the electors of the said town, whether Solomon Dake was a freeholder, this deponent stepped into the store of the said Solomon Dake, and asked him if he was a freeholder. Solomon Dake replied he was, and showed to this deponent his deed of a small piece of land lying on the mountain, of the value of fifty dollars, executed by John Barney, who had bred up the said Solomon Dake from a child. The said Solomon Dake was not then elected town clerk, but was elected to that office in April, 1828. A short time after he was elected, in April, 1828, this deponent proposed going into partnership with the said Solomon Dake, and did commence such partnership in May last, and continued it five months. When the said Solomon Dake and this deponent were making the inventory of the goods in the store, previous to commencing the partnership, Solomon Dake took up the deed from John Barney, and said he only got it for the purpose of being a freeholder; at town-meeting he should take back the deed to uncle John, (meaning Barney,) and get his note for the fifty dollars, which he had given for the deed, and then put the deed into his hat for that purpose. This deponent was in partnership with Solomon Dake five months, and never heard or knew any more about the deed; and he believes the same was delivered, or the same otherwise re-conveyed to Barney, and that Solomon Dake got his note back. This deponent never knew that Solomon Dake was a freeholder, other than by virtue of the said deed; and this deponent verily believes had no title to a freehold estate at the time of the late election in November last.

ALVAH DAKE.

(No. 10.)

Alvah Dake's Evidence.

New-York, January 27th, 1829.

Alvah Dake, sworn. Resides in Greenfield, and attended the polls at last annual election in said town; never had any conversation with Solomon Dake upon the subject of the election, before or after the election, about setting the same aside; assisted in procuring the affidavits, &c.; never told Solomon Dake that he would procure illegal voters, or that he would induce one person to vote twice; always had a good opinion of the character of the inspectors, till after the election; and the reason he now has to doubt, is, that the ballot box did not yield as many votes as he had supposed would be given to Mr. Howell Gardner; deponent never had any disagreement with Solomon Dake; they were formerly co-partners, and dissolved business with mutual good feelings; deponent never told Abraham Tuttle that the votes he, the deponent, offered to said Tuttle, were administration votes; never said he had administration votes.

(No. 11.)

Affidavits.

1st. To rebut the inferences intended to be drawn from the affidavits which are extra judicial, it is desirable that the deponents be sworn in a manner to make them responsible before the committee or commissioners, and the privilege of cross examining them allowed.

2d. To have a commission to ascertain the state of the votes between Wheeler and Granger.

3d. Subpœnas for the following witnesses, to establish the correctness of the conduct of the board, and to rebut the allegations in the petition and affidavits, &c.

Saratoga County, ss.

The following persons whose names are hereunto subscribed, being severally sworn or affirmed, depose and say, that they did each one for himself, during the election held in the town of Greenfield, in said county, on the third, fourth and fifth days of November last, present and deliver to the board of inspectors of said election, a paper ballot, containing the name of Howell Gardner, for elector; which said ballot was received by the said board to be inserted in the ballot box; and further these deponents say not.

Additional Documents in relation to the Election in the town of Greenfield.

Petition of Jonathan Lapham and others.

To the Honorable the Legislature of the State of New-York:

Your memorialists taking into consideration that the petition of Harvey Granger for a seat in your honorable body in the place of Calvin Wheeler, is predicated on the supposition of corruption or gross neglect in the board of inspectors of the late election in the town of Greenfield; and that to grant the prayer of said Harvey Granger, would, in the public estimation, go to convict the board of malconduct in the discharge of their official duties; taking also into consideration that the inspectors and others have been examined individually and apart by a committee of your honorable body—they therefore petition that the board may at least have the advantage of privileges which are not withheld from individuals arraigned of crimes and misdemeanors, to wit, the benefit of counsel and cross-examination. And to this end, pray that your honorable body would grant a commission authorising some competent person to come into the town of Greenfield, who shall be empowered to compel the attendance of all those persons who either made affidavits, or may be supposed to be able to give any information upon the subject of the late election of said town; and to permit your memorialists, through their counsel, to cross-examine the same individually and apart. And your memorialists, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

HENRY MILLER,

Jesse Munson's affidavit.

Saratoga County, ss.

I, Jesse Munson, of the town of Greenfield, do swear, that I was present at the house of Nehemiah Wing, on the sixth day of November last, where the inspectors of the election were canvassing the votes of the late election, which was held on the 3d, 4th and 5th days of November last; and that after the electoral box was canvassed, and the result known, Alvah Dake stated to me in the room where the inspectors were convened, that he knew he could get more than one hundred and eleven men to swear they voted for Howell Gardner for elector.

Loren Higby's affidavit.

Saratoga County, ss.

I, Loren Higby, of the town of Greenfield, in said county, do swear, in the presence of Almighty God, that I was present at the house of Nehemiah Wing, inn-keeper, on the sixth day of November last, when and where the inspectors of the late election met to canvass the votes of said town; and immediately after the canvass of the electoral votes of said town, and the result was known, I heard Alvah Deak say, that he could get more men to swear that they voted for Howell Gardner for elector, than that the board of election had canvassed for him, and that he would get one hundred and fifty to swear that they had voted for said Howell Gardner.

The deposition of Caleb M. Hoyt.

Saratoga County, ss.

I, Caleb M. Hoyt, of the town of Greenfield, in said county, do swear, in the presence of Almighty God, that I was present on the second day of the late election held in the town of Greenfield, at the dwelling-house of John Page, inn-keeper, and had a conversation with Stephen Lennon respecting his voting. The said Stephen then stated that he should not vote for Howell Gardner as an elector for president, and showed me his tickets—they were all Jackson tickets; and the electoral ticket, the name of the elector was cut off, leaving the name of John Cramer as a member for congress: we both stood nigh the inspectors when this discourse took place; the said Stephen Lennon then folded his votes and turned to the inspectors, and handed the identical votes to the inspectors in my presence. He, the said Stephen, afterwards told me that he actually voted the same tickets that he showed me. I afterwards understood that the said Stephen Lennon had signed a paper that he had voted for Howell Gardner as an elector. In that conversation, the said Stephen did state that he voted for Gardner as an elector, and stated also that he did vote all the tickets that he showed me; he also stated how he did vote the electoral ticket —that the name of Howell Gardner that was cut off, he folded in a piece of paper, and handed also to the inspectors a short time afterwards.

Affidavit of Joseph Wood, Jun.

Saratoga County, ss.

I, Joseph Wood, jun. of the town of Greenfield, in said county, do swear, in the presence of Almighty God, that I was one of the clerks who kept the poll list of the late election held in the said town, and I have no knowledge or recollection that the inspectors, or either of them, received any vote or votes from any elector who was challenged or objected to, unless the challenge was withdrawn, or the objection waived, or the said elector took the oath required by law; and if any such circumstance had taken place, I think I should have known the same.

Oath of Board of Inspectors.

Saratoga County, ss.

We, Henry Miller and Solomon Dake, two of the inspectors of election in and for the town of Greenfield, and acted as such at the late election held on the 3d, 4th and 5th days of November last, do swear, that on the last day of said election, Oran Hathorn did present to the board a ballot to be inserted in the box, and at that time John E. Dake suggested that the said Oran was not a legal voter, and requested that his case might be inquired into; and on examination it appeared that the said Oran had been employed by Messrs. Richard and Isaac Fink, inhabitants of Milton, to get out staves for them, and he had been engaged in their service at getting out the said staves; and it appeared that the said Oran while engaged in their service, hired his board in the town of Greenfield, and had his washing done in Greenfield; and that the timber which he worked into staves, was on land situated in Greenfield; and that on the developement of the above facts, John E. Dake expressed his satisfaction that the said Oran was a legal voter, and observed that he only wanted the board should be satisfied; and further than the above there was no challenge or objection made by any person against the said vote being received, and accordingly the said vote was inserted in the ballot box.

HENRY MILLER,
SOLOMON DAKE.

Affidavit of Prince Wing, 2d.

Saratoga County, ss.

I, Prince Wing 2d, of the town of Greenfield, in said county, do solemnly declare and affirm, that I tended the store of Solomon Dake, in said town of Greenfield, during the late election in said town; the said Solomon Dake being one of the inspectors of seid election: and that the ballot boxes were brought into the store by the said Solomon Dake, and locked up in the store, when I, together with the said Solomon Dake, left the store in the evening, and the said Solomon took the key of said store, and went to the house, a few rods distance from the store; and we took supper, and I went into the chamber of the house, and went to bed; and in the morning, I, with the said Solomon Dake, went to the store together, and found the boxes in the same position as they appeared in the evening previous; this was on the evening of the first day of election; and on the evening of the last day of said election, the said Solomon Dake brought the boxes, and put them intothe store as before, and I, with Solomon Dake, was in the store until between nine and ten o'clock in the evening, when there was a number of persons in the store previous; when they all dispersed, the said Solomon Dake and myself left the store together, and the said Solomon Dake locked the door, and took the key, and we went into the house, and I went into the chamber to bed; and in the morning I got up, and took the key and went into the store; and while I was opening the window shutters, the said Solomon Dake came to the store; and that I was not in the store at any time alone with the ballot boxes, but that Solomon Dake, or some other person, was present; and that I never, at no time during said election, touched either of the ballot boxes or their contents, or do I know any other person or persons directly or indirectly meddling with the said ballot boxes or the votes therein.

Lewis Scott's Affidavit.

Albany County, ss.

I, Lewis Scott, of the town of Greenfield, Saratoga county, and state of New-York, do solemnly and sincerely swear, that I was present, on the 17th day of last December, at the inn of Seth Austin, in the aforesaid town, when Judiah Ellsworth was taking affidavits of persons, testifying they voted for Howell Gardner for elector; when and where I heard the said Ellsworth publicly state, that he did not think, that if any deponent should testify falsely, it would subject him or them to the penalties of perjury; and at times did state the same in the presence of deponents who were about to take the oath they voted for the said Howell Gardner for elector; and this deponent further saith, that he verily believes, that at the time the said Ellsworth made the above statements, Alvah Dake was present and heard the same.

LEWIS SCOTT.

Sworn before me, this 3d day of February, 1829.

Henry Perry's Affidavit.

Saratoga County, ss.

I, Henry Perry, of the town of Saratoga Springs, in the county of Saratoga, late of Greenfield, do solemnly swear in the presence of Almighty God, that during the summer and fall of 1828, I was an inhabitant of the town of Greenfield, and lived near the store of Solomon and Alvah Dake in said town; and that in the latter part of September last, I was in the aforesaid store, together with Daniel Wing of said town, when and where a conversation took place between Solomon Dake and Alvah Dake, as to the probable majority the said town of Greenfield would give for the Adams ticket at the approaching election in November following; when Alvah Dake observed, that it would make no difference what the majority of Greenfield would be, as it respected the result in the county, for the votes of Greenfield would be lost; that the election of said town would be overthrown, and that he would use his exertions to overthrow the same. And I further state, that I was present at the canvass of the votes of said town, and immediately after the electoral box was canvassed, in presence of the inspectors, I heard Alvah Dake say, that he could and would get more men to swear they voted for Howell Gardner for elector, than the board had canvassed votes for him, or that he could get more than one hundred and fifty to swear they voted for Howell Gardner for elector.

Joseph Daniels' Affidavit.

Saratoga County, ss.

I, Joseph Daniels, of the town of Greenfield, in said county, do swear in the presence of Almighty God, that I was present at the late election in said town of Greenfield, at the inn of Seth Austin, on the last day of said election, and was present when Oran Hathorn presented his votes to the board of inspectors; and John E. Dake asked the question, if the said Oran Hathorn was a legal voter; I observed, that I knew he, the said Oran Hathorn, was a legal voter, which appeared to satisfy the inquiry of the said John E. Dake; and I know that there was no objection further, and that there was no challenge made by any person to prevent the said Oran Hathorn from voting; if there had been, I must have heard the same: and further, I am intimately acquainted with the said board of inspectors, and fully believe that all and every one of said inspectors are honest and discreet.

Oran Hathorn's Affidavit.

Saratoga County, ss.

I, Oran Hathorn, of the town of Greenfield, do solemnly swear, that I did, on the last day of the election which was held in November last, in the town of Greenfield, present to the inspectors of said election, a ballot, to be inserted in the ballot box; when John E. Dake asked the question if I was a legal voter; and by being informed by Capt. Joseph Daniels, that he knew me, and knew where I had lived during the past summer, the said John E. Dake expressed a satisfaction that I was a legal voter; and there was no objection raised by any other one to my voting, and no challenge to my knowledge, and accordingly my votes were received and inserted in the ballot box.

Affidavit of Edson Stone, and others.

Saratoga County, ss.

We, Edson Stone, Timothy Sisson, Oliver C. Bosworth, Potter Johnson and Lewis Scott, do solemnly swear in the presence of Almighty God, that we were present at the house of Nehemiah Wing, on the sixth day of November last, when and where the inspectors met to canvass the votes of the last election; and immediately after the canvass of the electoral box, and the result was known, we, and each of us, heard Alvah Dake say that he could get more men to swear they voted for Howell Gardner for elector, than the board had canvassed votes for him, and exclaimed, by God he would; and that frequently, during the course of that day, he, the said Alvah, made the like or similar declarations, that he could get one hundred and fifty, or more, to swear that they voted for Howell Gardner for elector.

The last deponent swears the above deposition is true, to the best of his knowledge, except he does not recollect to have heard Alvah Dake state the number of one hundred and fifty.

Elihu Wing's Deposition.

Saratoga County, ss.

I, Elihu Wing, of the town of Greenfield, do solemnly and sincerely declare and affirm, that I was present at the canvass of the votes at the late election in November last, and that immediately after the canvass of the electoral box, and in the room where the inspectors were convened, I heard Alvah Dake say, that he could get more men to swear they voted for Howell Gardner for elector, than the board had canvassed votes for him; and at the same time exclaimed, by God he would.

STAFFORD LAPHAM, Commissioner, &c.

Saratoga County, ss.

I, Elihu Wing, of the town of Greenfield, do solemnly declare and affirm, that I, as a spectator, was present at the canvass of the late election in said town, in opening the ballot box containing the votes for elector of president and vice-president, and votes for member of congress—on opening the same, there appeared that several votes, where the name of Howell Gardner was erased; and a number of the votes, the elector's name was cut entirely off; and also ballots to the number of sixteen, the name of Howell Gardner was erased, and Salmon Child inserted on the same ballot; and also as to the member of congress, the name of John Cramer was erased, and John W. Taylor inserted in a number of cases.

Local School Fund.

There are many towns in the state, in which the schools derive a most essential benefit from a local fund. This fund arises from the avails of land which was reserved in certain grants, for gospel and school purposes. The following is a list of the principal reservations of this nature, viz:

One lot of 550 acres in each of the 28 townships in the military tract.

Forty lots of 250 acres each in the 20 townships west of the Unadilla river, being 10,000 acres.

One lot of 640 acres in each of the townships of Fayette, Clinton, Greene, Warren, Chenango, Sidney and Camden, in the counties of Broome and Chenango.

Ten lots of 640 acres each in the townships along the St. Lawrence.

Sixteen lots of 640 acres each in Totten and Crossfield's purchase.

The local school fund which has become productive, is stated in the reports of the commissioners of the several towns as follows, viz:

DOCUMENTS

Accompanying the Report of the Select Committee, on that part of the Governor's Message relating to the abduction of William Morgan.

(SEE JOURNAL OF FEBRUARY 16.)

To the Hon. A. Hazeltine, Chairman of the Committee of the Assembly, on the abduction of William Morgan.

SIR—In compliance with the request of the committee of which you are chairman, communicated to me by your letter of the 17th inst. that I would give you "a detailed statement of the facts that have been disclosed, on the several trials that have grown out of the [Morgan] transaction," I herewith submit a statement of such facts, disclosed on the trials conducted by me, as District Attorney of Ontario county, as have a tendency to shew the motives of those who have perpetrated this outrage upon the rights of a citizen, and the measures taken to effect their designs.

The first information of William Morgan, and of the opinion of others concerning him, which has been disclosed in these trials, was found in an anonymous notice published some time in the spring or summer of 1826, in the Ontario Messenger, representing him as a disreputable man, or as guilty of bad conduct, and that particular information respecting him might be had on application at the lodge in Canandaigua. Of this notice I speak from recollection, as I have not the paper before me; but the foregoing, I believe, is the substance of it. It was not proven who carried that notice to be inserted in the newspaper; but I have been informed, and believe, that it was procured to be published by some of those who were afterwards concerned in the abduction.

During the summer of 1826, it was reported and generally understood, that Morgan was writing a book on freemasonry, to be published by David C. Miller, of Batavia, which reports were verified by subsequent events. His employment excited a great deal of feeling and resentment, among many of the masonic fraternity; and meetings were held at Le Roy and other places, to consider of measures to suppress the publication. A man was introduced to Miller, under pretence of assisting him with money in the publication, but for the real purpose of giving information where Morgan's writings were to be found. His name was Johns, a Canadian, and is said to have belonged to the British fur company. The possession of some part, if not the whole, of Morgan's manuscripts, was obtained by the conspirators, but in what manner they were obtained, and of the course of subsequent events which happened in Genesee county—inasmuch as they have not been investigated at trials in Ontario—I have no particular knowledge, except so far as I have detailed them; and so far as they were a subject of inquiry on the trials under my direction, as the inducement to further illegal acts.

There is some reason to believe that a conspiracy was formed in the counties west of Ontario, to abduct Morgan in a manner different from that which was finally adopted. He was arrested in Batavia, on the morning of the 11th, and was carried from the jail in Ontario on the evening of the 12th of September, 1826. On the 11th September, the same day that he was arrested in Batavia, persons from Lockport applied at Fort Niagara, for a place of confinement for Morgan, because he was about "to reveal the secrets of masonry." It is possible that those who acted at Canandaigua on the 12th, and the persons who were at Fort Niagara on the 11th, may have had a correspondence, though the distance between these places, as well as the testimony of Cheesbro before the court of sessions of Ontario county, in August, 1827, contradict this supposition. It is not very important, only as regards the evidence of common design to prevent the publication of the secrets of masonry.

On the 10th of September, 1826, Ebenezer C. Kingsley of Canandaigua, by the persuasion of Nicholas G. Cheesbro and others, made a complaint against Morgan, before J. Chipman, Esq. a justice of the peace, for stealing a shirt and cravat, the property of Kingsley. A warrant was issued on this complaint by the magistrate, directed to Cheesbro as one of the coroners of Ontario county, or to any constable of the county, for Morgan's arrest, and was delivered to Cheesbro, who hired a post-coach and procured Halloway Hayward, a constable, and three or four others, to accompany him to Batavia, where Morgan then resided. The party arrived at Batavia on the evening of the same day, and on the next morning, the 11th September, the warrant was served by Hayward, the constable, he having first procured it to be endorsed by a magistrate of Genesee county, and immediately after the arrest, the same party returned to Canandaigua, where they arrived at evening. Morgan was immediately brought before Chipman, examined and discharged from the arrest; the charge of larceny appearing to be unfounded, as the articles were borrowed of Kingsley without a felonious intent. I omit to relate the incidents of this journey, as I do not regard them as important in the further development of the conspiracy.

After Morgan was discharged from the arrest, a demand of two dollars was presented to the said justice against him, in favor of Cheesbro, as assignee of one Ackley. For the demand, Morgan confessed a judgment, and an execution was forthwith issued. He offered his coat to the constable to satisfy the execution. It was not taken; and he was arrested and locked up in jail. This took place on the evening of the 11th September, after the return from Batavia.

Morgan was abducted from the jail on the evening of the 12th September, having remained there about twenty-four hours. The means adopted for that purpose, are distinct in their nature, and will be stated presently.

Hayward and the persons who went to Batavia, were indicted for a participation in the abduction from the jail. On the trial of that indictment, Cheesbro being called by the defendants, testified that there was no understanding between him and the defendants, "of any thing to be done to Morgan, other than bringing him to Canandaigua and trying him." "The idea of Morgan's going west originated here, (Canandaigua) after the discharge from the warrant;" and that he "did not understand that Morgan was to leave the jail until near night on the 12th." He also swore that his motives in prosecuting Morgan were to convict him of stealing, and thus to suppress the publication of the book on Freemasonry—that fearing that David C. Miller would come from Batavia, pay the debt, and release Morgan, a communication was sent to Morgan's friends at Rochester, informing them that Morgan was in jail for debt—that towards evening on the 12th of September, several persons communicated to him the purpose of removing Morgan—that they were the same persons who had been informed of Morgan's imprisonment, by the communication sent to Rochester—and that he (Cheesbro) hired the carriage in which Morgan was carried off, and paid for it.

Other facts will appear which prove that the motives which actuated those who conspired against Morgan, were to prevent the publication of his book on freemasonry. The same objects were avowed in the meetings in Genesee county, by those who visited Fort Niagara, by those who acted in Canandaigua, and by those who came to Canandaigua in consequence of the information sent to Rochester. So far, therefore, as their motives were then avowed, the suppression of Morgan's publication was the object to be effected by the conspiracy; and the abduction of the man was the mean by which that object was to be accomplished.

The abduction was effected on the night of the 12th September, 1826. At the court of general sessions, held in the month of November ensuing, an indictment was found against Nicholas G. Cheesbro, Loton Lawson, Edward Sawyer and John Sheldon, charging in the first count that they with others had conspired "to falsely imprison one William Morgan, and to deprive him of his liberty without any legal warrant or justifiable cause, and to kidnap him, the said William Morgan, and to carry away and transport him, the said William Morgan, and to cause and procure him, the said William Morgan, to be carried away and transported into foreign parts and places to the jurors aforesaid unknown, and without and beyond the jurisdiction and territory of the state of New-York," alleging the overt act, that in pursuance of such conspiracy, on the 12th day of September, 1826, they, "the said William Morgan, against the will of the said Wm. Morgan, and without any legal warrant or justifiable cause, did forcibly and violently take, lead, drag, carry away, and carry off into foreign parts and places unknown to the said jurors, and without the territory and jurisdiction of the state of New-York." Other counts charged a conspiracy for the like purpose, except that the false imprisonment was not alleged to be in places "without and beyond the territory and jurisdiction of the state of New-York." False imprisonments, riot, and assault and battery, were charged in other counts. Another indictment was also found against the same persons for the distinct offence of kidnapping. These indictments went to the court of oyer and terminer, held in January, 1827, when the defendants, except Sheldon, plead guilty to both; and Sheldon, on trial, was convicted of the offences charged in the indictment for conspiracy. A nolle prosequi was entered on the indictment for kidnapping, as in fact but one conviction could be had, and I elected, by the advice of my associates, to move for judgment on the indictment for conspiracy.

If there were no other proofs, an estimate of the degree of violence, and of the extent of the outrage might be inferred from the record of these convictions.

On the trial of Sheldon, as he admitted the conspiracy, it only became necessary to establish his participation in it. Of course the inquiry was a limited one, and no very important facts were elicited. As Cheesbro had avowed himself as the principal in the conspiracy, it may be interesting to know what he offered to the court in explanation of his conduct and in mitigation of punishment. The following extract from his affidavit, sworn to before the clerk of Ontario county, on the 5th day of January, 1827, and read to the court, will explain with what views he entered into the conspiracy: "This deponent knew that it was intended to release the said Morgan from jail, and was informed and verily believed, that the said Morgan had consented to go away; and that the only object of this deponent in assisting to get said Morgan out of jail, was to keep him from falling into the hands of David C. Miller of Batavia: that he, this deponent, had been informed and believed, that said William Morgan was compiling a book on the subject of masonry, at the instigation or concurrence of said Miller, who was to print the same with a view to pecuniary profit; in which book the said Morgan pretended to disclose the secrets, which he averred that he had most solemnly engaged never to reveal: that deeming such publication calculated to degrade the institution of masonry, and to bring disgrace on the members thereof, this deponent was desirous to remove the said Morgan to some place beyond the reach of the said Miller, where his friends and acquaintance might endeavor to convince him of the impropriety of his conduct, and prevent the consequence before mentioned."

You will collect from the preceding statement, that the attempt to convict Morgan of larceny had failed; that on the 11th September, 1826, he had been committed to jail on civil process; that information of his imprisonment had been communicated to persons at Rochester; that those persons came to Canandaigua on the 12th, and avowed their intention to carry him off; and that a carriage was procured for the purpose, This carriage was stationed a few rods from the jail, from whence it might be ready to start at a given signal. Previous to this, Lawson had been at the jail, had seen Morgan, and had proposed to Mrs. Hall, the wife of the jailer, who was then absent, to pay the debt, as an act of friendship to Morgan, and take him out of jail. Mrs. Hall was afraid this would not be correct, but engaged to release him if Cheesbro or Sawyer should advise her to do so. They both came to the jail, and on their recommending it, she consented to release Morgan. When she went towards the prison, Lawson went towards the street door and made a signal. She turned towards the door, and saw a man come up the jail steps. She then released Morgan, and after locking the prison, went to the door and saw Morgan between Lawson and the man who came up the steps, going eastwardly. Morgan struggled and cried murder; his mouth was stopped, and he was forced off down the street. At the same time that this was passing in and near the jail, others made a signal for the carriage to come, by rapping on a well curb, when the carriage started after the party, overtook them, they all got in, and it was then turned towards Rochester; this was between 9 and 10 o'clock in the evening. A fact to be noted, is, that Morgan in the struggle lost his hat near the jail. This carriage was driven by Hiram Hubbard, who then kept a livery stable at Canandaigua. He has testified that he drove the party a little distance beyond Hanford's landing, near the east end of the ridge road, where he arrived on the morning of the 13th September, about sunrise, and that the party got out in the road at a place distant from a house. He also testified, that on his return to Rochester he met a carriage with a pair of horses. On this day, the 13th September, a carriage was procured of Ezra Platt, who kept a livery stable at Rochester, under pretence of going to Lewiston, to the installation of a lodge. Mr. Platt does not know who hired the carriage; says it was applied for before day light in the morning; that the man who drove it has left the country; and that he is not now certain even of the driver's name. But a carriage on this 13th day of September, 1826, is satisfactorily proven to have passed along the ridge road to Lewiston, under peculiar and extraordinary circumstances, not stopping at public houses, and drawn by horses belonging to persons living on the road, changed in bye places, and driven by men who could not be ordinarily engaged in such an occupation, and generally preceded by some one to procure the necessary relays of horses. It is also established that this carriage was stopped in a back street in Lewiston, and that on the morning of the 14th September, at a very early hour, another carriage was procured to go to Fort Niagara; that this carriage was driven by Corydon Fox, a stage driver, who was directed to go to this other carriage, standing in the back street, and get his passengers; that he did go to that carriage and take out four or five men; one of whom had no hat on, and appeared to be helpless. The party were then driven toward the Fort; called at Col. King's, who lived at Youngstown; took him in, and then drove to a place near the Fort, where all got out in a private place, and the carriage returned to Lewiston. It has also been proven, that on the 14th September, a man was confined in the magazine at Fort Niagara.

The preceding facts were proven on the trials of Sheldon, in January, 1827; of Hayward and his associates, at Batavia, in August, 1827; of Bruce, Darrow and Turner, in August, 1828. I do not pretend to state all the facts that have been proven: I have aimed at detailing only the prominent features of the transaction.

I am not aware that any proof has been given on the traverse of an indictment, identifying Morgan at Fort Niagara. It can now be established that he was in the carriage which passed on the ridge road, on the 13th September. Such is my information from a source in which I have every confidence. This proof has not been in our power until very lately. No person who was engaged in the conspiracy at the frontier, except Bruce, has been convicted. Judgment has not yet been given against him, by reason of a question of law pending before the supreme court, and which is not yet decided.

The foregoing proofs have been deemed sufficient by an intelligent jury, to find Bruce guilty of participating in the conspiracy; he being one of those who went to the Fort in the carriage from Lewiston, on the morning of the 14th September. Edward Giddins has published his knowledge of the transactions at Fort Niagara on the 14th September, and the days subsequent thereto. I annex an extract from his testimony, (omitting names,) given before the grand jury of Ontario county, relative to those events. I think proper to communicate this information, because the persons indicted upon it have all been tried, and because he has published the same information under his own name. Putting it, therefore, in this shape, is only authenticating the information as his. At the same time I think proper to inform you, that he has been rejected as a witness by our court of general sessions, on the ground of religious belief. Men of character and integrity, who are well acquainted with Giddins, speak of him as a man of veracity and truth. And his information is certainly corroborated in some important particulars, by unimpeached witnesses; nor is it inconsistent or improbable, when compared with that established beyond all doubt, by the mouth of many witnesses.

No doubt seems to remain of Morgan's having been forcibly carried to Fort Niagara. Of his subsequent fate, we are left in a great measure to conjecture. If he had been there restored to his liberty, the object of the conspiracy would not have been accomplished; the book would not have been suppressed. A continued coercion and false imprisonment would have secured the object; but where could that be exercised? Where, in this part of North America, is the place in which a man could be imprisoned, secretly and violently for this length of time? An alternative of a dreadful character suggests itself, which would not only effectually prevent his publications, but silence also the story of his wrongs. Charity might infer a result less tragical, if the conspirators had condescended to inform their fellow-citizens in what manner they had disposed of the man. But in the absence of all such explanation, suspicions of the most fatal event may be indulged.

With respect to my views of the course to be pursued hereafter, I remark, that in August, 1827, I pointed out to governor Clinton the importance of having some person clothed with general authority to prosecute these offenders. To establish the guilt of an individual, it is necessary to prove many distinct facts existing in different counties. The district attorney of one county may have acquired a knowledge of all these facts, and the ability to conduct a trial with efficiency. His information is of no use to the prosecutor of another county. To the latter it is all new ground: whereas, one counsel prosecting in all the counties, carries with him a knowledge of all the facts, and of the witnesses necessary to establish their continuity. My opinion is, that the employment of special counsel should be continued. Although all the advantages and consequences may not have been, at this time, secured from the employment of such counsel, that many have anticipated, yet I do not think that the experiment has been fully tried. In fact, if that is not effectual, I am at a loss to devise a remedy. However we may deprecate that wantonness and cruelty which have marked the conduct of the guilty men engaged in this transaction, we cannot deprive them of their legal and constitutional rights, which are to be tried by law, as it was when the offence was committed, and by a jury of their country. It is doubtless an honor to our jurisprudence that, previous to this outrage upon Morgan, we had no law adequately to punish the stealing and perpetual false imprisonment of a free white man. It had not, before that event, entered into the minds of our legislators, to conceive that any men, enjoying liberty, could wilfully and wickedly deprive a fellow-citizen, perpetually, of that inestimable blessing. Hence we had no law to punish such an unworthy act, to a degree corresponding with its enormity. I remark upon this more particularly, because many honest but ignorant men have attributed the comparatively slight punishment of those who have been convicted, to a sinister and corrupt influence upon the court and its officers, rather than to the law of the land; not reflecting, or not knowing, that no conviction for murder can be had, until a homicide is proved to have been committed, and that the kidnapping or abduction of a white man in 1826, was merely false imprisonment and misdemeanor, punishable by fine or imprisonment in the county jail, or both, at the discretion of the court.

An extraordinary tribunal, if it proceeded according to the course of the common law and the usages of our courts, would have no advantage over the courts of justice already established. If a tribunal were erected, with powers of a summary character, it could not act against the liberty or rights of a citizen. The writ of habeas corpus would render its judgments of no avail. If delays in the proceedings of our courts do occur, it is to be observed that important testimony is constantly accumulating.

The abduction of Morgan is a singular and striking event in our history; and as in case of other irretrievable evils, it is easier to lament it than to find a remedy. I have no hesitation in saying, that it has resulted from the confidence which members of the masonic society have felt in its power and influence; from a false estimate of the value of that institution, and from an opinion that they were bound to preserve it from violation and injury. Public opinion is the omnipotent law of our land, and whether its slow but certain correction is not the best remedy for this, and the most certain preventive of future mischiefs, is for the wisdom of the legislature to decide.

It is worthy of remark, that it has been proved or conceded, that all those who have been engaged in these outrages, were members of the masonic fraternity: a fact not without meaning in reference to the objects of the conspiracy.

I have the honor to be, respectfully,
Your obd't. servant,
B. WHITING,
Dis. Att'y. Ontario County.

Extract from the testimony of Edward Giddins, given before the grand jury of Ontario county, omitting names.

"Edward Giddins, living near Fort Niagara, testified—'That on the morning of the 14th September, 1826, about one o'clock, he was called up by ———, who said, we have got that rascal of a Morgan, who is going to reveal all our secrets, and you must get up and set us across the river. While witness was getting ready, ——— came to him and said, let me have some water for Morgan, for the poor curse is famishing. Witness then went out, and found Morgan sitting on a log, in custody of ——— and ———. ——— and ——— then led Morgan down to the boat, and they all went across the river. Morgan had a handkerchief tied around his eyes, and was also pinioned. The boat remained on the Canada shore about two hours, with Morgan and —— in it, while —— and —— went up into the village. On their return to the boat, there were two men with them: and after a little conversation, the strangers returned, and ——, ——, ——, and Morgan returned to the American shore. Morgan complained of hard usage, and was going on to say something more, when ——— presented a pistol to his breast, and threatened his life, if he did not stop. —— and —— then led Morgan up to the Fort, and confined him in the magazine. Morgan appeared very weak, and much distressed. The reason assigned for not leaving Morgan across the river was, that they were not yet ready to receive him, and he was therefore brought back and put into the magazine. On the evening of the 15th, ——— and another man had a dispute about what should be done with Morgan. ——— was for executing him immediately; the other man was for releasing him. The key of the magazine was then delivered to ——, who delivered it over to one ——, who kept it after that.

'A council was held next evening, out on the plain, near the grave-yard, composed of seven persons, viz. ———. They were all, at first, for executing him immediately. Mr. —— and another person soon relented, and the others soon concluded not to decide his fate that night, but wait until they could hear from the East.

'On the 21st or 22d September, ——— said to witness, I believe they have murdered that man, (meaning Morgan,) and went on to state to witness, that —— had been to —— and requested him to take a boat to a certain place in the night, which ——— refused to do, because he believed they were going to murder Morgan. Next morning, went to the place where Morgan had been confined, and called him, but found he was not there.'"

ONONDAGA C. H. January 30, 1829.

The Hon. A. Hazeltine, Chairman of the Committee in Assembly, to which was referred so much of the Governor's Message as relates to the abduction of William Morgan.

SIR—On my return this morning, I received your favor, in relation to the subject alluded to in the above reference, requesting of me the communication of any other facts, the knowledge of which I may be in possession of, and which may with propriety be made public, and not yet disclosed in the course of judicial investigation. In reply to which I respectfully state: Firstly, that the testimony heretofore taken on the trial of one of the parties charged, although made public (and substantially correct,) in the Anti-Masonic Enquirer, of 26th August, 1828, was not inserted in my report to the executive, for the reason that I thought it not proper to give the testimony a quasi official sanction, until the cause was finally decided, and for the still more controlling reason, that the doing so, would render the impannelling of subsequent impartial juries, already sufficiently embarrassing, still more difficult. Permit me, however, to refer you to that paper, should you wish a detailed statement of the testimony, and from which I think I should not materially vary.

Secondly, in the course of an examination before a grand jury, during the first week in this month, and consequently since my report, I have elicited additional and material testimony in relation to the identity of William Morgan, and some precise circumstances occurring while carrying him off: this, however, does not extend beyond the abduction.

Thirdly, I have also been put in possession of some information of a graver character, and from a source entitled to credit; but I thought it not expedient to call the witness before the grand jury; it was not necessary for the purpose of finding the bill true which I had laid before it. These matters, however, can not, in my judgment, "with propriety be made public," as they would tend very much to prejudge the guilt of persons indicted. It can hardly be necessary for me to say, that I shall comply, however, with your directions, in this particular.

I am, very respectfully, yours, &c.

D. MOSELEY.

To the Honorable the Legislature of the State of New-York, in Senate and Assembly convened.

The memorial of the undersigned, delegates from the counties of Chautauque, Erie, Niagara, Orleans, Genesee, Monroe, Livingston, Ontario, Wayne, Yates, Seneca and Tompkins, assembled in convention at Le Roy, this 6th day of March, 1828, respectfully represents,

That your memorialists, representing in said convention, a large portion of the inhabitants of said several counties, have convened for the purpose of taking into consideration the nature, tendency and objects of speculative freemasonry, as the same has lately been revealed; and of devising legal and proper means to resist what they deem to be its alarming influences in opposition to the interests and rights of the people.

That there has been exhibited to your memorialists in this convention, the most conclusive evidence that the several oaths and obligations hereto annexed in print, are substantially, if not literally, the oaths imposed and taken in the several degrees of masonry. That by reference to said oaths, your honorable bodies will discover that they are not only impious and profane, but replete with obligations incompatible with our social and moral relations, and which, if fulfilled, must go far to subvert our political institutions.

Your memorialists, without intending to point out particularly the obligations deemed most objectionable, will merely refer to the promises to keep all secrets of a brother or companion, be they what they may; to deliver him from difficulty, he being right or wrong; and to promote his military and political advancement in preference to all others, as engagements which must materially affect the due administration of justice, and essentially destroy that equality of rights and privileges, which it is the great object of our constitution and laws to preserve.

Although your memorialists honestly believe, that a society composed of numerous and influential numbers, bound together by secret obligations, constitutes a political evil of the most serious magnitude, yet they do not propose requesting the interposition of your power to suppress it, in any other way than by the application of general principles of legislation, which are sanctioned by the history and precedents of our government.

Not only the government of this country, which is emphatically one of law, but all other civilized communities regard their own existence, as well as the most important reciprocal rights of their members, to depend essentially upon the binding force or efficacy of judicial oaths; every right and interest on this side the grave is subject to their influence; consequently to destroy their moral or legal sanction, is to strike a fatal blow at the security of reputation, property, and even of life itself. Hence it is that oaths, or rather the right of administering them, is a constituent part of the civil or judicial policy of all countries; the solemnities and sanctions under which they may be imposed, become a part of the public law, subjected to the superintending control of the respective governments. Your memorialists therefore feel confident, if your honorable bodies shall concur with them in opinion, that the practice of taking the numerous profane obligations of freemasonry, as well as the obligations themselves, tend in an important degree to destroy the solemn influence of judicial oaths, that then you will feel it to be a high duty to provide, by law, an efficacious remedy for so great an evil.

Your memorialists are aware that since the blasphemous rites and obligations of freemasonry have been divulged, that many of its votaries assert them to be mere matters of form and ceremony, which neither have, nor are designed to have a binding force upon the consciences of the initiated, although your memorialists not only believe, but know, that their obligations have been, and are regarded by many persons, otherwise respectable and intelligent, as of paramount force to the laws of the country, and the sacred rights of the citizen. Yet conceding for the present that they are esteemed idle and nugatory, we call your serious attention to the form and language of those oaths which are herewith presented, and then earnestly demand of you, as the guardians of the laws, and of our dearest rights, to declare whether the continual administering them is not an evil of alarming import.

Your memorialists conceive that religion, at most, will not justify the use of any other oaths than such as are indispensable for the administration of justice and the preservation of government and laws; and that human policy equally requires that they should be confined to those objects; and that the power of administering them should be restrained to such officers only as are or may be legally designated for this purpose. It is in view of their importance that every government has devised such forms for administering them, and such punishments for their violation, as are deemed most likely to ensure the greatest fidelity in their observance. But in all countries the inadequacy of human laws alone is admitted, and every where, the aid of religious faith and the penalties of a divine law are invoked. The importance of these additional sanctions, so universally acknowledged, that not only in this state, but as your memorialists believe, throughout christendom, no person disbelieving the existence of a God, or human accountability to divine laws, can be admitted to an oath in a court of justice. But notwithstanding the united terrors of human punishment and divine vengeance are thus wisely required, for our security against perjury, the undeniable increase of this crime is a lamentable proof of their insufficiency.

Without pretending to assign every cause that may contribute to this increase, your memorialists feel justified in asserting, that a principal one may be found in the frequency of administering, taking and witnessing extra-judicial oaths. It can not be denied, that the solemnity and moral influence, even of judicial oaths, upon the human mind, are liable to be diminished by their frequent repetition; and it is evident that this effect must be produced, to a much greater degree, when oaths are imposed with the mock solemnities, and connected with the ridiculous forms and impious rites of freemasonry. By a reference to these numerous oaths, it will be perceived that the recipient is gradually familiarized to the irreverent use of God's name, so that when he shall have reached the highest degrees, and witnessed, as he must have done in his progress, the frequent repetition of them by others, he is prepared to imprecate divine vengeance in the most blasphemous language, with emotions totally different than should be experienced by witnesses in courts of justice. Is it possible that divine sanctions should not loose their influence on minds familiarized to such impious mockery? If so, one of the great securities for judicial oaths is affected, and it becomes the duty of the legislature to correct the evil.

Your memorialists feel assured, that if the administering of masonic oaths produced no other evil than what has been set forth, and which can hardly be denied by the fraternity itself, that alone would constitute sufficient grounds for their present application. But this is not the fact. The obligatory influence of the oaths doubtless is felt in different degrees, by different persons on whom they are imposed, according as their education, intellectual powers and moral feelings vary. By some they may be altogether disregarded, while over others they exercise an uncertain and irregular influence; but there is abundant proof that multitudes, embracing men of every rank and profession of society, regard the obligations, even to the infliction of their horrible penalties, as of controlling force. This assertion is sustained by public events, which must be equally known to you as to us, for they were not done in a corner or under a bushel.

We need not expatiate on the alarming outrages in this vicinity, which resulted in the abduction and secret murder of a citizen, for they have stained the page of our history, and inflicted a wound on the character of the state which never can be healed, until the supremacy of our laws is established by the detection and punishment of the offenders.

But we ask, can this be accomplished, so long as secret societies are permitted to spread their influence over the country, and to direct their hidden and alarming powers to protect and defend them; and whilst our laws tolerate judges, and jurors, and witnesses, to bind themselves by oaths which set the forms and sanctions of judicial proceedings at defiance? Circumstantial evidence, but of the most satisfactory nature, has convinced your memorialists that there is a great number of persons in this state, and those too who would seem to have a deep stake in the well being of society, that are sufficiently acquainted with the particulars of the fate of Morgan, to be able, if they would, to bring his murderers to justice. But so far from affording their aid to this object, many of them have been active in suppressing public sympathy, and misleading public opinion as to his fate.

This fact, which your memorialists doubt not on inquiry will be made satisfactorily evident, exhibits the illegal influence of masonic oaths in a more striking view, than the perpetration of any single crime, however enormous.

It is hardly necessary for your memorialists to observe, after experiencing that the force of these oaths has overcome the highest obligations to society, the strongest feelings of nature, and the fear of divine vengeance, that they cannot doubt the same influence is often exerted, in prompting, perpetrating and concealing less shocking offences. For it requires no argument to show, that if the obligation is observed, even to the taking away the life of a fellow-being, its observance will be far easier obtained to the commission of crimes less abhorrent to humanity.

In concluding, your memorialists beg leave to present the whole subject as one of deep interest to the state, and worthy your most deliberate investigation, and they humbly pray, all the premises being considered, that your honorable body will devise and pass a law, declaring all oaths not sanctioned by the public laws of the state, to be wholly void, and prohibiting, by suitable penalties, their administration.

And your memorialists, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

On the nature and tendency of extra-judicial oaths.

All oaths not authorised by law, deserve no higher or better name than profanity. But, in order fully to understand the evil tendency and pernicious influence of such oaths, it is necessary to enter into a detailed examination of the principles contained in the obligations entered into by masons. We will therefore transcribe, in full, the master mason's oath, as a specimen of the whole, although we are told from good authority, that it bears no resemblance, in point of iniquity, to those of the higher degrees; and that, indeed, when compared with them, it is pure morality. We trust the day is not distant, when the public will be better informed as to the nature and principles of the higher degrees.

"I, A. B., of my own free will and accord, in presence of Almighty God, and this worshipful lodge of master masons, erected to God, and dedicated to the holy order of St. John, do hereby and hereon, most solemnly and sincerely promise and swear, in addition to my former obligations, that I will not give the degree of a master mason to any one of an inferior degree, nor to any other being in the known world, except it be to a true and lawful brother or brethren, master mason, or within the body of a just and lawfully constituted lodge of such; and not unto him, nor unto them, whom I shall hear so to be, but unto him, and them only, whom I shall find so to be, after strict trial and due examination, or lawful information received. Farthermore, do I promise and swear, that I will not give the master's word which I shall hereafter receive, neither in the lodge nor out of it, except it be on the five points of fellowship, and then not above my breath. Farthermore, do I promise and swear, that I will not give the grand hailing sign of distress, except I am in real distress, or for the benefit of the craft when at work; and should I ever see that sign given, or the word accompanying it, and the person who gave it appearing to be in distress, I will fly to his relief at the risk of my life, should there be a greater probability of saving his life, than losing my own. Farthermore, do I promise and swear, that I will not wrong this lodge, nor a brother of this degree, to the value of one cent, knowingly, myself, nor suffer it to be done by others, if in my power to prevent it. Farthermore, do I promise and swear, that I will not be at the initiating, passing and raising a candidate at one communication, without a regular dispensation from the grand lodge for the same. Farthermore, do I promise and swear, that I will not be at the initiating, passing or raising a candidate in a clandestine lodge, I knowing it to be such.—Farthermore, do I promise and swear, that I will not be at the initiating of an old man in dotage, a young man in non-age, an atheist, irreligious libertine, idiot, mad man, hermaphrodite, nor woman. Farthermore, do I promise and swear, that I will not speak evil of a brother master mason, neither behind his back nor before his face, but will apprize him of approaching danger, if in my power. Farthermore, do I promise and swear, that I will not violate the chastity of a master mason's wife, mother, sister or daughter, I knowing them to be such, nor suffer it to be done by others, if in my power to prevent it. Farthermore, do I promise and swear, that I will support the constitution of the grand lodge of the state of—— under which this lodge is held, and conform to all the by-laws, rules and regulations of this or any other lodge of which I may at any time hereafter become a member. Farthermore, do I promise and swear, that I will obey all regular signs, summons or tokens, given, handed, sent or thrown to me from the hand of a brother master mason, or from the body of a just and lawfully constituted lodge of such, provided it be within the length of my cable-tow. Farthermore, do I promise and swear, that a master mason's secrets given to me in charge as such, and I knowing him to be such, shall remain as secure and inviolable in my breast, as in his own when communicated to me, murder and treason excepted, and they left at my own election. Farthermore I do promise and swear, that I will go on a master mason's errand whenever required, even should I have to go barefoot and barehead, if within the length of my cable-tow. Farthermore, I do promise and swear, that I will always remember a brother master mason, when on my knees offering up my devotions to Almighty God. Farthermore, do I promise and swear, that I will be aiding and assisting all poor, indigent master masons, their wives and orphans, wheresoever dispersed round the globe, as far as in my power, without injuring myself or family materially. Farthermore, do I promise and swear, that if any part of this my solemn oath or obligation be omitted at this time, that I will hold myself amenable thereto whenever informed. To all which, I do most solemnly and sincerely promise and swear, with a fixed and steady purpose of mind in me to keep and perform the same; binding myself under no less penalty, then to have my body severed in the midst, and divided to the north and south, and my bowels burnt to ashes in the centre, and scattered before the four winds of heaven, that there might not the least trace of remembrance remain among men or masons, of so vile and perjured a wretch as I should be, were I ever to prove wilfully guilty of violating any part of this my solemn oath or obligation of a master mason. So help me God, and keep me steadfast in the due performance of the same."

Masonic Anti-Masonic Proceedings.

At a convention of freemasons, opposed to secret societies, held at Le Roy, in the county of Genesee, N. Y. on Tuesday, February 19th, 1828: The convention organized at 1 o'clock P. M., and Elder David Bernard, of Warsaw, addressed the Throne of Grace. Leonard B. Rose, Esq. of Castile, was called to the Chair, and Elder David Bernard appointed Secretary.

Voted, that the Rev. James Cochrane, of Batavia, be requested to deliver an address to the convention, upon the subject of its present meeting.

[Mr. Cochrane rose and delivered an address.]

The objects of the meeting having been stated, it was agreed that the principles and obligations of freemasonry be freely discussed;—Therefore,

Voted, that the first obligation in masonry be read. Mr. H. A. Read, read the obligation of an "Entered Apprentice," as published by Capt. William Morgan. The chairman addressed the meeting on the binding nature of masonic obligations. Mr. S. D. Green, of Batavia, followed him on the same subject. Mr. H. A. Read, of Le Roy, spoke largely on the principles and obligations of the order; he was followed by J. Hascall, Esq. on the same subject. The Secretary then addressed the convention on the antiquity of the institution, showing that was not ancient; on the morality of the institution, showing that it did not promote morality; on the benevolence of the institution, showing that it was not benevolent; on the ceremonies of the institution, as far as the Royal Arch degree, showing that they were not only degrading to human nature, but blasphemous; on the principles of the institution as a system of Religion, showing that they were opposed to Christianity, and gave his reasons for believing it the duty of honest masons to expose its secrets and obligations to the world.

Voted, that the second and third obligations in masonry be read. They were accordingly read as published by Morgan.

Voted, that the 4th, 5th, 6th, and 7th obligations be read, as submitted to the convention, in manuscript. They were accordingly read by Mr. Read.

Mr. Read then spoke very extensively upon the obligations of Masonry: showing that they were diametrically opposed to good government, and subversive of the principles of justice and good order.

The convention then adjourned until 7 o'clock, P. M.

During the adjournment, Solomon Southwick, Esq. of Albany, who had been invited to attend the convention, arrived to take his seat as a member. A large and respectable concourse of citizens having convened, and being anxious to see the man, whom they considered the champion of their liberties, were admitted into the convention chamber, when Mr. Southwick was introduced by Elder Bernard. He briefly addressed them upon the pernicious effects of secret self-created societies in any government; particularly a republican government: reminded them with what jealousy the people of the United States had watched the introduction of societies and combinations anti-republican in their tendencies; and instanced the decline of the Cincinnati society, composed of many of the veterans of the revolution, and the opposition to that article of our federal constitution which authorises secret sessions of Congress, although they had not until lately become suspicious that the masonic institution had been all this while growing up amidst them, with their indulgence, to subvert their liberties. He remarked that he had not the least anticipation of being called upon to address his fellow-citizens, that he was wholly unprepared, and completely exhausted with his journey.

The citizens then departed, and the convention re-organized. The following resolution then passed unanimously.

Resolved, That the book written by Capt. William Morgan, and published by Col. David C. Miller, entitled "Illustrations of Masonry," is a fair and full exhibition of the three first degrees of speculative freemasonry; that we solemnly and unequivocally testify to the above, we cheerfully subscribe our names thereto. We certify according to the degrees we have taken:

Entered Apprentices.—Platt S. Beech, Henry Peck, David C. Miller.

Fellow Craft.—George W. Blodgett.

Master Masons.—Leonard B. Rose, George W. Harris, James Cochrane, Jonathan Foster, Edmund Badger, Orsamus Bowers, Jason Gratton, James Gray, Benjamin Cooley, Enos Bacheldor, A. E. Hutchins, John Tomlinson, Samuel D. Green, Pelatiah Dewey, Adam Richmond, David Snow, Seth M. Gates, Elijah Gray, Paschal D. Webb, John Anmock, James Taylor, William W. Phelps, B. Bliss.

Mark Master.—Solomon Southwick.

Royal Arch Masons.—Miles P. Lampson, David Bernard.

Knight of the Red Cross.—Richard Hollister.

Knight Templars, and Illustrious Knights of the Cross.—Anthony Cooley, Cephas A. Smith, Augustus P Hascall, Hollis Pratt, Herbert A. Read, James Ballard, John Hascall.

The obligations of Mark Master, Past Master, Most Excellent Master, and the Royal Arch degrees were again read, as follows:

Obligation of the 4th, or Mark Master's Degree.

I, A. B., of my own free will and accord, in presence of Almighty God, and this right worshipful lodge of Mark Master masons, do hereby and hereon, in addition to my former obligations, most solemnly and sincerely promise and swear, that I will not give the degree of a mark master mason to any one of an inferior degree, nor to any other person in the known world, except it be to a true and lawful brother or brethren of this degree, and not unto him nor unto them whom I shall hear so to be, but unto him and to them only whom I shall find so to be after strict trial and due examination or lawful information given. Furthermore do I promise and swear, that I will support the constitution of the general Grand Royal Arch Chapter of the United States of America, also the constitution of the Grand Royal Arch Chapter of this state under which this lodge is held, and conform to all the by-laws, rules and regulations of this or any other lodge of mark master masons of which I may at any time hereafter become a member; that I will obey all signs and summons given, handed, sent or thrown to me from the hand of a brother mark master mason, or from the body of a just and lawfully constituted lodge of such, provided it be within the length of my cable-tow. Furthermore, do I promise and swear, that I will not wrong this lodge, nor a brother of this degree, to the value of his wages or one penny, myself, knowingly, nor suffer it to be done by others, if in my power to prevent it. Furthermore, do I promise and swear, that I will not sell, swap, barter or exchange my mark, which I shall hereafter choose, nor send it a second time to pledge, until it is lawfully redeemed from the first. Furthermore, do I promise and swear, that I will receive a brother's mark when offered to me, requesting a favor, and grant him his request if in my power, and if it is not in my power to grant him his request, I will return him his mark with the value thereof, which is half a shekel of silver, or a quarter of a dollar. To all which, I do most solemnly and sincerely promise and swear, with a steady and fixed purpose of mind in me to keep and perform the same; binding myself under no less penalty, than to have my right ear smote off, that I may be forever unable to hear the word, and my right hand chopped off, as the penalty of an impostor, if I should ever prove wilfully guilty of violating any part of this my solemn oath or obligation of a mark master mason. So help me God, and keep me steadfast to keep and perform the same. Detach the hand and kiss the book.

Obligation of the 5th, or Past Master's Degree.

"I, A. B., of my own free will and accord, in presence of Almighty God, and this worshipful lodge of Past Master Masons, do hereby and hereon, most solemnly and sincerely promise and swear, in addition to my former obligations, that I will not give the degree of a past master mason to any one of an inferior degree, nor to any other person in the known world, except it be to a true and lawful brother or brethren, past master masons, or within the body of a just and lawfully constituted lodge of such; and not unto him, nor unto them, whom I shall hear so to be, but unto him, and them only, whom I shall find so to be, after strict trial and due examination, or lawful information; furthermore do I promise and swear, that I will obey all regular signs and summons, given, handed, sent or thrown from the hand of a brother of this degree, or from the body of a just and lawfully constituted lodge of such, provided it be within the length of my cable-tow; furthermore, do I promise and swear, that I will support the constitution of the General Grand Royal Arch Chapter of the United States of America, also the Grand Chapter of the state of —— under which this lodge is held, and conform to all the by-laws, rules and regulations of this or any other lodge of which I may at any time hereafter become a member, as far as in my power; furthermore do I promise and swear, that I will aid and assist all poor and indigent past master masons, their widows and orphans, wheresoever dispersed around the globe, they applying to me as such, as far as in my power, without material injury to myself or family; furthermore do I promise and swear, that the secrets of a brother of this degree, delivered to me in charge as such, shall remain as secure and inviolate in my breast, as they were in his own before communicated to me, murder and treason excepted, and they left to my own election; furthermore do I promise and swear, that I will not wrong this lodge, nor a brother of this degree, to the value of one cent, knowingly, myself, nor suffer it to be done by others, if in my power to prevent it; furthermore do I promise and swear, that I will not govern this lodge, nor any other over which I may hereafter preside, in a haughty, arbitrary or imperious manner, but will at all times use my utmost endeavors to preserve peace and harmony among the brethren; furthermore do I promise and swear, that I will not close this lodge, nor any over which I may at any time hereafter preside, without first giving a lecture on some of the preceding degrees; to all which I do most solemnly and sincerely promise and swear, with a fixed and steady purpose of mind in me to keep and perform the same, binding myself under no less penalty than to have my tongue split from tip to root, [or in some lodges, cleave to the roof of my mouth] that I might forever hereafter be unable to speak the word, if ever I should prove wilfully guilty of violating any part of this my solemn oath or obligation of a past master mason. So help me God, and keep me steadfast to keep and perform the same.

Obligation of the 6th, or Most Excellent Master's Degree.

I, A. B., of my own free will and accord, in presence of Almighty God, and this lodge of Most Excellent Master Masons, do hereby and hereon, in addition to my former obligations, most solemnly and sincerely promise and swear, that I will not give the degree of most excellent master mason to any of an inferior degree, nor to any other person or persons in the known world, except it be to a true and lawful brother or brethren of this degree, or within the body of a just and lawfully constituted lodge of such, and not unto him nor them whom I shall hear so to be, but unto him and them only whom I shall find so to be, after a strict trial and due examination or lawful information; furthermore do I promise and swear, that I will obey all regular signs and summons given, handed, sent or thrown to me from the hand of a brother of this degree, or from the body of a just and lawfully constituted lodge of such, provided it be within the length of my cable-tow; furthermore do I promise and swear, that I will support the constitution of the General Grand Royal Arch Chapter of the United States of America, also the Grand Royal Arch Chapter of —— under which this lodge is held, and conform to all the by-laws, rules and regulations of this or any other lodge of which I may at any time hereafter become a member; furthermore do I promise and swear, that I will aid and assist all poor and indigent brethren of this degree, their widows and orphans, wheresoever dispersed around the globe, as far as in my power, without injuring myself or family; furthermore do I promise and swear, that the secrets of a brother of this degree, given to me in charge as such, and I knowing him to be as such, shall remain as secure and inviolable in my breast, as his own, murder and treason excepted, and they left to my own free will and choice; furthermore do I promise and swear, that I will not wrong this lodge of most excellent master masons, nor a brother of this degree, to the value of any thing, knowingly, myself, nor suffer it to be done by others, if in my power to prevent it; furthermore do I promise and swear, that I will not speak evil of a brother, but will give due and timely notice of all approach of danger, if in my power; furthermore do I promise and swear, that I will dispense light and knowledge to all ignorant and uninformed brethren at all times, as far as in my power, without material injury to myself or family; to all which I do most solemnly swear, with a fixed and steady purpose of mind in me to keep and perform the same, binding myself under no less penalty than to have my breast torn open, and my heart and vitals taken from thence, and exposed to rot on the dunghill, if ever I violate any part of this my solemn oath or obligation of a most excellent master mason. So help me God, and keep me steadfast in the due performance of the same.

Obligation of the 7th, or Royal Arch Degree.

I, A. B., of my own free will and accord, in the presence of Almighty God, and this Chapter of Royal Arch Masons, erected to God, and dedicated to the holy order of St. John, do hereby and hereon most solemnly and sincerely promise and swear, in addition to my former obligations, that I will not give the degree of a royal arch mason to any one of an inferior degree, nor to any other being in the known world, except it be to a companion royal arch mason, or within the body of a just and lawfully constituted chapter of such, and not unto him or unto them whom I shall hear so to be, but unto him and them only whom I shall find so to be, after strict trial, due examination or lawful information received; furthermore, do I promise and swear, that I will not give the royal arch word which I shall hereafter receive, neither in the chapter nor out of it, except there be present two companion royal arch masons, who with myself make three, and then under the living arch, not above my breath; furthermore, do I promise and swear, that I will not wrong this chapter, nor a companion of this degree, to the value of any thing knowingly, myself, nor suffer it to be done by others, if in my power to prevent it; furthermore, do I promise and swear, that I will not be at the exaltation of a candidate at a clandestine chapter, I knowing it to be such; furthermore, do I promise and swear, that I will not assist or be present at the exaltation of a candidate for this degree upon any person who has not regularly received the several degrees of an Entered Apprentice, Fellow-craft, Master Mason, Mark Master, Past Master, and Most Excellent Master, to the best of my knowledge and belief; furthermore do I promise and swear that I will not assist nor see any more nor less than three candidates exalted at one and the same time; furthermore do I promise and swear, that I will not assist or be present at the forming and opening of a royal arch chapter, unless there shall be present nine regular royal arch masons; furthermore, do I promise and swear, that I will not speak evil of a companion royal arch mason, neither behind his back nor before his face, but will apprize him of approaching danger, if in my power; furthermore do I promise and swear, that I will not strike a companion royal arch mason in anger, so as to draw blood; furthermore, do I promise and swear, that I will support the constitution of G. G. R. A. Chapter of the U. S. A.: Also the constitution of the Grand Royal Arch of the state of ———, under which this chapter is held, and conform to all the by-laws, rules and regulations of this or any other chapter of which I may hereafter become a member; furthermore do I promise and swear, that I will obey all regular signs, summons or tokens, given, handed, sent or thrown to me from the hand of a companion royal arch mason, or from the body of a just and lawfully constituted chapter of such, provided it be within the length of my cable-tow; furthermore do I promise and swear, that I will aid and assist a companion royal arch mason whenever I shall see him engaged in any difficulty, so far as to extricate him from the same, whether he be right or wrong; furthermore do I promise and swear, that a companion royal arch mason's secrets, given me in charge as such, and I knowing him to be such, shall remain as secure and inviolable in my breast as in his own, when communicated to me, Murder and Treason Not excepted; furthermore do I promise and swear, that I will be aiding and assisting all poor and indigent royal arch masons, their widows and orphans, wheresoever dispered around the globe, so far as in my power, without injury to myself or family materially. To all of which I do most solemnly and sincerely promise and swear, with a fixed and steady purpose of mind in me to keep and perform the same, binding myself under the no less penalty than to have my skull struck off, and my brains exposed to the scorching rays of the sun, were I ever to prove wilfully guilty of violating any part of this my solemn oath of a royal arch mason. So help me God, and keep me steadfast in the due performace of the same.

Note.—Furthermore do I promise and swear, that I will vote for a companion royal arch mason before any other person of equal qualifications.

The political, moral, and religious nature and tendency of the foregoing obligations were again freely discussed, whereupon it was resolved by all the Royal Arch masons, that the foregoing obligations are, according to our best recollections, substantially true—and by the convention, unanimously, That they are neither legally, morally or religiously binding, and that they be published to the world.

The obligations of Knights of the Red Cross, Knights Templar, the sealed obligation and obligations of the Thrice Illustrious Order of the Cross were then read as follows:

Obligation of Knight of the Red Cross.

I, A. B. of my own free will and accord, in presence of the Supreme Architect of the Universe and these witnesses, do hereby and hereon most solemnly and sincerely promise and swear, that I will always hail, forever conceal and never reveal any of the secret arts, parts or points of the mysteries appertaining to the order of Knights of the Red Cross, unless it be to a true and lawful companion Sir Knight of the order, or within the body of a just and lawful council of such, and not unto him or them until by due trial and strict examination or lawful information, I find him or them lawfully entitled to receive the same. Furthermore do I promise and swear that I will answer and obey all due signs and regular summonses which shall be sent to me from a regular council of Knights of the Red Cross, if within the distance of 40 miles, natural infirmities and unavoidable accidents only excusing me. I furthermore promise and swear that I will not be present at the conferring this order of Knighthood upon any person unless he shall have previously regularly received the several degrees of Entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft, Master Mason, Mark Master, Past Master, Most Excellent Master and Royal Arch Mason, to the best of my knowledge and belief: I do furthermore promise and swear, that I will not assist or be present at the forming and opening of a council of Knights of the Red Cross, unless there be present at least 5 regular knights of the order, or the representatives of three different encampments acting under the sanction of a legal warrant: I furthermore promise and swear that I will vindicate the character of a courteous Sir Knight of the Red Cross when wrongfully traduced; that I will help him in a lawful occasion in preference to any brother of an inferior degree, and so far as honor, truth and justice may warrant: I furthermore do promise and swear, that I will support and maintain the by-laws of the council of which I may hereafter become a member, the rules and regulations of the Grand Encampment under which the same may be holden, together with the constitution and ordinances of the G. G. Encampment of the United States of America, so far as the same may come to my knowledge. To all which I solemnly promise and swear, binding myself under no less penalty than that of having my house torn down, the timber thereof set up, and I hanged thereon, and when the last trump shall blow, that I be forever excluded from the society of all true and courteous Knights, should I ever wilfully or knowingly violate any part of this solemn obligation of Knights of the Red Cross. So help me God, and keep me steadfast to keep and perform the same.

Templar's Oath.

I, A. B. of my own free will and accord, in the presence of Almighty God, and this Encampment of Knights Templars, do hereby and hereon, most solemnly and sincerely promise and swear, that I will always hail, forever conceal and never reveal any of the secret arts, parts or points appertaining to the mysteries of this order of Knights Templar, unless it be to a true and lawful companion Sir Knight Templar, or within the body of a just and lawful Encampment of such, and not unto him or them until by due trial, strict examination or lawful information, I find him or them lawfully entitled to the same: I furthermore promise and swear, that I will answer and obey all due signs and regular summonses which shall be given or sent to me from a regular Eucampment of Knights Templar, or given to me by the hands of a regular Sir Knight Templar, if within forty miles, natural infirmities and unavoidable accidents only excusing me: I furthermore promise and swear, that I will help, aid and assist, with my counsel, my word, and my purse, all poor indigent Knight Templars, their widows and orphans, they making application to me as such, and I finding them worthy, so far as I can do it without material injury to myself, and so far as truth, honor and justice may warrant: I furthermore promise and swear, that I will not assist or be present at the conferring of this order of knighthood upon any person who has not regularly received the several degrees of Entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft, Master Mason, Mark Master, Past Master, Most Excellent Master, Royal Arch Mason, and been regularly constituted a Knight of the Red Cross, to the best of my knowledge and belief: I furthermore promise and swear, that I will not assist or be present at the forming and opening of an Encampment of Knights Templar, unless there be present seven Knights of the order, or the representatives of three different Encampments acting under the sanction of a legal warrant: Furthermore do I promise and swear, that I will go the distance of forty miles, even barefoot and on frosty ground, to save the life and relieve the distresses of a worthy Knight, should I know that his distresses required it, and my abilities permit: Furthermore I promise and swear, that I will wield my sword in defence of innocent virgins, destitute widows and helpless orphans, and the Christian religion: Furthermore I promise and swear that I will support and maintain the by-laws of the Encampment of which I may hereafter become a member, the edicts and regulations of the Grand Encampment, under which the same may be holden, together with the laws and constitution of the General Grand Encampment of the U. States of America, so far as the same shall come to my knowledge: To all this I most solemnly and sincerely promise and swear, with a firm and steady resolution to perform and keep the same, without any hesitation, equivocation, mental reservation, or self-evasion of mind in me whatever, binding myself under no less penalty than to have my head struck off and placed on the highest spire in Christendom, should I knowingly or wilfully violate this my solemn obligation of Knights Templar. So help me God, and keep me steadfast to keep and perform the same.

Before administering the next obligation, the candidate is required to drink four libations; at the fifth libation he is presented with a human skull, and told he must submit to the degradation of drinking his fifth libation from this skull, or he cannot proceed any further; on his assenting to drink from this skull he is required to repeat the following obligation, called the sealed obligation, and in testimony of his sincerity, to partake of the wine from the skull:

Sealed Obligation.

This pure wine I now take in testimony of my belief in the mortality of the body, and the immortality of the soul: and may this libation appear as a witness against me, both here and hereafter; and as the sins of the whole world were laid upon the head of the Saviour, so may all the sins committed by the person whose skull this was, be heaped upon my head, in addition to my own, should I ever knowingly or wilfully violate or transgress any obligation that I have heretofore taken, take at this time, or shall at any future period take, in relation to any degree of masonry or order of Knighthood. So help me God.

1st Obligation.

You do now by your honor and in view of the power and union of the Illustrious order of the Cross, now first made known to you, and in dread presence of the Most Holy and Almighty God, solemnly and sincerely swear and declare, that to the end of your life you will not, either in consideration of gain, interest or honor, nor with good or bad design, ever take the least step or measure, or be instrumental in any such object, to betray or to communicate to any person or being, or member of the same in the known world, nor to any craft or crafts not entitled to them, any secret or secrets, ceremony or ceremonies, or any part thereof, appertaining to the order and degree, known among masons, Holy Illustrious Order of the Cross: That you will not, at any time or times whatever, either now or hereafter, directly or indirectly, by letter, figure or character, or by any mode whatever, expose or communicate any information, secrets or mysteries heretofore alluded to, and that you will never speak on or upon, or breathe, high or low, any ceremonies or secrets appertaining thereto, out of council, when there shall not be two or more Knight Companions of the order present beside yourself, and that in a safe and secure place, whereby any opinion, even of the nature and general principles of the institution, can be found by any other person, be he a mason or otherwise than a true Knight Companion of the Cross, nothing herein going to interfere with the prudent practice of the duties enjoined by the order, or any arrangement for their enforcement.

2d. You further swear, that should you ever know a companion violate any essential part of this obligation, you will use your most decided endeavors, by the blessing of God, to bring such person to the strictest and most condign punishment, agreeable to the rules and usages of our ancient fraternity, and this by pointing him out to the world as an unworthy and vicious vagabond, by opposing his interest, by deranging his business, by transferring his character after him wherever he may go, by exposing him to the contempt of the whole fraternity and the world, but of our illustrious order more especially, during his whole natural life, nothing herein going to prevent yourself, or any other when elected to the dignity of thrice illustrious knight, from retaining the ritual of the order, if prudence and caution appear to be the governing principles in so retaining it, such dignity authorising the elected to be governed by no rules but the dictates of his own judgment, in regard to what will best conduce to the interest of the order, but that he be responsible for the character of those whom he may induct, and for the concealment of said ritual.

3d. Should any thrice illustrious companion or acting officer of any council, which may have them in hand, require your aid in any emergency, in defence of the recovery of his said charge, you swear cheerfully to exercise all the assistance in his favor which the nature of the time and place will admit, even to the sacrifice of life, liberty and property; to all this you soberly swear; to all and every part thereof we bind you, and by ancient usage you bind yourself under the no less infamous penalty than dying the death of a traitor, by having a spear or other sharp instrument, like as our Divine Master, thrust in your left side, bearing testimony, even in death, of the power and justice of the mark of the Holy Cross.

2d Obligation.

I do now, by the honor and power of the mark of the holy and illustrious order of the cross, which I now hold to Heaven in my right hand, as the earnest of my faith, and in the dread presence of Most Holy and Almighty God, solemnly swear and declare, that I will give myself forever to this holy and illustrions order, confiding fully and unreservedly in the purity of their morals and the ardor of their pious enthusiasm for the recovery of the land of their fathers, and the blessed clime of our Lord's sufferings, and never to renounce the mark of the order, nor the claims and welfare of my brethren.

I swear to venerate the mark as the wisdom and decree of Heaven to unite our hands and our hearts in the work of holy crusade, and as an encouragement to act with zeal and efficiency; and I swear to consider its mysteries as the only proper test of an illustrious brother of the cross. I swear to wear the mark of this order without the least addition, except what I shall be legally entitled to by induction, forever, if not without the physical means of doing so, or its being contrary to propriety, and even then, if possible, to wear the holy cross; and I swear to put a chief dependence for the said worthy and pious objects therein.

I swear to put confidence unlimited in every illustrious brother of the cross, as a true and worthy follower of the blessed Jesus, who has sought this land not for private good, but piety, and the religion of the Most High and Almighty God.

I swear never to permit my political principles, nor private interest to become counter to his, if forbearance and brotherly kindness can operate to prevent it, and never to meet him, if I know it, in war or in peace, under such circumstances that I may not in justice to myself, my cross and country, wish him unqualified success; and if perchance it should happen without my knowledge of being informed thereof, that I will use my best endeavors to satisfy him, even to the relinquishing my arms or purpose. I will never shed another's blood, or thwart his good fortune, knowing him to be such, nor see it done by others, if it is in my power to prevent it.

I swear to advance my brother's best interest by always supporting his military fame, and political preferment, in opposition to another, and by employing his arms and his aid in his vocation under all circumstances, where I shall not suffer more by so doing than he by my neglecting to do so.

I swear to look on his enemies as my enemies, and his friends as my friends, and stand forth to mete out tender kindness or vengeance accordingly, but never to intrude on his social or domestic relations to his hurt or dishonor, by claiming his privileges, or by debauching or defaming his female relations and friends.

I swear never to see calmly, or without earnest desires and decided measures to prevent the ill treatment, slander or defamation of any Brother Knight, nor ever to view danger, or the least shadow of injury about to fall on his head, without well and truly informing him thereof; and if in my power to prevent it, never to fail by sword or counsel, to defend his welfare and good name.

I swear never to prosecute a brother before those who know not our order, till the remonstrance of a council shall be inadequate to do me justice.

I swear to keep secret my brother's secrets, both when delivered to me as such, and when the nature of the information is such as to require secrecy for his welfare.

I swear to hold myself bound to him, especially in affliction and adversity, to contribute to his necessities, my prayers, my influence and my purse.

I swear to be under the control of my council, or if belonging to none, to that which is nearest to me, and never to demur to, or complain at any decree, concerning me, which my brothers as a council, shall conceive me to deserve, and enforce on my head to my hurt and dishonor.

I swear to obey all summons, sent from any council to me, or from any most Illustrious Knight, whether Illustrious counsellor for the time being, or by induction; and to be governed by the constitution, usages and customs of the order, without variation or change.

I swear never to see or permit more than two candidates, who with a seignior inductor will make three, to be advanced at the same time, in any council where I shall be; nor shall any candidate by suffrage, be inducted without a unanimous vote of the Illustrious Brethren in council, nor shall any council advance any member, there not being three Illustrious Knights, or one most Illustrious, and four Illustrious Knights of the cross present, which latter may be substituted by most Illustrious Induction;—nor yet when there shall not be a full and proper mark of the order, such as usage has adopted to our altar of metal, or other durable and worthy materials contained within the apartments of council, as also the Holy Bible; nor will I ever see a council upened for business without the ceremony of taking the mark exercised on the character of every brother, prayers, and the reading the 35th Psalm of David. Nor will I ever see or consent to, or countenance more than two persons of the same business or calling in life, to belong to, or be inducted and advanced in any one council of which I am a member, at the same time, nothing therein going to prevent or exclude members from other parts of the country, or from foreign parts, from adjoining us, if they consent formally and truly to stand in difference and defence first of their bar brethren in council, nor to prevent advancements to fill vacancies occasioned by death or removal. To all them, and every part thereof, I do now as before, by the honor and power of the mark, as by an honorable and awful oath, which confirmeth all things in the dread presence of the most Holy and Almighty God, solemnly and in truth, bind and obligate my soul, and in the earthly penalties, to wit: that for the violation of the least matter or particle, of any of the here taken obligations, I be made the silent and mute subject of the displeasure of the Illustrious order, and have their power and wrath turned on my own head; and to my destruction and dishonor, which like the nail of Jael, may be the sure end of an unworthy wretch, by piercing my temples with a true sense of my ingratitude; and for a breach of silence in case of such an unhappy event, that I shall die the infamous death of a traitor, by having a spear or other sharp weapon, like as my Lord, thrust in my left side, bearing testimony, even in death, of the power of the mark of the Holy and Illustrious Cross, before I. H. S. our thrice Illustrious counsellor in heaven, the grand council of the good. To this I swear. Glory to our most Holy and Almighty God, and good will to our country.

After another short discussion, the Knights present then unanimously resolved, That the foregoing obligations are substantially correct; and by this convention unanimously, that they are neither legally, morally or religiously binding, and that they be published to the world.

The convention then adjourned to 9 o'clock of the next day.

DOCUMENTS

Accompanying the report of the committee on canals and internal improvements, relative to the construction of the Black River canal.

(SEE JOURNAL OF MARCH 9.)

(A.)

To the Commissioners of the Black River Canal Company:

GENTLEMEN,

In compliance with your directions to ascertain the practicability and expense of constructing a canal to connect the Erie canal at Rome, with the Black river below the High Falls, and of improving the navigation of the river to the head of the Long falls. the following reports and estimates are respectfully presented as the results of that examination.

The operations in the field were so conducted, that a general plan of the canal could be formed, without going into a minute and particular location of the works connected with it, which can more properly be performed when the execution of the work is determined upon. The examinations were as full and perfect as the object required, and the time and expense allotted would admit. The estimates of each mile will be presented separately, containing the amount of cubic yards of excavation and embankment, and the necessary works connected with it, and the respective prices being annexed to each.

The canal will be divided into two sections. The southern will embrace that portion of the canal from the southern termination of the summit level to the Erie canal; and the northern will include the summit level, and the remaining distance to the High falls. The feeder will form a division by itself. By exhibiting each portion thus separately, a more clear and correct understanding of the whole can be formed.

As the amount of lockage is great in proportion to the length of the proposed canal, the use of the common lock to overcome its elevations, would so increase the expense, and so delay the progress of navigation, that the benefits expected to be derived from its completion, would be so unimportant in the opinion of many, as not to authorise its construction; and the country at large would labor under the difficulties which at present exist, in the transportation of the articles of its production and consumption.

Fortunately, the examination has been delayed until the public mind has become satisfied with the late experiments made in New-Jersey on the Morris canal, which have established the utility of the inclined plane for the transfer of boats of twenty-five tons from one level to another. Having been nearly two years engaged as engineer on that canal, and having seen the construction and operation of the first plane, I must say, that I have the fullest confidence in them, as a certain, cheap and expeditious mode of overcoming great elevations, and express the opinion that they will be adopted on all canals constructed for the navigation of boats of twenty-five tons, on which there will be great elevations to overcome.

That great improvements will be made in their construction there is no doubt, as they are in a measure a new invention; and it is equally certain that they will answer the purposes intended, as every person will be convinced who has seen the operation of the inclined plane at the dry dock, where vessels of five hundred tons are drawn completely out of water. The principle is the same, but the performance much more rapid on the plane where the whole weight of car six tons, boat six, and cargo twenty-five, are only thirty-seven tons.

That there is economy of expense, is evident by a comparison of the expense of constructing planes and locks, and economy of time, from the experiments which prove that between ten and twelve hours would be saved in the passage of a boat from the High falls to Rome, if inclined planes were used instead of locks, and also an economy of water, as the descending boat assists by her weight in raising the ascending boat, and if the preponderance happens to be in favor of the descending boat, she brings up the other, and no water is required on the water wheel, till the descending boat feels the buoyancy of the water in the lower level, and then only so much as will supply the gravity she has lost by her immersion. There are many plans and modifications for their construction, and the experiments are proceeding on the Morris canal, to ascertain which combines the greatest advantages; the benefits of which experiments will be reaped in the construction of this canal.

A transverse section of the canal is exhibited on the map, and will be of the following dimensions: 20 feet wide on the bottom, depth of 4 feet water, a slope of $1\frac{1}{2}$ horizontal to 1 perpendicular, making consequently a water line of 32 feet. The dimensions of the locks should be, $7\frac{1}{2}$ feet wide, and 70 feet length of chamber in the clear. The reasons that led to propose the above dimensions were, that boats can pass these locks, carrying from 20 to 23 tons, which is as large as can easily be transferred from one level to another by the inclined plane, and that the locks on the Erie canal would admit the passage of two of these boats at the same time.

It is proposed to make the feeder navigable, and of the same dimensions with the canal. It will cost but little more to make it a navigable canal than to leave it irregular in its formation; besides, it must be of considerable size to admit water freely into the canal. The amount of transportation that will take place on the feeder, will more than compensate for the additional expense.

The main supply of water for the canal will be taken from the Black river, immediately below the entrance of Great Woodhull creek. During the time it was examined for the commencement of the feeder, it was in so high a state from previous rains, that it was thought useless to gauge it, as the quantity it then discharged would furnish no information sufficiently accurate to serve as a basis for calculation. But the capabilities of the river to fulfil the objects in view, are so generally known and well established, that there is less cause to regret that no measurement was made. From the knowledge I have obtained of the river, I am confident that it is more than sufficient to supply a much longer canal. There are also many other streams crossing the route of the canal, the most important of which are, the Mohawk river, Sugar river and Fisher creek, furnishing of themselves nearly an adequate supply, and which may be easily introduced into the canal; and the supply of water is thought to be so abundant, as to create a valuable hydraulic power on the line of the canal.

Remarks on the Feeder.

The Black river is to be raised ten feet above the present level of Smith's mill-pond, by a dam, the site of which will be very favorable on account of an island formed principally of rock, situated about midway across the river. At the head of the feeder, there will be a sluice to regulate the quantity of water admitted, and to secure the feeder from the effects of freshets in the river.

The reasons for raising the level of the feeder ten feet, were—that at the present level of the mill-pond, the deepest cutting on the summit level of the canal would have been twenty-one feet, which depth would have encountered detached limestone rock, which the level assumed almost entirely avoids, and the greatest depth of excavation on this level will be but eleven feet; also, reducing the depth of cutting at the slip bank, on the fourth mile, ten feet, besides a general improvement of the line of the feeder, particularly by shortening the distance; but how much, is not ascertained, as the alteration of the level was determined on after the feeder and summit level of the canal had been explored.

The considerations that led to the determination of constructing a dam to raise the water ten feet, instead of seeking this elevation by going further up the river, were, that in the latter course, the feeder would be lengthened from two to three miles, and the waters of Great Woodhull creek would be lost—an auxiliary furnishing, in a dry season, nearly as much water as the Black river itself. The length of the feeder is greater than was expected; but when we consider that it commences in a section of the country abounding in lumber of the best quality, and passes through a fertile and productive region, in a direction totally different from that of the canal, this circumstance is not to be regretted.

The line of the feeder follows, for the first three miles, the steep bank of the river, covered with a heavy growth of timber, and cut by frequent gulphs, formed by the water that drains from the flat table land, forty or fifty feet above the level of the feeder. Two small streams, Alder and Traffer's creeks, also in this distance, run into the river, whose course will be interrupted by the line of the feeder, and they will be taken in as auxiliaries. To guard against the effects of freshets, two waste-weirs will be constructed at proper situations, to discharge the surplus waters on such occasions.

In the fourth mile, the bank forms a bluff on the river eighty or ninety feet in height, called the "slip bank," where it will be necessary to cut an average depth of twenty-three feet for twelve chains. This, however, is not so serious an obstacle as was anticipated, as the earth can be removed laterally, and with a descent—a very great portion of it with the shovel alone, not requiring the aid of barrows. By so laying out the work, that part of the soil removed will assist in forming the bank, it will not be necessary to excavate the full width of the canal. The soil on the surface, and from ten to fifteen feet below, is sand and substratum clay.

After having passed this obstacle, the ground assumes a more favorable shape, being a gentle declivity towards the river. The ninth mile, however, forms an exception to this description, it being steeper and more broken.

On the seventh mile, Fisher's creek is met with, and is passed by throwing a small dam across its bed. This plan is more economical than either an aqueduct or culvert, besides securing its waters for the use of the canal, which are more than sufficient to supply a saw-mill during a dry season.

The soil is generally a sandy and gravelly loam, with the exception of a soft clay that occurred in one or two instances.

Remarks on the Southern Section.

This section follows very closely the course of Lansing's kill, until its junction with the Mohawk, which river runs nearly parallel to the canal, till the latter reaches the village of Western, when the river makes a great deflexion to the west, and is intersected by the canal, (which continues a proper direction,) at a short distance above Barnard's mills, thence down the west bank of the Mohawk, through Rome, to the Erie canal.

By an inspection of the accompanying map of the country and canal, the position of this section with its profile, will be more readily and clearly understood.

On mile 1, the location of the plane is favorable. The excavation is through a soft slate stone and loam; the latter part of the mile is on a side hill, to the commencement of plane No. 2, at the upper falls of Lansing's kill, which plane will communicate with the level below, formed by throwing a dam across the kill in a narrow place one mile below the falls, which, by backing the water up to the plane, forms a basin two or three chains wide and a mile in length.

The towing-path on the side can be constructed at a small comparative expense.

In using the bed of the stream as a portion of the navigation, the expense of rock excavation, or a long embankment with the necessary paving, is saved; as the banks of the kill are composed of rock from 15 to 20 feet above the bed of the stream; the descent of which, in the mile, is such, that when the level leaves the basin, and the construction of the canal is continued on the west side of the kill, it is sufficiently high to escape the rock.

The line is located on the west bank of the kill, till it reaches the clearings, half a mile above Wiggins' house. The soil in this distance is a loam, mixed in places with fine slate and some rock. The formation of the ground is tolerably favorable, being a declivity, in places steep. There will be one culvert necessary, on the fifth mile, to allow the passage of a stream, large after rains, but dry during a drought.

To understand why the canal is carried across Lansing's kill, it will be necessary to examine the accompanying map, whence it will be evident that by crossing the kill, the expense of crossing the Mohawk three times, or of making a bend corresponding with that of the river, thereby increasing the length of the canal from two to three miles, will be avoided.

The Mohawk forms a junction with Lansing's kill, about two miles below where the canal crosses the latter, and then pursues a course with the kill nearly at right angles, to its previous direction.

The force of its waters acting directly against the east bank, has worn away the base of the hill, until it has formed a bluff of forty feet in perpendicular height. This bluff is of slate rock to within a few feet of its surface, over which the canal is enabled to pass; as the fall of the kill from where the canal crosses it, is equal to the height of the bank at the confluence of the two streams. Before arriving at this point, the nature of the excavation, being in part a soft slate and in part gravel with a steep slope for a location, render these two miles expensive.

From the junction of the Mohawk and kill, to the 12th mile, the ground is more favorable, particularly the 10th mile, by Squire Utley's. The canal will cross Stringer's kill by a dam and towing-path bridge, and then Great brook, which is passed in the same manner.

Plane No. 7 falls into the basin formed by the last dam. The ground on the 9th and 11th miles, is irregular and steep in its formation in many places; the soil gravelly, with some loose rock. The 10th mile more favorably situated, and the soil sandy loam, free from stone. The 12th, 13th, 14th and 15th miles pass through Western, from the Great brook to the Mohawk river, above Barnard's mill; and the first two miles are located on a gentle declivity, one-third of a mile to the east of the village, the two last on the side of the hill, of a steeper slope, and more uneven surface. The soil generally a gravelly loam. The 16th mile represents a great variety of causes to render it costly. There will be a plane of 100 feet lift, which is estimated at $180 a foot; to meet the additional expense of constructing it to cross the Mohawk, in the manner exhibited in the plan. Below Barnard's mill, it will be necessary to make a heavy embankment in the river, and pave the outside slope to secure it from the abrasion of the river; this embankment is necessary, as the bank presents a perpendicular face of slate stone rock thirty feet in height.

The 17th and 18th miles pass on the slope between the road from Western to Rome and the river, the soil gravelly, and formation of the land favorable. The remaining distance of three miles and thirteen chains from the Ridge mills to the Erie canal, is very well adapted for the excavation of the canal; the course will be direct, and no deep cutting for heavy embankments necessary; the soil to Rome is gravelly, thence to the Erie canal loam. In consequence of the general and gradual slope of the land in this distance, the application of the inclined plane to overcome the descent will be impracticable, and the descent of 65 feet will be effected by 7 locks, 2 of 10 feet lift, and 5 of 9 feet. There will be a culvert of 12 feet chord to allow the passage of the feeder taken from the Mohawk as a supply to the Erie canal. It may be found advisable to take this feeder into the lower level of the canal, and let it be thus conveyed to the Erie canal. This plan would be less costly than the expense of the culvert.

If the proposed plan of improving the old canal, to connect the village of Rome with the Erie canal, should go into operation, there would be a saving of the construction of half a mile of canal by terminating at Rome.

Remarks on the Northern Section.

The first mile will commence at the head of Plane No. 1, on the southern section, and continue on the side of a hill, to the commencement of the deep cut. The soil is a loam on a substratum of slate rock.

The second mile includes all the deep cutting on the summit, which averages nine feet for the whole distance; the soil is muck, with the exception of a portion near the bottom, which is occasionally gravel, clay and detached limestone. The third mile, the soil is sandy loam, with loose limestone. The fourth, fifth and sixth miles are situated on the gentle declivity of a hill; soil sandy loam, and a few loose rocks; land generally cleared. On the fourth mile, the line crosses the road twice within a short distance, and it is proposed, as more economical, to alter the road. The seventh mile crosses Sugar river. The best mode of passing that presented itself was, to throw a dam across the river, and let Plane No. 2 fall into the basin formed by it.

The river was examined for some distance above, and no situation offered less objections than the one selected. Although the river is subject to great and sudden rises, still its waters subside with equal rapidity.

The pond will be of some extent, and the dam over which the water will fall, 250 feet in length, which circumstances will operate in reducing the rise and velocity of the current. The expense of this dam is trifling, compared to that of an aqueduct, even if there should be a favorable site for one.

By the mode adopted, the water of the river is secured for the uses of the canal and hydraulic purposes. Shortly after crossing Sugar river, it was found expedient to locate a lock of ten feet, to avoid a ledge of limestone rock, which continues a parallel course to the canal for one mile. It is an object to save the construction of this lock, and attach it to the preceding plane, which, perhaps, may be attained, when a more minute location shall be made.

The eighth and ninth miles are on a tolerably favorable ground; some loose rock is to be removed; the soil is sandy loam. The tenth mile follows the base of the hill on the level ground near the river, and toward its termination will be located for ten or twelve chains on the side of a ridge that forms a steep bank on the river. The eleventh mile leaves the river, and is well situated through Douglass' and Sears' clearings; soil sand and clay. The twelfth mile is at first situated on a flat at the base of the hill, then on a gentle declivity, and its termination on the side of a steep hill covered with loose rocks; the soil a sandy loam. The remaining sixty-five chains will follow the course of the river to the head of the High falls. There are three points of rock met with; the line avoids the first by being located between it and the river; the second, which extends half across the river, is two feet below the bottom of the canal, and is passed by an embankment; the third, which is situated at the head of the falls, is but half a chain in breadth, and is cut through, the expense of which is entered in the estimate. The location of the plane at the High falls, will be in a line with the course of the river, on the side of the river bank; starting near the saw-mill, at the head of the falls, and terminating at the present landing-place. As the level of the river ranges from low water mark to 21 feet above, in proportion as it is affected by rains, it is proposed to construct the plane to suit the lowest state of the river, and in proportion as the river rises, the lift of the plane will be lessened, and the chain shortened to accommodate the rise of the river. This process, so simple in its nature, is another advantage the inclined plane possesses over the common lock.

General Remarks.

Upon taking a general view of this proposed canal, the most important facts that present themselves are, a great amount of lockage, a long feeder, no deep cutting or heavy embankment, nor will there be any expensive aqueduct, and the soil generally very easy of removal.

The first: A great amount of lockage in proportion to the length of the canal is so reduced by the inclined plane as to be equivalent in expense, to a canal of the same length with only 455 feet lockage, estimating locks at $400 a foot lift, an equivalent as to time, to an equal length of canal, with only 300 feet lockage; estimating the time by locks to overcome a foot lift at one minute. There will also be an important saving in the number of persons that would be required to attend locks. In the above calculations, the elevation overcome by planes, is estimated at 1,015 feet, that by locks 75 feet.

In order to locate inclined planes to advantage, the level is sustained, and as much fall accumulated as possible; by thus keeping up the level. it is generally thrown on the sides of ridges, which frequently are steep and broken by gullies, thereby increasing the expense of excavation and embankment; but on the other hand, there is an advantage in having a command of the country, by the great elevation it allows the selection of the shortest route.

The prices which served as a basis for the preceding calculations, are taken from the cost of executing similar works in this and other states. where the value of labor and materials are the same. The prices of excavating the same soil will be found to differ, but this is owing to the situation of the ground being more or less favorable. The embankments are generally small, and it is proposed so to locate the canal that the surplus excavation will be sufficient to form the embankment; the earth, therefore, removed into embankments, will be estimated, in the first place, as excavation, then as embankment; so that every yard thus removed, will cost the two prices of excavation and embankment.

The embankment in the river below Barnard's mill, is an exception to this method, and the price differs accordingly. The planes are estimated at $150 a foot lift. The price of the inclined plane in New-Jersey exceeds the price adopted, but when more skill and experience have been gained in their construction, the expense there will be less than this sum. The stone for the foundation of the planes and the other mason work connected with them, will cost much less than that used in the Morris canal, as there the stone is of far inferior quality, and in many instances at a distance from the line, while the best limestone in regular strata abound at the location of every plane on the route in question, except in one instance, by Barnard's mill.

As the amount of lockage is only 75 feet, 65 of which will be within two miles of the Erie canal, where timber is not so abundant, it is proposed to construct them entirely of stone, the difference of expense between stone and wooden locks, in so small an amount of lockage, not being of sufficient importance to require a saving in the first cost at the expense of durability and consequent repairs. The locks are to be of the dimensions previously proposed, and to be constructed in regular courses of hammered or rough cut limestone. They are estimated to cost $400 a foot lift at Rome. The lock of ten feet lift on the northern section will probably cost less, the stone being nearer the work.

The entire distance from the High falls to the Erie canal, may be somewhat reduced in locating the canal, by cutting off the many angles of the survey which it was impossible to avoid, without devoting much more time to the examination. The length of the feeder will be particularly benefitted by this circumstance, but more so by its level being raised ten feet above the level surveyed.

I have made no reduction for the distance thus reduced, as my object has been to fall into no exaggeration in favor of the work; but, on the contrary, to present an estimate that will rather exceed than fall short of the actual cost.

A REPORT, containing the plan and estimates of the cost of improving the navigation of the Black river.

Before proceeding to show in what manner it is proposed to improve this navigation, it will be well to state the expense and manner of the present transportation on the river, and to describe the nature of the obstructions.

From information obtained from persons who have been in the habit of navigating the Black river for many years, and from contracts that have been formed and executed for the transportation of freight from Carthage to the High falls, such facts can be presented as will satisfactorily exhibit the present mode and expense of navigation. In the two last trips made by the same individual, five men took up in a scow forty and fifty tons, and came down empty, in six and seven days, including only the unloading.

On this foundation the following calculation is based:

5 men, at $15 per month, (he paid $13 and $14,)	$75 00
Their board, at $6 per month,	30 00
	$105 00
Say for 6 days, (one quarter,)	$26·25
Interest and wear of a boat of $500, say $50 per annum; or counting upon 6 months, per week,	2 00
Freight for 50 tons, (or 56½ cts. per ton for 80 miles,)	$28 25

It may be said that freights will not be full both ways; and although great allowances have been made in the above, take half a load on the return, and the freight will be seventy-five cents per ton.

But the river is now navigable for steam-boats nearly two-thirds of the distance, and considering the stillness of the river, the cheapness of the boats to be built, and of the fuel, the freight by steamers ought to be cheaper than on the North river; but call it the same, or two-thirds of a cent per ton per mile, it would give 26 cents per ton for the 40 miles, which, added to the half of 75 cents, would give 63 cents as the maximum of that navigation, or 31½ cents for the 40 miles.

As these boats can be made to draw not more than two feet water, the proposed improvements of the river will be sufficient for that draught; and the canal company will have a navigation of 40 miles, at the moderate expense of 4 to $5,000, preferable to any canal in point of economy and despatch, requiring such trifling repairs as not to be worth mentioning.

The boats that are at present used on the river, are scows about 70 feet in length, 14 or 15 in breadth, and drawing, when loaded with 50 tons, about 30 inches water; they are propelled against the current about 15 miles a day, by six or seven polemen.

The impediments that occurred in the course of the examination, were found to be bars of sand, where the river expanding to an unusual width, the current being proportionably diminished in its velocity, created a deposite of the particles held in suspension, and giving it a shoaler character generally. In some instances, the channel was divided by a number of islands, and interrupted by logs and drift wood.

These remarks apply principally to the upper part of the river, including a distance of 10 or 12 miles below the High falls. From this point to Lowville, the least depth of water was 3½ feet; thence to Carthage, at the Long falls, the water was sufficient for a vessel drawing six feet water, except in one instance, near Ellingworth's, where there is but four feet water: this obstruction is a narrow bar running across the river. No rocks were discovered that could in any way impede the navigation; although, occasionally, some presented themselves on the banks of the river, and extended some distance into it. As the contemplated improvement is to adapt the navigation to the boats that will be used on the canal, any plan to increase the depth of water below Otter creek, is considered unnecessary. The velocity of the current may be considered to average half a mile per hour; in no place did it exceed 1½, except at Otter creek; its velocity was four miles an hour, for a distance of 100 yards At this place, the river is one-third its ordinary width, and from 7 to 10 feet deep.

The mode of increasing the depth of rivers, where by a sudden expansion a diminution of its depth is produced, or where islands, forming several channels for the river, have produced the same effect, is in such places to contract the width of the stream, and force all the waters, which extended over a large surface, through a narrow passage; or, to close all the channels formed by islands, with the exception of one, through which all the water would be compelled to flow, thereby increasing its depth, and by an increased velocity operating upon its bottom, and removing the obstructions that previously existed. As the impediments that occur are uniformly of sand, there can be no doubt but that this effect will be produced by the erection of dams or jettees, constructed of only such height as to compel all the waters to flow in the channel selected in a low state of water, but not of sufficient height to cause the inundation of the lands above in time of freshets. From the laws of nature which regulate the formation of streams, we are convinced, that where by any plan we reduce the width of streams, that either their depth or velocity must be increased, or the same quantity of water could not be passed in the same space of time; and if the bottom is not too consistent, the increased velocity of the water will wear it away and increase its depth; and as all the impediments on this river are bars and shoals of sand, this effect will be produced upon them, by the construction of the dams or jettees proposed.

The dams to produce the intended effect, are to be constructed of piles driven into the bottom by hand, with a pin through the pipe, near the top, to prevent the brush from rising; by having several, say four or five, parallel rows with brush wove or rattle in, it makes a dam not unlike a rolling dam, and will easily raise the water two or three feet.

The jettees, which would also answer the same purpose, would consist of a single row of piles 12 inches square, driven into the bed of the river at a proper depth, 8 or ten feet apart. These piles to be surmounted by a capsill of the same dimensions; on each side of this capsill, 2½ inch plank are to be driven, at a proper depth, into the bottom, and firmly fastened to the cap by spikes. This is the usual manner of forming them, and they can be constructed on the Black river for $1.50 a foot, running measure. The bush dams, however, above described, are a better structure, and can probably be afforded for a less sum.

A dam and lock might be constructed below the mouth of Otter creek, to give a depth of 3 feet and upwards as far as the High falls; which would produce a navigation at all seasons that the canal itself could be used; but there are strong objections to this plan when compared with the others.

The first obstruction that occurs is one quarter of a mile below the High falls; it consists of shoals of sand through which the river has forced small passages, very narrow, and two to three feet deep. The general depth, however, at the time of the examination, did not exceed 1½ feet. The river here has a breadth of about 600 feet.—1st wing dam or jettee, $650.

The next, where the river has two channels formed by an island, it is proposed to close one and leave the west, which is naturally the best, open.—2d dam, $450.

Another island similar to the last.—3d dam, $300.

A similar island forms the next obstruction: by closing the west channel and leaving the other open, 4 feet water will be obtained.—4th dam, $325.

The following obstruction is a narrow bar of sand with deep water above and below it. This is situated about half a mile above Clowbridge's landing.—5th wing dam or jettee, $525.

About three quarters of a mile below Clowbridge's landing, there is a shoal of sand and impediments of logs.—6th wing dam or jettee, and removing logs, $575.

The next is near some high sand hills on the east side.—7th wing dam or jettee, $425.

The next obstruction is one third of a mile above J. Phelps' house. The river here is wide, with about three feet water.—8th wing dam or jettee, $375.

The following, which will be the last, is about one quarter of a mile above the mouth of Otter creek.—Wing dam or jettee, $275.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

ALFRED CRUGER, Civil Engineer.

Boonville, September 14, 1828.

(B.)

To the Commissioners of the Black River Canal Company:

GENTLEMEN,

I have with care and attention examined the plan and estimate of the Black river canal, as made and located by Alfred Cruger, Esq., and Mr. Cruger has also given me many verbal explanations of his plans, and pointed out the particular location of his planes, on a part of the route over which I have passed with him.

Having been for more than thirty years intimately acquainted with the formation of every part of the country through which the proposed canal is to pass, and surveyed into farms the greater part of the route, the descriptions of the country as given me by Mr. Cruger, are familiar and perfectly understood.

Mr. Cruger proposes to pass over the elevations between the Erie canal and the Black river, chiefly by inclined planes, to lift boats from one level to another. These planes have not been used in this country, and are not known except on the Morris canal, where the experiment, which I saw in August last, satisfied me that these might be adopted with economy in construction, compared with locks, and with a very great saving of time in passing boats, and as great a saving in daily attendance and expense. I should therefore recommend the adoption of the inclined planes as proposed by Mr. Cruger, as a substitute for locks, for nearly all the elevation and depression on the proposed line of canal.

In regard to the estimate of expense of constructing the work, as made out by Mr. Cruger, I have perfect confidence in the amount being sufficient to construct the work in the manner he has proposed.

The waters proposed to be taken as feeders, are ample at all seasons, and there may be water brought upon the summit level, from the Black river, sufficient for a great number of hydraulic works over and above the quantity required for the canal. In short, there is not a doubt about an ample supply for any purposes required.

The length of canal, exclusive of feeder, is 33 miles. The canal then connects with Black river at the High falls.

By the charter, I perceive the bed of Black river between the High and Long falls may be improved, and shall be considered a part of the navigation under the charter, and tolls allowed thereon.

This river I have navigated in a small boat many years past. I have a clear recollection of the several parts of the river as described by Mr. Cruger, and I have no doubt that the expenditure of a few thousand dollars, will make a navigation of two feet nine inches to three feet water in the drought of summer, over any shoal between the High and Long falls. The current is gentle, and the whole descent of the river in the forty miles will not exceed fifteen feet.

The improvement of the bed of Black river, so as to make it navigable for steam tow-boats, is therefore very easy, and a cheap steam-boat with an engine of twenty or twenty-five horse power, may be built on that river for five or six thousand dollars. Such a boat would take eight or ten canal boats of twenty or twenty-five tons each, and make a trip up and down in eighteen hours, or twenty hours at most. From this data it is easy to calculate that the expense of transportation on this river can be done for half a cent per ton per mile. This advantage of receiving tolls on forty miles of river navigation, is a liberal grant on the part of the legislature, and adds greatly to the value of the charter. It is equal in reality to giving the right to double tolls upon the works of costly construction.

It will probably be expected that I should say something of the probable tonnage which may pass on this canal when done. There can be no accuracy in calculations of this kind, for the very good reason, that the country through which this work is proposed to be made, is a country rapidly improving in agriculture and manufactures; and as the construction of a canal through a country creates new objects of trade, and interchange of commodities, it gives a new impulse to all kinds of enterprise and industry.

It is well known, that the country on the west of Black river, and all Jefferson county, is among the most fertile parts of the state of New-York; that it has now a very considerable population, and is capable of sustaining four or five times its present numbers. The country on the east of Black river, is a country abounding in valuable timber, and great abundance of iron ore of good quality.

The tonnage, therefore, of agricultural products, of lumber, of iron, and the manufactures of various kinds, will give an amount (which must be increasing with the increasing population) amply sufficient to pay in tolls a fair dividend upon the outlay of capital invested. If it be required to assume data to show an amount of revenue from tolls upon the proposed canal, we have no certain ground. But the following comparison of the country connected with the Black river canal, and a district of country using the Erie canal, is offered for the purpose of aiding in forming an opinion.

The district of country in Wayne county, and a few towns adjoining, contain about 24 miles by 16, making 384 square miles; the population and improved land, by the census of 1825, was thus:

Towns.	Population.	Improved Land.
Palmyra,	2,613	9,784 acres.
Arcadia,	3,479	10,756 "
Sodus,	2,496	6,372 "
Williamson,	3,190	12,116 "
Lyons,	3,068	7,920 "
Phelps,	4,740	21,094 "
	19,586	67,968 "

But, as the village of Palmyra is the market place for that town, and for a considerable part of some of the adjoining towns, so large a proportion of the productions of those towns pay toll there, that the increase of population between 1825 and 1827, should not be taken into the estimate, and a further reduction of one-fifth should be made from the above; there would then remain, 15,009 souls, and 54,375 acres improved land, which, in 1827, paid for descending trade, ... $30,459 66
Allow one-fifth ascending trade, ... 6,091 93

$36,551 59

The district of country connected with the Black river canal and navigable feeder, may be estimated at 2.000 sq. miles, and the population and improved land, by the census of 1825, to which add a reasonable increase to 1832, the time the canal would be finished, would be thus stated:

Towns.	Population.	Improved Land.
Boonville, Oneida county,	2,071	6,784 acres.
Supposed increase to 1832,	389
Lewis county,	11,666	47,574 "
Supposed increase to 1832,	4,322
Antwerp, Jefferson county,	2,257	8,709 "
Champion, do	2,028	9,221 "
Le Roy, do	2,556	10,425 "
Philadelphia, do	826	3,154 "
Rutland, do	2,102	11,872 "
Wilna, do	1,126	2,810 "
Supposed increase to 1832,	3,910
Fowler, St. Lawrence county,	1,581	3,064 "
Rossie, do	1,074	4,010 "
Gouverneur, do	1,267	3,333 "
Supposed increase to 1832,	4,529
	41,707	110,920

This population, upon a calculation of toll the same as the district about Wayne county, would pay 97,316 dollars; and supposing the distance from Rome to the Hudson to be 129 miles, and to Lyons in Wayne county, 97 miles, if the above sum is so divided that the Erie canal receives the usual tolls from Rome to the Hudson, and the Black river canal the remainder only, then the Erie canal would receive 55,547 dollars, and the Black river canal 41,769 dollars. This estimate is predicated on tolls per mile the same as now charged on the Erie canal, and which would probably be the same on many articles of great bulk and little value, but on the more valuable articles the tolls ought to be much higher on the Black river canal.

The productions of the country about Wayne county are principally agricultural. The Black river country would produce a great tonnage in lumber, and the manufacture of iron would readily and steadily increase. The water power for hydraulic works on the Black river, on the canal, on Sugar river, Independence river, Beaver river, Moose river, Otter and Fish creeks, and various other streams in the neighborhood of this line of canal, is not exceeded, if equalled, by any section of the state.

The various views I have taken of this project, present to my mind a favorable opinion of this work, as a useful and important improvement to the country along the valley of Black river, and as offering a fair and regularly increasing toll upon the expenditure proposed, and such as will give, immediately on its completion, a remuneration equal to legal interest.

Respectfully submitted,

BENJAMIN WRIGHT.

(C.)

TO THE HONORABLE THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF NEW-YORK.

The commissioners of the Black river canal company, appointed by the act of March 20, 1828, respectfully represent:

That during the past summer they caused the route of the said navigation to be examined, and the results to be published in a pamphlet, copies of which are herewith presented. That they also caused books to be opened for subscription to the stock, and gave notice thereof agreeably to the provisions of the charter, and used all the means in their power to carry the law into operation; but that only a small part of the stock was taken up, the reason of which they believe was, that individuals were unwilling to engage in a work, the whole cost of which they were to pay, and receive only a part of the advantages to be derived from it.

That at present, under the charter, they believe it would not be possible to obtain the means of making the canal. That they understand an application is preparing to your honorable body for assistance, and that if the means of making the canal are provided, that they are willing to resign the charter.

All which is respectfully submitted.

ALPHABETICALLY ARRANGED.

The several subjects embraced in the volume, will be found under the initial letter of their appropriate heads; when the subject sought for is found, the reference is continued under the same head to the several pages in the volume where it has been acted upon, until finally disposed of.

In addition to the general alphabetical arrangement, there will be found distinct heads under some of the letters of the alphabet, as follows:

Under the letter

A. will be found the reports, &c. of the attorney-general; and also a reference to the several ayes and noes or divisions taken during the session, with a statement of the subject on which the vote was taken.

B. Under this letter will be found a list of the several applications for renewing old and chartering new banks, and the several applications relating to bridges.

C. Under this letter will be found a reference to the several canal applications; the reports of the canal board, commissioners of the canal fund, canal commissioners, commissioners of the land-office, comptroller, commissary-general, and canal appraisers.

G. Under this letter, the several messages of Gov. Van Buren, and of E. T. Throop, acting governor, will be found.

R. refers to communications from the revisers; resolutions of the house; resolutions concurrent; reports of the different standing committees, separately arranged under the appropriate titles of those committees; and the reports of the several select committees; applications for railways; communications from the regents of the university, and applications relating to roads.

S. Reports and communications from the secretary of state and surveyor-general.

T. refers to the treasurer's reports, and applications relating to turnpikes.

The reports of the several inspectors of beef and pork, lumber, leather, hops, &c. will be found under the names of the counties in which the inspectors respectively reside.
